THE

LUCUBRATIONS

OF

Isaac Bickerstaff Esq;

Revised and Corrected by the Author.

VOL. L

Όυ χεή πανού χου ύδαν βυληφόρου ανδρα. Homer.

LONDON,

Printed: And fold by Charles Lillie, at the Corner of Beauford Buildings in the Strand; and John Morphew, near Stationers-Hall. M D C C X.

pe bo Me it it it der will Ma we To fee to ter of the Co

TO

Mr. Maynwaring.

SIR, HE State of Conversation and Business in this Town having been long perplexed with Pretenders in both Kinds, in order to open Men's Eyes against such Abuses, it appeared no unprofitable Undertaking to publish a Paper which should observe upon the Manners of the Pleasurable, as well as the Busie Part of Mankind. To make this generally read, it feemed the most proper Method to form it by Way of a Letter of Intelligence, confifting of fuch Parts as might gratify the Curiolity of Persons of all Conditions, and of each Sex. A 2 But

iv The Dedication.

But a Work of this Nature requiring Time to grow into the wind Notice of the World, it happened very luckily, that a little before I had resolved upon this of Design, a Gentleman had written resolved it famous thro all La Parts of Europe; and by an inimitable Spirit and Humour, raised Pait to as high a Pitch of Reputation as it could possibly arrive at.

By this good Fortune, the tice Name of Isaac Bickerstaff gained Sin an Audience of all who had any contaste of Wit, and the Addition M of the ordinary Occurrences the of common Journals of News for brought in a Multitude of other standards. I could not, I confess, Q long keep up the Opinion of the promon, that these Lucubrations the were re- were written by the same Hand the with the first Works which ap- were published under my Name; ttle but before I lost the Participation his of that Author's Fame, I had alten ready found the Advantage of ree his Authority, to which I owe ich the sudden Acceptance which my all Labours met with in the World. mi- The general Purpose of this sed Paper, is to expose the false Arts ta- of Life, to pull off the Difguises at. of Cunning, Vanity, and Affecta-the tion, and to recommend a general ned Simplicity in our Dress, our Disany course, and our Behaviour. No ion Man has a better Judgment for nees the Discovery, or a nobler-Spirit ews for the Contempt of such Impother stures, than your self; which sels, Qualities render you the most the proper Patron for the Author of ons these Essays. In general, the Devere 3

vi The Dedication.

fign, however executed, has met with fo great Success, that there is hardly a Name now eminent among us for Power, Wit, Beauty, Valour, or Wisdom, which is not Subscribed, for the Encouragement of the Two Volumes in Octavo, on a Royal or Medium Paper. This is indeed an Honour, for which it is impossible to express a suitable Gratitude; and there is nothing could be an Addition to the Pleasure I take in it, but the Reflection that it gives me the most conspicuous Occasion I can ever have, of fubscribing my felf, SIR.

Your most Obliged, most Obedient, and most Humble Servant,

Isaac Bickerstaff.

Quicquid agunt Homines nostri Farrago Libelli

e is

net

ty,

ge-Faper.

for ex-

ind

it,

me n I

my aff.

ibelli HE [No r.

THE

TATLER:

BY

Isaac Bickerstaff Es

Ad- Quicquid agunt Homines nostri Farrago Libelli.

Tuesday, April 12. 1709.

lish'd for the Use of the good People of England have certainly very whossom Effects, and are laudable in their particular Kinds, yet they do not seem to come up to the main Design of such Narrations, which I humbly resume, should be principally intended for the Use of politick Persons, who are so publick-spirited to neglect their own Affairs to look into Transations of State. Now these Gentlemen, for the most Part, being Men of strong Zeal and weak Intelects, It is both a Charitable and Necessary Work to offer something, whereby such worthy and well-affected Members of the Commonwealth may instructed, after their Reading, what to think;

(

tl

E

ar

Ca

01

V

think; which shall be the End and Purpose of this my Paper: Wherein I shall from Time to Time Report and Consider all Matters of what Kind foever that shall occur to Me, and publish such my Advices and Reflections every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday in the Week, for the Convenience of the Post. I have also resolved to have something which may be of Entertainment to the Fair Sex, in Honour of whom I have taken the Title of this Paper. I therefore earnestly desire all Persons, without Distinction, to take it in for the present Gratis, and hereafter at the Price of One Penny, forbidding all Hawkers to take more for it at their Peril. And I desire my Readers to consider, that I am at a very great Charge for proper Materials for this Work, as well as that before I resolved upon it, I had fettled a Correspondence in all Parts of the Known and Knowing World. And for a much as this Globe is not trodden upon by meer Drudges of Business only, but that Men of Spirit and Genius are justly to be esteemed as considerable Agents in it, we shall not, upon a Dearth of News, present you with musty Foreign Edicts, or dull Proclamations, but shall divide our Relation of the Passages which occur in Action or Discourse throughout this Town, as well as elsewhere, under such Dates of Places as may prepare you for the Matter you are to expect, in the following Manner:

All Accounts of Gallantry, Pleasure, and Entertainment, shall be under the Article of White's Chocolate-house; Poetry, under that of Will's Coffee-house: Learning, under the Title of Gracian; Foreign and Domestick News, you will have from St. James's Coffee-house; and what else I shall on any other Subject offer, shall be dated from my own Apartment.

I once more desire my Readers to consider, That as I cannot keep an ingenious Man to go daily to Will's, under Twopence each Day merely for his Charges; to White's, under Sixpence; nor to the Græcian, without allowing him some Plain Spanish, to be as able as others at the Learned Table; and that a good Observer cannot speak with even Kidney at St. James's without clean Linnen. I lay, these Considerations will, I hope, make all Perlons willing to comply with my Humble Request (when my Graris Stock is exhausted) of a Penny a-Piece; especially since they are sure of some proper Amusement, and that it is impossible for me to want Means to entertain 'em, having, besides the Helps of my own Parts, the Power of Divination, and that I can, by casting a Figure, tell you all that will happen before it comes to pass.

But this last Faculty I shall use very sparingly, and not speak of any Thing 'till it is passed, for fear of divulging Matters which may offend our Superiors.

White's Chocolate-house, April 11.

THE deplorable Condition of a very pretty Gentleman, who walks here at the Hours when Men of Quality first appear, is what is very much lamented. His Hittory is, That on the 9th of September, 1705. being in his One and twentieth Year, he was washing his Teeth at a Tavern Window in Pall-Matt, when a fine Equipage pass'd by, and in it a young Lady who look'd up at him; away goes the Coach, and the young Gentleman pull'd off his Nightcap, and instead of rubbing his Gums, as he ought to do out of the Window till about Four a Clock, he fits him down, and spoke not a Word till Twelve at Night; after which, he The Company ask'd, What Lady? But he faid
B. 2

t

h il

ti te

V

no more, 'till they broke up at Six in the Morning. All the enfuing Winter he went from Church to Church every Sunday, and from Playhouse to Play-house all the Week, but could never find the Original of the Picture which dwelt in his Bosom. In a Word, his Attention to any Thing but his Passion, was utterly gone. He has loft all the Money he ever played for, and been confuted in every Argument he has enter'd upon fince the Moment he first saw her. He is of a Noble Family, has naturally a very good Air, and is of a frank, honest Temper: But this Passion has so extremely mauled him, that his Features are fet and uninformed, and his whole Visage is deaden'd by a long Absence of Thought. He never appears in any Alacrity, but when raifed by Wine; at which Time he is fure to come hither, and throw away a great deal of Wit on Fellows, who have no Sense further than just to observe, That our poor Lover has most Understanding when he is drunk, and is least in his Senses when he is sober.

Will's Coffee-bouse, April. 8. On Thursday last was presented, for the Benefit of Mr. Betterton, the Celebrated Comedy, called Love for Love. Those excellent Players, Mrs. Barry, Mrs. Bracegirdle, and Mr. Dogget, though not at present concerned in the House, acted on that Occasion. There has not been known fo great a Concourse of Persons of Distinction as at that Time; the Stage it self was covered with Gentlemen and Ladies, and when the Curtain was drawn, it discovered even there a very splendid Audience. This unusual Encouragement, which was given to a Play for the Advantage of so great an Actor, gives an undeniable Instance, That the true Relish for Manly Entertainments and Rational Pleafures

T.

rm yld

h

n

r,

S

y

fures is not wholly loft. All the Parts were acted to Perfection; the Actors were careful of their Carriage, and no one was guilty of the Affectation to infert Witticitms of his own, but a due Respect was had to the Audience, for encouraging this accomplish'd Player. It is not now doubted but Plays will revive, and take their usual Place in the Opinion of Persons of Wit and Merit, notwithstanding their late Apostacy in Favour of Drefs and Sound. This Place is very much altered fince Mr. Dryden frequented it; where you used to see Songs, Epigrams, and Satyrs, in the Hands of every Man you met, you have now only a Pack of Cards; and instead of the Cavils about the Turn of the Expression, the Elegance of the Style, and the like, the Learned now dispute only about the Truth of the Game. But however, the Company is altered, all have shewn a great Respect for Mr. Betterton: And the very Gaming Part of this House have been so much touched with a Sense of the Uncertainty of Human Affairs, (which alter with themselves every Moment) that in this Gentleman, they pitied Mark Anthony of Rome, Hamlet of Denmark, Mithridates of Pontus, Theodofus of Greece, and Henry the Eighth of England. It is well known, he has been in the Condition of each of those illustrious Personages for several Hours together, and behaved himself in those high Stations, in all the Changes of the Scene, with fuitable Dignity. For these Reasons, we intend to repeat this Favour to him on a proper Occasion, lest he who can instruct us so well in personating Feigned Sorrows, should be lost to us by suffering under Real Ones. The Town is at present in very great Expectation of seeing a Comedy now in Rehear-B 3

No I. No

kirk

Car

It is

TUIT

ficu the

Fla T

of

COL Tur

at of

Lie

cal

up

1M2

lic

w fle

W

fo

af

ft

W

th in fi

21 b

ti

B

t

e

2

fal, which is the 25th Production of my Ho. twe noured Friend Mr. Thomas D'Urfey; who, be. fides his great Abilities in the Dramatick, has a peculiar Talent in the Lyrick Way of Writing, and that with a Manner wholly new and unknown to the Antient Greeks and Romans, wherein he is but faintly imitated in the Translations of the Modern Italian Opera's.

St. James's Coffee-house, April 11.

Letters from the Hague of the 16th fay, That Major-General Cadogan was gone to Bruffels, with Orders to disperse proper Instructions for assembling the whole Force of the Allies in Flanders in the Beginning of the next Month. The late Offers concerning Peace, were made in the Style of Persons who think themselves upon equal Terms: But the Allies have so just a Sense of their present Advantages, that they will not admit of a Treaty, except France offers what is more suitable to her present Condition. At the same Time we make Preparations, as if we were alarm'd by a greater Force than that which we are carrying into the Field. Thus this Point feems now to be argued Sword in Hand. This was what a Great General alluded to, when being ask'd the Names of those who were to be Plenipotentiaries for the enfuing Peace; answer'd, with a serious Air, There are about an Hundred thousand of us. Mr. Kidney, who has the Ear of the greatest Politicians that come hither, tells me, There is a Mail come in to Day with Letters, dated Hague, April 19. N.S. which fay, a Delign of bringing Part of our Troops into the Field at the latter End of this Month, is now alter'd to a Refolution of marching towards the Camp about the 20th of the next. There happen'd t'other Day, in the Road of Scheveling, an Engagement bey Ho. tween a Privateer of Zealand and one of Duno, be. kirk. The Dunkirker, carrying 33 Pieces of has a Cannon, was taken and brought into the Texel. iting, it is faid, the Courier of Montieur Rouille is return'd to him from the Court of France. Monherehere being reinstated in the Favour of the Dutchess of Burgundy, is to command in

That

Mels.

s for

s in

nth.

nade

lves

just

hey

of-

on-ra-

rce

ld.

ord

alle

u-

re

d-

15 il

1-

g

T

-

e

Mr. Kidney added, That there were Letters of the 17th from Ghent, which give an Account, that the Enemy had form'd a Delign to surprize two Battalions of the Allies which lay at Alost; but those Battalions received Advice of their March, and retired to Dendermond. Lieutenant General Wood appeared on this Occasion at the Head of 5000 Foot, and 1000 Horse, upon which the Enemy withdrew, without making any further Attempt.

From my own Apartment.

I am forry I am obliged to trouble the Publick with fo much Discourse upon a Matter which I at the very first mentioned as a Trifle, viz. the Death of Mr. Partridge, under whose Name there is an Almanack come out for the Year 1709. In one Page of which it is afferted by the faid John Partridge, That he is still living, and that not only so, but that he was also living some Time before, and even at the Instant when I writ of his Death. I have in another Place, and in a Paper by it felf, fufficiently convinced this Man that he is dead, and if he has any Shame, I dont't doubt but that by this Time he owns it to all his Acquaintance: For tho' the Legs and Arms, and whole Body of that Man may still appear and perform their animal Functions; yet fince, as I have elsewhere observ'd, his Art is gone, the Man is gone. I am, as I faid, concern'd, that this B 4 her,

Teffic

wan

plai

lies

She

vhi

non

WOL

but

Usa

VOU

Mai

pea Pur her Pov

Wo fee

hei hal I a 10

To

hittle Matter should make so much Noise; but since I am engaged, I take my self obliged in Honour to go on in my Lucubrations, and by the Help of these Arts of which I am Master, as well as my Skill in Astrological Speculations, I shall, as I see Occasion, proceed to consute other dead Men, who pretend to be in Being, that they are actually deceased. I therefore give all Men sair Warning to mend rineir Manners, for I shall from Time to Time print Bills of Mortality; and I beg the Pardon of all such who shall be named therein, if they who are good for Nothing shall find themselves in the Number of the Deceased.

The TATLER. [No 2.

From Tuefd. April 12. to Thursd. April 14. 1709.

Will's Coffee-house, April 13.

There has lain all this Evening on the Table, the following Poem. The Subject of it being Matter very ufeful for Families, I thought it deferved to be considered, and made more publick. The Turn the Poet gives it, is very happy; but the Foundation is from a real Accident which happen'd among my Acquaintance. A Young Gentleman of a great Estate, fell desperately in Love with a great Beauty, of very high Quality, but as ill-natured, as long Flattery and an habitual Self-will could make her. However, my young Spark ventures upon her, like a Man of Quality, without being acquainted with her, or having ever saluted her, y but ged in and by after, eculaed to be in d. I mend Fime rdon they 709.

Tatof , I ade is eal inte, ty, as

es eed er, her, till it was a Crime to kiss any Woman elie. Beauty is a Thing which palls with Poffession; and the Charms of this Lady soon wanted the Support of good Humour and Complaifancy of Manners. Upon this my Spark lies to the Bottle for Relief from his Satiety. She disdains him for being tired with that for which all Men envied him; and he never came home, but it was — Was there no Sot that would stay longer? Would any Man living but you? Did I leave all the World for this Usage; To which he Madam, Split me, you are very impertinent! In a Word, this Match was Wedlock in its most terrible Appearances. She, at last weary of Railing to no Purpose, applies to a good Uncle, who gives her a Bottle of Water: The Vertue of this Powerful Liquor (faid he) is fuch, that if the Woman you marry proves a Scold, (which, it feems, my dear Neece, is your Misfortune; as it was your good Mother's before you,) let her hold fix Spoonfuls in her Mouth, for a full half Hour after you come Home But I find I am not in Humour for telling a Tale, and nothing in Nature is fo ungrateful as Story-Telling against the Grain, therefore take it as the Author has given it you.

The MEDECIN.

A Tale - for the Ladies.

Miss Molly, a fam'd Toast, was Fair and Young. Flad Wealth and Charms, --- but then she had a (Tongue!

From Morn'to Night, th'Eternal Larum run, Which often lost those Hearts her Eyes had won.

Sir.

H

Wh

Will Tha

Son

Wh

Wi

To

Beg

Old

Ch

Of

Do

Th

Sti

If

TI

ST

B

C

1

£

I

A

Sir John was smitten, and confess'd his Flame, Sigh'd out the usual Time, then wed the Dame: Posses'd he thought of every Joy of Life, But his Dear Molly prov'd a very Wife. Excess of Fondness did in Time decline, Madam lov'd Money, and the Knight lov'd (Wine.

From whence some petty Discords would arise, As, You're a Fool; and, You are mighty Wife.

Tho' he and all the World allow'd her Wit, Her Voice was shrill, and rather loud than (sweet, When she began,—for Hat and Sword he'd call. Then, after a faint Kifs,—Cry, B'y, Dear Moll: Supper and Friends expect me at the Rose. And, what, Sir John, You'll get your usual Dose! Sic, stink of Smoak, and guzzle nasty Wine, Sure, never Virtuous Love was us'd like Mine!

(Round, Oft, as the watchful Bellman marched his At a fresh Bottle gay Sir John he found. By Four the Knight would get his Business done, And only then reel'd off, because alone; Full well he knew the dreadful Storm to come, But arm'd with Bourdeaux, he durst venture (Home.

My Lady with her Tongue was fill prepar'd, She rattled foud, and he impatient heard: 'Tis a fine Hour! In a fweet Pickle made! And this, Sir John, is ev'ry Day the Trade. Here I fit moping all the live-long Night, Devour'd with Spleen, and Stranger to Delight; Till Morn' fends stagg'ring Home a Drunken (Beast, Refolv'd to break my Heart, as well as Reft.

Hey!

lame, Dame:

lov'd Wine,

Wife! Vit, than weet, call.

ofe! ine, line!

Moll:

und, his

me, ure ne.

one,

'd,

it; en ft,

y!

Hey! Hoop! d'ye hear my damn'd obstrep'rous What, can't you find one Bed about the House! Will that perpetual Clack lie never still! That Rival to the Softness of a Mill!

Some Couch and distant Room must be my (Choice,

Where I may sleep uncurs'd with Wife and Noise.

Long this uncomfortable Life they led, With inarling Meals, and each a separate Bed. To an old Uncle oft she would complain, Beg his Advice, and scarce from Tears refrain. Old Wisewood smoak'd the Matter as it was, Cheer up, cry'd he! and I'll remove the Cause.

A wond'rous Spring within my Garden flows, Of Sov'reign Virtue, chiefly to compose Domestick Jarrs, and Matrimonial Strife, The best Elixir t'appease Man and Wife; Strange are th'Effects, the Qualities Divine, 'Tis Water call'd, but worth its Weight in Wine. If in his sullen Airs Sir John should come, Three Spoonfuls take, hold in our Mouth—(then Mum:

Smile, and look Pleas'd, when he shall Rage (and Scold, Still in your Mouth the Healing Cordial hold.

Still in your Mouth the Healing Cordial hold; One Month this Sympathetick Med'cin try'd, He'll grow a Lover, you a Happy Bride. But, dearest Neece, keep this Grand Secret close; Or ev'ry prat'ling Hussy'll beg a Dose.

A Water-Bottle's brought for her Relief, Not Nants could sooner ease the Lady's Grief: Her busy Thoughts are on the Tryal bent, And Female-like, impatient for th'Event:

The Bonny Knight reelshome exceeding clean, Prepar'd for Clamour, and Domestick War.

En-

Entring, he cries, — Hey! Where's our Thun-(der fled!

No Hurricane! Betty's your Lady dead?
Madam, afide, an ample Mouthful takes,
Court'fy's,looks Kind, but not a Word she speaks: Wond'ring, he star'd, scarcely his Eyes believ'd, But found his Ears agreeably deceiv'd.
Why, How now, Molly, What's the Crotchet

She smiles, and answers only with a Bow. Then clasping her about,—Why, let me die! These Nightclothes, Moll, become thee mightily! With that, he sigh'd, her Hand began to press, And Betty calls, her Lady to undress. Nay, kiss me, Molly,—for I'm much inclin'd. Her Lace she cuts, to take him in the Mind. Thus the fond Pair to Bed enamour'd went, The Lady pleas'd, and the good Knight con-

For many Days these fond Endearments pass'd, The reconciling Bottle fails at last; "Twas us'd and gone,---- Then Midnight Sorms (arose.

And Looks and Words the Union discompose.

Her Couch is order'd, and Post-haste she slies,

To beg her Uncle for some fresh Supplies;

Transported does the strange Effects relate,

Her Knight's Conversion, and her happy State.

Why, Neece, favs he,—I prithee apprehend The Water's Wa.,—Be thy felf thy Friend; Such Beauty would the coldest Husband warr, But your provoking Tongue undoes the Charm: Be filent, and complying,—You'll soon find, Sir John, without a Med'cin, will be kind.

St. James's Coffee-house, April 13.
Letters from Venice say, The Disappointment of their Expectation to see his Danish Majesty, has deno were if the

has V

Our

the l

at R an in en

hi the 1 un-

ed!

ks:

rd,

het

w?

ie!

y!

d.

t.

S

has very much disquieted the Court of Rome. Our last Advices from Germany inform us, That the Minister of Hanover has urg'd the Council at Ratisbonne to exert themselves in Behalf of the Common Cause, and taken the Liberty to fay, That the Dignity, the Virtue, the Pruwere call'd to the Head of their Affairs in vain, If they thought fit to leave him naked of the proper Means to make those Excellencies useful for the Honour and Safety of the Empire. They write from Berlin of the 13th, O. S. That the true Defign of General Fleming's Visit to that Court was, to infinuate, that it will be for the mutual Interest of the King of Prussia and King Augustus to enter into a new Alliance; but that the Ministers of Prussia are not inclin'd to his Sentiments. We hear from Vienna, That his Imperial Majesty has express'd great Satisfaction in their High Mightinesses having communicated to him the whole that has passed in the Affair of a Peace. Though there have been Practices used by the Agents of France, in all the Courts of Europe, to break the good Understanding of the Allies, they have had no other Effect, but to make all the Members concerned in the Alliance, more doubtful of their Safety from the great Offers of the Enemy. The Empire is rouz'd by this Alarm. and the Frontiers of all the French Dominions are in Danger of being infulted the enfuing Campagne: Advices from all Parts confirm, That it is impossible for France to find a Way to obtain so much Credit, as to gain any one Potentate of the Allies, or make any Hope for Safety from other Prospects.

From my own Apartment, April 13. I find it of very great Use, now I am setting up for a Writer of News, that I am an Adept in Astrological Speculations; by which Means, I avoid speaking of Things which may offend Great Persons. But at the same Time, I must not prostitute the Liberal Sciences so far, as not to utter the Truth in Cases which do not immediately concern the Good of my Native Country. I must therefore boldly contradict what has been fo affuredly reported by the News-Writers of England, That France is in the most deplorable Condition, and that their People die in great Multitudes, I will therefore let the World know, that my Correspondent, by the Way of Bruffels, informs me, upon his Honour, That the Gentleman who writes the Gazette of Paris, and ought to know as well as any Man, has told him, That ever fince the King has been past his 63d Year, or Grand Climacterick, there has not died one Man of the French Nation who was younger than his Majesty, except a very few, who were taken fuddenly near the Village of Hockstet in Germany; and fome more, who were straitned for Lodging at a Place call'd Ramelies, and died on the Road to Ghent and Bruges. There are also other Things given out by the Allies, which are Shifts below a Conquering Nation to make use of. Among others, 'tis faid, There is a general Murmuring among the People of France, tho' at the fame Time all my Letters agree, That there is fo good an Understanding among them, that there is not one Morfel carried out of any Market in the Kingdom, but what is deliver'd upon Credit,

The TATLER. [No 3.

Support the sales and state of the

From Thursd. Apr. 14. to Saturd. Apr. 16. 1709.

The Locker

Will's Coffee-house, April 14.

"His Evening, the Comedy, call'd The Country Wife, was acted in Drury-Lane, for the Benefit of Mrs. Bignell, The Part which gives Name to the Play was performed by her ielf. Through the whole Action, she made a very pretty Figure, and exactly enter'd into the Nature of the Part. Her Husband, in the Drama, is represented to be one of those Debauchees who run through the Vices of the Town, and believe when they think fit they. can marry and fettle at their Eafe. His own Knowledge of the Iniquity of the Age, makes him chuse a Wife wholly ignorant of it, and place his Security in her Want of Skill how to abuse him. The Poet, on many Occasions, where the Propriety of the Character will admit of it, infinuates, That there is no Defence against Vice, but the Contempt of it: And has, in the natural Ideas of an untainted Innocent, shown the gradual Steps to Ruin and Destruction, which Persons of Condition run into, without the Help of a good Education how to form their Conduct. The Torment of a Jealous Coxcomb, which arises from his own False Maxims, and the Aggravation of his Pain, by the very Words in which he fees her Innocence, makes a very pleasant and instructive Satyr-

The Character of Horner, and the Defign of it, is a good Representation of the Age in which that Comedy was written; at which Time Love and Wenching were the Business of Life, and the Gallant Manner of pursuing Women was the best Recommendation at Court. which only it is to be imputed, that a Gentleman of Mr. Wicherley's Character and Sense. condescends to represent the Infults done to the Honour of the Bed, without just Reproof; but to have drawn a Man of Probity with Regard to such Considerations, had been a Monfter, and a Poet had at that Time discover'd his Want of knowing the Manners of the Court he liv'd in, by a Virtuous Character in his fine Gentleman, as he would show his Ignorance, by drawing a Vicious One to pleafe the present Audience. Mrs. Bignall did her Part very happily, and had a certain Grace in her Rusticity, which gave us Hopes of feeing her a very Skilful Player, and in some Parts, Supply our Loss of Mrs. Verbruggen. I cannot be of the same Opinion with my Friends and Fellow-Labourers, the Reformers of Manners, in their Severity towards Plays, but must allow, that a good Play, acted before a well-bred Audience, must raise very proper Incitements to good Behaviour, and be the most quick and most prevailing Method of giving Young People a Turn of Sense and Breeding. But as I have fet up for a Weekly Historian, I resolve to be a Faithful One; and therefore take this publick Occasion, to admonish a Young Nobleman, who came fluster'd into the Box last Night, and let him know, how much all his Friends were out of Countenance for him. The Women fare in Terror of hearing fomething that should shock their Modesty, and all the Gentlemen in as much Pain, out of Compation to the Ladies, and perhaps Reference for the Indignity which was offer'd in coming into their Preferce in fo diffespectful a Manner. Wine made him say nothing that was Rude, therefore he is forgiven, upon Condition he will never hazard his offending more in this Kind. As I just now himsed I own my self of the Society for Reference of Manner. We have lower Instruments than those of the Family of Bickerstaff, for pusillaing great Crimes, and exposing the Abandon'd. Therefore, as I design to have Notices from all Publick Assemblies, I shall take upon me only Indecorums, Improprieties, and Negligences, in such as should give us better Examples. After this Declaration, if a Fine Lady thinks six to giggle at Church, or a Great Beau come in draink to a Play, either shall be sure to hear of it in my ensuing Paper: For meerly as a well-bred Man, I cannot bear these Enormities.

Poets

After the Play, we naturally stroll to this Coffee-house, in Hopes of meeting some new Poem, or other Entertainment, among the Men of Wit and Pleasure, where there is a Dearth at present. But it is wonderful there should be so sew Writers, when the Art is become meerly Mechanick, and Men may make themselves Great that Way, by as certain and infallible Rules, as you may be a Joiner or a Mason. There happens a good Instance of this, in what the Hawker just now has offer'd to Sale; to wit, Instructions to Vanderbank; A Sequel to the Advice to the Poets; A Poem, occasioned by the Glorious Success of her Majesty's Arms, under the Command of the Duke of Marlborough, the last Tear in Flanders. Here you are to understand, that the Author sinding the

N

T

YC

to

m

M

is

hi U

d

h

V

I

1

Poets would not take his Advice, he troubles himself no more about 'em; but has met with one Vanderbank, who works in Arras, and makes very good Tapestry Hangings: Therefore, in order to celebrate the Hero of the Age, he claps me together all that can be said of a Man that makes Hangings: As,

Then, Artist, who dost Nature's Face express In Silk and Gold, and Scenes of Action dress; Dost figur'd Arras animated leave, Spin a Bright Story, or a Passion weave By mingling Threads; canst mingle Shade and (Light,

Delineate Triumphs, or describe a Fight?

Well, what shall this Workman do? Why? To show how great an Hero the Poet intends, he provides him a very good Horse:

Champing his Foam, und bounding on the Plain, Arch his High Neck, and Graceful spread his (Mane.

Now as to the Intrepidity, the calm Courage, the constant Application of the Hero, it is not necessary to take that upon your self; you may, in the Lump, bid him you employ raise him as High as he can, and if he does it not, let him answer for disobeying Orders.

Let Fame and Victory in inferior Sky, Hover with ballanc'd Wings, and Smiling fly Above his Head, &c.

A whole Poem of this Kind may be ready against an ensuing Campagne, as well as a Space left in the Canvass of a Piece of Tapestry for the principal Figure, while the Under-Parts are working: So that in Effect, the Adviser copies after the Man he pretends to direct.

es

th

nd

ee,

This Method should, methinks, encourage young Beginners: For the Invention is fo fitted to all Capacities, that by the Help of it a Man may make a Receipt for a Poem. A young Man may observe, that the Gigg of the Thing is, as I said, finding out all that can be said of his Way you employ to fet forth your Worthy. Waller and Denham had worn out the Expedient of Advice to a Painter: This Author has transferred the Work, and fent his Advice to the Poets; that is to fay, to the Tiorners of Verse, as he calls em. Well, that Thought is worn out also, therefore he directs his Genius to the Loom, and will have a new Set of Hangings in Honour of the last Year in Flanders. I must own to you, I approve extremely this Invention, and it might be improved for the Benefit of Manufactury: As, suppose an Ingenious Gentleman should write a Poem of Advice to a Callico-Printer: Do you think there is a Girl in England, that would wear any. Thing but The Taking of Lifle, or The Battle of Oudenarde? They would certainly be all the Fashion, till the Heroes abroad had cut out some more Patterns. I should fancy small Skirmishes might do for Under-Petticoats, provided they had a Siege for the Upper. If our Adviser were well imitated, many Industrious. People might be put to Work. Little Mr. Dattile. now in the Room, who formerly writ a Song and a Half, is a Week gone in a very pretty Work, upon this Hint: He is writing an Epigram to a young Virgin who knits very well ('tis a Thousand Pities he is a Jacobite) : But his Epigram is by Way of Advice to this Damsel, to knit all the Actions of the Pretender and the Duke of Burgundy last Campagne in the Clock of a Stocking. It were endless to enumerate the many Hands and Trades that may be employed by Poets, of so useful a Turn as this Adviser's. I shall think of it; and in this Time of Taxes, shall consult a great Critick employed in the Custom-house, in order to propose what Tax may be proper to put upon Knives, Seals, Rings, Hangings, Wrought-Beds, Gowns and Petticoats, where any of those Commodities bear Motto's, or are worked upon Poetical Grounds.

3 1. 7.

St. James's Coffee-house, April 15.

Letters from Turin of the 3d Instant, N. S. inform us, That his Royal Highness employs all his Address in alarming the Enemy, and perplexing their Speculations, concerning his real Defigns the enfuing Campaign. Contracts are enter'd into with the Merchants of Milan. for a great Number of Mules to transport his Provisions and Ammunition. His Royal Highness has ordered the Train of Artillery to be conveyed to Sufa before the 20th of the next Month. In the mean Time, all Accounts agree, That the Enemy are very backward in their Preparations, and almost incapable of defending themselves against an Invasion, by reafon of the general Murmurs of their own People; which, they find, are no way to be quieted, but by giving them Hopes of a speedy Peace. When these Letters were dispatched, the Marshal de Thesse was arrived at Genea. where he has taken much Pains to keep the Correspondents of the Merchants of France in Hopes, that Measures will be found out to support the Credit and Commerce between that State and Lyons. But the late Declaration of the Agents of Monsieur Bernard, that they cannot discharge the Demands made upon ly on the Stage.

3.

m-

his

his

ck

to

OF

it-

of

d

d

9

them, has quite dispirited all those who are engaged in the Remittances of France.

From my own Apartment, April 15.

It is a very natural Passion in all good Members of the Commonwealth, to take what Care they can of their Families. Therefore I hope the Reader will forgive me, that I desire he would go to the Play, called the Stratagem, this Evening, which is to be acted for the Benefit of my near Kinsman Mr. John Bickerstaff. I protest to you, the Gentleman has not spoken to me to desire this Favour; but I have a Respect for him, as well in Regard to Consanguinity, as that he is an intimate Friend of that Famous and Heroick Actor, Mr. George Powell, who formerly played Alexander the Great in all Places, though he is lately grown so reserved, as to act it on-

The TATLER. [Nº 4.

From Saturd. Apr. 16. to Tuefd. Apr. 19. 1709.

It is usual with Persons, who mount the Stage for the Cure or Information of the Crowd about 'em, to make solemn Professions of their being wholly disinterested in the Pains they take for the Publick Good. At the same Time, those very Men, who make Harangues in Plus Doublets, and extol their own Abilities and Generous Inclinations, tear their Lungs in vending a Drug, and show no Act of Bounty, except it be, that they lower a Demand of a Crown, to Six, nay, to One Penny. We have a Contempt for such Paultry Barterers, and have therefore all along

0

y

0

n

C

A

G

if

V

T

fe

u

2 d

(

(

f

along informed the Publick, that we intend to give them our Advices for our own Sakes, and are labouring to make our Lucubrations come to some Price in Money, for our more convenient Support in the Service of the Publick. It is certain, that many other Schemes have been propo-fed to me; as a Friend offered to show me a Treatise he had writ, which he called, The Whole Art of Life, or, The Introduction to Great Men, illustrated in a Pack of Cards. But being a Novice at all Manner of Play, I declined the Offer. Another advised me, for want of Money, to fet up my Coach and practife Phylick, but having been bred a Scholar, I feared I should not succeed that Way neither; therefore resolved to go on in my present Project. But you are to understand, that I shall not pretend to raise a Credit to this Work, upon the Weight of my Politick News only, but, as my Latin Sentence in the Title Page informs you, Shall take any Thing that offers for the Subject of my Discourse. Thus, New Persons, as well as New Things, are to come under my Consideration; as, when a Toast, or a Wit, is first pronounced such, You shall have the freshest Advice of their Preferment from me, with a Description of the Beauty's Manner, and the Wit's Style; as also, in whose Places they are advanced. For this Town is never good-natured enough to raife One, without depressing Another. But it is my Design, to avoid saying any Thing, of any Person, which ought justly to displease; but shall endeavour, by the Variety of the Matter and Style, to give Entertainment for Men of Fleasure, without Offence to those of Business.

entrational many seeds of the land

White's

White's Chocolate-house, April 18.

A LL Hearts at present pant for Two La-dies only, who have for some Time engroffed the Dominion of the Town. They are indeed both exceeding Charming, but differ very much in their Excellencies. The Beauty of Clariffa is Soft, that of Chloe Piercing. When you look at Clariffa, you see the most exact Harmony of Feature, Complexion, and Shape; you find in Chloe nothing extraordinary in any one of those Particulars, but the whole Woman irrefittible. Clariffa looks Languishing; Chloe, Killing. Clariffa never fails of gaining Admiration; Chloe, of moving Delire. The Gazers at Clariffa, are at first unconcerned, as if they were observing a fine Picture. They who behold Chloe, at the First Glance, discover Transport, as if they met their dearest Friend. These different Perfections are suitably reprefented by the last great Painter Italy has sent us, Mr. Jervase. Clarissa is, by that skilful Hand, placed in a Manner that looks artlefs, and innocent of the Torments the gives; Chloe drawn with a Liveliness that shows she is conscious, but not affected, of her Perfections. Clurissa is a Shepherdess; Chloe, a Country Girl. I must own, the Design of Chloe's Picture shows, to me, great Mastery in the Painter: for nothing could be better imagined than the Drefs he has given her, of a Straw-hat and Ribband, to represent that Sort of Beauty which enters the Heart with a certain Familiarity, and cheats it into a Belief, that it has received a Lover as well as an Object of Love. The Force of their different Beauties is seen also in the Effects it makes on their Lovers. The Admirers of Chloe are eternally gay and wellpleased: Those of Clarissa, melancholy and thought-

V

li

21

Ca

ir

fi

C

2

tl

V

f

T

ì

thoughtful. And as this Passion always changes the natural Man into a quite different Creature from what he was before, the Love of Chloe makes Coxcombs; that of Clarissa, Madmen. There were of each Kind just now here. Here was one that whistles, laughs, sings, and cuts Capers, for Love of Chloe. Another has just now writ Three Lines to Clarissa, then taken a Turn in the Garden, then came back again, then tore his Fragment, then called for some Chocolate, then went away without it.

Chloe has so many Admirers in the Room at present, that there is too much Noise to proceed in my Narration: So that the Progress of the Loves of Clarissa and Chloe, together with the Bottles that are drank each Night for the One, and the many Sighs which are uttered, and Songs written, on the Other, must be our Subject on future Occasions.

Will's Coffee-house, April 18. Letters from the Hay-market inform us, That on Saturday Night last the Opera of Pyrrhus and Demetrius was performed with great Applause. This Intelligence is not very acceptable to us Friends of the Theatre; for the Stage being an Entertainment of the Reason and all our Faculties, this Way of being pleafed with the Suspence of 'em for Three Hours together. and being given up to the shallow Satisfaction of the Eyes and Ears only, feems to arise rather from the Degeneracy of our Understanding, than an Improvement of our Diversions, That the Understanding has no Part in the Pleasure is evident, from what these Letters very positively affert, to wit, That a great Part of the Performance was done in Italian: And a great Critick fell into Fits in the Gallery, at feeing, not only Time and Place, but Languares

re

loe

n.

re

its ift

12

n.

ie

at

o-Is

er

r

-

ges and Nations confused in the most incorrigible Manner. His Spleen is fo extremely moved on this Occasion, that he is going to publish a Treatise against Opera's, which, he thinks. have already inclined us to Thoughts of Peace. and if tolerated, must infallibly dispirit us from carrying on the War. He has communicated his Scheme to the whole Room, and declared in what Manner Things of this Kind were first introduced. He has upon this Occasion confidered the Nature of Sounds in general, and made a very elaborate Digression upon the London Cries, wherein he has shown from Reason and Philosophy, why Oysters are cried, Cardmatches fung, and Turneps and all other Vegetables neither cried, fung, nor faid, but fold, with an Accent and Tone neither natural to Man or Beast. This Piece seems to be taken from the Model of that excellent Difcourse of Mrs. Manly the School-Mistress, con-cerning Samplers. Advices from the upper End of Piccadilly fay, That May-Fair is utterly abolished; and we hear, Mr. Pinkethman has removed his ingenious Company of Strollers to Greenwich: But other Letters from Deptford fay, the Company is only making thither, and not yet fettled; but that several Heathen Gods and Goddesses, which are to descend in Machines, landed at the King's-Head-Stairs last Saturday. Venus and Cupid went on Foot from thence to Greenwich; Mars got drunk in the Town, and broke his Landlord's Head; for which he fat in the Stocks the whole Evening; but Mr. Pinkethman giving Security that he should do nothing this ensuing Summer, he was set at Liberty. The most melancholy Part of all, was, that Diana was taken in the Act of Fornication with a Boat-man, and committed by Justice Wrathful, which has, it seems, put a Stop to the Divertions of the Theatre of Black-Heath. But there goes down another Diana and a Patient Grissel next Tide from Billing gate.

St. James's Coffee-house, April 18.

They write from Saxony of the 13th Instant, N. S. That the Grand General of the Crown of Poland was so far from entring into a Treaty with King Stanislaus, that he had written Circular Letters, wherein he exhorted the Palatinates to join against him; declaring, that this was the most favourable Conjuncture for asserting their Liberty.

Letters from the Hague of the 23d Instant, N. S. say, they have Advices from Vienna, which import, That his Electoral Highness of Hanover had signified to the Imperial Court, that he did not intend to put himself at the Head of the Troops of the Empire, except more effectual Measures were taken for acting vigorously against the Enemy the ensuing Campaign. Upon this Representation, the Emperor has given Orders to several Regiments to march towards the Rhine, and dispatched Expresses to the respective Princes of the Empire to desire an Augmentation of their Forces.

These Letters add, That an Express arrived at the Hague on the 20th Instant, with Advice, That the Enemy having made a Detachment from Tournay of 1500 Horse, each Trooper carrying a Foot-Soldier behind him, in order to surprize the Garrison of Alost; the Allies, upon Notice of their March, sent out a strong Body of Troops from Ghent, which engaged the Enemy at Asche, and took 200 of them Prisoners, obliging the rest to retire without making any surther Attempt. On the 22d in the Morning, a Fleet

ns,

of

er

m ıt,

of

ir-

ti-

115

T-

ıt,

ia,

of

rt,

he pt

ng

n-

to

X-

re

ed

e, nt

er

n

y

e-

5,

y et

a Fleet of Merchant Ships coming from Scotland, were attacked by fix French Privateers at the Entrance of the Meufe. We have yet no certain Advice of the Event: But Letters from Rotterdam fay, That a Duch Man of War of forty Guns, which was Convoy to the faid Fleet, was taken, as were also eighteen of the Merchants. The Swifs Troops, in the Service of the States, have compleated the Augmentation of their respective Companies. Those of Wirtemberg and Prussia are expected on the Frontiers within few Days; and the Auxiliaries from Saxony, as also a Battalion of Holftein, and another of Wolfembuttle, are advancing thither with all Expedition. On the 21st Instant, the Deputies of the States had a Conference near Woerden with the President Rouille, but the Matter which was therein debated is not made publick. His Grace the Duke of Marlborough and Prince Eugene continue at the Hague.

From my own Apartment, April 18.

I have lately been very studious for Intelligence, and have just now, by my Astrological Flying-Post, received a Packet from Felicia, an Island in America, with an Account that gives me great Satisfaction, and lets me understand that the Island was never in greater Prosperity, or the Administration in so good Hands, fince the Death of their late valiant King. These Letters import, That the Chief Minister has entered into a firm League with the ablest and best Men of the Nation, to carry on the Cause of Liberty, to the Encouragement of Religion, Virtue, and Honour. Those Persons at the Helm are so useful, and in themselves of such Weight, that their strict Alliance must needs tend to the universal Prosperity of the People. Camillo, it feems, prefides over the Deliberations of State; and is fo highly valued by all Men, for his fingular Probity, Courage, Affability, and Love of Mankind, that his being placed in that Station has diffipated the Fears of that People, who of all the World are the most jealous of their Liberty and Happiness. The next Member of their Society is Horatio, who makes all the Publick Dispatches. This Minister is Master of all the Languages in Use to great Perfection: He is held in the highest Veneration imaginable for a fevere Honesty, and Love of his Country: He lives in a Court, unfullied with any of its Artifices, the Refuge of the Oppressed, and Terror of Oppressors. Martio has joined himfelf to this Council; a Man of most undaunted Refolution and great Knowledge in Maritime Affairs; famous for destroying the Navy of the Franks, and fingularly happy in one Particular, That he never preferred a Man who has not proved remarkably serviceable to his Country. Philander is mentioned with particular Distinction; a Nobleman who has the most refined Tast of the true Pleasures and Elegance of Life, joined to an indefatigable Industry in Business. A Man eloquent in Assemblies, agreeable in Conversation, and dextrous in all Manner of Publick Negotiations. These Letters add, That Verono, who is also of this Council, has lately fet Sail to his Government of Patricia, with Defign to confirm the Affections of the People in the Interests of his Queen. This Minister is Master of great Abilities, and is as industrious and restless for the Preservation of the Liberties of the People, as the greatest Enemy can be to subvert them. The Influence of these Personages, who are Men of fuch distinguished Parts and Virtues, makes fo ro-

an-

has all er-eir

he is

for

y :

its

nd

nit-

ri-

vy ne

10

is

i-

ie

d

le

-

s.

f

-

S

e

makes the People enjoy the utmost Tranquility in the midst of a War, and gives them undoubted Hopes of a secure Peace from their Vigilance and Integrity.

The TATLER. [N° 5.

From Tuesd. Apr. 19. to Thursd. Apr. 21. 1709.

White's Chocolate-house, April 20. (a Tear, Who names that Lost Thing, Love, without Sinse so debauch'd by ill-bred Customs here, To an exact Perfection they have brought The Action, Love, the Passion is forgot.

This was long ago a witty Author's Lamentation, but the Evil still continues; and if a Man of any Delic ry were to attend the Discourses of the young Fellows of this Age, they would believe there were none but Prostitutes to make the Objects of Passion. So true it is what the Author of the above Verses said, a little before his Death, of the Modern Pretenders to Gallantry: " They fet up for Wits in this Age, by " faying when they are Sober, what they of the " last spoke only when they were Drunk. But Cupid is not only Blind at present, but Deaddrunk, he has loft all his Faculties: Else how should Celia be so long a Maid with that agreeable Behaviour? Corinna, with that fprightly Wit? Lesbin, with that Heavenly Voice? And Sacharissa, with all those Excellencies in one Person, frequent the Park, the Play, and murder the poor Tits that drag her to publick Places, and not a Man turn pale at her Appearance? But fuch is the fallen State of Love, that if it were not for honest Cynthio, who is true to the Cause, we should hardly have a Pattern left of the ancient Worthies that Way: And indeed he has but very little Encouragement to persevere; but he has a Devotion, rather than Love, for his Mistres; and says,

Only tell her that I love, Leave the rest to her, and Fate; Some kind Planet from Above, May, perhaps, her Passin move: Lovers on their Stars must wait.

But the Stars I am so intimately acquainted with, that I can affure him, he will never have her: For would you believe it, tho' Cynthio has Wit, Good Sense, Fortune, and his very Being depends on her, the Termagant for whom he fighs, is in Love with a Fellow, who stares in the Glass all the Time he is with her, and lets her plainly see, she may possibly be his Rival, but never his Mistress. Yet Cynthio, the same unhappy Man whom I mentioned in my first Narrative, pleases himself with a vain Imagination, that with the Language of his Eyes, now he has found who she is, he shall conquer her, tho' her Eyes are intent upon one who looks from her; which is ordinary with the Sex. It is certainly a Mistake in the Ancients, to draw the little Gentleman, Love, as a blind Boy; for his real Character is, a little Thief that squints. For ask Mrs. Meddle, who is a Confident, or Spy, upon all the Passions in Town, and she'll rell you, that the Whole is a Game of Cross Purpofes. The Lover is generally pursuing one who is in Pursuit of another, and running from one that defires to meet him. Nay, the Figure of this Passion is so justly represented in a squinting little Thief, (who is always in a Double Action) that do but observe Clarissia next

y:

re-

rave

as

g ie

n ts

1,

e

it i-

V

5

next Time you fee her, and you'll find, when her Eyes have made their foft Tour round the Company, she makes no Stay on him they fay The is to marry, but rests two Seconds of a Minute on Wildair, who neither looks nor thinks on her, or any Woman else. However, Cynthio had a Bow from her t'other Day, upon which he is very much come to himself; and I heard him fend his Man of an Errand yesterday without any Manner of Hæsitation; a Quarter of an Hour after which he reckoned Twenty, remember'd he was to fup with a Friend, and went exactly to his Appointment. I fent to know how he did this Morning, and I find he very perfectly remembers that he spoke to me Yesterday.

Will's Coffee-house, April 20.

This Week being Sacred to Holy Things, and no Publick Diversions allowed, there has been taken notice of, even here, a little Treatife, called, A Project for the Advancement of Reli-gion; Dedicated to the Countess of Berkeley. The Title was fo uncommon, and promis'd for peculiar a Way of Thinking, that every Man here has read it, and as many as have done fo, have approved it. It is written with the Spirit of one, who has feen the World enough to undervalue it with good Breeding. The Author must certainly be a Man of Wisdom, as well as Piety, and have spent much Time in the Exercise of both. The Real Causes of the Decay of the Interest of Religion, are set forth in a clear and lively Manner, without unfeafonable Paffions; and the whole Air of the Book, as to the Language, the Sentiments, and the Reasonings, show it was written by one whose Virtue fits eafy about him, and to whom Vice is throughly contemptible. It was faid by one of this Company, alluding to the Knowledge the Author feems to have of the World, the Man writes much like a Gentleman, and goes to Heaven with a very good Mien.

St. James's Coffee-House, April 20.

Letters from Italy fay, That the Marquis de Prie, upon the Receipt of an Express from the Court of Vienna, went immediately to the Palace of Cardinal Paulucci, Minister of State to his Holiness, and demanded in the Name of his Imperial Majesty, that King Charles should be forthwith acknowledg'd King of Spain, by a solemn Act of the Congregation of Cardinals appointed for that Purpose: He declar'd at the fame Time, That if the least Hesitation were made in this most important Article of the late Treaty, he should not only be oblig'd to leave Rome himself, but also transmit his Master's Orders to the Imperial Troops to face about, and return into the Ecclesiastical Dominions. When the Cardinal reported this Messige to the Pope, he was struck with so sensible an Affliction, that he burst into Tears. His Sorrow was aggravated by Letters which immediately after arriv'd from the Court of Madrid, wherein his Nuncio acquainted his Holiness, That upon the News of his Accommodation with the Emperor, he had received a Message to forbear coming to Court; and the People were so highly provok'd, that they could hardly be restrain'd from insulting his Palace. These Letters add, That the King of Denmark was gone from Florence to Pila, and from Pila to Leghorn, where the Governour paid his Majesty all imaginable Honours. The King defign'd to go from thence to Lucca, where a Magnificent Tournament was prepared for his Diversion. An English Man of War, which came from Port Mahon to Leghorn

n

a -

10

a-

0

is

e

a

is

2

e

e

e

3

t,

.

in 6 Days, brought Advice, That the Fleet commanded by Admiral Whitaker was fafely arriv'd at Barcelona, with the Troops and Ammunition which he had taken in at Naples.

General Boneval, Governor of Commacchio, had fummon'd the Magistrates of all the Towns near that Place to appear before him, and take an Oath of Fidelity to his Imperial Majesty, commanding also the Gentry to pay him Homage, on Pain of Death and Confiscation of Goods. Advices from Swifferland inform us, That the Bankers of Geneva were utterly ruined by the Failure of Mr. Bernard. They add, That the Deputies of the Swiss Cantons were returned from Solleure, where they were affembled at the Instance of the French Ambassador; but were very much diffatisfied with the Reception they had from that Minister. 'Fis true, he omitted no Civilities, or Expressions of Friendship from his Master, but he took no Notice of their Pensions and Arrears; what further provoked their Indignation, was, That instead of 25 Pistoles formerly allowed to each Member, for their Charge in coming to the Diet, he had prefented 'em with 6 only. They write from Defden, That King Augustus was still busie in recruiting his Cavalry, and that the Danish Troops, which lately served in Hungary, had Orders to be in Saxony in the Middle of May, and that his Majesty of Denmark was expected at Drefden in the Beginning of that Month. King Augustus makes great Preparations for his Reception, and has appointed Sixty Coaches, each drawn by Six Horses for that Purpose: The Interview of these Princes affords great Matter for Speculation. Letters from Paris of the 22d of this Month fay, That Mareichal Harcourt and the Duke of Berwick were preparing to go into Alface and Dauphine but that their Troops were in Want of all Manner of Necessaries. The Court of France had received Advices from Madrid, That on the 7th of this Month, the States of Spain had with much Magnificence acknowledged the Prince of Asturias Presumptive Heir of the Crown. This was performed at Buen Retiro; the Deputies took the Oaths on that Occasion by the Hands of Cardinal Portocarrero. Those Advices add. That it was fignified to the Pope's Nuncio, by Order of Council, to depart from that Court in 24 Hours, and that a Guard was accordingly appointed to conduct him to Bayonne.

Letters from the Hague of the 26th Instant inform us, That Prince Eugene was to set out the next Day for Brussels, to put all Things in a Readiness for opening the Campaign. They add, That the Grand Pensioner having reported to the Duke of Marlborough what passed in the last Conference with Mr. Rouille, his Grace had taken a Resolution immediately to return to Great Britain, to communicate to Her Majesty all that has been transacted in that important Affair.

From my own Apartment, April 20.

The Nature of my Miscellaneous Work is such, that I shall always take the Liberty to tell for News such Things (let'em have happened never so much before the Time of Writing) as have escap'd publick Notice, or have been misrepresented to the World, provided that I am still within Rules, and trespass not as a Tatler any further than in an Incorrectness of Style, and writing in an Air of common Speech. Thus if any Thing that is said, even of old Anchises or Ameas, be set by me in a different Light than has hither

d

h

h

e

1.

e

S

n

IS

t

n

d

e

d

0

y

12

is 11

d

15

e-

11

V

d

if

D1°

25 hitherto been hit upon, in order to inspire the Love and Admiration of worthy Actions, you will, Gentle Reader, I hope, accept of it for Intelligence you had not before. But I am going upon a Narrative, the Matter of which I know to be true: It is not only doing Justice to the deceas'd Merit of such Persons, as, had they lived, would not have had it in their Power to thank me, but also an Instance of the Greatness of Spirit in the lowest of her Majesty's Subjects;

take it as follows:

At the Siege of Namur by the Allies, there were in the Ranks of the Company commanded by Captain Pincent, in Colonel Frederick Hamilton's Regiment, one Unnion a Corporal, and one Valentine a private Centinel: There happened between these Two Men a Dispute about a Matter of Love, which, upon some Aggravations, grew to an irreconcilable Hatred. Unnion being the Officer of Valentine, took all Opportunities even to strike his Rival, and profess the Spite and Revenge which moved him to it. Centinel bore it without Resistance, but frequently faid, He would die to be revenged of that Tyrant. They had fpent whole Months thus, one injuring, the other complaining; when in the Midst of this Rage towards each other, they were commanded upon the Attack of the Caftle, where the Corporal received a Shot in the Thigh, and fell; the French pressing on, and he expecting to be trampled to Death, called out to his Enemy, Ah, Valentine! Can you leave me here! Valentine immediately ran back, and in the Midst of a thick Fire of the French, took the Corporal upon his Back, and brought him thro all that Danger as far as the Abbey of Salfine, where a Cannon Ball took off his Head: His Bo. dy fell under his Enemy whom he was carrying off. Union immediately forgot his Wound, rose up, tearing his Hair, and then threw himself upon the bleeding Carcass, crying, Ah, Valentine! Was it for me, who have so barbarously used thee, that thou hast died? I will not live after thee. He was not by any Means to be forced from the Body, but was removed with it bleeding in his Arms, and attended with Tears by all their Comrades, who knew their Enmity. When he was brought to a Tent, his Wounds were dressed by Force; but the next Day, still calling upon Valentine, and lamenting his Cruelties to him, he died in the Pangs of Remorse and Despair.

It may be a Question among Men of Noble Sentiments, Whether of these unfortunate Persons had the greater Soul; he that was so generous as to venture his Life for his Enemy, or he who could not survive the Man that died, in laying upon him fuch an Obligation?

When we see Spirits like these in a People, to what Heights may we not suppose their Glory may arise, but (as it is excellently obferved by Salust) it is not only to the general Bent of a Nation that great Revolutions are owing, but to the extraordinary Genio's that lead 'em. On which Occasion he proceeds to fay, That the Roman Greatness was neither to be attributed to their superior Policy, for in that the Carthaginians excelled; nor to their Valour, for in that the French were preferable; but to particular Men, who were born for the Good of their Country, and formed for great Attempts. This he fays, to introduce the Characters of Cafar and Cato. It would be entering into too weighty a Discourse for this Place, if I attempted to show, that our Nation has produced as great and able Men for 5.

se

pe!

er

ed

d-

y

y. ds

ufe

le r-e-y, e, ir

C

0 n

r

e

t

publick Affairs, as any other. But I believe, the Reader outruns me, and fixes his Imagination upon the Duke of Marlborough. It is, methinks, a pleasing Reflection, to consider the Dispensations of Providence in the Fortune of this Illustrious Man, who, in the Space of Forty Years, has pass'd through all the Gradations of Human Life, 'till he has ascended to the Character of a Prince, and become the Scourge of a Tyrant, who fate in one of the greatest Thrones of Europe, before the Man who was to have the greatest Part in his Downfall had made one Step in the World. But fuch Elevations are the Natural Confequences of an exact Prudence, a calm Courage, a well-governed Temper, a patient Ambition, and an affable Behaviour. Thefe Arts. as they are the Steps to his Greatness, so they To this are the Pillars of it now it is raised. her Glorious Son, Great-Britain is indebted for the happy Conduct of her Arms, in whom she can boalt. She has produced a Man formed by Nature to lead a Nation of Heroes.

The TATLER. [N° 6.

From Thursd. Apr. 21. to Saturd. Apr. 23. 1709.

Will's Coffee-house, April 22.

Am just come from visiting Sappho, a fine-Lady, who writes Verses, sings, dances and can say and do whatever she pleases, without the Imputation of any Thing that can injure her Character; for she is so well known to have no Passion but Self-love; or Folly, but Affectation; that now upon any Occasion, they only cry, 'Tis her Way, and That's so like hen, without without further Reflection. As I came into the Room, she cries, Oh! Mr. Bickerstaff, I am utterly undone! I have broke that pretty Italian Fan I showed you when you were here last, wherein were so admirably drawn our First Parents in Paradise asleep in each other's Arms. But there is such an Affinity between Painting and Poetry, that I have been improving the Images which were raifed by that Picture, by reading the same Representation in Two of our greatest Poets. Look you, here are the Passages in Milton and in Dryden. All Milton's Thoughts are wonderfully just and natural, in this inimitable Description which Adam makes of himself in the Eighth Book of Paradise Lost. But there is none of them finer than that contained in the following Lines, where he tells us his Thoughts when he was falling afleep a little after his Creation.

While thus I call'd, and stray'd I know not whiFrom whence I first drew Air, and first beheld This happy Light; when Answer none return'd, On a green shady Bank, profuse of Flowers, Pensive I sate me down, there gentle Sleep First found me, and with soft Oppression seiz'd My drowned Sense, untroubled, tho' I thought I then was passing to my former State, Insensible, and forthwith to dissolve.

But now I can't forgive this odious Thing, this Dryden, who, in his State of Innocence, has given my Great-Grandmother Eve the fame Apprehension of Annihilation, on a very different Occasion, as Adam pronounces it of himself, when he was seized with a pleasing Kind of Stupor and Deadness, Eve fancies her nto F, I

ere

our er's

en

10-nat

in ere All

12-ch

ok

m g

n

1-

felf falling away, and dissolving in the Hurry of a Rapture. However, the Verses are very good, and I don't know but it may be natural what she says. I'll read 'em:

When your kind Eyes look'd languishing on mine, And wreathing Arms did soft Embraces join. A doubtful Trembling seiz'd me first all o'er, Then Wishes, and a Warmth unknown before; What follow'd was all Extasy and Trance, Immortal Pleasures round my swimming Eyes did (dance.

And speechless Joys, in whose sweet Tumults tost, I thought my Breath and my New Being lost.

She went on, and faid a Thousand good Things at Random, but fo strangely mixed, that you would be apt to fay, All her Wit is meer good Luck, and not the Effect of Reason and Judgment. When I made my Escape hither, I found a Gentleman playing the Critick on Two other great Poets, even Virgil and Homer. He was observing, that Virgil is more judicious than the other in the Epithets he gives his Hero. Homer's usual Epither, faid he, is Πόδας ωχύς, or Ποδάρχης, and his Indiferetion has been often rallied by the Criticks, for mentioning the Nimbleness of Foot in Achilles. tho' he describes him standing, sitting, lying down, fighting, eating, drinking, or in any other Circumstance, however foreign or repugnant to Speed and Activity. Virgil's common Epithet to Eneas, is Pius or Pater. I have therefore considered, said he, what Passage there is in any of his Hero's Actions, where either of these Appellations would have been most improper, to fee if I could catch him at the same Fault with Homer: And this, I think, is his Meeting with Dido in the Cave, where Pius Eneas Nº 6.

Æneas would have been Absurd, and Pater Aneas a Burlesque: The Poet has therefore wifely dropped 'em both for Dux Trojanus.

Speluncam Dido Dux & Trojanus eandem Deveniunt,-

Which he has repeated twice in Juno's Speech, and his own Narration: For he very well knew, a loofe Action might be confiftent enough with the usual Manners of a Soldier, tho'it became neither the Chastity of a Pious Man, nor the Gravity of the Father of a People.

Grecian Coffee-house, April 22.
While other Parts of the Town are amused with the present Actions, we generally spend the Evening at this Table in Enquiries into Antiquity, and think any Thing News which gives us new Knowledge. Thus we are making a very pleafant Entertainment to our selves, in putting the Actions of Homer's Iliad into an exact Journal.

This Poem is introduced by Chryses, King of Chryfeis, and Priest of Apollo, who comes to redemand his Daughter, who was carried off at the Taking of that City, and given to Agamemnon for his Part of the Booty. The Refufal he receiv'd enrages Apollo, who for 9 Days Thowered down Darts upon them, which occafioned the Pestilence.

The 10th Day Achilles affembles the Council, and encourages Cachas to speak for the Surrender of Chryseis to appeale Apollo. Agamemnan and Achilles storm at one another, notwithstanding which Agamemnon will not release his Prisoner, unless he has Briseis in her After long Contestations, wherein Agamemnon gives a glorious Character of Achiller's Valour, he determines to restore Briseis to rter

ore no's

ery

ent

ier, ous

ole.

Ced

nd

mch

12-ur

ad

of

·eat

a-

uys

2-

n-

10 200

1, ot'

r

9-

1-

her Father, and fends Two Heralds to fetch away Chryseis from Achilles who abandons himfelf to Sorrow and Despair. His Mother Thetis came to comfort him under his Affliction, and promifes to reprefent his forrowful Lamentations to Jupiter; but he could not attend it; for the Evening before, he had appointed to divert himself for two Days beyond the Seas with the harmless Æthiopians.

'Twas the 21st Day after Chryseis's Arrival to the Camp, that Thetis went very early to demand an Audience of Jupiter. The Means he uses to satisfy her were, to perswade the Greeks to attack the Trojans; that so they might perceive the Consequence of contemning Achilles, and the Miseries they suffer if he does not head them. The next Night he orders Agamemnon, in a Dream, to attack them; who was deceived with the Hopes of obtaining a Victory, and also taking the City, without sharing the Honour with Achilles.

On the 22d, in the Morning, he affembles the Council, and having made a Feint of raising the Siege and retiring, he declares to them his Dream; and, together with Neftor and Ulyffes.

resolves on an Engagement.

This was the 23d Day, which is full of Incidents, and which continues from almost the Beginning of the Second Canto to the Eighth. The Armies being then drawn up in View of one another, Hector brings it about, that Menslaus and Paris, the Two Persons concerned in the Quarrel, should decide it by a single Combat; which tending to the Advantage of Menelaus, was interrupted by a Cowardice infused by Minerva: Then both Armies engage, where the Trojans have the Disadvantage; but being afterwards animated by Apollo, they repulse the Enemy, yet they are once again forced to give Ground; but their Affairs were retrieved by Hector, who has a single Combat with Ajax. The Gods threw themselves into the Battel, Juno and Minerva took the Gracians Part, and Apollo and Mars the Trojans: But Mars and Venus are both wounded by Diomedes.

The Truce for burying the Slain ended the 23d Day; after which the Greeks threw up a great Intrenchment to fecure their Navy from Danger. Councils are held on both Sides. On the Morning of the 24th Day, the Battel is renewed, but in a very difadvantagious Manner to the Greeks, who were beaten back to their Retrenchments. Agamemnon being in Despair at this ill Success, proposes to the Counsel to quit the Enterprize, and retire from Troy. But by the Advice of Neftor, he is perswaded to regain Achilles, by returning Chryfeis, and fending him considerable Presents. Hereupon, Ulysses and Ajax are fent to that Hero, who continues inflexible in his Anger. Ulysses, at his Return, joins himself with Diomedes, and goes in the Night to gain Intelligence of the Enemy: They enter into their very Camp, where, finding the Centinels afleep, they made a great Slaughter. Rhefus, who was just then arrived with Recruits from Thrace for the Trojans, was killed in that Action. Here ends the 10th Can-The Sequel of this Journal will be inferted in the next Article from this Place.

St. James's Coffee-house, April 22.
We hear from Italy, that notwithstanding the Pope has received a Letter from the Duke of Anjou, demanding of him, to explain himself upon the Assair of acknowledging King Charles: His Holiness has not yet thought fit to send any Answer to that Prince. The Court of Rome appears

l to

eved

jax.

ttel,

and

Ve-

the pa om

On

re-

ner

neir pair

l to

But

re-

ing

Ses

nti-

his oes

ne-

re.

eat

red

vas

n-

ed

he

of

elf

es:

ny

me

irs

appears very much mortified, that they are not to fee his Majesty of Denmark in that City, having perhaps given themselves vain Hopes from a Visit made by a Protestant Prince to that See. The Pope has dispatched a Gentleman to compliment his Majesty, and sent the King a Prefent of all the Curiofities and Antiquities of Rome, represented in Seventeen Volumes, very richly bound, which were taken out of the Vatican Library. Letters from Genoa of the 14th Instant fay, A Felucca was arrived there in Five Days from Marfeilles, with an Account, That the People of that City had made an Infurrection, by Reason of the Scarcity of Provifions, and that the Intendant had ordered fome Companies of Marines, and the Men belonging to the Gallies, to stand to their Arms to protect him from Violence; but that he began to be in as much Apprehension of his Guards, as those from whom they were to defend him. When that Vessel came away, the Soldiers murmured publickly for Want of Pay, and it was generally believed, they would pillage the Magazines, as the Garrisons of Grenoble, and other Towns of France, had already done. A Vessel which lately came into Leghorn, brought Advice, That the British Squadron was arrived at Port Makon, where they were taking in more Troops, in order to attempt the Relief of Alicant, which still made a very vigorous Defence. 'Tis said, Admiral Byng will be at the Head of that Expedition. The King of Denmark was gone from Leghorn towards Lucca.

They write from Vienna, That in case the Allies should enter into a Treaty of Peace with France, Count Zinzendorf will be appointed First Plenipotentiary, the Count de Gues the Second.

tl

1

a

P

C

r

4 ft

n

T

N

tl

V

cond, and Monsieur Van Konsbruch a Third. Major-General Palmes, Envoy Extraordinary from her Britannick Majesty, has been very urgent with that Court to make their utmost Efforts against France the ensuing Campaign, in order to oblige it to such a Peace, as may establish the Tranquility of Europe for the suture.

We are also informed, That the Pope uses all imaginable Shifts to elude the Treaty concluded with the Emperor, and that he demanded the immediate Restitution of Commacchio; insisting also, That his Imperial Majesty should ask Pardon, and desire Absolution for what has formerly passed, before he would solemnly acknowledge King Charles: But this was utterly refused.

They hear at Vienna, by Letters from Conftantinople, dated the 22d of February last, That on the 12th of that Month the Grand Signior took Occasion, at the Celebration of the Festivals of the Musselmen, to set all the Christian Slaves which were in the Galleys at Liberty.

Advices from Swifferland import, That the Preachers of the County of Tockenburg continue to create new Jealouses of the Protestants, and some Disturbances lately happened there on that Account. The Protestants and Papists in the Town of Hamman go to Divine Service one after another in the same Church, as is usual in many other Parts of Swifferland; but on Sunday the 10th Instant, the Popsis Curate having ended his Service, attempted to hinder the Protestants from entring into the Church according to Custom; but the Protestants briskly attacked him and his Party, and broke into it by Force.

d. ry

r-

in

y

u-es

n-

do;

as cy

2-

at

r

1-

n

i-

3

2

t

1

Last Night between Seven and Eighth, his Grace the Duke of Marlborough arrived at Court.

From my own Apartment, April 22.

The present great Captains of the Age, the Duke of Marlborough and Prince Eugene, having been the Subject of the Discourse of the last Company I was in, it has naturally led me into a Confideration of Alexander and Cafar, the Two greatest Names which ever appeared before this Century. In order to enter into their Characters, there needs no more but examining their Behaviour in Parallel Circumstances. It must be allowed, That they had an equal Greatness of Soul; but Casar's was more corrected and allayed by a Mixture of This is feen Prudence and Circumspection. conspicuously in one Particular in their Histories, wherein they feem to have shown exactly the Difference of their Tempers. When Alexander, after a long Course of Victories, would still have led his Soldiers farther from Home, they unanimously refused to follow him. We meet with the like Behaviour in Cafar's Army in the midst of his March against Ariovistus. Let us therefore observe the Conduct of our Two Generals in fo nice an Affair: And here we find Alexander at the Head of his Army, upbraiding them with their Cowardice, and Meanness of Spirit; and in the End, telling them plainly, He would go forward himself, though not a Man followed him. This showed indeed an excessive Bravery; but how would the Commander have come off, if the Speech had not succeeded, and the Soldiers had taken him at his Word? The Project seems of a Piece with Mr. Bays's in the Rebearfal, who, to gain a Clap in his Prologue, comes out, with a terriple Fellow in a Fur-Cap following him, and tells his Audience, If they would not like his Play, he would lie down and have his Head struck off. If this gained a Clap, all was well; but if not, there was nothing left but for the Executioner to do his Office. But Cafar would not leave the Success of his Speech to such uncertain Events: He shews his Men the Unreasonableness of their Fears in an obliging Manner, and concludes, That if none else would march along with them, he would go himfelf with the Tenth Legion, for he was affured of their Fidelity and Valour, though all the rest forsook him; not but that in all Probability they were as much against the March as the rest. The Refult of all was very Natural: The Tenth Legion fired with the Praises of their General, fend Thanks to him for the just Opinion he entertains of 'em; and the rest, ashamed to be outdone, affure him, That they are as ready to follow where he pleases to lead them, as any other Part of the Army.

t

The TATLER. [Nº 7.

From Saturd. Apr. 23. to Tuesd. Apr. 26. 1709.

It is so just an Observation, That Mocking is Catching, that I am become an unhappy Instance of it, and am (in the same Manner that I have represented Mr. Partridge) my self a dying Man, in Comparison of the Vigour with which I first set out in the World. Had it been otherwise, you may be sure I would not have pretended to have given for News, as I did last Saturday, a Diary of the Siege of Troy. But Man is a Creature very inconsistent with himself: The Greatest Heroes

his

ad

ll;

he ıld

ın-

a-

nld

elf

ed

he ty

ne

1:

of

It

a-

y

-

9.

is

3-

I

g

,

0

4

7

Heroes are sometimes Fearful; the Spritelies Wits at some Hours Dull; and the Greatest Politicians on some Occasions Whimsical. But I shall not pretend to palliate, or excuse the Matter; for I find, by a Calculation of my own Nationy, that I cannot hold out with any tolerable Wit longer than Two Minutes after Twelve a Clock at Night, between the 18th and 19th of the next Month. For which Space of Time, you may still expect to hear from me, but no longer, except you will transmit to me the Occurrences you meet with relating to your Amours, or any other Subject within the Rules by which I have proposed to walk. If any Gentleman or Lady sends to Isaac Bickerstaff Efg; at Mr. Morphew's near Stationers-Hall, by the Penny-Post, the Grief or Joy of their Soul, what they think fit of the Matter shall be related in Colours as much to their Advantage, as those in which Gervase has drawn the Agreeable Chloe. But since, without such Assistance, I frankly confess, and am sensible, that I have not a Month's Wit more, I think I ought, while I um in my found Health and Senses, to make my Will and Testament; which I do in Manner and Form following:

Imprimis, I give to the Stock-jobbers about the Exchange of London, as a Security for the Trufts daily reposed in them, all my Real Estate; which I do hereby west in the Said Body of worthy Citizens for ever.

Item, For as much as it is very hard to keep Land in Repair without ready Cash, I do, out of my Personal Estate, bestow the Bear-skin, which I have frequently lent to several Societies about this Town, to supply their Necessities. I say, I give also the said Bear-skin, as an immediate Fund to the said Citizens for ever.

Item, I do hereby appoint a certain Number of k

u

F

A

ar

for

Po

fir

Ca

Co

I a wi Wi

thi

rel

at tha

The

der

110 1

the faid Citizens to take all the Custom-house or Customary Oaths, concerning all Goods Imported by the whole City, strictly directing, That some select Members, and not the whole Number of a Body Corporate, should be perjured.

Item, I forbid all N---s and Persons of Q--ty, to watch Bargains near and about the Exchange, to the Diminution and Wrong of the said Stockiobbers.

Thus far, in as brief and intelligible a Mamer as any Will can appear, till it is explained by the Learned, I have disposed of my Real and Personal Estate: But, as I am an Adept, I have by Birth an equal Right to give also an indefeasible Title to my Endowments and Qualifications; which I do in the following Manner:

Item, I give my Chaftity to all Virgins who have withstood their Market.

Item, I give my Courage among all who are ashamed of their distressed Friends, all Sneakers in Assemblies, and Men who show Valour in Common Conversation.

Item, I give my Wit, (as Rich Men give to the Rich) among such as think they have enough already. And in case they shall not accept of the Legacy, I give it to Bentivolio, to defend his Works from Time to Time, as he shall think fit to publish em.

Item, I bestow my Learning upon the Honourary

Members of the Royal Society.

Now for the Disposal of this Body.

As these Eyes must one Day cease to gaze on Teraminta, and this Heart shall one Day pant no more for her Indignation: That is to say, since this Body must be Earth, I shall commit it to the Dust in a Manner suitable to my Character. Therefore, as there are those who dispute, Whether there is any such Real Person as Isaac Bickerstaff je

,

-

20 y

d

re

1-

;

20

34

178

n-

he

th

he

25

to ry

078

20 168

he

er.

ber.

H

97

or not? I shall excuse all Persons who appear what they really are, from coming to my Funeral. But all those who are, in their Way of Life, Persons, as the Latins have it, Persons assumed, and who appear what they really are not, are hereby invited to that Solemnity.

The Body shall be carried by Six Watchmen, who are never leen in the Day.

Item, The Pall shall be held up by the Six most known Pretenders to Honesty, Wealth and Power, who are not possessed of any of them. The Two First, an Half-Lawyer, a Compleat Justice. The Iwo next, a Chymist, a Projector. The Third Couple, a Treasury Solicitor, and a small Courtier.

To make my Funeral (what that Solemnity, when dene to common Men, really is in it felf) a very Farce; and fince all Mourners are megr Actors on these Occasions, I shall defire those who are professedly such, to attend me. I humbly therefore beleech Mrs. Barry to act once more, and be my Widow. When she swoons away at the Church-Porch, I appoint the Merry Sir John Falstaff, and the Gay Sir Harry Wildair, to Support ber. I defire Mr. Penkethman to follow in the Habit of a Cardinal, and Mr. Bullock in that of a Privy-Councellor. To make up the rest of the Appearance, I defire all the Ladies from the Balconies to weep with Mrs. Barry, as they hope to be Wives and Widows themselves. I invite all, who have nothing elfe to do, to accept of Gloves and Scarves.

Thus, with the Great Charles V. of Spain, I resign the Glories of this Transitory World: Yet, at the same Time, to show you my Indifference, and that my Desires are not too much fixed upon any Thing, I own to you, I am as willing to stay as go: Therefore leave it in the Choice of my Gentle Readers, whether I shall hear from them, or they hear no more from me.

White's Chocolate-house, April 25. F After-Day being a Time when you can't well meet with any but humble Adventures; and there being such a Thing as low Gallantry, as well as a low Comedy, Colonel Ramble and my felf went early this Morning into the Fields, which were strewed with Shepherds and Shepherdesses, but indeed of a different Turn from the Simplicity of those of Arradia. Every Hedge was conscious of more, than what the Representations of enamoured Swains admit of. While we were furveying the Crowd around us, we faw at a Distance a Company coming towards Pancras-Church; but though there was not much Disorder, we thought we faw the Figure of a Man stuck through with a Sword, and at every Step ready to fall, if a Woman by his Side had not supported him; the rest followed Two and Two. When we came nearer this Appearance, who should it be but Monsieur Guardeloop, mine and Ramble's French Taylor, attended by others, leading one of Madam Depingle's Maids to the Church, in order to their Espousals. It was his Sword tucked so high above his Waste, and the Circumflex which Persons of his Profession take in their Walking, that made him appear at a Distance wounded and falling. But the Morning being rainy, methought the March to this Wedding was but too lively a Pisture of Wedlock it felf. They feemed both to have a Month's Mind to make the best of their Way fingle; yet both tugged Arm in Arm; and when they were it a dirty Way, he was but deeper in the Mire, by endeavouring to pull out his Companion, and yet without helping her. The Bridegroom's Feathers in his Hat all drooped, one of his Shoes had loft an Heel.

m

t el

ng

p-eran ns

vd

ny

gh

Ne

1 2

n;

we

be le's

ne

in ord

ir-

ke

t a

ing

his

ed-

Vav

and

but pull ing

all

eel. In

In short, he was in his whole Person and Dress to extremely foufed, that there did not appear one Inch or fingle Thread about him unmarried. Pardon me, that the melancholy Object still dwells upon me to far, as to reduce me to Punning. However, we attended to the Chapel, where we stayed to hear the irrevocable Words pronounced upon our old Servant, and made the best of our Way to Town. I took a Resolution to forbear all married Persons, or any, in Danger of being fuch, for Four and twenty Hours at least; therefore dressed, and went to visit Florimell, the vainest Thing in Town, where I knew would drop in Colonel Picket, just come from the Camp, her professed Admirer. He is of that Order of Men who has much Honour and Merit, but withal a Coxcomb; the other of that Set of Females, who has Innocence and Wit, but the First of Coquets. It is easy to believe, These must be Admirers of each other. She fays, The Colonel rides the best of any Man in England: The Colonel fays, She talks the best of any Woman. At the same Time, he understands Wir just as she does Horsemanship. You are to know, these extraordinary Persons see each other daily; and they themselves, as well as the Town, think it will be a Match: But it can never happen that they can come to the Point; for instead of addressing to each other, they spend their whole Time in Reports of themselves: He is fatisfied if he can convince her he is a fine Gentleman, and a Man of Consequence; and the, in appearing to him an accomplished Lady and a Wit, without further Defign. Thus he tells her of his Manner of posting his Men at luch a Pass, with the Numbers he commanded on that Detachment; She tells him, how she was dressed on such a Day at Court, and what Offers were made her the Week following. She seems to hear the Repetition of his Men's Names with Admiration; and waits only to answer him with as false a Muster of Lovers. They talk to each other not to be informed, but approved. Thus they are so like, that they are to be ever distant, and the Parallel Lines may run together for ever, but never meet.

Will's Coffee-house, April 25.

This Evening, the Comedy, called Epfom-Wells, was acted for the Benefit of Mr. Bullock, who, though he is a Person of much Wit and Ingenuity, has a peculiar Talent of looking like a Fool, and therefore excellently well qualified for the Part of Biskett in this Play. cannot indeed sufficiently admire his Way of bearing a Beating, as he does in this Drama, and that with fuch a Natural Air and Propriety of Folly, that one cannot help wishing the Whip in one's own Hand; fo richly does he feem to deserve his Chastisement. Skilful Actors think it a very peculiar Happiness to play in a Scene with fuch as Top their Parts. Therefore I cannot but fay, when the Judgment of any good Author directs him to write a Beating for Mr. Bullock from Mr. William Penkethman, or for Mr. William Penkethman from Mr. Bullock, those excellent Players seem to be in their most shining Circumstances, and please me more, but with a different Sort of Delight, than that which I receive from those Grave Scenes of Brutus and Cassius, or Anthony and Ventidius. The whole Comedy is very just, and the Low Part of Humane Life represented -with much Humour and Wit.

St. James's Coffee-house, April 25.

We are advised from Vienna, by Letters of the 20th Instant, That the Emperor hath lately added 20 new Members to his Council of State, but they have not yet taken their Places at the Board. General Thaun is returned from Baden, his Health being fo well re-established by the Baths of that Place, that he deligns to let out next Week for Turin, to his Command of the Imperial Troops in the Service of the Duke of Savoy. His Imperial Majesty has advanced his Brother Count Henry Thaun to be a Brigadier, and a Councellor of the Aulick Council of War. These Letters import, That King Stanislaus and the Swedish General Crassau are directing their March to the Nieper, to join the King of Sweden's Army in Ukrania: That the States of Austria have furnished Marshal Heister with a considerable Sum of Money, to enable him to push on the War vigorously in Hungary, where all Things as yet are in perfect Tranquility: And that General Thungen has been very importunate for a speedy Reinforcement of the Forces on the Upper Rhine, representing at the fame Time, what Miseries the Inhabitants must necessarily undergo, if the Designs of France on those Parts be not speedily and effectually prevented.

Letters from Rome, dated the 13th Instant, fay, That on the preceding Sunday his Holiness was carried in an open Chair from St. Peter's to St. Mary's, attended by the Sacred College, in Cavalcade; and, after Mass, distributed several Downies for the Marriage of poor and distressed Virgins. The Proceedings of that Court are very dilatory concerning the Recognition of King Charles, notwithstanding the pressing Instances of the Marquis de Prie, who has declared, That if this Affair be not wholly concluded

D 3

by

Sa

12k,

nd

g a-I

of 12,

he-

he

ful

to ts.

ent

en-

my

be

afe

ht,

ave

ind

ift.

ted

by the 15th Instant, he will retire from that Court, and order the Imperial Troops to return into the Ecclefiastical State. On the other Hand, the Duke of Anjou's Minister has, in the Name of his Master, demanded of his Holiness to explain himself on that Affair; which, 'tis said, will be finally determined in a Confistory to be held on Monday next; the Duke d'Uzeda defigning to delay his Departure till he fees the These Letters also say, That the Court was mightily alarm'd at the News which they received by an Express from Ferrara, that General Boneval, who commands in Commachio, had fent Circular Letters to the Inhabitants of St. Alberto, Longastrino, Fillo, and other adjacent Parts, enjoining them to come and fwear Fealty to the Emperor, and receive new Investitures of their Fiefs from his Hands. Letters from other Parts of Italy fay, That the King of Denmark continues at Lucca; that 4 English and Dutch Men of War were seen off of Oneglia, bound for Final, in order to transport the Troops defigned for Barcelona; and that her Majesty's Ship the Colchester arrived at Leghorn the 4th In-Stant from Port Mahon, with Advice, That Major General Stanhope designed to part from thence the 1st Instant with 6 or 7000 Men to attempt the Relief of the Castle of Alicant.

Our last Advices from Berlin, bearing Date the 27th Instant, import, That the King was gone to Linum, and the Queen to Mecklenburg; but that their Majesties deligned to return the next Week to Oranienburg, where a great Chase of Wild-Beasts was prepared for their Diversion, and from thence they intend to proceed together to Potsdam; That the Prince Royal was set out for Brabant, but intended to make some short Stay at Hanover. These Letters also inform us, That they are advised from Overy,

that

n

l, eーletyーかず

resta

S

that the King of Sweden, being on his March towards Holki, met General Renne with a Detachment of Muscovites, who placing some Regiments in Ambuscade, attacked the Swedes in their Rear, and putting them to Flight, killed 2000 Men, the King himself having his Horse shot under him.

We hear from Copenhagen, That the Ice being broke, the Sound is again open for the Ships; and that they hoped his Majesty would return fooner than they at first expected.

Letters from the Hague, dated May the 4th; N. S. fay, That an Express arrived there on the 1st from Prince Eugene to his Grace the Duke of Marlborough. The States are advised, That the Auxiliaries of Saxony were arrived on the Frontiers of the United Provinces; as also, That the Two Regiments of Wolfembuttel, and 4000 Troops from Wirtemberg, which are to serve in Flanders, are in full March thither. Letters from Flanders fay, That the great Convoy of Ammunition and Provisions which set out from Ghent for Lifle, was fafely arrived at Courtray. We hear from Paris, That the King has ordered the Militia on the Coasts of Normandy and Bretagne to be in a Readiness to march; and that the Court was in Apprehension of a Descent, to animate the People to rife in the midst of their present Hardships.

They write from Spain, That the Pope's Nuncio left Madrid the 10th of April, in order to go to Bayonne; that the Marquis de Bay was at Badajes to observe the Motions of the Portugueze; and that the Count d'Estain, with a Body of 5000 Men, was on his March to attack Gironne. The Duke of Anjou has deposed the Bishop of Lerida, as being a Favourer of the Interest of King Charles; and has summoned a Convocation at Madrid, composed of the Archbishops, Bishops and States of that Kingdom, wherein he hopes they will come to a Resolution to send for no more Bulls to Rome.

D.4

The TATLER. [N° 8.

From Tuesd. Apr. 26. to Thursd. Apr. 28. 1709.

Will's Coffee-house, April 26. HE Play of The London Euckold's was acted this Evening before a fuitable Audience, who were extremely well diverted with that Heap of Vice and Absurdity. The Indignation which Eugenio, who is a Gentleman of a just Tast, has, upon Occasion of seeing human Nature fall so low in their Delights, made him, I thought, expatiate upon the Mention of this Play very agreeably. Of all Men living, faid he, I pity Players, (who must be Men of good Un-derstanding to be capable of being such) that they are obliged to repeat and assume proper Gestures for representing Things, of which their Reason must be ashamed, and which they must disdain their Audience for approving. The Amendment of these low Gratifications is only to be made by People of Condition, by encouraging the Presentation of the noble Characters drawn by Shakespear and others, from whence it is impossible to return without strong Impresfions of Honour and Humanity. On these Occasions, Distress is laid before us with all its Causes and Consequences, and our Resentment placed according to the Merit of the Persons afflicted. Were Drama's of this Nature more acceptable to the Tast of the Town, Men who have Genius would bend their Studies to excel in 'em. How forcible an Effect this would have en our Minds, one needs no more than to observe

d

e, ac

n

it

a-

115

e, n-

at eir

ist

A-

to ra-

ers

ice el-)c-

its ent af-

ho

cel

ave

ow

how strongly we are touched by meer Pictures. Who can see Le Brun's Picture of the Battle of Porus, without entring into the Character of that fierce gallant Man, and being accordingly spurred to an Emulation of his Constancy and Courage? When he is falling with his Wound, the Features are at the same Time very terrible and languishing; and there is such a stern Faintness diffused through all his Look, as is apt to move a kind of Horrour, as well as Pity, in the Beholder. This, I fay, is an Effect wrought by meer Lights and Shades; consider also a Reprefentation made by Words only, as in an Account given by a good Writer: Catiline in Sallust makes just fuch a Figure, as Porus by Le Brun. It is faid of him, Catilina vero longe a fuis inter Hostium Cadavera repertus est; paululum etiam Spirans, ferocitatemque Animi quam vivus habueras in Vultu retinens. 'Catiline was found killed? far from his own Men among the dead Bodies of the Enemy: He seemed still to breath, and still retained in his Face the same Fierce-' ness he had when he was living. You have in that one Sentence, a lively Impression of his whole Life and Actions. What I would infinuate from all this, is, That if the Painter and the Hiltorian can do thus much in Colours and Language, what may not be performed by an excellent Poet? when the Character he draws is presented by the Person, the Manner, the Look, and the Motion, of an accomplished Player: If a Thing painted or related can irreliftibly enter our Hearts, what may not be brought to pass by seeing generous Things performed before our Eyes? Eugenio ended his Discourse, by recommending the apt Use of a Theatre, as the most agreeable and easie Method of making a polite and moral Gentry, which would end in rendring the rest of the People regular in their Behan.

Behaviour, and ambitious of laudable Undertakings.

St. James's Coffee-house, April 27.

Letters from Naples of the 9th Instant, N. S. advise. That Cardinal Grimani had ordered the Regiment commanded by General Pate to march towards Final, in order to embark for Catalonia, whither also a Thousand Horse are to be transported from Sardinia, belides the Troops which come from the Milanese. An English Man of War has taken Two Prizes, one a Veffel of Malta, the other of Genoa, both laden with Goods of the Enemy. They write from Florence of the 13th, That his Majesty of Denmark had received a Courier from the Hague, with an Account of fome Matters relating to the Treaty of a Peace; upon which he declared, that he thought it necessary to halten to his own Dominions.

Letters from Swifferland inform us, That the Effects of the great Scarcity of Corn in France were felt at Geneva; the Magistrates of which City had appointed Deputies to treat with the Cantons of Bern and Zwich, for Leave to buy up fuch Quantities of Grain within their Territories as should be thought necessary. The Protestants of Tockenburg are still in Arms about the Convent of St. John, and have declared, That they will not lay them down, till they shall have sufficient Security from the Roman Catholicks, of living unmoleited in the Exercise of their Religion. In the mean Time the Deputies of Bern and Tockenburg have frequent Confetences at Zurich, with the Regency of that Canton, to find out Methods for the quieting these Diforders.

Letters from the Hague of the 3d of May adwife, That the President Rouide, after his last Conference with the Deputies of the States, had retired to Bodegrave, five Miles distant from

Wor-

e

:8

h

y

)-

it

d,

0-

of es

en-

fe

daft

es,

or-

Worden, and expected the Return of a Courier from France on the 4th, with new Instructions. It is faid, if his Answer from the French Court shall not prove Satisfactory, he will be defired to withdraw out of these Parts. In the mean Time it is also reported, That his Equipage, as an Ambassador on this great Occasion, is actually on the March towards him. They write from Flanders, That the great Convoy of Provisions, which set out from Ghent, is safely arrived at Lifle. Those Advices add, That the Enemy had affembled near Tournay a confiderable Body of Troops drawn out of the Neighbouring Garrisons. Their High Mightinesses having fent Orders to their Ministers at Hamburgh and Dantzick, to engage the Magistrates of those Cities to forbid the Sale of Corn to the French, and to fignify to them, That the Dutch Merchants will buy up as much of that Commodity as they can spare. The Hamburghers have accordingly contracted with the Dutch, and refused any Commerce with the French on s that Occasion.

From my own Apartment.

After the Lassifude of a Day spent in the strolling Manner, which is usual with Men of Pleasure in this Town, and with a Head sull of a Million of Impertinencies, which had danced round it for Ten Hours together, I came to my Lodging, and hastened to Bed. My Valet de Chambre knows my University-Trick of reading there; and he being a good Scholar for a Gentleman, ran over the Names of Horace, Tibullus, Ovid, and others, to know which I would have. Bring Virgil, said I, and if I sall asseep; take Care of the Candle. I read the Sixth Book over with the most exquisite Delight, and had gone half through it a second Time, when the pleasing Ideas of Elystan Fields.

deceased Worthies walking in 'em, fincere Lovers enjoying their Languishment without Pain, Compassion for the unhappy Spirits who had mispent their short Day-light, and were exiled from the Seats of Blifs for ever; I fay, I was deep again in my Reading, when this Mixture of Images had taken Place of all others in my Imagination before, and lulled me into a Dream, from which I am just awake, to my great Difadvantage. The happy Mansions of Elysum by Degrees seemed to be wasted from me, and the very Traces of my late waking Thoughts began to fade away, when I was cast by a sudden Whirlwind upon an Island, encompassed with a roaring and troubled Sea, which shak'd its very Centre, and rocked its Inhabitants as in a Cradle. The Islanders lay on their Faces, without offering to look up, or hope for Preservation; all her Harbours were crowded with Mariners, and tall Vessels of War lay in Danger of being driven to Pieces on her Shores. Bless me! faid I, why have I lived in such a Manner that the Convulsion of Nature should be so terrible to me, when I feel in my felf, that the better Part of me is to survive it? Oh! may that be in Happiness. A sudden Shriek. in which the whole People on their Faces joined, interrupted my Soliloquy, and turned my Eyes and Attention to the Object which had given us that fudden Start, in the midft of an mconfolable and speechless Affliction. Immediately the Winds grew calm, the Waves subsided, and the People stood up, turning their Faces upon a magnificent Pile in the midst of the Island. There we beheld an Hero of a comely and erect Aspect, but pale and languid, sitting under a Canopy of State. By the Faces and dumb Sorrow of those who attended, we thought him in the Article of Death. At a Distance fare a Lady, whose Life seemed to hang hang upon the same Thread with his: She kept her Eyes fixed upon him, and seemed to smother Ten thousand thousand nameless. Things, which urged her Tenderness to clasp him in her Arms: But her Greatness of Spirit overcame those Sentiments, and gave her Power to forbear disturbing his last Moment; which immediately approached. The Hero looked up with an Heir of Negligence, and Satiety of Being, rather than of Pain to leave it; and leaning back his Head, expired.

When the Heroine, who fate at a Distance, faw his last Instant come, she threw her self at his Feet, and kneeling, pressed his Hand to her Lips; in which Posture she continued under the Agony of an unutterable Sorrow, till conducted from our Sight by her Attendants. That commanding Awe, which accompanies the Grief of great Minds, restrained the Multitude while in her Presence; but as soon as she retired. they gave Way to their Distraction, and all the Islanders called upon their deceased Hero. him, methought, they cryed out, as to a Guardian Being, and I gathered from their broken Accents. That it was he who had the Empire over the Ocean and its Powers, by which he had long protected the Island from Shipwreck and Invafion. They now give a Loofe to their Moan, and think themselves exposed without Hopes of Human or Divine Affistance. While the People ran wild, and expressed all the different Forms of Lamentation, methought a Sable Cloud over-shadowed the whole Land, and covered its Inhabitants with Darkness: No Glimpse of Light appeared, except one Ray from Heaven upon the Place in which the Heroine now fecluded her felf from the World, with her Eyes fixed on those Abodes to which her Confort was ascended. Methought, a long Period of Time had passed away in Mourning and in Darkness, when a Twilight began by Degrees to enlighten the Hemisphere; and looking round me, I saw a Boat rowed towards the Shore, in which sate a Personage adorned with Warlike Trophies, bearing on his Left Arm a Shield, on which was engraven the Image of Victory, and in his Right Hand a Branch of Olive. His Visage was at once so winning and so awful, that the Shield and the Olive seemed equally fuitable to his Genius.

When this illustrious *Person touched on the Shore, he was received by the Acclamations of the People, and followed to the Palace of the Heroine. No Pleasure in the Glory of her Arms, or the Acclamations of her applauding Subjects, were ever capable to suspend her Sorrow-for one Moment, 'till she saw the Olive Branch in the Hand of that auspicious Messenger. At that Sight, as Heaven bestows its Blessings on the Wants and Importunities of Mortals, out of its Native Bounty, and not to encrease its own Power, or Honour, in Compassion to the World, the Celestial Mourner was then first seen to turn her Regard to Things below; and taking the Branch out of the Warrior's Hand, looked at it with much Satisfaction, and spoke of the Blef-sings of Peace, with a Voice and Accent, such as that in which Guardian-Spirits whisper to dying Penitents Assurances of Happiness. The Air was hushed, the Multitude attentive, and all Nature in a Pause, while she was speaking. But as foon as the Messenger of Peace had made some low Reply; in which, methought, I heard the Word Iberia, the Heroine affuming a more severe Air, but such as spoke Resolution. without Rage, returned him the Olive, and as

About this Time the D. of M. returned from Holland

y chafild

gain veiled her Face. Loud Cries and clashing of Arms immediately followed, which forced me from my charming Vision, and drove me back to these Mansions of Care and Sorrow.

The TATLER. [Nº 9.

From Thursd. April 28. to Saturd. April 30. 1709.

Will's Coffee-house, April 28. This Evening we were entertained with The Old Batchelor, a Comedy of deserved Re-putation. In the Character which gives Name to the Play, there is excellently represented the Reluctance of a battered Debauchee to come into the Trammels of Order and Decency: He neither languishes nor burns, but frets for Love. The Gentlemen of more regular Behaviour are drawn with much Spirit and Wit, and the Drama introduced by the Dialogue of the first Scene with uncommon, yet natural Conversation. The Part of Fondlewife is a lively Image of the unseasonable Fondness of Age and Impotence. But instead of such agreeable Works as these, the Town has this half Age been tormented with Infects, called Easie Writers, whose Abilities Mr. Wycherly one Day described excellently well in one Word: That, said he, among these Fellows is called Eafy Writing, which any one may easily write. Such Jantie Scribblers are so justly laughed at for their Sonnets on Phillis and Chloris, and Fantastical Descriptions in 'em, that an ingenious Kinsman of mine, of the Family of the Staffs, Mr. Humphrey Wagstaff by Name, has, to avoid their Strain, run into a Way perfeetly new, and described Things exactly as they happen: He never forms Fields, or Nymphs, or Groves, where they are not, but makes .. makes the Incidents just as they really appear. For an Example of it; I stole out of his Manufcript the following Lines: They are a Description of the Morning, but of the Morning in Town; nay, of the Morning at this End of the Town, where my Kinsman at present lodges.

Now hardly here and there an Hackney-Coach Appearing, show'd the Ruddy Morn's Approach. Now Betty from her Master's Bed had flown, And softly stole to discompose her own. The Slipshod' Prentice from his Master's Door, Had par'd the Street, and sprinkled round the Floor. Now Moll had whirl'd her Mop with dext'rous Prepar'd to scrub the Entry and the Stairs. (Airs, The Youth with broomy Stumps began to trace The Kennel Edge, where Wheels had worn the Place. The Smallcoal-Man was heard with Cadence deep, Till drown'd in shriller Notes of Chimney-sweep. Duns at his Lordship's Gate began to meet; And Brickdust Moll had scream'd through half a The Turnkey now his Flock returning Jees, (Street. Duly let out a' Nights to steal for Fees. The watchful Bailiffs take their silent Stands; And School-boys lag with Satchels in their Hands.

All that I apprehend is, that Dear Numps will be angry I have published these Lines; not that he has any Reason to be ashamed of 'em, but for Fear of those Rogues, the Bane to all excellent Performances, the Imitators. Therefore, before-hand, I bar all Descriptions of the Evening; as, a Medley of Verses signifying, Grey-Peas are now cried warm: That Wenches now begin to amble round the Passages of the Playhouse: Or of Noon; as, That sine Ladies and great Beaux are just yawning out of their Beds and Windows in Pall-Mall, and so forth. I forewarn also all Persons from encouraging any Draughts after my Cousin; and foretell any Man who shall go about to imitate him, that he will be very inhpid. The Family Stock is embarked in this Delign, and we will not admit of Counterfeits: Dr. Anderson and his Heirs enjoyhis Pills, Sir William Read has the Cure of Eyes, and Monlieur Rojelli can only cure the Gout. We pretend to none of these Things; but to examine who and who are together, to tell any mistaken Man he is not what he believes he is, to distinguish Merit, and expose false Pretences. to it, is a Liberty our Family has by Law in 'em. from an Inter-Marriage with a Daughter of Mr. Scoggin, the famous Droll of the last Century. This Right I delign to make use of; but will not encroach upon the above-mentioned Adepts, or any other. At the same Time I shall take all the Privileges I may, as an Englishman, and will lay hold of the late Act of Naturalization to introduce what I shall think fit from France. The Use of that Law may, I hope, be extended to People the polite World with new Characters, as well as the Kingdom it felf with new Subjects. Therefore an Author of that Nation, called Le Bruyere, I shall make bold with on such Occasions. The last Person I read of in that Writer, was, Lord Timon. Timon, lays my Author, is the most generous of all Men; but is so hurried away with that strong Impulse of Bestowing, that he confers Benefits without Distinction, and is Munificent without laying Obligations. For all the Unworthy, who receive from him, have so little Sense of this noble Infirmity, that they look upon themselves rather as Partners in a Spoil, than Partakers of a Bounty. The other Day, coming into Paris, I met Timon going out on Horseback, attended only by one Servant. It struck me with a sudden Damp, to see a Man of to excellent a Disposition, and that understood making a Figure fo very well, so much shortened

66

C

th

of

h

CO

CC

OI

T

2.6

de

T

In

W

tu

in his Retinue. But passing by his House, I saw his great Coach break to Pieces before his Door, and, by a strange Inchantment, immediately turned into many different Vehicles. The first was a very pretty Chariot, into which step'd his Lordship's Secretary. The second was hung a little heavier; into that strutted the fat Steward. In an Instant followed a Chaise, which was enter'd by the Butler. The rest of the Body and Wheels were forthwith changed into Go-carts, and ran away with by the Nurses and Brats of the rest of the Family. What makes these Misfortunes in the Affairs of Timon the more aftonishing, is, That he has a better Understanding than those who cheat him; fo that a Man knows not which more to wonder at, the Indifference of the Mafter, or the Impudence of the Servant.

White's Chocolate-house, April 29.

It is Matter of much Speculation among the Beaus and Oglers, what it is that can have made fo sudden a Change, as has been of late observed, in the whole Behaviour of Pastorella. who neverfate still a Moment till she was Eighteen, which the has now exceeded by Two Months. Her Aunt, who has the Care of her, has not been always fo rigid as fhe is at this present Date; but has so good a Sense of the Frailty of Woman, and Falshood of Man, that she resolved on all Manner of Methods to keep Pastorella, if possible, in Safety, against her felf, and all her Admirers. At the same Time the good Lady knew by long Experience, that a gay Inclination, curbed too rashly, would but run to the greater Excesses for that Restraint: Therefore intended to watch her, and take some Opportunity of ingaging her insensibly in her own Interests, without the Anguish of an Admonition. You are to know then, That Mifs, with all her Flirting and Ogling, had also na tu-

naturally a strong Curiosity in her, and was the greatest Eves-Dropper breathing. Parifatis (for To her prudent Aunt is called) observed this Humour, and retires one Day to her Closet, into which she knew Pastorella would peep, and liften to know how the was employed. It happened accordingly, and the young Lady faw her good Governante on her Knees, and after a mental Behaviour, break into these Words: As for the dear Child committed to my Care, let her Sobricty of Carriage, and Severity of Behaviour, be such, as may make that Noble Lord, who is taken with her Beauty, turn his Designs to such as are honourable. Here Parisatisheard her Neece nestle closer to the Key-Hole: She then goes on; Make her the joyful Mother of a numerous and wealthy Offspring, and let her Carriage be such; as may make this Noble Youth expect the Bleffings of an happy Marriage, from the Singularity of her Life, in this loofe and censorious Age. Miss having heard enough, sneaks off for Fear of Discovery, and immediately, at her Glass, alters the Sitting of her Head; then pulls up her Tucker, and forms her felf into the exact Manner of Lindamira: In a Word, becomes a fincere Convert to every Thing that's commendable in a fine young Lady; and Two or Three fuch Matches as her Aunt feigned in her Devotions, are at this Day in her Choice. This is the History and Original Cause of Pastorella's Conversion from Coquettry. The Prudence in the Management of this Young Lady's Temper, and good Judgment of it, is hardly to be exceeded. I scarce remember a greater Instance of Forbearance of the usual peevish Way with which the Aged treat the Young, than this, except that of our famous Noy, whose good Nature went fo far, as to make him put off his Admonitions to his Son, even till after his Death;

2

t

fi

and did not give him his Thoughts of him, till he came to read that memorable Passage in his Will: All the rest of my Estate, says he, I leave to my Son Edward (who is Executor to this my Will) to be squandred as he shall think sit: I leave it him for that Purpose, and hope no better from him. A generous Disdain and Reslection, upon how little he deserved from so excellent a Father, reformed the young Man, and made Edward, from an Errant Rake, become a fine Gentleman.

St. James's Coffee-house, April 29.

Letters from Portugal of the 18th Instant, dated from Estremos, say, That on the 6th the Earl of Galway arrived at that Place, and had the Satiffaction to see the Quarters well furnished with all Manner of Provisions, and a Quantity of Bread sufficient for subsisting the Troops for 60 Days, belides Bisket for 25 Days. The Enemy give out, That they shall bring into the Field 14 Regiments of Horse, and 24 Battalions. The Troops in the Service of Portugal will make up 14000 Foot, and 4000 Horse. On the Day these Letters were dispatched, the Earl of Galway received Advice. That the Marquis de Bay was preparing for some Enterprize, by gathering his Troops together on the Frontiers. Whereupon his Excellency refolved to go that same Night to Villa-Vicosa, to affemble the Troops in that Neighbourhood, in order to disappoint his Deligns.

Yesterday in the Evening Captain Foxon, Aid de Camp to Major-General Cadogan, arrived here Express from the Duke of Marlborough. And this Day a Mail is come in, with Letters dated from Brussels of the 6th of May, N. S. which advise, That the Enemy had drawn together a Body, consisting of 20000 Men, with a Design, as was supposed, to intercept the great Convoy 9.

till

his

ve

7724

: 1

ter

on,

ta

ide

ine

ted

of tif-ith

of 60

my

eld he up

ele

16-vas his on ght

hat De-lid

nd

ted

ich ra

gn,

on

on the March towards Liste, which was fafely arriv'd at Menin and Courtray, in its Way to that Place, the French having retir'd without making any Attempt.

We hear from the Hague, That a Person of the First Quality is arriv'd in the Low Countries from France, in order to be a Plenipotentiary in an ensuing Treaty of Peace.

Letters from France acknowledge, That Monficur Bernard has made no higher Offers of Satisfaction to his Creditors than of 35 l. per Cent.

These Advices add, That the Mareschal Boufflers, Monsieur Torcy, (who distinguish'd himself formerly, by adviling the Court of France to adhere to the Treaty of Partition) and Monsieur d'Harcourt, (who negotiated with Cardinal Portocarrero for the Succession of the Crown of Spain in the House of Bourbon) are all Three join'd in a Commission for a Treaty of Peace. The Mareschal is come to Ghent: The other Two are arriv'd at the Hague.

It is confidently reported here, That the Right Honourable the Lord Townshend is to go with his Grace the Duke of Marlborough into Holland.

The TATLER. [No 10.

By Mrs. Jenny Distaff, Half Sister to Mr. Bickerstaff.

From Saturday April 30. to Tuesday May 3. 1709.

MY Brother Isaac having a sudden Occasion to go out of Town, order'd me to take upon me the Dispatch of the next Advices from Home, with Liberty to speak it my own Way; not doubting the Allowances which would be given to a Writer of my Sex. You may be fure, I undertook it with much Satisfaction: And I confess, I am not a little pleas'd with the Opportunity of running over all the Papers in his Closer, which he has left open for my Use on this Occasion. The first that I lay my Hands on, is, A Treatise concerning The Empire of Beauty, and the Effects it has had in all Nations of the World, upon the publick and private A. ctions of Men; with an Appendix, which he calls, The Batchelor's Scheme for Governing his Wife. The first Thing he makes this Gentleman propose, is, That she shall be no Woman; for The is to have an Aversion to Balls, to Opera's, to Visits: She is to think his Company sufficient to fill up all the Hours of Life with great Satisfaction: She is never to believe any other Man Wife, Learned, or Valiant; or at least but in a fecond Degree. In the next Place, he intends she shall be a Cuckold; but expects, that he himself must live in perfect Security from that Terror. He dwells a great while on Instructions for her discreet Behaviour, in case of his Falshood. I have not Patience with these unreasonable Expectations, therefore turn back to the Treatise it self. Here, indeed, my Brother deduces all the Revolutions among Men from the Passion of Love; and in his Preface, answers that usual Observation against us, That there is no Quarrel without a Woman in it; with a gallant Affertion, That there is nothing elfe worth Quarelling for. My Brother is of a Complexion truly Amorous; all his Thoughts and Actions carry in 'em a Tincture of that obliging Inclination; and this Turn has open'd his Eyes to fee, we are not the inconsiderable Creatures which unlucky Pretenders to our Favour would infinuate. He observes, That no Man begins to

IO.

d be

ure,

nd I

Op.

his

on nds

e of ions

A-

he

his nan

for

a's,

ici-

cat

her

but

inets,

ity

On

asc

efe

ick

ro-

en ce,

rat

th lje

n-

nd

ng

to CS

ld

to

se

make any tolerable Figure, till he fets out with the Hopes of Pleasing some one of us. No sooner he takes that in Hand, but he pleases every one elfe by the by. It has an immediate Effect upon his Behaviour. There is Colonel Ranter, who never spoke without an Oath, till he faw the Lady Betty Modifh; now never gives his Man an Order, but it is, Pray Tom, do it. The Drawers where he drinks live in perfect Happinels. He ask'd Will at the George t'other Day, How he did? Where he us'd to fay, Damn it, It is so. He now believes there is some Mistake: He must confess, he is of another Opinion but however he won't insist.

Every Temper, except downright Insipid, is to be animated and foftned by the Influence of Beauty: But of this untractable Sort is a lifeless handsome Fellow that visits us, whom I have dress'd at this Twelvemonth; but he is as intentible of all the Arts I use, as if he convers'd all that Time with his Nurfe. He outdoes our whole Sex in all the Faults our Enemies impute to us; he has brought Lazineis into an Opinion, and makes his Indolence his Philoso--phy: Infomuch, that no longer than Yesterday in the Evening he gave me this Account of himfelf: I am, Madam, perfectly unmov'd at all that passes among Men, and seldom give my self the Fatigue of going among em; but when I do, I always appear the same Thing to those whom I converse with. My Hours of Existence, or being awake, are from Eleven in the Morning to Elewen at Night; half of which I live to my self, in picking my Teeth, washing my Hands, paring my Nails, and looking in the Glass. The Infignificancy of my Manners to the rest of the World, makes the Laughers call me a Quid Nunc, a Phrase I shall never enquire what they mean by it. The last of me each Night is at St. James's Coffeeboule, house, where I converse, yet never fall into a Dispute on any Occasion, but leave the Under-standing I have, Passive of all that goes through it, without entring into the Business of Life. And thus, Madam, have I arrived by Laziness, to what others pretend to by Devotion, a perfect Neglest of the World. Sure, if our Sex had the Liberty of frequenting Publick Houses and Conversations, we should put these Rivals of our Faults and Follies out of Countenance. However, we shall soon have the Pleasure of being acquainted with 'em one Way or other, for my Brother Isaac defigns, for the Use of our Sex, to give the exact Characters of all the Chief Politicians who frequent any of the Coffeehouses from St. James's to the Change; but defigns to begin with that Cluster of Wife Heads, as they are found fitting every Evening from the Left-side of the Fire, at the Smyrna, to the Door. This will be of great Service for us, and I have Authority to promife an exact Journal of their Deliberations; the Publication of which I am to be allow'd for Pin-Money. In the mean time, I cast my Eye upon a new Book, which gave me a more pleating Entertainment, being a fixth Part of Miscellany Poems, publish'd by Jacob Tonson; which I find, by my Brother's Notes upon it, no Way inferior to the other Volumes. There are, it feems, in this, & Collection of the best Pastorals that have his sherto appear'd in England; but among them, none superior to that Dialogue between Sylvia and Dorinda, written by one of my own Sex; where all our little Weaknesses are laid open in a manner more Just, and with truer Raillery, than ever Man yet hit upon.

But

Only this I now discern, From the Things thou st have me learn;
That Womankind's peculiar Joys From past or present Beauties rise.

into der-

And, to

Neg-

Li-

Con-

our ow-

eing

my

Sex,

hief

tee-

de-

ads, om.

the us,

our-

of

In

ok,

ent,

ub-

ro-

-05

, 2

hi-

m,

ULA

ex;

in

ry,

ut

But to reassume my first Design, there cannot be a greater Instance of the Command of Females, than in the prevailing Charms of the Heroine in the Play, which was afted this Night, call'd, All for Love; or, The World well loft. The enamour'd Antony religns Glory and Power to the Force of the attractive Cleopatra, whose Charms were the Defence of her Diadem, against a People otherwise invincible. It is so natural for Women to talk of themselves, that it is to be hop'd, all my own Sex, at least, will pardon me, that I could fall into no other Discourse. If we have their Favour, we give our selves very little Anxiety for the rest of our Readers. I believe I see a Sentence of Latin in my Brother's Day-Book of Wit, which feems applicable on this Occasion, and in Contempt of the Criticks.

Tradam protectis in Mare Criticum Portare Ventis.

But I am interrupted by a Packet from Mr. Kidney, from St. James's Coffee-House, which I am obliged to insert in the very Style and Words which Mr. Kidney uses in his Letter.

St. James's Coffee-House, May 2.

We are advis'd by Letters from Bern, dated the 1st Instant, N. S. That the Duke of Berwick arriv'd at Lyons the 25th of the last Month, and continu'd his Journey the next Day to visit the Passes of the Mountains, and other Posts in Dauphine and Provence. These Letters also inform'd us, That the Miseries of the People in France are heighten'd to that Degree, that unless a Peace be speedily concluded, half of that Kingdom would perish for want of Bread. On the 24th, the Mareschal de Thesse pass'd through Lyons, in his Way to Versailles; and two Battalions, which were marching from Alsace to reinforce the Army of the Duke of Berwick, pass'd also through that Place. Those Troops were to be follow'd by 6 Battalions more.

Letters from Naples of the 16th of April say, That the Marquis de Prie's Son was arriv'd there, with Instructions from his Father, to signify to the Viceroy the Necessity his Imperial Majesty was under, of desiring an Aid from that Kingdom, for carrying on the extraordinary Expences of the War. On the 14th of the same Month, they made a Review of the Spanish Troops in that Garrison, and afterwards of the Marines; one Part of whom will embark with those design'd for Barcelona, and the rest are to be sent on Board the Gallies appointed to convoy Provisions to that Place.

We hear from Rome, by Letters dated the 20th of April, That the Count de Mellos, Envoy from the King of Portugal, had made his Publick Entry into that City with much State and Magnificence. The Pope has lately held two other Confiftories, wherein he made a Promotion of two Cardinals; but the Acknowledgement of King Charles is still deferr'd.

Letters from other Parts of Italy advise us, That the Doge of Venice continues dangerously Ill: That the Prince de Carignan having relaps'd into a violent Fever, dy'd the 23d of April, in his 80th Year.

Advices from Vienna of the 27th of April import, That the Archbishop of Saltzburg is dead, who is succeeded by Count Harrach, formerly Bishop of Vienna, and for these last Three Years Coadjutor to the said Archbishop; and that Prince Maximilian of Lichtenstein has likewise departed this Life, at his Country Seat call'd Croman in Moravia. These Advices add, That the Emperor has nam'd Count Zinzendorf, Count Gees, and Monsieur Consbruck, for his Plenipotentiaries 10.

afs'd

e to fay,

iv'd

figrial

that ary

me

nilh

the

rith

are

to

the

VOY

ub-

ind

wo

10-dg-

us,

11v s'd

in

mid,

·ly

ITS

at

ife

'd

at nt

0-

es

tentiaries in an ensuing Treaty of Peace; and they hear from Hungary, That the Imperialists have had several successful Skirmishes with the Malecontents.

Letters from Paris, dated May the 6th, fay, That the Mareschal de Thesse arrived there on the 29th of the last Month; and that the Chevalier de Beuil was fent thither by Don Pedro Ronquillo with Advice, That the Confederate Squadron appear'd before Alicant the 17th, and having for some time cannonaded the City, endeavour'd to land some Troops for the Relief of the Caftle; but General Stanhope finding the Passes well guarded, and the Enterprize dangerous, demanded to capitulate for the Caltle; which being granted him, the Garrison, consisting of 600 Regular Troops, march'd out with their Arms and Baggage the Day following; and being receiv'd on Board, they immediately fet Sail for Barcelona. These Letters add, That the March of the French and Swiss Regiments is further deferr'd for a few Days; and that the Duke of Noailles was just ready to set out for Rousfillon, as well as the Count de Bezons for Catalonize.

The same Advices say, Bread was sold at Paris for 6 d. per Pound; and that there was not half enough, ev'n at that Rare, to supply the Necessities of the People, which reduc'd them to the utmost Despair; that 300 Men had taken up Arms, and having plunder'd the Market of the Suburb St. Germain, press'd down by their Multitude the King's Guards who oppos'd them. Two of those Mutineers were afterward seiz'd, and condemn'd to Death; but Four others went to the Magistrate who pronounc'd that Sentence, and told him, He must expect to answer with his own Life, for those of their Comrades. All Order and Sense of Government being thus loft among the enrag'd People, to keep up a Show of Authority; the Captain of the Guards. who faw all their Infolence, pretended, That he had represented to the King their deplorable Condition, and had obtain'd their Pardon. It is further reported, That the Dauphin, and Dutchess of Burgundy, as they went to the Opera, were furrounded by Crowds of People, who upbraided them with their Neglect of the general Calamity, in going to Divertions, when the whole People were ready to perish for want of Bread. Edicts are daily publish'd to suppress these Riots; and Papers, with Menaces against the Government, as publickly thrown about. Among others, these Words were dropt in a Court of Justice, France wants a Ravilliac or a Tesuit to deliver her. Besides this universal Distress, there is a contagious Sickness, which, it is fear'd, will end in a Pestilence. Letters from Bourdeaux bring Accounts no less lamentable: The Peafants are driven by Hunger from their Abodes into that City, and make Lamentations in the Streets without Redress.

We are advis'd by Letters from the Hague, dated the 10th Instant, N.S. That on the 6th, the Marquis de Torcy arrived there from Paris; but the Paffport, by which he came, having been fent blank by Monsieur Rouille, he was there two Days before his Quality was known. That Minister offer'd to communicate to Monf. Heinfus the Proposals which he had to make; but the Penfionary refus'd to fee 'em, and faid, He would fignify it to the States, who deputed fome of their own Body to acquaint him, That they would enter into no Negotiation till the Arrival of his Grace the D. of Marlborough, and the other Ministers of the Alliance. Prince Eugene was expected there the 12th Instant from Brussels. Tis faid, That besides Monsieur de Torcy, and Monlieur ds,

) 3

hat

1'2-

on.

nd

0-ole,

he ien int ess

nst.

a . . . .

)iit

m

e:

eir

ns

10,

h,

;

re

at 7-

it

le

e

 $\mathbf{a}\mathbf{l}$

r

IS

d

17

Monsieur Pajot, Director General of the Posts, there are two or three Persons at the Hague whose Names are not known; but 'tis suppos'd, that the Duke d'Alba, Ambassador from the Duke of Anjou, was one of them. The States have sent Letters to all the Cities of the Provinces, desiring them to send their Deputies to receive the Propositions of Peace made by the Court of France.

The TATLER. [Nº 11.

By Isaac Bickerstaff Esq;

From Tuesday May 3. to Thursday May 5. 1709.

Will's Coffee-House, May 3. Kinfman has sent me a Letter, wherein he informs me, He had lately refolv'd to write an Heroick Poem; but by Buliness has been interrupted, and has only made one Similitude, which he should be afflicted to have wholly lost, and begs of me to apply it to fomething, being very delirous to fee it well plac'd in the World. I am so willing to help the Distress'd, that I have taken it in: But tho' his greater Genius might very well diftinguish his Verses from mine, I have mark'd where his begin. His Lines are a Description of the Sun in Eclipse, which I know nothing more like than a brave Man in Sorrow, who bears it as he should, without imploring the Pity of his Friends, or being dejected with the Contempt of his Enemies. As in the Case of Cato:

When all the Globe to Cafar's Fortune bow'd, Cato alone his Empire difallow'd; E 3 With With Inborn Strength alone oppos'd Mankind, With Heav'n in View, to all below it blind: Regardless of his Friend's Applause, or Moan, Alone Triumphant, since he falls alone.

Thus when the Ruler of the Genial Day, Behind some dark'ning Planet forms his Way,

Desponding Mortals, with officious Care, The Concave Drum, and Magick Brass pre(pare;

Implore him to fustain th'important Fight, And fave depending Worlds from endless (Night.

Fondly they hope their Labour may avail,
To ease his Conflict, and affift his Toil.

Whilst he in Beams of Native Splendor bright, (Tho dark his Orb appear to Human Sight) Shines to the Gods with more diffusive Light.

To distant Stars with equal Glory burns, Inflames their Lamps, and feeds their Gol-(den Urns.

Sure to retain his known superiour Tract, And proves the more illustrious by Defect.

This is a very lively Image; but I must take the Liberty to fay, My Kinfman drives the Sun a little like Phaeton: He has all the Warmth of Phabus, but won't stay for his Direction of Avail and Toil, Defect and Tract, will never do for Rhimes. But however, he has the true Spirit in him; for which Reason I was willing to entertain any Thing he pleas'd to fend me, The Subject which he writes upon, naturally raises great Reflections in the Soul, and puts us in Mind of the mix'd Condition which we Mortals are to support; which, as it varies to Good or Bad, adorns or defaces our Actions to the Beholders: All which Glory and Shame must end in what we so much repine at, Death. But Doctrines on tlus 11.

nd;

m,

re;

lefs

ht.

ol-

re

ın.

h

of

l-

The

this Occasion, any other than that of living well, are the most inlignificant and most empty of all the Labours of Men. None but a Tragedian can die by Rule, and wait till he discovers a Plot, or fays a fine Thing upon his Exit. real Life, this is a Chimæra; and by Noble Spirits, it will be done decently, without the Ostentation of it. We see Men of all Conditions and Characters go through it with equal Resolution: And if we confider the Speeches of the mighty Philosophers, Heroes, Law-givers, and Great Captains, they can produce no more in a difcerning Spirit, than Rules to make a Man a Fop on his Death-bed. Commend me to that natural Greatness of Soul, express'd by an innocent, and confequently resolute, Country Fellow, who faid in the Pains of the Cholick, If I once get this Breath out of my Body, you shall hang me before you put it in again. Honest Ned! and fo he dy'd.

But it is to be suppos'd, from this Place you may expect, an Account of fuch a Thing as a New Play is not to be omitted. That acted this Night is the newest that ever was writ. The Author is my Ingenious Friend Mr. Thomas D--y. This Drama is call'd, The Modern Prophets, and is a most unanswerable Satyr against the late Spirit of Enthusiasim. The Writer had by long Experience observed, That in Company, very grave Discourses have been followed by Bawdry; and therefore has turned the Humour that Way with great Success, and taken from his Audience all Manner of Superstition, by the Agitations of pretty Mrs. Bignel, whom he has, with great Subtilty, made a Lay-Sifter, as well as a Prophetess; by which Means, she carries on the Assairs of both Worlds with great Success. My Friend designs to go on with another Work against Winter, which he intends to call,

The Modern Poets; a People no less mistaken in their Opinions of being inspired, than the other. In order to this, he has by him feven Songs, befides many Ambiguities, which cannot be mistaken for any Thing but what he means 'em. Mr. D---y generally writes State-Plays, and is wonderfully useful to the World in such Reprefentations. This Method is the fame that was used by Old Athenians, to laugh out of Countenance, or promote Opinions among the People. My Friend has therefore, against this Play is acted for his own Benefit, made Two Dances, which may be also of an universal Benefit. In the First, he has represented Absolute Power, in the Perfon of a Tall Man with an Hat and Feather, who gives his First Minister, that stands just before him, an huge Kick: the Minister gives the Kick to the next before; and fo to the end of the Stage. In this Moral and Practical Jest, you are made to understand, That there is, in an Absolute Government, no Gratification, but giving the Kick you receive from one above you. to one below you. This is perform'd to a grave and melancholy Air; but on a fudden the Tune moves quicker, and the whole Company fall into a Circle, and take Hands; then, at a certain fharp Note, they move round, and kick as kick This latter Performance he makes to be the Representation of a Free State; where, if you all mind your Steps, you may go round and round very jollily, with a Motion pleasant to your felves and those you dance with: Nay, if you put your felves out, at the worst you only kick, and are kick'd, like Friends and Equals.

From my own Apartment, May 4.

Of all the Vanities under the Sun, I confess, that of being proud of one's Birth is the greatest. At the same Time, since in this unreasonable Age, by the Force of prevailing Custom,

Things

in ler.

be-

111-

em.

13

re-

Vas

ite-

My

ted

ich

ift,

er-

er, e-30 he

ot ſt,

in

Ut

u, ve

ne ıll

in k e if

d

0

f

Things in which Men have no Hand, are imputed to 'em; and that I am used by some People, as if Isaac Bickerstaff, tho' I write my self Esquire, was no Body: To set the World right in that Particular, I shall give you my Genealogy, as a Kinfman of ours has fent it me from the Heralds-Office. It is certain, and observ'd by the wifest Writers, That there are Women who are not nicely Chaft, and Men not severely Honest, in all Families; therefore let those who may be apt to raise Aspersions upon ours, please to give us as impartial an Account of their own, and we shall be satisfied. The Business of Heralds is a Matter of fo great Nicety, that, to avoid Mistakes, I shall give you my Cousin's Letter verbatim, without altering a Syllable.

Dear Coulin,

CInce you have been pleased to make your self so I famous of late, by your ingenious Writings, and Some Time ago by your learned Predictions: Since Partridge, of Immortal Memory, is dead and gone, who, Poetical as he was, could not understand his own Poetry; and Philomathical as he was, could not read his own Destiny: Since the Pope, the King of France, and great Part of his Court, are either literally or metaphorically defunct: Since, I Jay, these Things (not foretold by any one but your self) have come to pass after so surprising a Maniner; 'tis with no small Concern I see the Original of the Staffian Race so little known in the World as it is at this Time; for which Reason, as you have employed your Studies in Astronomy, and the occult Sciences, So I, my Mother being a Welsh Woman, dedicated mine to Genealogy, particularly that of our own Family, which, for its Antiquity and Number, may challenge any in Great-Britain. The Staffs are originally of Staffordshire, which took its Name from them; The First that I find of the

Staffs was one Jacobstaff, a famous and renown'd Astronomer, who by Dorothy his Wife, had Issue Seven Sons; viz. Bickerstaff, Longstaff, Wagstaff, Quarterstaff, Whitestaff, Falstaff, and Tipstaff. He also had a younger Brother who was twice married, and had Five Sons; viz. Distaff. Pikestaff, Mopstaff, Broomstaff, and Raggedstaff. As for the Branch from whence you spring, I shall say very little of it, only that 'tis the Chief of the Staffs, and called Bickerstaff, quali Biggerstaff; as much as to Say, the Great Staff, or Staff of Staffs; and that it has applied it self to Astronomy with great Success, after the Example of our aforesaid Foresather. The Descendants from Longstaff, the second Son, were a rakish disorderly Sont of People, and rambled from one Place to another, till in Harry II.'s Time they settled in Kent, and were called Long-Tails. from the Long Tails which were Jent 'em as a Punishment for the Murder of Thomas a Becket. as the Legends say; They have been always seek'd after by the Ladies; but whether it be to shew their Aversion to Popery, or their Love to Miracles, I can't say. The Wagstasts are a merry thoughtless Sort of People, who have always been opinionated of their own Wit; they have turned them-Selves mostly to Poetry. This is the most numerous Branch of our Family, and the poorest. The Quarterstaffs are most of em. Prize-fighters or Deerflealer: There have been so many of 'em hang'd lately, that there are very few of that Branch of our Family left. The Whitestaffs are all Courtiers, and have had very considerable Places: There have been some of them of that Strength and Dexterity, that Five hundred of the ablest Men in the Kingdom have often tugg'd in vain to pull a Staff out of their Hands. The Falstaffs are strangely given to Whoring and Drinking: There are abundence of 'em in and about London. And one Thing is very remarkable of this Branch, and that 269 is, There are just as many Women as Men in it. There was a wicked Stick of Wood of this Name in Harry IV.'s Time, one Sir John Falitaff. As for Tipstaff, the youngest Son, he was an honest Fellow; but his Sons, and his Sons Sons, have all of 'em been the veriest Rogues living: 'Tis this unlucky Branch has stock'd the Nation with that Swarm of Lawyers, Attorneys, Serjeants, and Bailiffs, with which the Nation is over-run. Tipstaff, being a Seventh Son, used to Cure the King's Evil; but his rascally Descendants are so far from having that healing Quality, that by a Touch upon the Shoulder, they give a Man Juch an ill Habit of Body, that he can never come abroad afterwards. This is all I know of the Line of Jacobstaff: His younger Brother Isaacstaff, as I told you before, had Five Sons, and was married twice; his First Wife was a Staff, (for they did not stand upon false Heraldry in those Days) by whom he had one Son, who in Process of Time being a Schoolmaster, and well read in the Greek, call'd himself Distast or Twicestaff: He was not very rich, 10 he put his Children out to Trades; and the Distasts have ever since been employed in the Woollen and Linnen Manufactures, except my self, who am a Genealogist. Pikestaff, the eldest Son by the Second Venter, was a Man of Business, a downright plodding Fellow, and withal lo plain, that he became a Proverb. Most of this Family are at pre-Jent in the Army. Raggeditaff was an unlucky. Boy, and used to tear his Clothes a getting Birds Nests, and was always playing with a tame Bear his Father kept. Mopstaff fell in Love with one of his Father's Maids, and used to help her to clean the House. Broomstaff was a Chimney-Sweeper. The Mopstaffs and Broomstaffs are naturally as civil People as ever went out of Doors; but alas! If they once get into ill Hands, they knock down all before 'em. Pilgrimstaff run away from his Friends, on'd

Mue ag-Cip-

was aff. ed-

ng, bief

er-010 [elf

Exen-

ere led me ils,

a

et, k'd

END

les, bt-

10m-

1245 arer-

r'd

of 759

278 x-

he if

73-ne at 60 Friends, and went a strolling about the Country: And Pipestaff was a Wine-Cooper. These Two were the unlawful Islue of Longstaff.

N. B. The Canes, the Clubs, the Cudgels, the Wands, the Devil upon Two Sticks, and one Bread, that goes by the Name of Staff of Life, are none of our Relations. I am, Dear Cousin, From the Heralds Office, May 1.

D. Distaff.

St. James's Coffee-house, May 4.

As Politick News is not the Principal Subject on which we treat, we are so happy as to have no Occasion for that Art of Cookery, which our Brother Newsmongers so much excel in; as appears by their excellent and inimitable Manner of dreifing up a fecond Time for your Tast the fame Dish which they gave you the Day before, in case there come over no new Pickles from Holland. Therefore, when we have nothing to fay to you from Courts and Camps, we hope still to give you somewhat new and curious from our felves: The Women of our House, upon Occasion, being capable of carrying on the Bufiness, according to the laudable Custom of the Wives in Holland; but, without further Preface, take what we have not mentioned in our former Relations.

Letters from Hanover of the 30th of the last Month say, That the Prince Royal of Prussia arrived there on the 15th, and lest that Court on the second of this Month, in Pursuit of his Journey to Flanders, where he makes the ensuing Campaign. Those Advices add, That the young Prince Nassaw, Hereditary Governour of Friesland, consummated on the 26th of the last Month his Marriage with the beauteous Princes of Hesse-Cassel, with a Pomp and Magnificence suitable to their Age and Quality.

Letters

II.

ry:

the 0726 ife,

1, aff. ect

ave

our

ap-

ner

he

re,

to pe

on uhe

e-

A ia

rt

is

1-

e

r

S

Letters from Paris say, His most Christian Majesty retired to Marti on the first Instant, N. S. and our last Advices from Spain inform us, That the Prince of Asturias had made his publick Entry into Madrid in great Splendor. The Duke of Anjou has given Don Joseph Hartado de Amaraga the Government of Terra-Firma de Veragua, and the Presidency of Panama in America. They add, That the Forces commanded by the Marquis de Bay hath been reinforced by Six Battalions of Spanish and Walloon Guards. Letters from Lisbon advise, That the Army of the King of Portugal was at Elvas on the 22d of the last Month, and would decamp on the 24th, in order to march upon the Enemy, who lay at Badajos.

Yesterday, at Four in the Morning, his Grace the Duke of Marlborough set out for Margate, and embarked for Holland at Eight this Morning

Yesterday also Sir George Thorold was declared Alderman of Cordwainers Ward, in the Room of his Brother Sir Charles Thorold deceased.

The TATLER. [N° 12.

From Thursday May 5. to Saturday May 7. 1709.

May 5.

When a Man has engaged to keep a Stage-Coach, he is obliged, whether he has Passengers or not, to set out: Thus it fares with us Weekly Historians; but indeed, for my Particular, I hope I shall soon have little more to do in this Work, than to publish what is sent me from such as have Leisure and Capacity for giving Delight, and being pleased in an elegant Manner. The present Grandeur of the the British Nation might make us expect, that we should rife in our Publick Divertions, and Manner of enjoying Life, in Proportion to our Advancement in Glory and Power. Instead of that, take and furvey this Town, and you'll find, Rakes and Debauchees are your Men of Pleasure; Thoughtless Atheists, and Illiterate Drunkards, call themselves Free Thinkers; and Gamesters, Banterers, Biters, Swearers, and Twenty new-born Infects more, are, in their several Species, the Modern Men of Wit. Hence it is, that a Man who has been out of Town but one half Year, has loft the Language, and must have some Friend to stand by him, and keep him in Countenance for talking common Sense. To Day I saw a short Interlude at White's of this Nature, which I took Notes of, and put together as well as I could in a Publick Place. The Persons of the Drama are, Pip, the last Gentleman that has been made so at Cards; Trimmer, a Person half undone at 'em, and is now between a Cheat and a Gentleman; Acorn, an honest English Man, of good plain Sense and Meaning; and Mr. Friendly, a reasonable Man of the Town.

White's Chocolate-house, May. 5. Enter Pip, Trim. and Acorn.

Ac. What's the Matter, Gentlemen? What!

Take no Notice of an old Friend?

Pip. Pox on it! don't talk to me, I am-Vowel'd by the Count, and curfedly out of Humour.

Ac. Vowel'd! Prithee, Trimmer, What does he mean by that?

Trim. Have a Care, Harry, speak softly; don't show your Ignorance:—If you do, they'll Bite you where-e'er they meet you; they are such cursed Curs,—the present Wits.

Ac. Bite me! What do you mean?

12.

wit.

of age,

um,

om-

e at

otes

1 2

ma

een

ın-

nd

an,

nd

n

f

3.

, that Fip. Why! Don't you know what Biting is? , and Nay, you are in the Right on't. However, one o our would learn it only to defend ones felf against ad of Men of Wit, as one would know the Tricks of you'll Play, to be secure against the Cheats. But en of don't you hear, Acorn, that Report, That some erate Potentates of the Alliance have taken Care of ers; themselves, exclusive of us? rers, Ac. How! Heav'n forbid! After all our Glorious Victories; all this Expence of Blood and Treasure !

Pip. Bite—Ac. Bite! How?

Trim. Nay, he has Bit you fairly enough; that's certain.

Ac. Pox! I don't feel it—How? Where?

Exit Pip, and Trimmer, laughing.

Ac. Ho! Mr. Friendly, your most humble Servant; you heard what passed between those fine Gentlemen and me. Pip complained to me, That he has been Vowel'd; and they tell me, I am Bit.

Friend. You are to understand, Sir, That Simplicity of Behaviour, which is the Perfection of good Breeding and good Senie, is utterly lost in the World; and in the Room of it, there are started a Thousand little Inventions, which Men, barren of better Things, take up in the Place of it. Thus, for every Character in Conversation that used to please, there is an Impoftor put upon you. Him whom we allow'd formerly for a certain pleasant Subtilty, and natural Way of giving you an unexpected Hit, called a Droll, is now mimick'd by a Biter, who is a dull Fellow, that tells you a Lye with a grave Face, and laughs at you for knowing him no better than to believe him. Instead of that Sort of Companion, who could rally you, and keep his Countenance, 'till he made you fall mite.

into fome little Inconsistency of Behaviour, at which you your felf could laugh with him, you have the Sneerer, who will keep you Company from Morning to Night, to gather your Follies of the Day, (which perhaps you commit out of Confidence in him) and expose you in the Evening to all the Scorners in Town. For your Man of Sense and free Spirit, whose Set of Thoughts were built upon Learning, Reason, and Experience, you have now an impudent Creature made up of Vice only, who supports his Ignorance by his Courage, and Want of Learning by Contempt of it.

Ac. Dear Sir, hold: What you have told me already of this Change in Conversation, is too miserable to be heard with any Delight; but, methinks, as these new Creatures appear in the World, it might give an excellent Field to Writers for the Stage, to divert us with the Repre-fentation of them there.

Friend. No, No: As you fay, there might be fome Hopes of Redrefs of these Grievances, if there were proper Care taken of the Theatre; but the History of that is yet more lamentable, than that of the Decay of Conversation I gave you.

Ac. Pray, Sir, a little: I han't been in Town these Six Years, till within this Fortnight.

Friend. It is now some Years, since several Revolutions in the Gay World, had made the Empire of the Stage subject to very satal Convulsions, which were too dangerous to be cured by the Skill of little King Oberon, who then sate in the Throne of it. The Laziness of this Prince threw him upon the Choice of a Person who was fit to spend his Life in Contentions, an able and profound Attorney, to whom he mortgaged his whole Empire. This Divito is the most skilful of all Politicians: He has a persect 12,

, at

Dany

llies

it of ven-

fon, lent

orts

of

me

toa

the

Tri-

re.

be

if

re;

le,

ve

vn

al

he

n-

d

is

n

n

mad

Art in being unintelligible in Discourse, and uncomeatable in Buliness. But he having no Understanding in this polite Way, brought in upon us, to get in his Money, Ladder-dancers, Ropedancers, Jugglers, and Mountebanks, to strutin the Place of Shakespear's Heroes, and Johnson's Humouvists. When the Seat of Wit was thus mortgag'd, without Equity of Redemption, an Architect arose, who has built the Muse a new Palace, but secured her no Retinue; so that instead of Action there, we have been put off by Song and Dance. This latter Help of Sound has also began to fail for want of Voices; therefore the Palace has lince been put into the Hands of a Surgeon, who cuts any Foreign Fellew into an Eunuch, and passes him upon us for a Singer of Italy.

Ac. I'll go out of Town to Morrow.

Trim. Things are come to this Pass; and yet the World will not understand, that the Theatre has much the same Effect on the Manners of the Age, as the Bank on the Credit of the Nation. Wit and Spirit, Humour and good Sense, can never be reviv'd, but under the Government of those who are Judges of such Talents, who know, that whatever is put up in their Stead, is but a short and triffing Expedient, to support the Appearance of 'em for a Season. It is possible, a Peace will give Leisure to put these Matters under new Regulations; but at prefent, all the Assistance we can see towards our Recovery, is as far from giving us Help, as a Poultice is from performing what can be done only by the Grand Elixir.

Will's Coffee-house, May 6.

According to our late Delign in the applauded Verses on the Morning, which you lately had from hence, we proceed to improve that just Intention, and present you with other Labours, made proper to the Place in which they were written. The following Poem comes from Capenhagen, and is as fine a Winter-piece, as we have ever had from any of the Schools of the most learned Painters. Such Images as these give us a new Pleasure in our Sight, and fix up. on our Minds Traces of Reflection, which accompany us whenever the like Objects occur, In short, excellent Poetry and Description dwell upon us so agreeably, that all the Readers of em are made to think, if not write, like Men of Wit. But it would be Injury to detain you longer from this excellent Performance, which is addressed to the Earl of Dorset by Mr. Philips, the Author of several choice Poems in Mr. Tonfon's new Miscellany.

90

Copenhagen, March 9. 1709. From Frozen Climes, and Endless Tracts of Snow, From Streams that Northern Winds forbid to flow; What Present shall the Muse to Dorset bring; Or how, so near the Pole, attempt to sing? The hoary Winter here conceals from Sight. All pleasing Objects that to Verse invite. The Hills and Dales, and the Delightful Woods, The Flowry Plains, and Silver Streaming Floods, By Snow disguis'd, in bright Confusion lye, And with one dazling Waste fatigue the Eye.

No gentle breathing Breeze prepares the Spring, No Birds within the Defart Region fing. The Ships unmov'd the boil rous Winds defy. While rattling Chariots o'er the Ocean fly. The vast Leviathan wants Room to play, And Spout his Waters in the Face of Day. The starving Wolves along the main Sea prowl, And to the Moon in Icy Valleys howl. For many a shining League the level Main, Here spreads it self into a Glassy Plain:

12.

were

om Caas we

of the

thele

fix up-

ich ac-

occur.

dwell ers of

Men

n you

which bilips,

. Ton-

1709.

Snow,

flow ;

ing,

ere

There solid Billows of enormous Size, Alpes of green Ice, in wild Disorder rise.

And yet but lately have I feen e'en here, The Winter in a lovely Dress appear. E'er yet the Clouds let fall the treasur'd Snow, Or Winds begun thro hazy Skies to blow. At Ev'ning a keen Eastern Breeze arose; And the descending Rain unsullied froze. Soon as the silent Shades of Night withdrew, The ruddy Morn disclos'd at once to View The Face of Nature in a rich Disguise, And brighten'd ev'ry Object to my Eyes. For ev'ry Shrub, and ev'ry Blade of Grass, And ev'ry pointed Thorn, seem'd wrought in Glass. In Pearls and Rubies rich the Hawthorns show, While through the Ice the Crim on Berries glow. The thick-sprung Reeds the watry Marshes yield, Seem polish'd Lances in a hostile Field. The Stag in limpid Currents with Surprize, Sees Chrystal Branches on his Forehead rife. The Spreading Oak, the Beech, and tow'ring Pine, Glaz'd over, in the freezing Æther shine. The frighted Birds the rattling Branches shun, That wave and glitter in the distant Sun.

When if a sudden Gust of Wind arise, The brittle Forrest into Atoms slies:
The crackling Wood beneath the Tempest bends,
And in a spangled Show'r the Prospect ends.
Or if a Southern Gale the Region warm, And by Degrees unbind the Wintry Charm;
The Traveller a miry Country sees,
And Journeys sad beneath the dropping Trees.

Like some deluded Peasant, Merlin leads Thro' fragrant Bow'rs, and thro' delicious Meads; While here inchanted Gardens to him rise, And airy Fabricks there attract his Eyes, 92

His wand'ring Feet the Magick Paths pursue; And while he thinks the fair Illusion true, The trackless Scenes disperse in fluid Air, And Woods and Wilds, and thorny Ways appear: A tedious Road the meany Wretch returns, And, as He goes, the transient Vision mourns.

From my own Apartment, May 6. There has a Mail this Day arrived from Holland; but the Matter of the Advices importing rather what gives us great Expectations, than any politive Assurances, I shall, for this Time. decline giving you what I know, and apply the following Verses of Mr. Dryden, in the Second Part of Almanzor, to the prefent Circumstances of Things, without discove ing what my Know. ledge in Aftronomy fuggests to me.

When Empire in its Childhood first appears, A watchful Fate o'erfees its tender Years: Till grown more strong, it thrusts and stretches out, And elbows all the Kingdoms round about. The Place thus made for its first breathing free, It moves again for Ease and Luxury: Till swelling by Degrees it has possest The greater Space, and now crowds up the reft. When from behind there starts some petty State, And pushes on its now unweildy Fate. Then down the Precipice of Time it goes, And finks in Minutes, which in Ages roje.

The TATLER. [Nº 13.

From Saturday May 7. to Tuesday May 10. 1709.

From my own Apartment, May 8. Much Hurry and Bufiness had to Day per-plex'd me into a Mood too thoughtful for going into Company; for which Reason, initead of the Tavern, I went into Lincoln's-Inn-Walks; and having taken a Round or Two. I fate down, according to the allowed Familiarity of these Places, on a Bench; at the other End of which fate a venerable Gentleman, who speaking with a very affable Air, Mr. Bickerstaff, said he, I take it for a very great Piece of good Fortune, that you have found me out. Sir, faid I, I had never, that I know of, the Honour of seeing you before. That, reply'd he, is what I have often lamented; but I assure you, I have for many Years done you good Offices, without being observed by you; or else, when you had any little Glimpse of my being concerned in an Affair, you have fled from me, and sounned me like an Enemy; but however, the Part I am to act in the World is Such, that I am to go on in doing Good, though I meet with never so many Repulses, even from those I oblige. This, thought I, shows a great good Nature, but little Judgment in the Persons upon whom he confers his Favours. He immediately took Notice to me, That he observed by my Countenance I thought him indirect in his Beneficence, and proceeded to tell me his Quality in the following Manner: I know thee, Isaac, to be so well vers'd in the Occult Sciences, that I need not much Preface, or make long Preparations to gain your Faith that there are Airy Beings, who are employed in the Care and Attendance pear:

s. orting than Time, y the econd ances now-

s out,

,

-

10 1

e

2

Λ

I t

V

I

avit

dance of Men, as Nurses are to Infants, till they come to an Age in which they can act of themselves. These Beings are usually called amongst Men, Guardian Angels; and, Mr. Bickerstaff, I am to acquaint you, that I am to be yours for some Time to come; it being our Orders to vary our Stations, and sometimes to have one Patient under our Protection, and sometimes another, with a Power of assuming what Shape we please, to ensnare our Wards into their own Good. I have of late been upon Juch hard Duty, and know you have so much Work for me, that I think fit to appear to you Face to Face, to desire you would give me as little Occasion for Vigilance as you can. Sir, said I, it will be a great Instruction to me in my Behaviour, if you please to give me some Account of your late Employments, and what Hardships or Satisfactions you have had in 'em, that I may govern my felf accordingly. He answered: To give you an Example of the Drudgery we go through, I will entertain you only with my Three last Stations: I was on the First of April last, put to mortify a great Beauty, with whom I was a Week; from her I went to a common Swearer, and have been last with a Gamester. When I first came to my Lady, I found my great Work was to guard well her Eyes and Ears; but her Flatterers were so numerous, and the House, after the modern Way, so full of Looking-glasses, that I feldom had her safe but in her Sleep. ever we went abroad, we were furrounded by an Army of Enemies: When a well-made Man appeared, he was fure to have a Side-glance of Observation: If a disagreeable Fellow, he had a full Face, out of meer Inclination to Conquests. But at the Close of the Evening, on the Sixth of the last Month, my Ward was fitting on a Couch, reading Ovid's Epistles; and as the came to this Line of Helen to Paris, Sice

She half consents who selently denies;

enter'd Philander, who is the most skilful of all Men in an Address to Women. He is arrived at the Perfection of that Art which gains em, which is, To talk like a very miserable Man, but look like a very happy one. I law Dictinna blush at his Entrance, which gave me the Alarm; but he immediately faid fomething fo agreeable on her being at Study, and the Novelty of finding a Lady employed in io grave a Manner, that he on a fudden became very familiarly a Man of no Consequence; and in an Instant laid all her Suspicions of his Skill asleep, as he almost had done mine, till I observed him very dangerously turn his Discourse upon the Elegance of her Drefs, and her Judgment in the Choice of that very pretty Mourning. Having had Women before under my Care, I trembled at the Apprehension of a Man of Sense, who could talk upon Trifles, and resolved to stick to my Post with all the Circumspection imaginable. In short, I prepossessed her against all he could fay to the Advantage of her Dress and Person; but he turned again the Discourse, where I found I had no Power over her on the abusing her Friends and Acquaintance. He allowed indeed, That Flora had a little Beauty, and a great deal of Wit; but then she was so ungainly in her Behaviour, and fuch a laughing Hoyden-Pastorella had with him the Allowance of being Blameless: But what was that towards being Praise-worthy? To be only Innocent, is not to be Virtuous. He afterwards spoke so much 2gainst Mrs. Dipple's Forehead, Mrs. Prim's Mouth, Mrs. Dentifrice's Teeth, and Mrs. Fidget's Cheeks, that she grew downright in Love with him: For it is always to be understood, That a Lady takes all you detract from the rest of her Sex to ill they nfelves, Guarto ac-

13!

Time to ations, ar Prower of tre our nuch u Face le Oc-

I, it viour, ir late

ections by Self n Ex-

will ions:

from have ame

s to atte-nat I d by Man

had lon-

on fit-

Sive

96

be a Gift to her. In a Word, Things went fo far, that I was difmissed, and she will remember that Evening Nine Months, from the Sixth of April, by a very remarkable Token. The next, as I faid, I went to was a Common Swearer: Never was Creature fo puzzled as my felf when I came first to view his Brain; half of it was worn out, and filled up with meer Expletives, that had nothing to do with any other Parts of the Texture; therefore, when he called for his Clothes in a Morning, he would cry, John? -- John does not answer. What a Plague! No Body there? What the Devil, and rot me! John, for a lazy Dog as you are. I knew no Way to cure him, but by writing down all he faid one Morning as he was dreffing, and laying it before him on the Toilet when he came to pick his Teeth. The last Recital I gave him of what he faid for half an Hour before, was, What, a Pox rot me! Where is the Washball? Call the Chairmen: Damn'em, I warrant they are at the Ale-house already! Zounds, and Confound'em. When he came to the Glass, he takes up my Note--- Ha! This Fellow is worse than me: What, Does he swear with Pen and Ink? But reading on, he found 'em to be his own Words. The Stratagem had fo good an Effect upon him, that he grew immediately a new Man, and is learning to speak without an Oath, which makes him extremely fhort in his Phrates; for, as I observed before, a Common Swearer has a Brain without any Idea on the Swearing Side; therefore my Ward has yet mighty little to fay, and is forced to substitute some other Vehicle of Nonfence to supply the Defect of his usual Expletives. When I left him, he made use of, Odsbodikins! Oh me! and, Never stir alive! and fo forth; which gave me Hopes of his Recovery. So I went to the next I told you of,

but ent fo mem-Sixth The Sweay felf of it Expleother e cald cry, oat a knew wn all g, and e came e him , was, bball? t they d Contakes than ! Ink? s own Effect a new Oath, hrases; wearer earing y little other of his made Stir aof his

you of, the Gamester. When we first take our Place about a Man, the Receptacles of the Petricrannium are immediately fearched. In his, I found no one ordinary Trace of Thinking; but strong Passion, violent Desires, and a continued Series of different Changes, had torn it to Pieces. There appeared no middle Condition; the Triumph of a Prince, or the Misery of a Beggar, were his alternate States. I was with him no longer than one Day, which was Yesterday. In the Morning at Twelve, we were worth Four Thousand Pounds; at Three, we were arrived at Six Thousand; half an Hour after, we were reduced to One Thousand; at Four of the Clock, we were down to Two Hundred; at Five, to Fifty; at Six, to Five; at Seven, to One Guinea; the next Bet, to Nothing: This Morning, he borrowed Half a Crown of the Maid who cleans his Shoes; and is now gaming in Lincolns-Inn-Fields among the Boys for Farthings and Oranges, till he has made up Three Pieces, and then he returns to White's into the best Company in Town. This ended our first Difcourse; and it is hoped, you will forgive me, that I have picked so little out of my Companion at our first Interview. In the next, possible he may tell me more pleasing incidents; for though he is a Familiar, he is not an Evil Spirit.

St. James's Coffee-house, May 9.

We hear from the Hague of the 14th Instant, N. S. That Monsieur de Torcy hath had frequent Conferences with the Grand Pensioner, and the other Ministers who were heretofore commissioned to treat with Monsieur Rouillé. The Preliminaries of a Peace are almost settled, and the Proceedings wait only for the Arrival of the Duke of Marlborough; after whose Approbation of the Articles proposed, it is not doubted but the Methods of the Treaty will be publickly known. In the mean Time, the States have declared an Abhorrence of making any Step in this great Affair, but in Concert with the Court of Great Britain, and other Princes of the Alliance. The Posture of Affairs in France does necessarily oblige that Nation to be very much in Earnest in their Offers; and Monsieur de Torcy hath professed to the Grand Pensioner. That he will avoid all Occasions of giving him the least Tealousie of his using any Address in private Conversations for accomplishing the Ends of his Embassy. It is faid, That as food as the Preliminaries are adjusted, that Minister is to return to the French Court. The States of Holland have resolved to make it an Instruction to all their Men of War and Privateers, to bring into their Ports whatever Neutral Ships they shall meet with laden with Corn, and bound for France; and to avoid all Cause of Complaint from the Potentates to whom these Ships shall belong, their full Demand for their Freight shall be paid them there. The French Protestants reliding in that Country have applied zhemselves to their respective Magistrates, desiring that there may be an Article in the Treaty of Peace, which may give Liberty of Conscience to the Protestants in France. Bojnage, Minister of the Walloon Church at Rotterdam, has been at the Hague, and hath had some Conferences with the Deputies of the States on that Subject. It is reported there, That all the French Refugees in those Dominions are to be naturalized, that they may enjoy the same good Effects of the Treaty with the Hollanders themselves, in respect of France.

Letters from Paris fay, The People conceive great Hopes of a fudden Peace, from Monsieur Torcy's being employed in the Negotiation, he being

u

C

0 u

h

being a Minister of too great Weight in that Court, to be sent on any Employment in which his Master would not act in a Manner wherein he might justly promise himself Success. The French Advices add, That there is an Insurrection in Poissou; 3000 Men having taken up Arms, and beaten the Troops which were appointed to disperse them: Three of the Mutineers being taken, were immediately executed; and as many of the King's Party were used after the same Manner.

Our late Act of Naturalization hath had so great an Effect in Foreign Parts, that some Princes have prohibited the French Resugees in their Dominions to sell or transfer their Estates to any other of their Subjects; and at the same Time have granted them greater Immunities than they hitherto enjoyed. It has been also thought necessary to restrain their own Subjects from leaving their Native Country, on Pain of Death.

The TATLER. [Nº 14.

From Tuesday May 10. to Thursday May 12. 1709.

From my own Apartment, May 10.

HAD it not been that my Familiar had appeared to me, as I told you in my last, in Person, I had certainly been unable to have found even Words, without Meaning, to keep up my Intelligence with the Town: But he has checked me severely for my Despondence, and ordered me to go on in my Design of observing upon Things, and forbearing Persons; for, said he, the Age you live in is such, that a good Picture of any Vice or Virtue will infallibly be bring s they nd for applaint s fhall reight Prote applied

to Treaf Cononfieur
at Rot-

th had of the

there,

omini-

y enjoy

th the onceive onlieur

ion, he being ce.

13.

ickly have ep in

Court

the very nlieur

ioner,

him

ess in g the inilter

ates of

mifrepresented; and though none will take the kind Descriptions you make so much to themfelves, as to wish well to the Author, yet all will refent the ill Characters you produce, out of Fear of their own Turn in the Licence you must be obliged to take, if you point at particular Persons. I took his Admonition kindly, and immediately promised him to beg Pardon of the Author of the Advice to the Poets, for my Raillery upon his Work; though I aimed at no more in that Examination, but to convince him, and all Men of Genius, of the Folly of laying then felves out on fuch Plans as are below their Characters. I hope too it was done without Ill-Breeding, and nothing spoken below what a Civilian (as it is allowed I am) may utter to a Phylician. After this Preface, all the World may be fafe from my Writings; for if I can find nothing to commend, I am filent, and will forbear the Subject : For, though I am a Reformer, I fcorn to be an Inquisitor.

It would become all Men, as well as me, to lay before 'em the noble Character of Verus the Magistrate, who always sate in Triumph over, and Contempt of, Vice; He never searched after it, or spared it when it came before him: At the same Time, He could see thro' the Hypocrify and Difguise of those, who have no Pretence to Virtue themselves, but by their Severity to the Vicious. This fame Verus was, in Times long palt, Chief Justice (as we call it amongst us) in Falicia. He was a Man of profound Knowledge of the Laws of his Country, and as just an Observer of 'em in his own Person. He considered luflice as a Cardinal Virtue, not as a Trade for Maintenance. Wherever he was Judge, he never forgot that he was also Council. The Criminal before him was always fure he stood before his Country, and, in a Sort, a Parent of it.

14.

e the

them-

et all

e, out

e you

uticu-

y, and of the

Rail-

more

n, and then

· Cha-ut Ill-

t a Cir to a

World

an find

ill for-

ormer,

me, to rus the n over,

ed after

m: At ypocri-

retence

The Prisoner knew, that tho' his Spirit was broken with Guilt, and incapable of Language to defend it felf, all would be gathered from him which could conduce to his Safety; and that his Judge would wrest no Law to destroy him, nor conceal any that could fave him. In his Time. there were a Nest of Pretenders to Justice, who happen'd to be employed to put Things in a Method for being examined before him at his usual Sessions: These Animals were to Verus, as Monkeys are to Men, fo like, that you can hardly disown them; but so base, that you are ashamed of their Fraternity. It grew a Phrase, Who would do Justice on the Justices? That certainly would Verus. I have feen an old Tryal where he fate. Judge on Two of 'em; one was called Trick-Track, the other Tearshift; one was a learned Judge of Sharpers, the other the quickest of all Men at finding out a Wench. Trick-Track never spared a Pick-pocket, but was a Companion to Cheats: Tearshift would make Compliments to Wenches of Quality, but certainly commit poor ones. If a poor Rogue wanted a Lodging, Trick-Track fent him to Gaol for a Thief: If a poor Whore went only with one thin Petticoat, Tearshift would imprison her for being loose in her Dress. These Patriots infested the Days of Verus, while they alternately committed and releafed each others Prisoners. But Verus regarded them as Criminals, and always look'd upon Men as they stood in the Eye of Justice, without respecting whether they sate on the Bench, or stood at the Bar.

Will's Coffee-house, May 11.
Yesterday we were entertained with the Tragedy of The Earl of Essex, in which there is not one good Line, and yet a Play which was never seen without drawing Tears from some Part of the Audience: A remarkable Instance, that the

F 3

Sou

to the ng past, Falicia. of the bferver ed Juade for he nehe Crisood beant of it.

The

Soul is not to be moved by Words, but Things; for the Incidents in this Drama are laid together so happily, that the Spectator makes the Play for himself, by the Force which the Circumstance has upon his Imagination. Thus, in spight of the most dry Discourses, and Expressions almost ridiculous with Respect to Propriety, it is imposfible for one unprejudic'd to fee it untouch'd with Pity. I must confess, this Effect is not wrought on fuch as examine why they are pleased; but it never fails to appear on those who are not too learned in Nature, to be moved by her first Suggestions. It is certain, the Person and Behaviour of Mr. Wilks has no small Share in conducing to the Popularity of the Play; and when an handsome Fellow is going to a more course Exit than Beheading, his Shape and Countenance makes every tender one reprieve him with all her Heart, without waiting till she hears his dying Words.

This Evening The Alchymist was played. This Comedy is an Example of Ben's extensive Genius and Penetration into the Passions and Follies of Mankind. The Scene in the Fourth Act, where all the cheated People oppose the Manthat would open their Eyes, has something in it so inimitably excellent, that it is certainly as great a Master-piece as has ever appeared by any Hand. The Author's great Address in showing Covetousness the Motive of the Actions of the Puritan, the Epicure, the Gamester, and the Trader; and that all their Endeavours, how differently soever they seem to tend, center only in that one Point of Gain, shows he had to a great Perfection, that Discernment of Spirit, which constitutes a Genius for Comedy.

White's Chocolate-house, May 11.

It is not to be imagined how far the Violence of our Desures will carry us towards our own Deceit ings; gether' e Play Stance of the oft rimpofuch'd s not y are those e mo-1, the fmall f the going hape e re-iting This Ge-Fol-Act, Man in it as yany wing the Traliffey in reat hich ence own eceit

Deceit in the Pursuit of what we wish for. A. Gentleman here this Evening was giving me an Account of a dumb Fortune-Teller, who outdoes Mr. Partridge, my felf, or the Unborn-Doctor, for Predictions. All his Visitants come to him full of Expectations, and pay his own Rate for the Interpretations they put upon his Shrugs and Nods. There is a fine rich City-Widow stole thither the other Day, (though it is not Six-Weeks fince her Husband's Departure from her Company to rest) and, with her trufly Maid, demanded of him, Whether she should marry again, by holding up Two Fingers, like Horns on her Forehead. The Wizard held up both his Hands forked. The Relict defired to know, Whether he meant by his holding up both Hands, to represent that she had one Husband before, and that she should have another? Or that he intimated, she should have Two more? The Cunning-Man look'd a little four upon which Betty jogged her Mistress, who gave t'other Guinea; and he made her understand, She should positively have Two more; but shaked his Head, and hinted, that they should not live long with her. The Widow figh'd, and gave him t'other half Guinea. After this Prepoffession, all that she had next to do, was to make Sallies to our End of the Town, and find out who it is her Fate to have. There are Two who frequent this Place, whom she takes for Men of Vogue, and of whom her Imagination has given her the Choice. They are both the Appearances of fine Gentlemen, to fuch as do not know when they see Persons of that Turn; and indeed, they are industrious enough to come at that Character, to deserve the Reputation of being such: But this Town will not allow us to be the Things we feem to aim at, and are too discerning to be fobb'd off with Pretences. One of these pretty Fellows fails by his laborious Exactness; the other, by his as much studied Negligence. Frank Careless, assoon as his Valet has helped on and adjusted his Clothes, goes to his Glass, sets his Wig awry, tumbles his Cravat; and in short, undresses himself to go into Company. Will. Nice is so little satisfied with his Dress, that all the Time he is at a Vilit, he is still mending it, and is for that Reason the more insufferable; for he who studies Carelesness, has, at least, his Work the fooner done of the Two. Widow is distracted whom to take for her First Man; for Nice is every Way fo careful, that the fears his Length of Days; and Frank is fo loofe, that she has Apprehensions for her own Health with him. I am puzzled how to give a just Idea of them; but in a Word, Careless is a Coxcomb, and Nice a Fop: Both, you'll fay, very hopeful Candidates for a gay Woman just fet at Liberty. But there is a Whifper, her Maid will give her to Tom Terrour the Gamester. This Fellow has undone so many Women, that he'll certainly succeed if he is introduced; for nothing so much prevails with the vain Part of that Sex, as the Glory of deceiving them who have deceived others.

F 4

De sunt Multa.

St. James's Coffee-house, May 11.

Letters from Berlin, bearing Date May 11.N.S. inform us, That the Birth-day of her Prussian Majesty has been celebrated there with all possible Magnificence; and the King made her on that Occasion, a Present of Jewels to the Value of Thirty Thousand Crowns. The Marquis de Quesne, who has distinguished himself by his great Zeal for the Protestant Interest, was, at the Time of the Dispatch of these Letters, at that Court, soliciting the King to take Care, that the o-Frank n and ts his fhort. nat all ing it, able; least, First at the loofe, lealth t Idea very fet at d will s Felll certhing t Sex.

e de-

Cox-

.N.S. usian pofer on Value is de y his is, at Care,

that that an Article in Behalf of the Refugees, admitting their Return to France, should be inferted in the Treaty of Peace. They write from Hanover of the 14th, That his Electoral Highness had received an Express from Count Merci, representing how necessary it was to the Common Cause, that he would please to hasten to the Rhine; for that nothing but his Presence could quicken the Measures towards bringing the Imperial Army into the Field. There are very many Speculations upon the intended Interview of the King of Denmark and King Augustiss. The latter has made such Preparations for the Reception of the other, that it is faid, his Danish Majesty will be entertained in Saxony with much more Elegance than he met with in Italy it felf.

Letters from the Hague of the 18th Instant, N.S. fay, That his Grace the Duke of Marlborough landed the Night before at the Brill, after having been kept out at Sea by adverse Winds two Days longer than is usual in that Passage. His Excellency the Lord Townshend, her Majesty's Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to the States General, was driven into the Veer in Zealand on Thursday last, from whence he came to the Hague within few Hours after the Arrival of his Grace. The Duke, soon after his coming to the Hague, had a Visit from the Penfioner of Holland. All Things relating to the Peace were in Suspence 'till this Interview; nor is it yet known what Resolutions will be taken on that Subject; for the Troops of the Allies have fresh Orders dispatched to them to move from their respective Quarters, and march with all Expedition to the Frontiers, where the Enemy are making their utmost Efforts for the Defence of their Country. These Advices further inform us, That the Marquis de Torcy had receiv'd an Answer from the Court of France to his Letters which he had fent thither by an Express on the Friday before.

Mr. Bickerstaff has received Letters from Mr. Coltstaff, Mr. Whipstaff, and Mrs. Rebecca Wagstaff; all which relate chiefly to their being left out in the Genealogy of the Family lately published; but my Cousin being a Clerk in the Herald's Office who writ that Draught, and being at present under the Displeasure of the Chapter; it is feared, if that Matter should be touched upon at this Time, the young Gentleman would lose his Place for Treason against the Kings at Arms.

The TATLER. [N° 15.

From Thursd. May 12. to Saturd. May 14. 1709.

From my own Apartment, May 12.

Have taken a Resolution hereafter, on any Want of Intelligence, to carry my Familiar abroad with me, who has promifed to give me very proper and just Notices of Persons and Things, to make up the History of the passing Day. He is wonderfully skilful in the Knowledge of Men and Manners, which has made me more than ordinary curious to know how he came to that Perfection, and I communicated to him that Doubt. Mr. Pacolet, faid I, I am mightily furpriz'd to fee you so good a Judge of our Nature and Circumstances, since you are a meer Spirit, and have no Knowledge of the Bodily Part of us. He answered, smiling, You are mistaken, I have been one of you, and lived a Month amongst you, which gives me an exact Sense of your Condition. You are to know, That all who enter into Human Life, have a certain Date or Stamen given to their Being, which

Coltftaff;
ut in
; but Office
t unared,
Time, Trea-

14.

1709.

niliar re me
and affing nowe me w he ed to nighf our meer

red a exact now, ave a eing, hich

odily

e mi-

which they only who die of Age may be faid to have arriv'd at; but it is ordered fornetimes by Fate, that such as die Infants, are after Death to attend Mankind to the End of that Stamenz of Being in themselves, which was broke off by Sickness or any other Disaster. These are proper Guardians to Men, as being sensible of the Infirmity of their State. You are Philosopher enough to know, that the Difference of Men's Understanding proceeds only from the various Dispositions of their Organs; so that he who dies at a Month old, is in the next Life as knowing (the' more innocent) as they who live to Fifty; and after Death, they have as perfect a Memory and Judgment of all that pass'd in their Life-time, as I have of all the Revolutions in that uneasie, turbulent Condition of yours; and, you'd fay, I had enough of it in a Month, were I to tell you all my Misfortunes. A Life of a Month, can't have, one would think, much Variety; but pray, faid I, let us have your Sto-

Then he proceeds in the following manner: It was one of the most wealthy Families in Great Britain into which I was born, and it was a very great Happiness to me that it so happen'd, otherwise I had still, in all Probability, been living: But I shall recount to you all the Occurrences of my short and miserable Existence, just as, by examining into the Traces made in my Brain, they appeared to me at that Time. The First Thing that ever struck my Senses, was a Noise over my Head of one shrieking; after which, methought I took a full Jump, and found my felf in the Hands of a Sorceress, who seem'd as if she had been long waking and employ'd in some Incantation: I was throughly frightened, and cried out, but she immediately feem'd to go on in some Magical Operation and ed .

anointed me from Head to Foot. What they meant, I could not imagine; for there gather'd a great Crowd about me, crying, An Heir, an Heir; upon which I grew a little still, and believ'd this was a Ceremony to be us'd only to great Persons, and such as made them, what they call'd, Heirs. I lay very quiet; but the Witch, for no Manner of Reason or Provocation in the World, takes me and binds my Head as hard as possibly she could, then ties up both my Legs, and makes me swallow down an horrid Mixture: I thought it an harsh Entrance into Life to begin with taking Phylick; but I was forc'd to it, or else must have taken down a great Instrument in which she gave it me. When I was thus dress'd, I was carried to a Bed-fide. where a fine young Lady (my Mother I wot) had like to have hugg'd me to Death. From her, they fac'd me about, and there was a Thing with quite another Look from the rest of the Room, to whom they talk'd about my Nose. He feem'd wonderfully pleas'd to fee me; but I knew fince, my Nose belong'd to another Family. That into which I was born, is one of the most numerous amongst you; therefore Crowds of Relations came every. Day to congratulate my Arrival; among others, my Coufin Betty, the greatest Romp in Nature: She whisks me fuch a Height over her Head, that I cry'd out for Fear of falling. She pinch'd me, and call'd me squealing Chit, and threw me into a Girl's Arms that was taken in to tend me. The Girl was very proud of the Womanly. Employment of a Nurse, and took upon her to strip and dress me a-new, because I made a Noise, to see what ail'd me: She did so, and Ruck a Pin in every Joint about me. I still cry'd: Upon which, she lays me on my Face in her Lap; and to quiet me, fell a nailing in all the

15. they her'd , an d bey to what the ation ad as 1 my orrid into was wn a Vhen fide. wot) rom as a ft of Vose. but Fafore graulin ry'd and to a The loytrip ? a and ftill e in

the

the Pins, by clapping me on the Back, and skreaming a Lullaby. But my Pain made me axalt my Voice above hers, which brought up the Nurse, (the Witch I first saw) and my Grandmother. The Girl is turn'd down Stairs, and I strip'd again, as well to find what ail'd me, as to fatisfy my Granam's further Curiofity. This good old Woman's Visit was the Cause of all my Troubles. You are to understand, That I was hitherto bred by Hand, and any Body that stood next, gave me Pap, if I did but open my Lips; infomuch, that I was grown for cunning, as to pretend my felf afleep when I was not, to prevent my being cramm'd. But my Grandmother began a loud Lecture upon the Idleness of the Wives of this Age, who, for Fear of their Shape, forbear suckling their own Offfpring; and Ten Nurses were immediately sent for; one was whisper'd to have a wanton Eye, and would foon spoil her Milk; another was in a Confumption; the Third had an ill Voice, and would frighten me, instead of lulling me to fleep. Such Exceptions were made against all but one Country Milch-Wench, to whom I was committed, and put to the Breast. This careless Jade was eternally romping with the Footmen, and downright starved me; insomuch that I daily pined away, and should never have been reliev'd, had it not been, on the Thirtieth Day of my Life, a Fellow of the Royal Society, who had writ upon Cold Baths; came to visit me, and folemnly protested; I was utterly lost for want of that Method: Upon which he fous'd me Head and Ears into a Pail of Water, where I had the good Fortune to be drowned, and fo escap'd being lash'd into a Linguist till Sixteen, running after Wenches till Twenty five, and being married to an ill-natur'd Wife till Sixty: Which had certainly been my Fate, had not the Inchantment between Body and Soul been broke by this Philosopher. Thus, till the Age I should have otherwise liv'd, I am oblig'd to watch the Steps of Men; and if you please, shall accompany you in your present Walks, and get you Intelligence from the Aerial Lacquey, who is in Waiting, what are the Thoughts and Purposes of any whom you enquire for. I accepted his kind Offer, and immediately took him with me in an Hack to White's.

White's Chocolate-house, May 13.

We got in hither, and my Companion threw a Powder round us, that made me as invisible as himself; so that we could see and hear all others, our selves unseen and unheard.

The First Thing we took Notice of, was a Nobleman of a goodly and frank Afpect, with his generous Birth and Temper visible in it, playing at Cards with a Creature of a black and horrid Countenance, wherein were plainly delineated the Arts of his Mind, Cousenage and Falshood. They were marking their Game with Counters, on which we could fee Inscriptions, imperceptible to any but us. My Lord had fcor'd with Pieces of Ivory, on which were writ, Good Fame, Glory, Riches, Honour and Posterity. The Spectre over-against him had on his Counters the Inscriptions of, Dishonour, Impudence, Poverty, Ignorance, and Want of Shame. Bless me! said I; Sure my Lord does not see what he plays for! As well as I do, fays Pacolet. He despises that Fellow he plays with, and scorns himself for making him his Companion: At the very Instant he was speaking, I saw the Fellow who play'd with my Lord, hide Two Cards in the Roll of his Stocking: Pacolet immediately stele 'em from thence; upon which the Noblema tur flir tur my me but has

N

He that ous of hir dy ma

in

to 20

25

'en an in dy

ta ar fo E no

h H

his

of

Ou

ice

ıg,

ny

nd

an

nd

n-

it,

id

ed

7-

4

0.

e

man foon after won the Game. The little Tri-umph he appear'd in, when he got fuch a trifling Stock of ready Money, tho' he had ventured fo great Sums with Indifference, increas'd my Admiration. But Pacolet began to talk to me. Mr. Ifaac, This to you looks wonderful, but not at all to us higher Beings: That Noble has as many good Qualities as any Man of his Order, and feems to have no Faults but what, as I may fay, are Excrescencies from Virtues: He is Generous to a Prodigality, more Affable than is confistent with his Quality, and Couragious to a Rashness. Yet, after all this, the Source of his whole Conduct is ( tho' he would hate himself if he knew it) meer Avarice. The Ready Cash laid before the Gamester's Counters makes him venture, as you see, and lay Distinction against Infamy, Abundance against Want; in a Word, all that's desirable against all that's to be avoided. However, said I, be sure you disappoint the Sharpers to Night, and steal from 'em all the Cards they hide. Pacolet obey'd me, and my Lord went Home with their whole Bank in his Pocket.

Will's Coffee-house, May 13.

To Night was acted a Second Time a Comedy, call'd, The Buse Body: This Play is written by a Lady. In old Times, we us'd to sit upon a Play here after it was acted; but now the Entainment is turn'd another Way; not but there are considerable Men appear in all Ages, who, for some eminent Quality or Invention, deserve the Esteem and Thanks of the Publick. Such a Benefactor is a Gentleman of this House, who is observ'd by the Surgeons with much Envy; for he has invented an Engine for the Prevention of Harms by Love-Adventures, and by great Care and Application, hath made it an Immodesty to name his Name. This Act of Self-denial has gain'd

IIZ

N

Gui

voy

Me

dif

aft

Squ

Bri

and

fo

Lo

and bro

Fre

pa fci

for an

of

ft

Se

fh

C

fu

q

gain'd this worthy Member of the Common. wealth a great Reputation. Some Law-givers have departed from their Abodes for ever, and commanded the Observation of their Laws till their Return; others have us'd other Artifices to fly the Applause of their Merit; but this Perfon thuns Glory with greater Address, and has, by giving his Engine his own Name, made it obscene to speak of him more. However, he is rank'd among, and receiv'd by the modern Wits, as a great Promoter of Gallantry and Pleasure. But I fear, Pleasure is less understood in this Age, which so much pretends to it, than in any fince the Creation. 'Twas admirably faid of him who first took Notice, That (Res est severa Voluptas) there is a certain Severity in Pleasure. Without that, all Decency is banished; and if Reason is not to be present at our greatest Satisfactions, of all the Races of Creatures, the Human is the most miserable. It was not fo of old; when Virgil describes a Wit, he always means a Virtuous Man; and all his Sentiments of Men of Genius are such as show Persons distinguish'd from the common Level of Mankind; fuch as placed Happiness in the Contempt of low Fears, and mean Gratifications: Fears, which we are subject to with the Vulgar; and Pleasures, which we have in common with Beafts. With these illustrious Personages, the Wisest Man was the Greatest Wit; and none was thought worthy of that Character, unless he answered this excellent Description of the Poet:

Qui --- Metus omnes & inexorabile Fatum Subject Pedibus, strepitumg: Acherontis avari. St. James's Coffee-house, May 13.

We had this Morning Advice, That some English Merchant Ships, convoyed by the Bristol of 54 Guns, were met with by a Part of Mons. du 15.

Gui

nonvers

till

ices

Per-

has,

e it

e is

ern

er-

to ad-

hat Secy

of

le.

3 all

as.

110

1s

ah

IS

Gui Trouin's Squadron, who engag'd the Convoy. That Ship defended it felf till the English Merchants got clear of the Enemy, but being disabled was her self taken. Within sew Hours after, my Lord Dursley came up with Part of his Squadron, and engaging the French, retook the Bristol (which being very much shattered, sunk), and took the Glorieux, a Ship of 44 Guns, as also a Privateer of 14. Before this Action, his Lordship had taken Two French Merchant Men; and had, at the Dispatch of these Advices, brought the whole safe into Plymouth.

The TATLER. [N' 16.

From Saturd. May 14: to Tuesd. May 17. 1709.

White's Chocolate-house, May 15.

SIR Thomas, of this House, has show'd me fome Letters from the Bath, which give Accounts of what passes among the good Company of that Place; and allow'd me to transcribe one of them, that seems to be writ by some of Sir Thomas's particular Acquaintance, and is as follows:

Dear Knight,

I Desire you would give my humble Service to all our Friends, which I speak of to you (out of Method) in the very Beginning of my Epistle, lest the present Disorders, by which this Seat of Gallantry and Pleasure is torn to Pieces, should make me forget it. You keep so good Company, that you know Bath is stock'd with such as come hither to be relieved from luxuriant Health, or imaginary Sickness, and consequently is always as well stowed with Gallants as Invalids, who live together in a very good Under-

Understanding. But the Season is so early, that our fine Company is not yet arriv'd; and the Warm Bath, which in Heathen Times was dedicated to Venus, is now used only by such as really want it for Health's Sake. There are however a good many Strangers, among whom are Two ambitious Ladies, who being both in the Autumn of their Life, take the Opportunity of placing themselves at the Head of such as we are, before the Cloe's, Clariffa's, and Pafforella's come down. One of these Two is excessively in Pain, that the Ugly Being called Time will make Wrinkles in Spite of the Lead Forehead-Cloth; and therefore hides, with the Gaiety of her Air, the Volubility of her Tongue, and Quickness of her Motion, the Injuries which it The other Lady is but two has done her. Years behind her in Life, and dreads as much being laid aside as the former, and consequently has taken the necessary Precautions to prevent her Reign over us. But she is very discreet, and wonderfully turned for Ambition, being never apparently transported either with Affection or Malice. Thus, while Florimel is talking in Publick, and spreading her Graces in Assemblies, to gain a Popular Dominion over our Divertions, Prudentia vifits very cunningly all the Lame, the Splenatick, and the Superannuated, who have their distinct Classes of Followers and Friends. Among these, she has found that some body has fent down printed Certificates of Florimel's Age, which she has read and distributed to this unjoyful Set of People, who are always Enemies to those in Pos-Tession of the good Opinion of the Company. This unprovoked Injury done by Prudentia, was the first Occasion of our fatal Divisions here, and a Declaration of War between these Rivals. Florimel has abundance of Wit, which she has lavish'd far fur fur of The

not Lor

irre tur plo ing

hac wa fee men live on and all with pet bef lex.

> Clo Por to bed W]

An

hat

the dilly

ver

WO.

lu-

of.

we

as

elv

vill.

id-

of

nd

it

NO

ch.

It-

e-.

if-

Π,

th

15

in er ly

1-15

d

LS.

1.

S

lavish'd in decrying Prudentia, and giving Defiance to her little Arts. For an Instance of her fuperior Power, she bespoke the Play of Alexander the Great, to be acted by the Company of Strollers, and defired us all to be there on Thursday last. When she spoke to me to come, As you are, faid she, a Lover, you will not fail the Death of Alexander: The Passion of Love is wonderfully hit --- Statira! Oh that happy Woman - To have a Conqueror at her Feet ---But you'll be sure to be there. I, and several others, rrefolv'd to be of her Party. But see the irrelistible Strength of that unsuspected Creature, a Silent Woman. Prudentia had counterplotted us, and had bespoke on the same Evening the Poppet-Show of The Creation of the She had engaged every Body to be there, and, to turn our Leader into Ridicule. had fecretly let'em know, that the Poppet Eve was made the most like Florimel that ever took On Thursday Morning the Poppet-Drummer, Adam and Eve, and several others who lived before the Flood, pass'd thro' the Streets on Horseback, to invite us all to the Pastime, and the Representation of such Things as we all knew to be true; and Mr. Mayor was fo wife as to prefer these innocent People the Poppets, who, he faid, were to represent Christians, before the wicked Players, who were to show Alexander, an Heathen Philosopher. To be short, this Prudentia had so laid it, that at Ten of the Clock Footmen were fent to take Places at the Popper-Show, and all we of Florimel's Party were to be out of Fashion, or desert her. We chose the latter. All the World crowded to Prudentia's House, because it was given out, no body could get in. When we came to Noah's Flood in the Show, Punch and his Wife were introduced dancing in the Ark. Anhonest plain Friend of Florimel's, but a Critick withal,

to

to

T

th

al

of ha

in 1

at

W

te

-

ta

E

fe

M

it

P

b

V

withal, rose up in the midst of the Representation, and made many very good Exceptions to the Drama it felf, and told us, That it was against all Morality, as well as Rules of the Stage, that Punch should be in Jest in the Deluge, or indeed that he should appear at all. This was certainly a just Remark, and I thought to second him; but he was hiss'd by Prudentia's Party; upon which, really, Sir Thomas, we who were his Friends, hiss'd him too. Old Mrs. Petulant defired both her Daughters to mind the Moral; then whispered Mrs. Mayoress, This is very proper for young People to see. Punch at the End of the Play made Madam Prudentia a Compliment, and was very Civil to the whole Company, making Bows till his Buttons touch'd the Ground. All was carried triumphantly against our Party. In the mean time Florimel went to the Tragedy, dres'd Thine as Hands could make her, in hopes to fee Prudentia pine away with Envy. Instead of that, the fat a full Hour alone, and at last was entertained with this whole Relation from Statira, who wiped her Eyes with her Tragical-cut Handkerchief, and lamented the Ignorance of the Quality. Florimel was stung with this Affront, and the next Day bespoke the Poppet-Show. Prudentia, infolent with Power, be-fpoke Alexander. The whole Company came then to Alexander. Madam Petulant desired her Daughters to mind the Moral, and believe no Man's fair Words; For you'll see, Children, faid she, these Soldiers are never to be depended upon; they are sometimes here, sometimes there---Don't you see, Daughter Betty, Colonel Clod, our next Neighbour in the Country, pulls off his Hat to you? Court'sie, good Child, his Estate is just Florimel was now mortified down to Prudentia's Humour; and Prudentia exalted in-

to 16 nta-

s to

is a-

the

De-

all ight

tia's

We

Old

to avo-

See.

ivil

his

ried

ean

fs'd

to ead

Was

ati-

cut

of

Af-

et-

be-

me

red

eve

en, ded

2---

our lat

uft

to

in-

to

to hers. This was observed: Florimel invites us to the Play a Second Time, Prudentia to the Show. See the Uncertainty of Human Affairs! The Beaux, the Wits, the Gamesters, the Prues, the Coquets, the Valitudinarians, and Gallants, all now wait upon Florimel. Such is the State of Things at this present Date; and if there happens any new Commotions, you shall have immediate Advice from,

Bath, May 11. S I R, Your Affectionate Friend and Servant.

TO CASTABELLA.

Madam. T Have the Honour of a Letter from a Friend of yours, relating to an Incivility done to you at the Opera, by one of your own Sex; but I, who was an Eye-witness of the Accident, can testify to you, that the she press'd before you, the loft her Ends in that Delign; for the was taken Notice of for no other Reason, but her Endeavours to hide a finer Woman than her felf. But indeed, I dare not go further in this Matter, than just this bare Mention; for tho' it was taking your Place of Right, rather than Place of Precedence, yet it is to tender a Point, and on which the very Life of Female Ambition depends, that it is of the last Consequence to meddle in it: All my Hopes are from your beautiful Sex; and those bright Eyes, which are the Bane of others, are my only Sunshine. My Writings are Sacred to you; and I hope, I shall always have the good Fortune to live under your Protection; therefore take this publick Opportunity to fignify to all the World, That I delign to forbear any Thing that may in the least tend to the Diminution of your Interest, Reputation, or Power. You'll therefore torgive May 16.

h

W

ir

W

26

H

fo

ft

it

ri

M

ha

R

fo

of

Da

to

Ti

of

F

fo

B

of

th

0

V

forgive me, that I strive to conceal every wrong Step made by any who have the Honour to wear Petticoats; and shall at all Times do what is in my Power, to make all Mankind as much their Slaves as my self. If they would consider Things as they ought, there needs not much Argument to convince 'em, that it is their Fate to be obedient to you, and that your greatest Rebels do only serve with a worse Grace. I am,

MADAM,
Your most Obedient,
and most Humble Servant, ISAAC BICKERSTAFF

St. James's Coffee-house, May 16.

Letters from the Hague, bearing Date the 21st Instant, N. S. advise, That his Grace the Duke of Marlborough, immediately after his Arrival, fent his Secretary to the Prelident and the Penfionary, to acquaint them therewith. Soon after, these Ministers visited the Duke, and made him Compliments in the Name of the States General; after which they enter'd into a Conference with him on the present Posture of Affairs, and gave his Grace Assurances of the firm Adherence of the States to the Alliance: At the fame Time acquainting him, That all Overtures of Peace were rejected, 'till they had an Opportunity of acting in Concert with their Allies on that Subject. After this Interview, the Pensionary and the Prefident returned to the Affembly of the States. Monsieur Torcy has had a Conference at the Pensioner's House with his Grace the Duke of Marlborough, Prince Eugene, and his Excellency the Lord Townshend. The Refult of what was debated at that Time is kept fecret; but there appears an Air of Satisfaction and good Understanding between these Minifters.

16.

ong

r to uch

ider

ate

telt

am,

the

the

Ar-

the noc ade

tes

on-

Af-

rm

the res

or-

on io-

oly

fe-

ce

nd

e-pt

on ni-

S.

sters. We are apt also to give our selves very hopeful Prospects from Monsieur Torcy's being employed in this Negotiation, who has been always remarkable for a particular Way of Thinking, in his Sense of the Greatness of France: which he has always faid, Was to be promoted rather by the Arts of Peace, than those of War. His delivering himfelf freely on this Subject, has formerly appeared an unfuccefsful Way to Power in that Court; but in its present Circumstances, those Maxims are better received; and it is thought a certain Argument of the Sincerity of the French King's Intentions, that this Minister is at present made use of. The Marquis is to return to Paris within few Days, who has fent a Courier thither to give Notice of the Reasons of his Return, that the Court may be the fooner able to dispatch Commissions for a formal Treaty.

The Expectations of Peace are increased by Advices from Paris of the 17th Instant, which say, The Dauphin hath altered his Resolution of commanding in Flanders the ensuing Campaign. The Saxon and Prussian Reinforcements, together with Count Merci's Regiment of Imperial Horse, are encamped in the Neighbourhood of Brusses; and sufficient Stores of Corn and Forage are transported to that Place and Ghent for the Service of the Confederate Army.

They write from Mons, That the Elector of Bavaria had Advice, That an advanced Party of the Portugueze Army had been defeated by the Spaniards.

We hear from Languedoc, That their Corn, Olives and Figs, were wholly destroyed; but that they have a hopeful Prospect of a plentiful Vintage.

The TATLER. [Nº 17.

II VIF

e

to

H

fa

th

Sh

pl

W

Id

th

Pl

W

ftr gir Sk

th fin

T

all

m

or

hi

co

ric

270

From Tuesday May 17. to Thursday May 19. 1709.

Will's Coffee-house, May 18. THE Discourse has happened to turn this Evening upon the true Nature of Panegyrick, the Perfection of which was afferted to consist in a certain artful Way of conveying the Applause in an indirect Manner. There was a Gentleman gave us several Instances of it: Among others, he quoted (from Sir Francis Bacon, in his Advancement of Learning) a very great Compliment made to Tiberius, as follows: In a full Debate upon Publick Affairs in the Senate, one of the Assembly rose up, and with a very grave Air faid, He thought it for the Honour and Dignity of the Commonwealth, that Tiberius should be declared a God, and have Divine Worship paid him. The Emperor was furprized at the Proposal, and demanded of him to declare whether he had made any Application to incline him to that Overture? The Senator answered, with a bold and haughty Tone, Sir, In Matters that concern the Commonwealth, I will be governed by no Man. Another Gentleman mentioned something of the same kind fpoken by the late Duke of B-m, to the late Earl of O-y: My Lord, (fays the Duke, after his Libertine Way) you will certainly be Damn'd. How, my Lord! fays the Earl with some Warmth. Nay, said the Duke, there's no Help for it, for it is positively said, Cursed is he of whom all Men speak well. This is taking a Man by Surprize, and being welcome when you have so surprized him. The Person flattered receives you into his Closet at once; and the fudden 709.

this

gy-

to

the

as a

A-

Ba-

very

W5:

Se-

th a

Ho-

that

Di-

was

d of

Ap-

The

ghty mon-

ther

ame

-m, s the

tain-

Earl

bere's

d is ng a

you

ered

the

dden fudden Change in his Heart, from the Expectation of an Ill-wifher, to find you his Friend, makes you in his full Favour in a Moment. The Spirits that were rais'd fo fuddenly against you, are as suddenly for you. There was another Instance given of this Kind at the Table: A Gentleman who had a very great Favour done him, and an Employment bestowed upon him, without so much as being known to his Benefactor, waited upon the Great Man who was so Generous, and was beginning to say, he was infinitely obliged. Not at all, says the Patron, turning from him to another, Had I known a more deserving Man in England, he should not have had it should not have had it.

We should certainly have had more Examples, had not a Gentleman produced a Book which he thought an Instance of this kind: It was a Pamphlet, call'd, The Naked Truth. The Idea any one would have of that Work from the Title, was, That there would be much Plain Dealing with People in Power, and that we should see Things in their proper Light, stripped of the Ornaments which are usually given to the Actions of the Great: But the Skill of this Author is such, that he has, under that rugged Appearance, approved himself the finest Gentleman and Courtier that ever writ. The Language is extremely fublime, and not at all to be understood by the Vulgar: The Sentiments are fuch as would make no Figure in ordinary Words; but fuch is the Art of the Expression, and the Thoughts are elevated to so high a Degree, that I question whether the Discourse will sell much. There was an ill-natured Fellow prefent, who hates all Panegyrick mortally. P -- take him! faid he, What the Devil means his Naked Truth, in Speaking nothing but to the Advantage of all whom he ps

ga

ga

FY

A

th

C gu his

To

gu

off

my

Th

the

mo

mentions? This is just such a great Action as that of the Champion's on a Coronation Day, who challenges all Mankind to dispute with him the Right of the Sovereign, Surrounded with his Guards. The Gentleman who produced the Treatife. defired him to be cautious, and faid, it was writ by an excellent Soldier, which made the Company observe it more narrowly: And (as Criticks are the greatest Conjurers at finding out a known Truth) one said, he was sure it was writ by the Hand of his Sword-Arm. I could not perceive much Wit in that Expression; but it rais'd a Laugh, and I suppose, was meant as a Sneer upon valiant Men. Man pretended to fee in the Style, that it was an Horse-Officer; but sure that's being too nice: For though you may know Officers of the Cavalry by the Turn of their Feet, I can't imagine how you should discern their Hands from those of other Men. But it is always thus with Pedants, they will ever be carping; if a Gentleman or a Man of Honour puts Pen to Paper, I don't doubt, but this Author will find this Affertion too true, and that Obloquy is not repulsed by the Force of Arms. I will therefore fet this Excellent Piece in a Light too glaring for weak Eyes, and, in Imitation of the Critick Longinus, shall, as well as I can, make my Observations in a Style like the Author's, of whom I treat; which perhaps I am as capable of as another, having an unbounded Force of Thinking, as well as a most exquisite Address, extensively and wisely indulged to me by the supreme Powers. My Author, I will dare to affert, shows the most Universal Knowledge of any Writer who has appeared this Century. He is a Poet, and Merchant, which is feen in Two Master-Words, Credit Blossoms. He is a Grammarian, and a Politician; for he fays, The Uniting at il-

ht

ds.

ſe,

as

he

as ng

it

I

Mi-

vas

me

/as 00

he

na-

om

ith

en-

er,

his

re-

ore

ing

Cri-

my

ot

ble

of ress,

Ju-

ert,

any

e 15

wo

am-

Jni-

ting

ting the Two Kingdoms, is the Emphasis of the Security to the Protestant Succession. Some would be apt to fay he is a Conjurer; for he has found, That a Republick is not made up of every Body of Animals, but is composed of Men only, and not of Horses. Liberty and Property have chosen their Retreat within the Emulating Circle of an Human Commonwealth. He is a Physician; for he fays, I observe a constant Equality in its Pulse, and a just Quickness of its vigorous Circulation. And again: I view the Strength of our Constitution plainly appear in the Sanguine and ruddy Complexion of a well-contented City. He is a Divine: For he fays, I cannot but bless my self. And indeed, this Excellent Treatife has hadh that good Effect upon me, who am far from being Superstitious, that I, also, can't but bless my felt.

St. James's Coffee-House, May 18.

This Day arrived a Mail from Lisbon, with Letters of the 13th Instant, N. S. containing a particular Account of the late Action in Portugal. On the 7th Instant, the Army of Portugal, under the Command of the Marquis de Frontera, lay on the Side of the Caya, and the Army of the Duke of Anjou, commanded by the Marquis de Bay, on the other. The latter Commander having an Ambition to ravage the Country, in a Manner in Sight of the Portugueze, made a Motion with the whole Body of his Horse toward Fort St. Christopher, near the Town of Badajos. The Generals of the Portugueze, disdaining that such an Insult should be offered to their Arms, took a Resolution to pais the River, and oppose the Designs of the Enemy. The Earl of Galway represented to them, That the present Posture of Affairs was such on the Side of the Allies, that there needed no more to be done at present in that Country, G 2 but to carry on a Defensive Part. But his Arguments could not avail in the Council of War. Upon which, a great Detachment of Foot, and the whole of the Horse of the King of Portugal's Army, passed the River, and with some Pieces of Cannon did good Execution on the Enemy. Upon observing this, the Marquis de Bay advanced with his Horse, and attack'd the Right Wing of the Portugueze Cavalry, who faced about, and fled, without standing the first Encounter. But their Foot repulsed the fame Body of Horse in three successive Charges. with great Order and Resolution. While this was transacting, the British General commanded the Brigade of Pearce, to keep the Enemy in Divertion by a new Attack. This was fo well executed, that the Portugueze Infantry had Time to retire in good Order, and repass the River. But that Brigade, which rescued 'em, was it self surrounded by the Enemy, and Major-General Sarkey, Brigadier Pearce, together with both their Regiments, and that of the Lord Galway, lately raifed, were taken Prisoners.

W.

During the Engagement, the Earl of Barrymore having advanced too far to give fome neceffary Order, was hemmed in by a Squadron of the Enemy; but found Means to gallop up to the Brigade of Pearce, with which he remains also a Prisoner. My Lord Galway had his Horse shot under him in this Action; and the Conde de St. Juan, a Portugueze General, was taken Prisoner. The same Night the Army encamped at Aronches, and on the 9th moved to Elvas, where they lay when these Dispatches came away. Colonel Stanwin's Regiment is also taken. The whole of this Affair has given the Portugueze a great Idea of the Capacity and Courage of my Lord Galway, against

Ar-

ar.

nd

tu-

me

the

de

he

ho

he

the

es,

his

m-

E-

his

In-

ind ich

Elier

nts,

ed,

77-

ne-

ot

to ins

his

the

was

my ved

Dif-

egifair

the

a-

init gainst whose Advice they entered upon this unfortunate Affair, and by whose Conduct they were rescued from it. The prodigious Constancy and Resolution of that great Man is hardly to be parallel'd, who, under the Oppression of a maimed Body, and the Reslection of repeated ill Fortune, goes on with an unspeakable Alacrity in the Service of the Common Cause. He has already put Things in a very good Posture after this ill Accident, and made the necessary Dispositions for covering the Country from any surther Attempt of the Enemy, who lie still in the Camp they were in before the Battle.

Letters from Bruffels, dated the 25th Instant, advise, That notwithstanding the Negotiations of a Peace feem fo far advanced, that fome do confidently report the Preliminaries of a Treaty to be actually agreed on; yet the Allies haften their Preparations for opening the Campaign; and the Forces of the Empire, the Prussians, the Danes, the Wirtembergers, the Palatines, and Saxon Auxiliaries, are in Motion towards the General Rendezvous, they being already arrived in the Neighbourhood of Bruffels. These Advices add, That the Deputies of the States of Holland having made a general Review of the Troops in Flanders, fet out for Antwerp on the 21st Instant from that Place. On the same Day the Prince Royal of Prussia came thither incognito, with a Design to make the ensuing Campaign under his Grace the Duke of Marlborough.

This Day is published a Treatile, called, The Difference between Scandal and Admonition. By Isaac Bickerstaff Esq; And on the First of July next, you may expect A Prophecy of Things past; wherein the Art of Fortune-telling is laid open to the meanest Capacity. And on the Monday G 3 following, following, Choice Sentences for the Company of Masons and Bricklayers, to be put upon new Houses, with a Translation of all the Latin Sentences, that have been built of late Years, together with a Comment upon Stone Walls, by the same Hand.

The TATLER. [Nº 18.

From Thursd. May 19. to Saturd. May 20. 1709.

From my own Apartment, Mry 20. IT is observed too often, that Men of Wit do I fo much employ their Thoughts upon fine Speculations, that Things useful to Mankind are wholly neglected; and they are busy in making Emendations upon some Encliticks in a Greek Author, while obvious Things, that every Man may have use for, are wholly overlooked. It would be an happy Thing, if fuch as have real Capacities for Publick Service, were employed in Works of general Use; but because a Thing is every Body's Buiness, it is no Body's Business: This is for Want of publick Spirit. As for my Part, who am only a Student, and a Man of no great Interest, I can only remark Things, and recommend the Correction of 'em to higher Powers. There is an Offence I have a Thoufand Times lamented, but fear I shall never see remedy'd; which is, That in a Nation where Learning is fo frequent as in Great Britain, there should be so many gross Errors as there are in the very Directions of Things, wherein Accuracy is necessary for the Conduct of Life. This is notoriously observ'd by all Men of Letters when they first come to Town (at which Time they are usually curious that Way) in the Inscriptions on Sign-Posts. I have caute to know this Matter as well as any Body; for I have (when I went to Merchant-Taylor's School) fuffered Stripes for spelling after the Signs I observ'd in my Way; tho' at the same Time, I must confess, staring at those Inscriptions first gave me an Idea and Curiofity for Medals; in which I have fince arrived at some Many a Man has loft his Way Knowledge. and his Dinner by this general Want of Skill in Orthography: For, considering that the Painters are usually so very bad, that you cannot know the Animal under whose Sign you are to live that Day, How must the Stranger be mis-led, if it be wrong spelled, as well as ill painted? I have a Coufin now in Town, who has answered under Batchelor at Queen's College, whose Name is Humphrey Mopstaff: (He is a Kin to us by his Mother.) This young Man going to see a Relation in Barbekin, wandered a whole Day by the Miltake of one Letter; for it was written, This is the BEER. instead of This is the BEAR. He was fet right at last, by enquiring for the House, of a Fellow who could not read, and knew the Place mechanically, only by having been often drunk there. But, in the Name of Goodness. let us make our Learning of Use to us, or not. Was not this a Shame, that a Philosopher should be thus directed by a Cobler? I'll be fworn, if it were known how many have fuffered in this Kind by false Speeling fince the Union, this Matter would not long lie thus. What makes these Evils the more insupportable, is, That they are so easily amended, and nothing done in it. But it is so far from that, that the Evil goes on in other Arts as well as Orthography. Places are confounded, as well tin irs, lls,

of ew

8.

9.

do ine nd iu

elly

of s: ny of

huee re

in, re in fe.

of at ch

for Want of proper Distinctions, as Things for Want of true Characters. Had I not come by the other Day very early in the Morning, there might have been Mischief done; for a worthy North-Britain was fwearing at Stocks-Market. that they would not let him in at his Ludgings; but I knowing the Gentleman, and obferving him look often at the King on Horseback, and then double his Oaths, that he was fure he was right, found he miftook that for Charing-Cross, by the Erestion of the like Statue in each Place. I grant, private Men may diftinguish their Abodes as they please; as one of my Acquaintance who lives at Marybone, has put a good Sentence of his own Invention upon his Dwelling-place, to find out where he lives: He is so near London, that his Conceit is this, The Country in Town; or, The Town in the Country; for you know, if they are both in one, they are all one. Belides that, the Ambiguity is not of great Consequence; if you are fafe at the Place, 'tis no Matter if you do not distinctly know where to say the Place is. But to return to the Orthography of Publick Places: I propose, That every Tradesman in the Cities of London and Westminster. shall give me Sixpence a Quarter for keeping their Signs in Repair, as to the Grammatical Part: and I will take into my House a Swiss Count of my Acquaintance, who can remember all their Names without Book, for Difpatch-fake, fetting up the Head of the faid Foreigner for my Sign; the Features being strong, and fit for hanging high.

St. James's Coffee-house, May 20.

This Day a Mail arrived from Holland, by which there are Advices from Paris, That the Kingdom of France is in the utmost Misery and Distraction. The Merchants of Lions have been

or

by

re

hy

et,

g-6-

on

at ok

he

ite

ey es

115 nd

at

or,

ey

at,

if

if he of ef-

er,

ng

cal

iss

m-

if-

0-ıg,

by

he

nd

en

at

conti-

at Court, to remonstrate their great Sufferings by the Failure of their Publick Credit; but have received no other Satisfaction, than Promifes of a sudden Peace; and that their Debts will be made good by Funds out of the Revenue, which will not answer, but in case of the Peace which is promised. In the mean Time, the Cries of the common People are loud for Want of Bread, the Gentry have lost all Spirit and Zeal for their Country, and the King himself seems to languish under the Anxiety of the pressing Calamities of the Nation, and retires from hearing those Grievances, which he hath not Power to redrefs. Instead of Preparations for War, and the Defence of their Country, there is nothing to be feen but evident Marks of a general Despair. Processions, Fastings, Publick Mournings, and Humiliations, are become the fole Employments of a People, who were lately the most vain and gay of any in the Universe.

The Pope has written to the French King on the Subject of a Peace, and his Majesty has answered in the lowliest Terms, That he entirely submits his Affairs to Divine Providence, and shall soon show the World, that he prefers the Tranquility of his People to the Glory of his Arms, and Extent of his Conquests.

Letters from the Hague of the 24th fay, That his Excellency the Lord Townshend delivered his Credentials on that Day to the States-General, as Plenipotentiary from the Queen of Great-Britain; as did also Count Zinzendorf, who bears the same Character from the Emperor.

Prince Eugene intended to set out the next Day for Bruffels, and his Grace the Duke of Marlborough on the Tuesday following. The Marquis de Torcy talks daily of going, but still 30 The Tatler continues here. The Army of the Alliès is to assemble on the 7th of the next Month at Helchin; though 'tis generally believed, that the Preliminaries to a Treaty are fully adjusted.

The Approach of a Peace strikes a Pannick thro' our Armies, tho' that of a Battle could never do it, and they almost repent of their Bravery, that made fuch hafte to humble themfelves and the French King. The Duke of Marlborough, the' otherwise the greatest General of the Age, has plainly shown himself unacquainted with the Arts of Husbanding a War. He might have grown as old as the Duke of Alva, or Prince Waldeck, in the Low-Countries, and yet have got Reputation enough every Year for any reasonable Man: For the Command of General in Flanders hath been ever look'd upon as a Provision for Life. For my Part, I can't see how his Grace can answer it to the World, for the great Eagerness he hath shown to fend a Hundred Thousand of the bravest Fellows in Europe a begging. But the private Gentlemen of the Infantry will be able to shift for themselves; a brave Man can never starve in a Country stock'd with Hen-roosts. There is not a Yard of Linen, says my honoured Progenitor, Sir John Falstaff, in my whole Company; but as for that, says this worthy Knight, I am in no great Pain, we shall find Shirts on every Hedge. There is another Sort of Gentlemen whom I am much more concerned for, and that is, the ingenious Fraternity of which I have the Honour to be an unworthy Member; I mean the News Writers of Great Britain, whether Post-Men or Post-Boys, or by what other Name or Title soever dignified or distinguish'd. The Case of these Gentlemen is, I think, more hard than that of the Soldiers, confidering that they have taken more Towns, and fought more Battels,

to

Tel-

he

ick

ne-

ra-

m-

of

ne-

ın-

a

he

mgh

e-

or

ver

he

the

the

ble

ver

sts.

ur-

pole thy

ind

of or,

hI

er:

he-

ner

'd.

ore

nat

ore

els,

They have been upon Parties and Skirmishes, when our Armies have lain still; and given the General Affault to many a Place, when the Besiegers were quiet in their Trench-They have made us Masters of several strong Towns many Weeks before our Generals could do it; and compleated Victories, when our greatest Captains have been glad to come off with a drawn Battle. Where Prince Eugene has flain his Thousands, Boyer has flain his Ten Thousands. This Gentleman can indeed be never enough commended for his Courage and Intrepidity during this whole War: He has laid about him with an inexpressible Fury, and like the offended Marius of Ancient Rome, made fuch Havock among his Countrymen, as must be the Work of two or three Ages to re-It must be confess'd, the Redoubled Mr. Buckley has shed as much Blood as the former; but I cannot forbear faying, (and I hope it will not look like Envy) that we regard our Brother Buckley as a kind of Drawcanfir, who spares neither Friend or Foe. But generally kills as many of his own Side as the Enemy's. It is impossible for this ingenious Sort of Men to sublist after a Peace: Every one remembers the Shifts they were driven to in the Reign of King Charles the Second, when they could not furnish out a fingle Paper of News, without lighting up a Comet in Germany, or a Fire in Moscow. There scarce appeared a Letter without a Paragraph on an Earthquake. Prodigies were grown fo familiar, that they had loft their Name, as a great Poet of that Age has it. I remember Mr. Dyer, who is justly look'd upon by all the Fox-hunters in the Nation as the greatest Statesman our Country has produced, was particularly famous for dealing in Whales; infomuch that in Five Months Time (tor

132

(for I had the Curiofity to examine his Letters on that Occasion) he brought Three into the Mouth of the River Thames, besides Two Porpusses and a Sturgeon. The judicious and warry Mr. I. Dawks hath all along been the Rival of this great Writer, and got himself a Reputation from Plagues and Famines, by which, in those Days, he destroyed as great Multitudes, as he has lately done by the Sword. In every Dearth of News, Grand Cairo was sure to be unpeopled.

It being therefore visible, that our Society will be greater Sufferers by the Peace than the Soldiry it felf; infomuch that the Daily Courant is in Danger of being broken, my Friend Dyer of being reformed, and the very best of the whole Band of being reduced to Half-Pay; Might I presume to offer any Thing in the Behalf of my distressed Brethren, I would hum-bly move, That an Appendix of proper Apartments furnished with Pen, Ink, and Paper, and other Necessaries of Life should be added to the Hospital of Chelsea, for the Relief of fuch decay'd News-Writers as have ferv'd their Country in the Wars; and that for their Exercife, they should compile the Annals of their Brother Veterans, who have been engaged in the same Service, and are still obliged to do Duty after the same Manner.

I cannot be thought to speak this out of an Eye to any private Interest; for, as my chief Scenes of Action are Coffee-houses, Play-houses, and my own Apartment, I am in no need of Camps, Fortifications, and Fields of Battle, to support me; I don't call out for Heroes and Generals to my Assistance. Though the Officers are broken, and the Armies disbanded, I shall still be safe as long as there are Men or Women, or Politicians, or Lovers, or Poets, or Nymphs,

ers

the

or-Naval puin

les, ery

be ety

the ou-

end

of

ay; Be-

m-

A-

ind

be fof

eir

er-

eir

in

)u-

an ief

es,

of

to

nd

of-

ed,

or

or 15, Nymphs, or Swains, or Cits, or Courtiers in Being.

The TATLER. [Nº 19.

From Saturd. May 21. to Tuesd. May 24. 1709.

From my own Apartment, May 23.

Here is nothing can give a Man of any Consideration greater Pain, than to see Order and Distinction laid aside amongst Men, efpecially when the Rank (of which he himfelf is a Member) is intruded upon by fuch as have no Pretence to that Honour. The Appellation of Esquire is the most notoriously abused in this Kind of any Class amongst Men, insomuch that it is become almost the Subject of Derision: but I will be bold to fay, This Behaviour towards it proceeds from the Ignorance of the People in its true Origine. I shall therefore, as briefly as posfible, do my felf and all true Esquires the Justice to look into Antiquity upon this Subject.

In the First Ages of the World, before the Invention of Jointures and Settlements, when the noble Passion of Love had Possession of the Hearts of Men, and the Fair Sex were not yet cultivated into the merciful Disposition which they have showed in latter Centuries, it was natural for Great and Heroick Spirits to retire to Rivulets, Woods, and Caves, to lament their Destiny, and the Cruelty of the Fair Persons who were deaf to their Lamentations. The Hero in this Distress was generally in Armour, and in a Readiness to fight any Man he met with, especially if distinguished by any extraordinary Qualifications, it being the Nature of Heroick Love to hate all Merit, lest it should come within the Observation of the Cruel One, by whom its own Perfections are neglected. A Lover of this Kind had always about him a Perfon of a Second Value, and subordinate to him. who could hear his Afflictions, carry an Inchantment for his Wounds, hold his Helmet when he was eating (if ever he did eat); or in his Abfence, when he was retired to his Apartment in any King's Palace, tell the Prince himself, or perhaps his Daughter, the Birth, Parentage, and Adventures, of his valiant Master. This trusty Companion was styled his Esquire, and was always fit for any Offices about him; was as gentle and chafte as a Gentleman-Usher, quick and active as an Equerry, smooth and eloquent as a Master of the Ceremonies. A Man thus qualified was the first, as the Ancients affirm, who was called an Esquire; and none without these Accomplishments ought to assume our Order: But, to the utter Difgrace and Confusion of the Heralds, every Pretender is admitted into this Fraternity, even Persons the most Foreign to this courteous Institution. I have taken an Inventory of all within this City, and looked over every Letter in the Post-Office for my better Information. There are of the Middle-Temple, including all in the Buttery Books, and in the Lists of the House, 5000. In the Inner, 4000. In the King's-Bench-Walks, the whole Buildings are inhabited by Esquires only. The adjacent Street of Effex, from Morris's Coffeehouse, and the Turning towards the Gracian, you cannot meet one who is not an Esquire, 'till you take Water. Every House in Norfolk and Arundel Streets is governed also by a Squire, or his Lady. Soho-Square, Bloomsbury-Square, and all other Places, where the Floors rife above Nine Foot, are so many Universities, where you enter your felves, and become of our Order. However,

One,

Per-

ant-

l he

Ab-

t in

or

and ulty

al-

en-

ick

ent

ius

m,

ut

)r-

on

ed

ft

ve

d

Or

s,

1-

e

However, if this were the worst of the Evil, it were to be supported, because they are generally Men of some Figure and Use; tho' I know no Pretence they have to an Honour which had its Rise from Chivalry. But if you travel into the Counties of Great Britain, we are still more imposed upon by Innovation. We are indeed derived from the Field : But shall that give Title to all that ride mad after Foxes, that holloo when they see an Hare, or venture their Necks full Speed after an Hawk, immediately to commence Esquires? No; our Order is Temperate. Cleanly, Sober, and Chaste; but these Rural Esquires commit Immodesties upon Hay-cocks, wear Shirts half a Week, and are drunk twice a Day. These Men are also to the last Degree excessive in their Food: An Esquire of Norfolk eats Two Pounds of Dumplin every Meal, as if obliged to it by our Order: An Esquire of Hampshire is as ravenous in devouring Hogs-flesh: One of Effex has as little Mercy on Calves. But I must take the Liberty to protest against them, and acquaint those Persons, that it is not the Quantity they eat, but the Manner of Eating, that shows a Squire. But above all, I am most offended at small Quill-men, and Transcribing Clerks, who are all come into our Order, for no Reason that I know of, but that they can easily flourish it at the End of their Name. I'll undertake, that if you read the Superscriptions to all the Offices in the Kingdom, you will not find three Letters directed to any but Efquires. I have my felf a Couple of Clerks, and the Rogues make nothing of leaving Messages upon each other's Desk: One directs, To Degory Goojequill Esq; to which the other replies by a Note, To Nehemiah Dashwell Esq; with Respect. In a Word, it is now, Populus Armigerorum, A People of Esquires. And I don't know, but, by the late Act of Naturalization, Foreigners will affume that Title, as Part of the Immunity of being an Englishman. All these Improprieties flow from the Negligence of the Heralds-Office. Those Gentlemen in Party-colour'd Habits do not fo righty, as they ought, understand themfelves; though they are dress'd Cap-a-pe in Hieroglyphicks, they are inwardly but ignorant Men. I asked an Acquaintance of mine, who is a Man of Wit, but of no Fortune, and is forced to appear as Jack-pudding on the Stage to a Mountebank: Prethee, Jack, Why is your Coat of so many Colours? He reply'd, I act a Fool, and this spotted Dress is to signify, that every Man living has a weak Place about him; for I am Knight of the Shire, and represent you all. I wish the Heralds would know as well as this Man does, in his Way, that they are to act for us in the Case of our Arms and Appellations: We should not then be jumbled together in so promiscuous and absurd a Manner. I design to take this Matter into further Consideration, and no Man shall be received as an Esquire, who cannot bring a Certificate, That he has conquered fome Lady's obdurate Heart; That he can lead up a Country Dance, or carry a Meffage between her and her Lover, with Address, Secrecy and Diligence. A Squire is properly born for the Service of the Sex, and his Credentials shall be figned by Three Toasts, and One Prude, before his Title shall be received in my Office:

On Saturday last was presented, The Busie Body, a Comedy, written (as I have heretofore remarked) by a Woman. The Plot and Incidents of the Play are laid with that Subtilty of Spirit which is peculiar to Females of Wit, and is very feldom well performed by those of the other

Will's Coffee-house, May 23.

Sex tion Nat Trif

grea in it cifn Part You ful gen whi

Cha

L N. S was whit him Fren ved coun ven they vide vilio Gen then the ! fame are Chr tick

Torc

who

of t

Sex,

lies.

Sex, in whom Craft in Love is an Act of Invention, and not, as with Women, the Effect of Nature and Instinct.

To Morrow will be acted a Play, call'd, The Trip to the Jubilee. This Performance is the greatest Instance that we can have of the irre-shiftible Force of proper Action. The Dialogue in it self has something too low to bear a Criticism upon it: But Mr. Wilks enters into the Part with so much Skill, that the Gallantry, the Youth, and Gaity of a young Man of a plentiful Fortune, is looked upon with as much Indulgence on the Stage, as in real Life, without any of those Intermixtures of Wit and Humour, which usually preposses us in Favour of such Characters in other Plays.

St. James's Coffee-house, May 23.

Letters from the Hague of the 23d Instant, N. S. fay, Mr. Walpole (who is fince arrived) was going with all Expedition to Great Britain, whither they doubted not but he carried with him the Preliminaries to a Treaty of Peace. The French Minister, Monsieur Torcy, has been observed in this whole Negotiation to turn his Difcourse upon the Calamities sent down by Hea. ven upon France, and imputed the Necessities they were under to the immediate Hand of Providence, in inflicting a general Scarcity of Provision, rather than the superior Genius of the Generals, or the Bravery of the Armies against them. It would be impious not to acknowledge the Indulgence of Heaven to us; but at the fame Time, as we are to love our Enemies, we are glad to fee'em mortified enough to mix Christianity with their Politicks. An Authentick Letter from Madam Maintenon to Monieur Torcy has been stolen by a Person about him, who has communicated a Copy of it to some of the Dependants of a Minister of the Allies. That Epistle is writ in the most Pathetick Manner imaginable, and in a Style which shows her Genius, that has fo long engrossed the Heart of this great Monarch.

SIR.

Received yours, and am sensible of the Address I and Capacity with which you have hitherto transacted the great Affair under your Management. You well observe, that our Wants here are not to be concealed; and that it is Vanity to use Artifices with the knowing Men with whom you are to deal. Let me beg you therefore, in this Representation of our Circumstances, to lay aside Art, which ceases to be such when it is seen, and make Use of all your Skill, to gain us what Advantages you can from the Enemy's Jealousy of each other's Greatness; which is the Place where only you have Room for any Dexterity. If you have any Passion for your unhappy Country, or any Affection for your distressed Master, come home with Peace. Oh Heaven! Do I live to talk of Lewis the Great as the Object of Pity? The King shews a great Uneasiness to be informed of all that passes; but at the same Time, is fearful of every one who appears in his Presence, lest he should bring an Account of some new Calamity. I know not in what Terms to represent my Thoughts to you, when I Speak of the King, with Relation to his Bodily Health. Figure to your felf that Immortal Man, who stood in our Publick Places, represented with Trophies, Armour, and Terrors, on his Pedestal: Consider, the Invincible, the Great, the Good, the Pious, the Mighty, which were the usual Epithets we gave him, both in our Language and Thoughts. I say, consider him whom you knew the most Glorious and Great of Monarchs; and now think you see the same Man an unhappy Lazar, in the lowest Circumstances of Human Nature it self, mithout with len.

in a add: is to

T

to th Difh which foon fieur Mari Con befor Fran

Fro

V in C ness. Test from feem Brov ables Faire and too i

Con feem without Regard to the State from whence he is fallen. I write from his Bed-side: He is at present in a Slumber. I have many, many Things to add; but my Tears slow too fast, and my Sorrow is too big for Utterance.

I am; Oc.

There is such a Veneration due from all Men to the Persons of Princes, that it were a Sort of Dishonesty to represent further the Condition which the King is in; but it is certain, That soon after the Receipt of these Advices, Monsieur Torcy waited upon his Grace the Duke of Marlborough and the Lord Townshend, and in that Conference gave up many Points, which he had before said were such, as he must return to France before he could answer.

The TATLER. [N° 20.

From Tuesd. May 24. to Thursd. May 26. 1709.

White's Chocolate-house, May 24.

I is not to be imagined how far Preposession will run away with People's Understandings, in Cases wherein they are under present Uneatiness. The following Narration is a sufficient Testimony of the Truth of this Observation.

I had the Honour the other Day of a Visit from a Gentlewoman (a Stranger to me) who seemed to be about Thirty. Her Complexion is Brown; but the Air of her Face has an Agreeableness, which surpasses the Beauties of the Fairest Women. There appeared in her Look and Mien a sprightly Health; and her Eyes had too much Vivacity to become the Language of Complaint, which she began to enter into. She seemed sensible of it; and therefore, with down-cast Looks, said she, Mr. Bickerstaff, You fee before you the unhappiest of Women; and therefore, as you are esteemed by all the World both a great Civilian, as well as an Aftrologer, I must defire your Advice and Affistance, in putting me in a Method of obtaining a Divorce from a Marriage, which I know the Law will pronounce void. Madam, faid I, your Grievance is of fuch a Nature, that you must be very ingenuous in reprefenting the Caufes of your Complaint, or I cannot give you the Satisfaction you defire. Sir, she answers, I believed there would be no need of half your Skill in the Art of Divination, to guess why a Woman would part from her Husband. 'I's true. faid I, but Suspicions, or Guesses at what you mean, nay Certainty of it, except you plainly speak it, are no Foundation for a formal Suit. She clap'd her Fan before her Face; My Husband, faid she, is no more an Husband (here The burst into Tears) than one of the Italian Singers.

Madam, faid I, the Affliction you complain of, is to be redressed by Law; but at the same Time, confider what Mortifications you are to go through in bringing it into open Court; how you will be able to bear the impertinent Whifpers of the People prefent at the Tryal, the licentious Reflections of the Pleaders, and the Interpretations that will in general be put upon your Conduct by all the World: How little (will they fay) could that Lady command her Passions. Besides, consider, that curbing our Defires is the greatest Glory we can arrive at in this World, and will be most rewarded in the next. She answered, like a prudent Matron, Sir, if you please to remember the Office of Matrimony, the first Cause of its Institution is that of having Posterity: Therefore, as to the curb-

No curb Abst me; live an e ply.

fo v gum lick Do beau ded tion imag venl Deve Con me c then live this The Mrs. they Play at E Mr. vou desti Selfwith told Age jure Fifte com to y He

have

curbing Defires, I am willing to undergo any Abstinence from Food as you please to enjoin me; but I cannot, with any Quiet of Mind. live in the Neglect of a necessary Duty, and an express Commandment, Increase and Multiply. Observing she was Learned, and knew to well the Duties of Life, I turned my Arguments rather to dehort her from this Publick Procedure by Examples, than Precepts. Do but consider, Madam, what Crowds of beauteous Women live in Nunneries, fecluded for ever from the Sight and Conversation of Men, with all the Alacrity of Spirit imaginable; they fpend their Time in Heavenly Raptures, in constant and frequent Devotions, and at proper Hours in agreeable Conversations. Sir, said she hastily, Tell not me of Papists, or any of their Idolatries. Well then, Madam, consider how many fine Ladies live innocently in the Eye of the World, and this gay Town, in the midst of Temptation: There's the Witty Mrs. W---, is a Virgin of 44, Mrs. T--- s is 39, Mrs. L---ce 33; yet you fee, they laugh and are gay, at the Park, at the Play-house, at Balls, and at Visits; and so much at Ease, that all this feems hardly a Self-denial. Mr. Bickerstaff, said she, with some Emotion, you are an excellent Casuist; but the last Word destroyed your whole Argument; if it is not Self-denial, it is no Virtue. I presented you with an Half-Guinea, in Hopes not only to have my Conscience eas'd; but my Fortune told. Yet -- Well Madam, faid I, Pray of what Age is your Husband? He is, reply'd my injured Client, Fifty, and I have been his Wife Fifteen Years. How happened it, you never communicated your Distress in all this Time to your Friends and Relations? She answered, He has been thus but a Fortnight. I am the most most serious Man in the World to look at, and yet could not forbear laughing out. Why, Madam, in case of Infirmity, which proceeds only from Age, the Law gives no Remedy. Sir. faid she, I find you have no more Learning than Dr. Case; and I am told of a young Man, not Five and twenty, just come from Oxford, to whom I will communicate this whole Matter. and doubt not but he will appear to have feven times more useful and satisfactory Knowledge than you and all your boasted Family. Thus I have entirely lost my Client: But if this tedious Narrative preserves Pastorella from the intended Marriage with one Twenty Years her Senior -- To fave a Fine Lady, I am contented to have my Learning decry'd, and my Predictions bound up with Poor Robin's Almamacks.

Will's Coffee-house, May 25.

This Evening was acted, The Recruiting Officer, in which Mr. Effcourt's proper Sense and Observation is what supports the Play. There is not, in my humble Opinion, the Humour hit in Sergeant Kite; but it is admirably supply'd by his Action. If I have Skill to judge, that Man is an excellent Actor; but the Crowd of the Audience are fitter for Representations at May-Fair, than a Theatre-Royal. Yet that Fair is now broke, as well as the Theatre is breaking: But it is allowed still to fell Animals there. Therefore, if any Lady or Gentleman have Occasion for a Tame Elephant, let them enquire of Mr. Pinkethman, who has one to dispose of at a reasonable Rate. The Downfal of May-Fair has quite funk the Price of this noble Creature, as well as of many other Curiofities of Nature. A Tyger will fell almost as cheap as an Ox; and I am credibly informed, a Man may purchase a Cat with Three Legs, for very near wife. the ( name Plun of th Mrs. pet-S wher of Jo tous that Conv did n Fair. ing o fer to in a may a Gla Cent tions ftreff had t to dif the H fo th ed, t could woul fame This py Pr

the no

Forre

the h

Solit

near

near the Value of one with Four. I hear likewife, That there is a great Defolation among the Gentlemen and Ladies who were the Ornaments of the Town, and used to shine in Plumes and Diadems; the Heroes being most of them press'd, and the Queen's beating Hemp. Mrs. Sarabrand, to famous for her ingenious Puppet-Show, has fet up a Shop in the Exchange. where the fells her little Troop under the Term of Jointed Babies. I could not but be folicitous to know of her, how she had disposed of that Rake-hell Punch, whose lewd Life and Conversation had given so much Scandal, and did not a little contribute to the Ruin of the Fair. She told me, with a Sigh, That despairing of ever reclaiming him, she would not offer to place him in a Civil Family, but got him in a Post upon a Stall in Wapping, where he may be feen from Sun-rifing to Sun-fetting, with a Glass in one Hand, and a Pipe in the other, as Centry to a Brandy-Shop. The great Revolutions of this Nature bring to my Mind the Distresses of the unfortunate Camilla, who has had the ill Luck to break before her Voice, and to disappear at a Time when her Beauty was in the Heighth of its Bloom. This Lady enter'd fo throughly into the great Characters she acted, that when the had finished her Part, the could not think of retrenching her Equipage, and would appear in her own Lodgings with the fame Magnificence that she did upon the Stage. This Greatness of Soul has reduced that unhappy Princess to an involuntary Retirement, where the now paffes her Time among the Woods and Forrests, thinking on the Crowns and Scepters the has loft, and often humming over in her Solitude,

I was born of Royal Race, Yet must wander in Disgrace, &c. But for Fear of being over-heard, and her Quality known, she usually sings it in Italian;

Naqui al Regno, naqui al Trono E pur sono Iventurata Pastorella——

Since I have touched upon this Subject, I shall communicate to my Reader Part of a Letter I have received from an Ingenious Friend at Amfterdam, where there is a very noble Theatre; though the Manner of furnishing it with Actors is something peculiar to that Place, and gives us Occasion to admire both the Politeness and Frugality of the People.

MY Friends have kept me here a Week longer than ordinary to see one of their Plays, which was performed last Night with great Applause. The Actors are all of them Tradefmen, who, after their Day's Work is over, earn about a Gilder a Night by personating Kings and Generals. The Hero of the Tragedy I saw, was a fourney-man Taylor, and his First Minister of State a Coffeeman. The Empress made me think of Parthenope in the Rehearfal; for her Mother keeps an Alebouse in the Suburbs of Amsterdam. When the Tragedy was over, they entertained us with a (hort Farce, in which the Cobler did his Part to a Miracle; but upon Enquiry, I found he had really been working at his own Trade, and representing on the Stage what he acted every Day in his Shop. The Profits of the Theatre maintain an Ho-Spital: For as here they do not think the Profession of an Actor the only Trade that a Man ought to exercise, so they will not allow any Body to grow rich on a Profession that so little conduces to the Good of the Commonwealth. If I am not mistaken, your Play-houses in England have done the same Thing; for, unless I am misinformed, tise

who

N

the

by 1

TAH

ber

N. gen Stat fidin Mai ly who next Cou Tre Day on v mof

H

teffa with to be the out Allie Pan not be o then for The dem felf tend 1011736

the Hospital at Dulledge was erected and endowed by Mr. Allen, a Player: And it is also said, A famous She-Iragedian has settled her Estate, after her Death, for the Maintenance of decay'd Wits, who are to be taken in assoon as they grow dull, at whatever Time of their Life that shall happen.

St. James's Coffee-house, May 25.

Letters from the Hague of the 31st Instant, N. S. say, That the Articles Preliminary to a general Peace were settled, communicated to the States-General, and all the Foreign Ministers residing there, and transmitted to their respective Masters on the 28th. Monsieur Torcy immediately returned to the Court of France, from whence he is expected again on the 4th of the next Month, with those Articles ratisfied by that Court. The Hague is agreed upon for the Place of Treaty, and the 15th of the next Month the Day on which it is to commence. The Terms on which this Negotiation is founded, are not yet declared by publick Authority; but what is most generally received, is as follows:

Her Majesty's Right and Title, and the Protestant Succession to those Dominions, is forthwith to be acknowledged. King Charles is also to be owned the lawful Sovereign of Spain; and the French King shall not only recall his Troops out of that Kingdom, and deliver up to the Allies the Towns of Roses, Fonterabia, and Pampelona; but in case the Duke of Anjou shall not retire out of the Spanish Dominions, he shall be obliged to affift the Allies to force him from thence. A Cessation of Arms is agreed upon for Two Months from the first Day of Treaty. The Port and Fortifications of Dunkirk are to be demolished within 4 Months; but the Town it felf left in the Hands of the French. The Pretender is to be obliged to leave France. All Newfoundland is to be restored to the English. As to the

my

rati

and of n wha

Toal

App

pref

toge

we t fatio

of Ir

Qua

any o

That

ther

ging you, likely ten (

The

of C

ment of hi

that Ten t

the other Parts of America, the French are to reflore whatever they may have taken from the English, as the English in like Manner to give up what they may have taken from the French before the Commencement of the Treaty. The Trade between Great Britain and France shall be settled upon the same Foundation as in the Reign of King Charles the Second.

The Dutch are to have for their Barriers, New. port, Berg, St. Vinox, Furnes, Ipres, Lille, Tournay, Douay, Valenciennes, Conde, Maubeuge, Mons, Charleroy, Namur, and Luxemburg; all which Places shall be delivered up to the Allies ber fore the End of June. The Trade between Holland and France shall be on the same Foot as in 1664. The Cities of Strasburgh, Brifac, and Alfatia, shall be restored to the Emperor and Empire; and the King of France, pursuant to the Treaty of Westphalia in 1648, shall only retain the Protection of Ten Imperial Cities, viz. Colmar, Schlestat, Haguenau, Munster, Turkeim, Keisemberg, Obrenheim, Rosheim, Weisemburg, and Landau. Huninguen, Fort Louis, Fort Khiel, and New Brifac, shall be demolished, and all the Fortifications from Basil to Philipsburg. The King of Pruffia shall remain in the peaceable Possession of Neufchatel. The Affair of Orange, as also the Pretensions of his Prussian Majesty in the French Comte, shall be determined at this general Negotiation of Peace. The Duke of Savoy shall have a Restitution made of all that has been taken from him by the French, and remain Master of Exilles, Chamont, Fenestrelles, and the Walley of Pragelas.

The

The TATLER. [Nº 21. From Thursday May 26. to Saturday May 28. 1709.

White's Chocolate-house, May 26. Gentleman has writ to me out of the Things which I suppress with great Violence to my Vanity. There are many Terms in my Narratives which he complains want explaining, and has therefore defired, that, for the Benefit of my Country Readers, I would let him know what I mean by a Gentleman, a Pretty Fellow, a Teast, a Coquet, a Critick, a Wit, and all other Appellations in the gayer World, who are in present Possession of these several Characters; together with an Account of those who unfortunately pretend to 'em. I shall begin with him we usually call a Gentleman, or Man of Converfation. It is generally thought, That Warmth of Imagination, quick Relish of Pleasure, and a Manner of becoming it, are the most essential Qualities for forming this Sort of Man. But any one that is much in Company will observe, That the Height of good Breeding is shown rather in never giving Offence, than in doing obliging Things. Thus, he that never shocks you, tho' he is feldom entertaining, is more likely to keep your Favour, than he who often entertains, and sometimes displeases you. The most necessary Talent therefore in a Man of Conversation, which is what we ordinarily intend by a Fine Gentleman, is a good Judgment. He that has this in Perfection, is Master of his Companion, without letting him fee it; and has the same Advantage over Men of any other Qualifications whatfoever, as one that can fee would have over a blind Man of Ten times his Strength. This is what makes Sophro148

R

W fo

tii gi

in tei a l

Ea tha

get

and

and

Wil

a (

ma lec

is c

But

atte

W

fuel

Ho

Mai

moi us c

Sen

Cha

Hea

Sophronius the Darling of all who converse with him, and the most Powerful with his Acquaintance of any Man in Town. By the Light of this Faculty, he acts with great Ease and Freedom among the Men of Pleasure, and acquits himself with Skill and Dispatch among the Men of Buliness. This he performs with so much Success, that, with as much Discretion in Life as any Man ever had, he neither is, nor appears, Cunning. But as he does a good Office, if he ever does it, with Readiness and Alacrity; so he denies what he does not care to engage in. in a Manner that convinces you, that you ought not to have asked it. His Judgment is fo good and unerring, and accompanied with fo chearful a Spirit, that his Conversation is a continual Feast, at which he helps some, and is helped by others, in fuch a Manner, that the Equality of Society is perfectly kept up, and every Man obliges as much as he is obliged: For it is the greatest and justest Skill in a Man of Superior Understanding, to know how to be on a Level with his Companions. This fweet Difpolition runs through all the Actions of Sophronius, and makes his Company defired by Women, without being envyed by Men. Sophroniwould be as just as he is, if there were no Law; and would be as discreet as he is, if there were no fuch Thing as Calumny.

In Imitation of this agreeable Being, is made that Animal we call a Pretty Fellow; who being just able to find out, that what makes Sophromius acceptable, is a Natural Behaviour; in order to the same Reputation, makes his own an Artificial one. Jack Dimple is his perfect Mimick, whereby he is of Course the most unlike him of all Men living. Sophronius just now passed into the inner Room directly forward: Jack comes as fast after as he can for the Right and

S

0

e

Ī.

0

1

V

and beft Looking-glass, in which he had but just approved himself by a Nod at each, and marched on. He will meditate within for Half an Hour, 'till he thinks he is not careless enough in his Air, and come back to the Mirror to recollect his Forgetfulness.

Will's Coffee-house, May 27.

This Night was acted the Comedy, called, The Fox; but I wonder the Modern Writers do not use their Interest in the House to suppress such Representations. A Man that has been at this, will hardly like any other Play during the Scafon: Therefore I humbly move, That the Writings, as well as Dreffes, of the last Age, should give Way to the present Fashion. We are come into a good Method enough (if we were not interrupted in our Mirth by fuch an Apparition as a Play of Johnson's) to be entertained at more Ease, both to the Spectator and the Writer, than in the Days of Old. It is no Difficulty to get Hats, and Swords, and Wigs, and Shoes. and every Thing elfe, from the Shops in Town, and make a Man show himself by his Habit, without more ado, to be a Counsellor, a Fop. a Courtier, or a Citizen, and not be obliged to make those Characters talk in different Dialects to be diffinguished from each other. This is certainly the furest and best Way of Writing: But fuch a Play as this makes a Man for a Month atter over-run with Criticism, and enquire, What every Man on the Stage faid? What had fuch a one to do to meddle with fuch a Thing? How came t'other, who was bred after such a Manner, to speak so like a Man conversant among a different People? These Questions rob us of all our Pleasure; for at this Rate, no one Sentence in a Play should be spoken by any one Character, which could possibly enter into the Head of any other Man represented in it; but die

your

diff

0107 lem

liv

tro ren

tur

lic

da

Bi

Sel

Fi

m

M

m

H

every Sentiment should be peculiar to him only who utters it. Laborious Ben's Works will bear this Sort of Inquisition; but if the present Writers were thus examin'd, and the Offences against this Rule cut out, few Plays would be long enough for the whole Evening's Entertainment. But I don't know how they did in those old Times: This fame Ben Johnson has made every one's Paliion in this Play be towards Money, and yet not one of them expresses that Defire, or endeavours to obtain it any Way but what is peculiar to him only: One facrifices his Wife, another his Protession, another his Posterity from the same Motive; but their Characters are kept fo skillfully a part, that it feems prodigious their Difcourses should rife from the Invention of the same Author. But the Poets are a Nest of Hornets, and I'll drive these Thoughts no farther, but must mention some hard Treatment I am like to nicet with from my Brother Writers. I am credibly informed, that the Author of a Play, call'd, Love in a Hollow Tree, has made some Remarks upon my late Discourse on The Naked Truth. I cannot blame a Gentleman for writing against any Error; it is for the Good of the learned World. But I would have the Thing fairly left between us Two, and not under the Protection of Patrons. But my Intelligence is, that he has dedicated his Treatise to the Honourable Mr. Ed--d H--rd.

From my own Apartment, May 27.

To Ifaac Bickerstaff Efq;

SIR, York, May 16. 1709; Being convinced, as the whole World is, how infallible your Predictions are, and having the Honour to be your near Relation, of the Staffian Family, I was under great Concern at one of your Predictions.

y

1-gtd

y

dictions relating to your self, wherein you foretold your own Death would happen on the 17th Instant, unless it were prevented by the Assistance of well disposed People: I have therefore prevailed on my own Modesty to send you a Piece of News, which may serve instead of Goddard's Drops, to keep you alive for Two Days, till Nature be able to recover it self, or till you meet with some better Help from other Hands. Therefore, without further Ceremony, I will go on to relate a singular Adventure just happened in the Place where I am writing, wherein it may be highly useful for the Publick to be inform'd.

Three young Ladies of our Town were on Saturday last indicted for Witchcraft. The Witnesses against the First deposed upon Oath before Justice Bindover, That she kept Spirits locked up in Vessels, which sometimes appeared in Flames of blue Fire; That she used Magical Herbs, with some of which she drew in Hundreds of Men daily to her, who went out from her Presence all instamed, their Mouths parched, and a hot Steam issuing from them, attended with a grievous Stench; That many of the said Men were by the Force of that Herb metamorphos'd into Swine, and lay wallowing in the Kennels for Twenty four Hours, before they could reassume their Shapes or their Senses.

It was proved against the Second, That she cat off by Night the Limbs from dead Bodies that were hang'd, and was seen to dig Holes in the Ground, to mutter some conjuring Words, and bury Pieces of the Flesh, after the usual Manner of Witches.

The Third was accused for a notorious Piece of Sorcery, long practifed by Hags, of moulding up Pieces of Dough into the Shapes of Men, Women, and Children; then heating them at a gentle Fire, which had a Sympathetick Power to torment the Bowels of those in the Neighbourhood.

H4

This

th

di

V

or ai

YC

ot

fo

gr

tre

do

m

yo

W

an Ac Sq

di

m pr

in Re

th

T

to

hi

gu

This was the Sum of what was objected against the Three Ladies, who indeed had nothing to say in their own Defence, but downright denying the Facts, which is like to avail very little when they come upon their Tryals.

But the Parson of our Parish, a strange refractory Man, will believe nothing of all this; Jo that the whole Town cries out, Shame! That one of his Coat should be such an Atheist! And design to complain of him to the Bishop. He goes about very odly to solve the Matter. He supposes, That the First of these Ladies keeping a Brandy and Tobacco Shop; the Fellows went out smoaking, and got drunk towards Evening, and made themselves Beasts. He lays, The Second is a Butcher's Daughter, and sometimes brings a Quarter of Mutton from the Slaughter-house over Night against a Market-Day, and once buried a Bit of Beef in the Ground, as a known Receipt to cure Warts on her Hands. The Parson affirms, That the Third sells Gingerbread, which, to please the Children, she is forc'd to stamp with Images before 'tis bak'd; and if it burns their Guts, tis because they eat too much, or do not drink after it.

These are the Answers he gives to solve this wonderful Phænomenon; upon which I shall not animadvert, but leave it among Philosophers: And so wishing you all Success in your Undertakings for the Amendment of the World, I remain,

Dear Cousin,

Your most Affectionate Kinsman, and Humble Servant,

Ephraim Bedstaff.

P.S. Those

1 ...

P. S. Those who were condemn'd to Death among the Athenians, were obliged to take a Dole of Poison, which made them die upwards, feizing first upon their Feet, making them cold and infentible, and fo afcending gradually, till it reach'd the Vital Parts. I believe your Death, which you foretold would happen on the 17th Instant, will fall out the same Way, and that your Diftemper hath already feiz'd our you, and makes Progress daily. The lower Part of you, that is, the Advertisements, is dead; and these have risen for these Ten Days last past, fo that they now take up almost a whole Paragraph. Pray, Sir, do your Endeavour to drive this Distemper as much as possible to the extreme Parts, and keep it there, as wife Folks do the Gout; for if it once gets into your Stomach, it will foon fly up into your Head, and you are a dead Man.

St. James's Coffee-House, May 27.

We hear from Leghern, That Sir Edward Whitaker, with 5 Men of War, 4 Transports, and 2 Fireships, was arriv'd at that Port, and Admiral Bing was suddenly expected. Their Squadrons being joined, they design to fail directly for Final, to transport the Reinforcements, lodg'd in those Parts, to Barcelona.

They write from Milan, That Count Thaun arrived there on the 16th Instant, N. S. and proceeded on his Journey to Turin on the 21st, in order to concert such Measures with his Royal Highness, as shall appear necessary for the Operations of the ensuing Campaign.

Advices from Dauphine say, That the Troops of the Duke of Savoy began already to appear in those Valleys, whereof he made himself Master the last Year; and that the Duke of Berwick apply'd himself with all imaginable Diligence to secure the Passes of the

0

0

21

D

W

in the Mountains, by ordering Intrenchments to be made towards Briançon, Tourneau, and the Valley of Queiras. That General has also been at Marseilles and Thoulon, to hasten the Transportation of the Corn and Provisions defign'd for his Army.

Letters from Vienna, bearing Date May 23. N.S. import, That the Cardinal of Saxe-Zeits and the Prince of Lishtenstein were preparing to set out for Presburgh, to affift at the Diet of the States of Hungary, which is to be Assembled at that Place on the 25th of this Month. General Heister would shortly appear at the Head of his Army at Trentschin, which Place is appointed for the general Rendezvous of the Imperial Forces in Hungary; from whence he will advance to lay Siege to Newhausel: In the mean Time, Reinforcements, with a great Train of Artillery, are marching the same Way, The King of Denmark arrived on the 10th In-Stant at Inspruck, and on the 26th at Dresden, under a Triple Discharge of the Artillery of that Place; but his Majesty refused the Ceremonies of a Publick Entry.

Our Letters from the Upper Rhine say, That the Imperial Army began to form it self at Etlingen; where the respective Deputies of the Elector Palatine, the Prince of Baden Durlach, the Bishoprick of Spires, &c. were assembled, and had taken the necessary Measures for the Provision of Forage, the Security of the Country against the Incursions of the Enemy, and laying a Bridge over the Rhine, Several Vessels laden with Corn are daily passing before Frankfort for the Lower Rhine.

Letters from Poland inform us, That a Deeachment of Muscovite Cavalry, under the Command of General Instand, had joined the Confederate Army; and the Instantry, commanded

y

by General Goltz, was expected to come up within few Days. These Succours will amount to 20000 Men.

Our last Advices from the Hague, dated June the 4th, N.S. fay, That they expected a Courier from the French Court with the Ratification of the Preliminaries that Night or the Day following. His Grace the Duke of Marlborough will set out for Bruffels on Wednesday or Thursday next, if the Dispatches which are expected from Paris don't alter his Resolutions. Letters from Majorca confirm the Honourable Capitulation of the Castle of Alicant, and also the Death of the Governour Major-General Richards, Colonel Sibourg, and Major Vignolles, who were all buried in the Ruins of that Place, by the fpringing of their great Mine, which did, it feems, more Execution than was reported. Monfieur Torcy pass'd through Mone in his Return, and had there a long Conference with the Elector of Bavaria; after which, that Prince spoke publickly of the Treatment he had receiv'd from France with the utmost Indignation.

Any Person that shall come publickly abroad in a fantastical Habit, contrary to the present Mode and Fashion, except Don Diego Desimallo, or any other out of Powerty, shall have his Name and Dress inserted in our next.

N. B. Mr. How'd'call is defined to leave off those Buttons.

The TATLER. [N° 22.

Vi

an

Pi W

th

W

G

co

CO

yo

ac

yo

re

The fee

pr A

ho

 $\mathbf{P}_{i}$

ve

W

he m fa

P

L

fo

W

W

lu

fa

m

St

From Saturday May 28. to Tuesday May 31. 1709.

White's Chocolate-house, May 28. Came hither this Evening to see Fashions, and who should I first encounter but my old Friend Cynthio (encompass'd by a Crowd young Fellows) dictating on the Paf. fion of Love with the gayest Air imaginable. Well, fays he, As to what I know of the Marter, there is nothing but Ogling with Skill carries a Woman; but indeed it is not every Fool that is capable of this Art: You will find Twenty can speak eloquently, Fifty can fight manfully, and a Thousand that can dress genreely at a Mistress, where there is one that can gaze skilfully. This requires an exquire Judgment, to take the Language of her Eyes to yours exactly, and not let yours talk too fast for hers; as at a Play between the Acts, when Beau Frisk stands upon a Bench full in Lindamira's Face, and her dear Eyes are fearthing round to avoid that flaring open Fool; she meets the watchful Glance of her true Lover, and fees his Heart attentive on her Charms, and waiting for a fecond Twincle of her Eye for its next Motion. Here the good Company fneer'd; but he goes on. Nor is this Attendance a Slavery, when a Man meets Encouragement, and her Eye comes often in his Way: For, after an Evening so spent, and the Repe-tation of four or five significant Looks at him, the happy Man goes Home to his Lodging, full of Ten Thousand pleasing Images: His Brain is dilated, and gives him all the Idea's and Prospects which it ever lets in to its Seat of Pleafure, fure. Thus a kind Look from Lindamira revives in his Imagination all the Beauteous Launs, Green Fields, Woods, Forrests, Rivers and Solitudes, which he had ever before feen in Picture, Description, or Real Life: And all with this Addition, that he now fees 'em with the Eyes of an happy Lover, as before only with those of a common Man. You laugh, Gentlemen: But consider your selves, (you common People that were never in Love) and compare your felves in good Humour with your felves out of Humour, and you will then acknowledge, that all External Objects affect you according to the Disposition you are in to receive their Impressions, and not as those Objects are in their own Nature. How much more shall all that passes within his View and Obfervation, touch with Delight a Man who is prepoffes'd with fuccessful Love, which is an Assemblage of soft Affections, gay Defires, and hopeful Resolutions? Poor Cynthio went on at this Rate to the Crowd about him, without any Purpose in his Talk, but to vent an Heart overflowing with Sense of Success. I wondered what could exalt him from the Distress in which he had long appear'd, to so much Alacrity. But my Familiar has given me the State of his Affairs. It feems then, that lately coming out of the Play-house, his Mistress, who knows he is in her Livery, (as the Manner of infolent' Beauties is) refolv'd to keep him still so, and gave him so much Wages, as to complain to Him of the Crowd she was to pass thro'. He had his Wits and Resolution enough about him to take her Hand, and fay, He would attend her to her Coach. All the Way thither, my good young Man stam-mer'd at every Word, and stumbled at every Step. His Mistress, wonderfully pleased with her Triumph, put him to a Thousand Questions,

the

Mo

be hig

wi

ing

ola

ha

er

Di Fa

as

lik

773

073

Sel

be

Re

T

an

G

pi

fe

ons, to make a Man of his natural Wit speak with Hesitation, and let drop her Fan, to see him recover it aukwardly. This is the whole Foundation of Cynthio's Recovery to the sprightly Air he appears with at present. I grew mighty curious to know something more of that Lady's Affairs, as being amaz'd how she could dally with an Offer of one of his Merit and Fortune. I sent Pacelet to her Lodgings; he immediately brought me back the following Letter to her Friend and Consident Penelope in the Country, wherein she has open'd her Heart and all its Folds.

Dear Amanda,

HE Town grows so empty, that you must expect my Letter so too, except you will allow me to talk of my self instead of others: You cannot imagine what Pain it is, after a whole Day pent in Publick, to want your Company, and the Base which Friendship allows in being vain to each other, and speaking all our Minds. An Account of the Slaughter which these unhappy Eyes bave made within Ten Days last past, would make me appear too great a Tyrant to be allowed in a Christian Country. I shall therefore confine my felf to my Principal Conquests, which are the Hearts of Beau Frisk, and Jack Freeland, befides Cynthio, who, you know, wore my Fetters before you went out of Town. Shall I tell you my Weakness? I begin to love Frisk: It is the best humoured Impertinent Thing in the World: He is always too in waiting, and will certainly carry me off one Time or other. Freeland's Father and mine have been upon Treaty without consulting me; and Cynthio has been eternally watching my Eyes, without approaching me, my Friends, my Maid, or any one about me: He hopes to get mil, I believe, as they say the Rattle-Snake does ak

ee

le

It-

W

of

ne

it

·

e-

5

the Squirrel, by staring at me till I drop into his Mouth. Freeland demands me for a Jointure which he thinks deserves me; Cynthio thinks nothing high enough to be my Value : Freeland therefore will take it for no Obligation to have me; and Cynthio's Idea of me, is what will vanish by knowing me better. Familiarity will equally turn the Veneration of the one, and the Indifference of the other, into Contempt. I will flick therefore to my old Maxim, To have that Sort of Man, who can have no greater Views that what are in my Power to give him Possession of. The utmost of my Dear Frisk's Ambition is, to be thought a Man of Fashion; and therefore has been so much in Mode, as to resolve upon me, because the whole Town likes me. Thus I chuse rather a Man who loves me because others do, than one who approves me on his own Judgment. He that judges for himself in Love, will often change his Opinion; but he that follows the Sense of others, must be constant, as long as a Woman can make Advances. The Visits I make, the Entertainments I give, and the Addresses I receive, will be all Arguments for me with a Man of Frisk's Second-hand Genius; but would be so many Bars to my Happiness with any other Man. However, since Frisk can wait, I shall enjoy a Summer or two longer. and remain a single Woman, in the sublime Pleafure of being followed and admired; which nothing can equal, except that of being beloved by you.

I am, Oc.

Will's Coffee-house, May 30.

My chief Bulinels here this Evening was to fpeak to my Friends in Behalf of honest Cave Underhill, who has been a Comick for three Generations: My Father admired him extremely when he was a Boy. There is certainly Nature

N

fan

bee

the

of .

wh

vie

and

Ih

dia

and tro

kil

or

for

Fig

cha

and

Po

of

Tv

gre

no

mo

no

C

Pe in

ins

CO

hi

I

gi ur

no (li

mire excellently represented in his Manner of Action; in which he ever avoided that general Fault in Players, of doing too much. It must be confess'd, he has not the Merit of some ingenious Persons now on the Srage; of adding to his Authors; for the Actors were so dull in the last Age, that many of them have gone out of the World, without having ever fpoke one Word of their own in the Theatre. Poor Cava is so mortified, that he quibbles, and tells your he pretends only to act a Part fit for a Man who has one Foot in the Grave; viz. a Grave-digger. All Admirers of true Comedy, it is hop'd. will have the Gratitude to be prefent on the last Day of his Acting, who, if he does not happen to please them, will have it even then to fay. That it is his first Offence.

But there is a Gentleman here, who favs he has it from good Hands, that there is actually a Subscription made by many Persons of Wit and Quality, for the Encouragement of new Come-This Defign will very much contribute to the Improvement and Diversion of the Town; But as every Man is most concerned for himfelf, I, who am of a Saturnine and Melancholy Complexion, cannot but murmur, that there is not an equal Invitation to write Tragedies, having by me, in my Book of Common Places, enough to enable me to finish a very Sad one by the Fifth of next Month. I have the Farewell of a General, with a Truncheon in his Hand, dying for Love, in Six Lines. I have the Principles of a Politician, (who does all the Mischief in the Play;) together with his Declaration on the Vanity of Ambition in his last Moments, express'd in a Page and an half. I have all my Oaths ready, and my Similes want nothing but Application. I won't pretend to give you an Account of the Plot, it being the fame

of

ne-

It

me

ng in ut

ns va

u,

10

d,

ne

)-

0

e

fame Design upon which all Tragedies have been writ for several Years last past; and from the Beginning of the First Scene, the Frequenters of the House may know, as well as the Author, when the Battle is to be fought, the Lady to yield, and the Hero proceed to his Wedding and Coronation. Besides these Advantages which. I have in Readiness, I have an eminent Tragedian very much my Friend, who shall come in, and go through the whole Five Acts, without troubling me for one Sentence, whether he is to kill or be killed, love or be loved, win Battles or lose them, or whatever other Tragical Performance I shall please to assign him.

From my own Apartment, May 30.

I have this Day received a Letter subscribed Fidelia, that gives me an Account of an Inchantment under which a young Lady fuffers, and defires my Help to exorcife her from the Power of the Sorcerer. Her Lover is a Rake of Sixty; the Lady a virtuous Woman of Twenty five: Her Relations are to the last Degree afflicted, and amazed at this irregular Paftion: Their Sorrow I know not how to remove, but can their Aftonishment; for there is no Spirit in Woman half so prevalent as that of Contradiction, which is the fole Cause of her Perseverance. Let the whole Family go dress'd in a Body, and call the Bride to Morrow Morning to her Nuptials, and I'll undertake, the Inconstant will forget her Lover in the midst of all his Aches. But if this Expedient does not succeed; I must be so just to the young Lady's distingishing Sense, as to applaud her Choice. A fine young Woman, at last, is but what is due from Fate to an honest Fellow, who has suffered so unmercifully by the Sex; and I think we cannot enough celebrate her Heroick Virtue, who (like the Patriot that ended a Pestilence by plunging plunging himself into a Gulph) gives her self up to gorge that Dragon which has devoured so many Virgins before her.

A Letter directed to Isaac Bickerstaff Esq. Afrologer and Physician in Ordinary to her Majesty's Subjects of Great Britain, with Respect, is, come to Hand.

The TATLER. [N° 23.

From Tuesday May 31. to Thursday June 2. 1709.

White's Chocolate-house, May 31. THE Generality of Mankind are fo very fond of this World, and of staying in it, that 2 Man cannot have eminent Skill in any one Art, but they will, in Spite of his Teeth, make him a Physician also, that being the Science the Worldlings have most need of. I pretended, when I first set up, to Astrology only; but I am told, I have deep Skill also in Medecine. I am applied to now by a Gentleman for my Advice in Behalf of his Wife, who, upon the least Matrimonial Difficulty, is excellively troubled with Fits, and can bear no manner of Passion without falling into immediate Convultions. I must confels, it is a Cale I have known before, and remember the Party was recovered by certain Words pronounced in the midst of the Fit by the Learned Doctor who performed the Cure. These Ails have usually their Beginning from the Affections of the Mind: Therefore you must have Patience to let me give you an Instance, whereby you may differn the Cause of the Distemper, and then proceed in the Cure as follows:

A fine Town Lady was married to a Gentleman of ancient Descent in one of the Counties

f

who my derr Wif thor this But wra

of C

We

Wra Dec fam verr repu cou of heath Sign gree callicove Accordance who Cra her my Hor hor Fac fhe predur the Dif

Suc gov her elf

A-

13.

id

2 m ł,

n

n

n

CVI

of Great Britain, who had good Humour to a Weakness, and was that Sort of Person, of whom it is usually said, He is no Man's Enemy but his own: One who had too much Tenderness of Soul to have any Authority with his Wife; and she too little Sense to give him Authority for that Reason. His kind Wife observed this Temper in him, and made proper Use of it. But knowing it was below a Gentlewoman to wrangle, she resolved upon an Expedient to save Decorum, and wear her Dear to her Point at the fame Time. She therefore took upon her to govern him, by falling into Fits whenever she was repulfed in a Request, or contradicted in a Difcourse. It was a Fish-Day, when in the midst of her Husband's good Humour at Table, she bethought her felf to try her Project. She made Signs that she had swallowed a Bone. The Man grew pale as Ashes, and ran to her Assistance, calling for Drink. No, my Dear, faid the, recovering, It is down; don't be frightened. This Accident betrayed his Softness enough. next Day she complained, a Lady's Chariot, whose Husband had not half his Estate, had a Crane-Neck, and hung with twice the Air that hers did. He answered, Madam, You know my Income; you know I have loft Two Coach-Horses this Spring .- Down she fell .-- Hartshorn! Betty, Sufan, Alice, throw Water in her With much Care and Pains she was at last brought to her felf, and the Vehicle in which the visited was amended in the nicest Manner, to prevent Relapses; but they frequently happened during that Husband's whole Life, which he had the good Fortune to end in few Years after. The Disconsolate soon pitched upon a very agreeable Successor, whom she very prudently designed to govern by the same Method. This Man knew her little Arts, and resolved to break through all

N

cate

lids

Ian

my

Iar

the

him

adn

him

ent

Ifaa

Tre

is v

Ma

obf

but affe

as

Tenderness, and be absolute Master, assoon as Occasion offered. One Day it happened, that a Discourse arose about Furniture: He was very glad of the Occasion, and fell into an Invective against China, protesting, he would never let Five Pounds more of his Money be laid out that Way as long as he breathed. She immediately fainted--- He starts up as amazed, and calls for Help---The Maids ran to the Closet--He chates her Face, bends her forwards, and beats the Palms of her Hands: Her Convultions increase, and down the tumbles on the Floor, where she lies quite dead, in Spight of what the whole Family, from the Nurfery to the Kitchin, could do for her Relief.

While every Servant was thus helping or lamenting their Mistress, he, fixing his Cheek to hers, feemed to be following her in a Trance of Sorrow; but fecretly whispers her, My Dear, This will never do: What is within my Power and Fortune, you may always command, but none of your Artifices: You are quite in other Hands than those you passed these pretty Passions upon. This made her almost in the Condition she pretended; her Convultions now come thicker, nor was the to be held down. The kind Man doubles his Care, helps the Servants to throw Water in her Face by full Quarts; and when the finking Part of the Fit came again; Well, my Dear, (faid he) I applaud your Action; but I must take my Leave of you till you are more sincere with me. Farewell for ever: You shall always know where to hear of me, and want for nothing. With that, he ordered the Maids to keep plying her with Hartshorn, while he went for a Phylician: He was scarce at the Stair-head when she followed; and pulling him into a Closet, thank'd him for her Cure; which was so absolute, that she gave me this Relation her felf, to be communicated kin Oc Vu

> Pri pri equ reg Ma > of Ar the be

> > DO

1 as

at a ery

ive

ive

ay

nt-

)---

ce,

1er

he

id,

m e-

a=

to of

r,

of 72 13

r

t

cated for the Benefit of all the voluntary Inva-

From my own Apartenent, May 31.

The Publick is not so little my Concern, tho' I am but a Student, as that I should not interest my self in the present great Things in Agitation. I am still of Opinion, the French King will sign the Preliminaries. With that View, I have sent him by my Familiar the following Epistle, and admonished him, on Pain of what I shall say of him to suture Generations, to act with Sincerity on this Occasion.

London, May 31.

Isaac Bickerstaff Esq; of Great Britain, to Lewis the Fourteenth of France.

THE furprifing News which arrived this Day, I of your Majesty's having refused to sign the Treaty your Ministers have in a Manner sued for, is what gives Ground to this Application to your Majesty, from one whose Name, perhaps, is too obscure to have ever reached your Territories; but one, who with all the European World, is Therefore, affected with your Determinations. as it is mine and the common Cause of Mankind, I prefume to expostulate with you on this Occasion. It will, I doubt not, appear to the Vulgar extravagant, that the Actions of a mighty Prince should be ballanced by the Centure of a private Man, whole Approbation or Dillike are equally contemptible in their Eyes, when they regard the Thrones of Sovereigns. But your Majesty has shown, through the whole Course of your Reign, too great a Value for Liberal Arts to be insensible, that true Fame lies only in the Hands of Learned Men, by whom it is to be transmitted to Futurity, with Marks of Honour or Reproach to the End of Time. The Date ties

will

you Slee

cou

been fanc fort

the

Cor

owi

vinc

tent mu Dev

You

Seri

Maj

be 1

stak

Dif

Dif

Me you

out

ran

be aga are

YOU

rec for

Be

fro

the

an

W

Date of Human Life is too short to recompence the Cares which attend the most private Condition: Therefore it is, that our Souls are made as it were too big for it, and extend themselves in the Prospect of a longer Existence, in a good Fame and Memory of worthy Actions after our Decease. The whole Race of Men have this Passion in some Degree implanted in their Bofoms, which is the strongest and noblest Incitation to honest Attempts: But the base Use of the Arts of Peace, Eloquence, Poetry, and all the Parts of Learning, have been possessed by Souls fo unworthy those Faculties, that the Names and Appellations of Things have been confounded by the Labours and Writings of prostituted Men, who have stamp'd a Reputation upon fuch Actions, as are in themselves the Objects of Contempt and Difgrace. This is that which has mis-led your Majesty in the Conduct of your Reign, and made that Life, which might have been the most imitable, the most to be avoided. To this it is, that the great and excellent Qualities of which your Majesty is Master, are lost in their Application; and your Majesty has been carrying on for many Years the most cruel Tyranny, with all the noble Methods which are nsed to support a just Reign. Thus it is, that it avails nothing that you are a Bountiful Mafter; rhat you are To Generous as to reward even the Unfuecessful with Honour and Riches; that no laudable Action passes unrewarded in your Kingdoms; that you have fearched all Nations for obscure Merit. In a Word, that you are in your private Character endowed with every Princely Quality, when all this is subjected to unjust and ill-taught Ambition, which to the Injury of the World, is gilded by those Endowments. However, if your Majesty will condescend to look into your own Soul, and confider all its Faculnce

di-

: 25

in bod

our

his

30-ta-

of all

by

he

en

0-

on bat

री ht

a-|-

r, el

e

it

0 r

r

Sea

ties and Weaknesses with Impartiality; if you will but be convinced, that Life is supported in you by the ordinary Methods of Food, Rest, and Sleep; you would think it impossible that you could ever be fo much imposed on, as to have been wrought into a Belief, that fo many Thoufands of the same Make with your felf, were formed by Providence for no other End, but by the Hazard of their very Being to extend the Conquests and Glory of an Individual of their own Species. A very little Reflection will convince your Majesty, that such cannot be the Intent of the Creator; and if not, What Horror must it give your Majesty to think of the vast Devastations your Ambition has made among your Fellow-Creatures? While the Warmth of Youth, the Flattery of Crowds, and a continual Series of Success and Triumph, indulged your Majesty in this Allusion of Mind, it was less to be wondered at, that you proceeded in this mistaken Pursuit of Grandeur; but when Age, Disappointments, Publick Calamities, Personal Distempers, and the Reverse of all that makes Men forget their true Being, are fallen upon you: Heavens! Is it possible you can live without Remorfe? Can the wretched Man be a Tyrant? Can Grief study Torments? Can Sorrow be Cruel? -

Your Majesty will observe, I do not bring against you a railing Accusation; but as you are a strict Professor of Religion, I beseech your Majesty to stop the Essusion of Blood, by receiving the Opportunity which presents it self, for the Preservation of your distressed People. Be no longer so infatuated, as to hope for Renown from Murder and Violence: But consider, that the Great Day will come, in which this World and all its Glory shall change in a Moment: When Nature shall sicken, and the Earth and ta.

M

the

of

hi

cu

tic

the

de

anf

An

mi

wh

no Arg

CAL

Rep

red

and

The

Hag

felf

fem

and

Cor

The

Pro

ann

Def

Sea give up the Bodies committed to them, to appear before the last Tribunal. Will it then, Oh King! be an Answer for the Lives of Millions who have fallen by the Sword? They perished for my Glory. That Day will come on, and one like it is immediately approaching: Injur'd Nations advance towards thy Habitation: Vengeance has began its March, which is to be diverted only by the Penitence of the Oppressor. Awake, O Monarch, from thy Lethargy! Disdain the Abuses thou hast received: Pull down the Statue which calls thee Immortal: Be truly Great: Tear thy Purple, and put on Sackcloth.

I am,

Thy Generous Enemy,

Isaac Bickerstaff.

St. James's Coffee-house, June 1. Advices from Bruffels of the 6th Instant, N.S. fay, His Highness Prince Eugene had received a Letter from Montieur Torcy, wherein that Minister, after many Expressions of great Respect, acquaints him, That his Master had absolutely refused to fign the Preliminaries to the Treaty which he had, in his Majesty's Behalf, consented to at the Hague. Upon the Receipt of this Intelligence, the Face of Things at that Place were immediately altered, and the necessary Orders were transmitted to the Troops (which lay most remote from thence) to move towards the Place of Rendezvous with all Expedition. The Enemy feem also to prepare for the Field, and have at present drawn together Twenty five Thousand Men in the Plains of Lenz. Mareschal Villars is at the Head of those Troops; and has given the Generals under his Command all possible Assurances, that he will turn the Fate of the War to the Advantage of his Master. They 23.

1, to hen,

Mil-

ilhed

like

ions

has only

, Ó

atue

Cer

da

ini-

ect,

ely

aty

ted

In-

ere

ers

oft ace

16-nd at he ii-

ey

They write from the Hague of the 7th, That Monfieur Rouide had received Orders from the Court of France, to fignify to the States-General and the Ministers of the High Allies, That the King could not confent to the Preliminaries of a Treaty of Peace, as it was offered to him by Montieur Torcy. The great Difficulty is the Business of Spain, on which Partiticular his Ministers seemed only to say, during the Treaty, that it was not fo immediately under their Master's Direction, as that he could answer for its being relinquished by the Duke of Anjou: But now he politively answers, That he cannot comply with what his Minister has promised in his Behalf, even in such Points as are wholly in himself to act in or not. This has had no other Effect, than to give the Alliance fresh Arguments for being diffident of Engagements Report of all which this Minister had declared to the Deputies of the States-General, and all Things turn towards a vigorous War. The Duke of Marlborough defigned to leave the Hague within Two Days, in order to put himfelf at the Head of the Army, which is to afiemble on the 17th Initant between the Scheld and the Lis. A Fleet of Eighty Sail, laden with Corn from the Baltic, is arrived in the Tewel. The States have fent Circular Letters to all the Provinces, to notify this Change of Affairs, and animate their Subjects to new Refolutions in Defence of their Country.

I

The

The TATLER. [Nº 24.

of

W

Ma pla

fro

for fuc

Ip

the

to pec

and

I an

Pres All

the

and con

tice

he's mai

than

but

Ind

can

Pret

Per

wit

very

Feli

bene Te

fom

From Thursday June 2. to Saturday June 4. 1709.

White's Chocolate-house, June 2. IN my Paper of the 28th of the last Month, I mentioned feveral Characters which want Explanation to the Generality of Readers: Among others, I spoke of a Pretty Fellow; but I have received a kind Admonition in a Letter, to take Care that I do not omit to show also what is meant by a very Pretty Fellow, which is to be allowed as a Character by it felf, and a Person exalted above the other by a peculiar Sprightliness, as one who, by a distinguishing Vigour, outstrips his Companions, and has thereby deferved and obtained a particular appellation, or Nick-name of Familiarity. Some have this Distinction from the Fair Sex, who are so generous as to take into their Protection those who are laughed at by the Men, and place them for that Reason in Degrees of Favour. The chief of this Sort is Colonel Brunett, who is a Man of Fashion, because he will be so; and practises a very janty Way of Behaviour, because he is too careless to know when he offends, and too sanguine to be mortified if he did know it. Thus the Colonel has met with a Town ready to receive him, and cannot possibly fee why he should not make use of their Favour, and set himself in the First Degree of Conversation. Therefore he is very successfully loud among the Wits, familiar among the Ladies, and diffolute among the Rakes. Thus he is admitted in one Place, because he is so in another; and every Man breats Brunett well, not out of his particular Esteem 4.

9.

th,

int

At I

to ist

be

on li-

ur,

le-

Or

Di-

us

re

nat

of

of

5 2

00

in-

re-

ıld

elf

ore

fa-

ng

ce,

an

lar

m

Esteem for him, but in Respect to the Opinion of others. It is to me a folid Pleasure to see the World thus mistaken on the good-natur'd Side; for 'tis Ten to One but the Colonel mounts into a General Officer, marries a fine Lady, and is Master of a good Estate, before they come to explain upon him. What gives most Delight to me in this Observation, is, that all this arises from pure Nature, and the Colonel can account for his Success no more than those by whom he fucceeds. For these Causes and Consideration, I pronounce him a true Woman's Man, and in the first Degree, Avery pretty Fellow. The next to a Man of this universal Genius, is one who is peculiarly formed for the Service of the Ladies and his Merit chiefly is to be of no Confequence. I am indeed a little in Doubt, Whether he ought not rather to be called a very Happy, than a very Pretty Fellow? For he is admitted at all Hours: All he fays or does, which would offend in another, are passed over in him; and all Actions and Speeches which please, doubly please if they come from him: No one wonders or takes Notice when he's wrong; but all admire him when he's in the Right. By the Way it is fit to remark, That there are People of better Sense than these, who endeavour at this Character: but they are out of Nature; and tho', with some Industry, they get the Characters of Fools, they cannot arrive to be very, feldom to be meerly Pretty Fellows. But where Nature has formed a Person for this Station amongst Men, he is gifted with a peculiar Genius for Success, and his very Errors and Abfurdities contribute to it; this Felicity attending him to his Life's End. For it being in a Manner necessary that he should be of Consequence, he is as well in old Age as Touth; and I know a Man, whose Son has been some Years a pretty Fellow, who is himself at this

OU

an ty

B

A

th

of all

A

m

A

be

Se

be

m

T

m

N

fo

la

fe.

Y

th

D

th

this Hour a very Pretty Fellow. One must move tenderly in this Place, for we are now in the Ladies Lodgings, and speaking of such as are supported by their Influence and Favour; against which there is not, neither ought there to be. any Dispute or Observation. But when we come into more free Air, one may talk a little more at large. Give me Leave then to mention Three. whom I do not doubt but we shall see make con-Iderable Figures; and these are such as, for their Bacchanalian Performances, must be admitted into this Order. They are Three Brothers lately landed from Holland: As yet, indeed, they have not made their publick Entry, but lodge and converse at Wapping. They have merited already on the Water-fide particular Titles: The First is called Hogshead; the Second Culverin; and the Third, Musquet. This Fraternity is preparing for our End of the Town by their Ability in the Exercises of Bacchus, and measure their Time and Merit by Liquid Weight, and Power of Drinking. Hogshead is a prettier Fellow than Culverin by Two Quarts, and Culverin than Musquet by a full Pint. It is to be feared, Hoghead is to often too full, and Culverin overloaded, that Musquet will be the only lasting wery Pretty Fellow of the Three. A Third Sort of this Denomination are fuch as, by very daring Adventures in Love, have purchased to them-Helves Renown and new Names; as, Jo. Carry, for his excessive Strength and Vigour; Tom. Dry-bones, for his generous Loss of Youth and Health; and Cancrum, for his meritorious Rotrennels. These great and leading Spirits are proposed to all such of our British Youth as would arrive at Perfection in these different Kinds; and if their Parts and accomplishments were well imitated, it is not doubted but that 24.

love

La-

lup-

inst

be,

e at ree,

on-

for ad-

ro-

ed,

but

ne-

es:

ve-

115 eir

ire

nd

el-

177

d,

T-ıg

rt

1-

d

our Nation would foon excell all others in Wir and Arts, as they already do in Arms.

N. B. The Gentleman who stole Betty Pepin, may own it, for he is allowed to be a very Pretty Fellow.

But we must proceed to the Explanation of other Terms in our Writings.

To know what a Toast is in the Country, gives: as much Perplexity as the her felf does in Town: And indeed, the Learned differ very much upon the Original of this Word, and the Acceptation of it among the Moderns. However, it is by all agreed to have a joyous and chearful Import, A Toast in a cold Morning, heightened by Nutmeg, and sweeten'd with Sugar, has for many Ages been given to our Rural Dispensers of Justice, before they enter'd upon Causes, and has been of great and politick. Use to take off the Severity of their Sentences; but has indeed been remarkable for one ill Effect, That it inclines those who use it immoderately, to speak. Latin, to the Admiration, rather than Informamation, of an Audience. This Application of a Toast makes it very obvious, that the Word may, without a Metaphor, be understood as an apt. Name for a Thing which raises us in the most. fovereign Degree. But many of the Wits of the last Age will affert, That the Word, in its prelent Sense, was known among them in their Youth, and had its Rife from an Accident at the Town of Bath, in the Reign of King Charles the Second. It happened, that on a Publick Day a celebrated Beauty of those Times was in the Cross-Bath, and one of the Crowd of her Admirers took a Glass of the Water in which the Fair One stood, and drank her Health to the Company. There was in the Place a Gay Fellow, half fuddled, who offered to jump in, and fwore, Tho' he liked not the Liquor, he would have the Toast. He was opposed in his Resolution; yet this Whim gave Foundation to the present Honour which is done to the Lady we mention in our Liquors, who has ever fince been called a Toast. Tho' this Institution had so trivial a Beginning, it is now elevated into a formal Order; and that happy Virgin who is received and drank to at their Meetings, has no more to do in this Life, but to judge and accept of the first good Offer. The Manner of her Inauguration is much like that of the Choice of a Doge in Venice: It is performed by Balloting; and when she is so chosen, she reigns indisputably for that ensuing Year; but must be elected anew to prolong her Empire a Moment beyond it. When she is regularly chosen, her Nameis written with a Diamond on a Drinking-glass. The Hieroglyphick of the Diamond is to show her, that her Value is imaginary; and that of the Glass to acquaint her, that her Condition is frail, and depends on the Hand which holds her. wife Delign admonishes her, neither to over-rate or depreciate her Charms; as well confidering and applying, that it is perfectly according to the Humour and Taste of the Company, whether the Toast is eaten, or left as an Offal.

The Foremost of the whole Rank of Toasts, and the most undisputed in their present Empire, are Mrs. Gatty and Mrs. Frontlet: The First, an Agreeable; the Second, an Awful Beauty. These Ladies are perfect Friends, out of a Knowledge, that their Perfections are too different to stand in Competition. He that likes Gatty, can have no Relish for so solemn a Creature as Frontlet; and an Admirer of Frontlet, will call Gatty a Maypole Girl. Gatty for ever smiles upon you; and Frontlet disdains to see you smile. Gatty's Love is a shining quick Flame; Frontlet's a flow wasting n his

, he

on to

Lady

lince

fors re-

$ 110

cept

In-

of a

ng;

itated

lit.

ten

10-lat

to us

te

0

wasting Fire. Gatty likes the Man that diverts her; Frontlet him who adores her. Gatty always improves the Soil in which she travels; Frontlet lays waste the Country. Gatty does not only smile, but laughs at her Lover; Frontlet not only looks serious, but frowns at him. All the Men of Wit, (and Coxcombs their Followers) are professed Servants of Gatty: The Politicians and Pretenders give solemn Worship to Frontlet. Their Reign will be best judged of by its Duration. Frontlet will never be chosen more; and Gatty is a Toast for Life.

St. James's Coffee-house, June 3.

Letters from Hamburgh of the 7th Instant. N. S. inform us, That no Art or Cost is omitted to make the Stay of his Danish Majesty at Dresden agreeable; but there are various Speculations upon the Interview between King Augustus and that Prince, many putting Politick Constructions upon his Danish Majesty's Arrival. at a Time when his Troops are marching out of Hungary, with Orders to pass through Saxony, where it is given out, that they are to be recruited. It is faid also, That several Polish Senators have invited King Augustus to return into Poland. His Majesty of Sweden, according to the same Advices, has passed the Nieper without any Opposition from the Muscovites, and advances with all possible Expedition towards Volhinia. where he proposes to join King Stanislaus and General Cressau.

We hear from Bern of the 1st Instant, N. S. That there is not a Province in France, from whence the Court is not apprehensive of receiving Accounts of Publick Emotions, occasion'd by the Want of Corn. The General Diet of the 13 Cantons is assembled at Baden, but have not yet entered upon Business, so that the Affair of Tockenburg is yet at a Stand.

Letters from the Hague, dated the 11th Inftant, N. S. advise, That Monsieur Rouille having acquainted the Ministers of the Allies, that his Master had refused to ratify the Preliminaries of a Treaty adjusted with Monsieur Torcy, fet out for Paris on Sunday Morning. The same Day the Foreign Ministers met a Committee of the States General, where Monsieur van Hessen opened the Bufiness upon which they were astembled, and in a very warm Discourse laid before them the Conduct of France in the late Negotiations, reprefenting the abject Manner in which she had laid open her own Distresses. which reduced her to a Compliance with the Demands of all the Allies, and the mean Manher in receding from those Points to which her Minister had consented. The respective Ministers of each Potentate of the Alliance severally expressed their Resentment of the faithless Behaviour of the French, and gave each other mutual Assurances of the Constancy and Resolution of their Principles, to proceed with the utmost Vigour against the Common Enemy. His Grace the Duke of Marlborough fet out from the Hague on the 9th in the Afternoon, and lay that Night at Rotterdam, from whence at Four the next Morning he proceeded towards Antwerp, with Defign to reach Ghent as on this Day. All the Troops in the Low-Countries are in Motion towards the General Rendezvous between the Scheld and the Lis, and the whole Army will be formed on the 12th Instant; and 'tis said, That on the 14th they will advance towards the Encmy's Country. In the mean Time, the Marefchal de Villars has affembled the French Army between Lens, la Baffee, and Douay.

Yesterday Morning Sir John Norris with the Squadron under his Command, sailed from the Downer for Holland.

24.

In-

ha-

nat

12-cy,

of

en

1

e-

C-

in

s.

1-

r

From my own Apartment, June 3.

I have the Honour of the following Letter from a Gentleman whom I receive into my Family, and order the Heralds at Arms to enroll him accordingly.

Mr. Bickerstaff,

FHO' you have excluded me the Honour of your Family, yet I have wentured to correspond with the same great Persons as your self, and have wrote this Post to the King of France; the I'm in a Manner unknown in his Country, and have not been seen there these many Months.

To LEWIS le Grand.

The' in your Country I'm unknown, Yet; Sir, I must advise you;
Of late so poor and mean you're grown.
That all the World despise you.

Here Vermin eat your Majesty, There meagre Subjects stand unsed; What surer Signs of Poverty, Than many Lice, and little Bread?

Then, Sir, the present Minute choose, Our Armies are advanced; Those Terms you at the Hague refuse, At Paris won't be granted.

Consider this, and Dunkirk raze, And Anna's Title own; Send one Pretender out to graze, And call the other Home.

> Your Humble Servant, Bread, the Staff of Life.

The TATLER. [Nº 25.

te

From Saturday June 4. to Tuesday June 7. 1709.

White's Chocolate-house, June 6. Letter from a young Lady, written in the most passionate Terms, (wherein she laments the Misfortune of a Gentleman, her Lover, who was lately wounded in a Duel) has turned my Thoughts to that Subject, and enclined me to examine into the Causes which precipitate Men into so fatal a Folly. it has been proposed to treat of Subjects of Gallantry in the Article from hence, and no one Point in Nature is more proper to be consider'd by the Company who frequent this Place, than that of Duels, it is worth our Consideration to examine into this Chimærical groundless Humour, and to lay every other Thought alide, till we have strip'd it of all its false Pretences to Credit and Reputation amongst Men. But I must confess, when I consider what I am going about, and run over in my Imagination all the endless Crowd of Men of Honour who will be offended at fuch a Discourse; I am undertaking, methinks, a Work worthy an invulnerable Hero in Romance, rather than a private Gentleman with a fingle Rapier: But as I am pretty well acquainted by great Opportunities with the Nature of Man, and know of a Truth, that all Men fight against their Will, the Danger vanishes, and Resolution rises upon this Subject. For this Reason I shall talk very freely on a Cufrom which all Men wish exploded, tho' no Man has Courage enough to relift it. But there is one unintelligible Word which I fear will exremely perplex my Differtation; and I confess to

to you I find very hard to explain, which is, the Term Satisfaction. An honest Country Gentleman had the Misfortune to fall into Company with Two or Three modern Men of Honour, where he happened to be very ill treated; and one of the Company being conscious of his Offence, sends a Note to him in the Morning, and tells him, He was ready to give him Satisfaction. This is fine Doing (fays the plain Fellow:) Last Night he fent me away curfedly out of Humour, and this Morning he fancies it would be a Satisfaction to be run through the Body. As the Matter at present stands, it is not to do handfom Actions denominates a Man of Honour; it is enough if he dares to defend ill Ones. you often see a common Sharper in Competition with a Gentleman of the first Rank; tho' all Mankind is convinced, that a fighting Gamester is only a Pick-pocket with the Courage of an Highway-Man. One cannot with any Patience reflect on the unaccountable Jumble of Persons and Things in this Town and Nation, which occasions very frequently, that a brave Man falls by a Hand below that of the common Hangman, and yet his Executioner escapes the Clutches of the Hangman for doing it. Ishall therefore hereafter consider, how the bravest Men in other Ages. and Nations have behaved themselves upon such Incidents as we decide by Combat; and show, from their Practice, that this Resentment neither has its Foundation from true Reason, or solid Fame; but is an Imposture, made up of Cowardice, Falshood, and Want of Understanding. For this Work, a good History of Quarrels would be very edifying to the Publick, and I apply my felf to the Town for Particulars and Circumstances within their Knowledge, which may serve to embellish the Differtation with proper Cuts. Most of the Quarrels I have ever known, have have proceeded from some valiant Coxcomb's periating in the Wrong, to defend some prevailing Folly, and preserve himself from the Ingenuity of owning a Miltake.

By this Means it is called, Giving a Man Satusfaction, to urge your Offence against him with your Sword; which puts me in Mind of Peter's Order to the Keeper, in The Tale of a Tub: If you neglect to do all this, damn you and your Generation for ever; and so we bid you heartily farewel. If the Contradiction in the very Terms of one of our Challenges were as well explained, and turn'd into plain English, would it not run after this Manner?

SIR,

Tour extraordinary Behaviour last Night, and the Liberty you were pleased to take with me, makes me this Morning give you this, to tell you, because you are an ill-bred Puppy, I will meet you in Hide-Park an Hour hence; and because you want both Breeding and Humanity, I desire you would come with a Pistol in your Hand, on Horseback, and endeavour to shoot me through the Head; to teach you more Manners. If you fail of doing me this Pleasure, I shall say, You are a Rascal on every Post in Town: And so, Sir, if you will not injure me more, I shall never forgive what you have done already. Pray Sir, do not fail of getting every Thing ready, and you will infinitely oblige,

SIR,

Your most Obedient, Humble Servant, &c.

From my own Apartment, June 6.

Among the many Employments I am necessarily put upon by my Friends, that of giving Advice

e-

1-

3-

n

t

ad

-

y

4

u

vice is the most unwelcome to me; and indeed, I am forced to use a little Art in the Matter; for some People will ask Counsel of you, when they have already acted what they tell you is still under Deliberation. I had almost lost a very good Friend t'other Day, who came toknow how I liked his Delign to marry fuch a Lady. I answered, By no Means; and I must be politive against it, for very solid Reasons, which are not proper to communicate. Not proper to communicate! (faid he with a grave Air) I will know the Bottom of this. I faw him moved, and knew from thence he was already determined; therefore evaded it by faying, To tell you the Truth, dear Frank, Of all Women living, I would have her my felf. Ilaac, faid he, Thou art too late, for we have been both one these two Months. I learned this Caution by a Gentleman's confulting me formerly. about his Son. He railed at his damn'd Extravagance, and told me, In a very little Time, he would beggar him by the exorbitant Bills which came from Oxford every Quarter. Make the Rogue bite upon the Bridle, said I, pay none of his Bills, it will but encourage him to further Trespasses. He look'd plaguy sowr at me. His Son foon after fent up a Paper of Verses, forfooth, in Print, on the last Publick Occasion; upon which, he is convinced the Boy has Parts. and a Lad of Spirit is not to be too much cramp'd in his Maintenance, lest he take ill Courfes. Neither Father nor Son can ever fince endure the Sight of me. These Sort of People ask Opinions, only out of the Fulness of their Heart on the Subject of their Perplexity, and not from a Delire of Information. There is nothing so easy as to find out which Opinion the Person in Doubt has a Mind to; therefore the fure Way is to tell him, that is certainly to be cholen. chosen. Then you are to be very clear and pofitive; leave no Handle for Scruple. Bless me!
Sir, there's no Room for a Question. This rivets you into his Heart; for you at once applaud his Wisdom, and gratify his Inclination.
However, I had too much Bowels to be insincere to a Man who came Yesterday to know of me, With which of two eminent Men in the City he should place his Son? Their Names are Paulo and Avaro. This gave me much Debate with my self, because not only the Fortune of the Youth, but his Virtue also depended upon this Choice. The Men are equally wealthy; but they differ in the Use and Application of their Riches, which you immediately see upon en-tring their Doors.

The Habitation of Paulo has at once the Air of a Nobleman and a Merchant. You fee the Servants act with Affection to their Master, and Satisfaction in themselves: The Master meets you with an open Countenance, full of Benevolence and Integrity: Your Business is dispatched with that Confidence and Welcome which always accompanies honest Minds: His Table is the Image of Plenty and Generofity, supported by Justice and Frugality. After we had dined here, our Affair was to vilit Avaro: Out comes an aukward Fellow with a careful Countenance; Sir, Would you speak with my Master? May I crave your Name? After the first Preambles, he leads us into a noble Solitude, a great House that seem'd uninhabited; but from the End of the spacious Hall moves towards us Avaro, with a suspicious Aspect, as if he believed us Thieves; and as for my Part, I approached him as if I knew him a Cut-purfe. We fell into Discourse of his noble Dwelling, and the Great Estate all the World knew he had to enjoy in it: And I, to plague him, fell a commending 25.

po-

me!

s ri-

tion.

cere

me,

y he aulo

vith

the

his

but eir

en-

Air

he

nd

ts

e-

i-

e

is

,

e

i

mending Paulo's Way of Living. Paulo, anfwered Avaro, is a very good Man; but we who have smaller Estates, must cut our Coat according to our Cloth. Nay, fays I, Every Man knows his own Circumstance best; you are in the Right, if you han't wherewithal. He look'd very fowr; (for it is, you must know, the utmost Vanity of a mean spirited rich Man to be contradicted, when he calls himself Poor.) But I was refolved to vex him, by confenting to all he faid; the main Delign of which was, that he would have us find out, he was one of the wealthiest Men in London, and lived like a Beggar. We left him, and took a Turn on the Change. My Friend was ravished with Avaro: This (faid he) is certainly a fure Man. I contradicted him with much Warmth, and fummed up their different Characters as well as I could. This Paulo (faid I) grows wealthy by being a common Good; Avare, by being a general Evil: Paulo has the Art, Avaro the Craft of Trade. When Paulo gains, all Men he deals with are the better: Whenever Avaro profits. another certainly loses. In a Word, Paulo is a Citizen, and Avaro a Cit. I convinced my Friend, and carried the young Gentleman the next Day to Paulo, where he will learn the Way both to gain, and enjoy a good Fortune. And tho' I cannot say, I have, by keeping him from Avaro, faved him from the Gallows, I have prevented his deferving it every Day he lives: For with Paulo he will be an honest Man, without being so for Fear of the Law; as with Avare, he would have been a Villain within the Protection of it.

St. James's Coffee-house, June 6.
We hear from Vienna of the 1st Instant, That Baron Imoss, who attended her Catholick Majesty with the Character of Envoy from the Duke

Dake of Wolfembuttel, was returned thither. That Minister brought an Account, That Major-General Stanhope, with the Troops which embarked at Naples, was returned to Barcelona. We hear from Berlin, by Advices of the 8th Instant, That his Prussian Majesty had received Intelligence from his Minister at Drosden, that the King of Denmark defired to meet his Majetty at Magdeburg. The King of Pruffia has lent Answer, That his present Indisposition will not admit of fo great a Journey, but has fent the King a very pressing Invitation to come to Berlin or Potsdam. These Advices say, That the Minister of the King of Sweden has produced a Letter from his Malter to the King of Poland, dated from Batitzau the 30th of March, O. S. wherein he acquaints him, that he has been successful against the Muscovites in all the Occasions which have happened fince his March into their Country. Great Numbers have revolted to the Swedes fince General Muzeppa went over to that Side; and as many as have done so, have taken solemn Oaths. to adhere to the Interests of his Swedish Majesty.

Advices from the Hague of the 14th Instant. N.S. fay, That all Things tended to a vigorous and active Campagne; the Allies having Itrong Resentments against the late Behaviour of the Court of France; and the French using all possible Endeavours to animate their Men to defend their Country against a victorious and exasperated Enemy. Monsieur Rouille had passed through Bruffels without viliting either the Duke of Marlborough or Prince Eugene, who were both there at that Time. The States have met, and publickly declared their Satisfaction in the Conduct of their Deputies during the whole Treaty. Letters from France fay, That the Court is refolved to put all to the lifue of the enfuing Camier.

or-

m-

na.

8th

red

hat

Manas

lliv

the

lin

ter

m

3a+

ac-

he ip-

as hs la-

ıt,

us.

ng

he li-

d

ed

e

d.

Campagne. In the mean Time, they have ordered the Preliminary Treaty to be publish'd, with Observation upon each Article, in order to quiet the Minds of the People, and perswade them, that it has not been in the Power of the King to procure a Peace, but to the Diminution of his Majesty's Glory, and the Hazard of his Dominions. His Grace the Duke of Marlborough and Prince Eugene arrived at Ghent on Wednefday last, where, at an Assembly of all the General Officers, it was thought proper, by Reafon of the great Rains which have lately fallen, to defer forming a Camp, or bringing the Troops together; but as foon as the Weather would permit, to march upon the Enemy with all Expedition.

The TATLER. [Nº 26.

From Tuesday June 7. to Thursday June 9. 1709.

Have read the following Letter with Delight and Approbation, and I hereby order Mr. Kidney at St. James's, and Sir Thomas at White's, (who are my Clerks for enrolling all Men in their diftant Classes, before they presume to drink Tea or Chocolate in those Places) to take Care, that the Persons within the Descriptions in the Letter be admitted, and excluded according to my Friend's Remonstrance.

To Isaac Bickerstaff Esq; at Mr. Morphew's near Stationers-Hall.

YOur Paper of Saturday has raised up in me a noble Emulation, to be recorded in the foremost Rank of Worthies therein mentioned; and if any Regard be had to Merit or Industry, I may hope to succeed in the Promotion, for I have omitted no Toil or Expence to be a Proficient; and if my Friends do not flatter, they assure me, I have not lost my Time since I came to Town. To enumerate but a few Particulars; There's hardly a Coachman I meet with, but desires to be excused taking me, because he has had me before. I have compounded Two or Three Rapes; and let out to Hire as many Bastards to Beggars. I never saw above the First Act of a Play: And as to my Courage, it is well known. I have more than once had sufficient Witnesses of my drawing my Sword both in Tavern and Playbouse. Dr. Wall is my particular Friend; and if it were any Service to the Publick to compose the Difference between Martin and Sintilaer the Pearl-driller, I don't know a Judge of more Experience than my self: For in that I may lay with the Poet;

Quæ Regio in Villa nostri non plena Laboris?

I omit other less Particulars, the necessary Consequences of greater Actions. But my Reason for troubling you at this present is, to put a Stop, if it may be, to an infinuating, increasing Set of People, who sticking to the Letter of your Treatise, and not to the Spirit of it, do assume the Name of Pretty Fellows; nay, and even get new Names, as you very well hint. Some of them I have heard calling to one another as I have fate at White's and St. James's, by the Names of, Betty, Nelly, and so forth. You see them accost each other with effeminate Airs: They have their Signs and Tokens like Free-Majons: They rail at Womenkind; receive Visits on their Beds in Gowns, and do a Thousand other unintelligible Prettinesses that I cannot tell what to make of. I therefore heartily desire you would exclude all this Sort of Animals. There

26. may ritted my e not erate oachking com-Hire bove rage, Sutb in ticu-Puband

is?
Tary
afon
top,

udge

at I t of reathe new 1 ate

ate etich gns en-

ennd nat

ni-

There is another Matter I am foreseeing an ill Consequence from, but may be timely prevented by Prudence; which is, that for the last Fortnight, prodigious Shoals of Volunteers have gone over to bully the French, upon hearing the Peace was just signing; and this is so true, that I can assure you, all Ingrossing Work about the Temple is risen above 3 s. in the Pound for want of Hands. Now as 'tis possible, some little Alteration of Affairs may have broken their Measures, and that they will post back again, I am under the last Apprehension, that these will, at their Return, all set up for Pretty Fellows, and thereby confound all Merit and Service, and impose on us Some new Alteration in our Nightcap-Wigs and Pockets, unless you can provide a particular Class for them. I cannot apply my self better than to you, and I am sure I speak the Mind of a very great Number as deserving as my self.

The Pretensions of this Correspondent are worthy a particular Distinction: He cannot indeed be admitted as a Pretty, but is, what we more justly call, a Smart Fellow. Never to pay at the Playhouse, is an Act of Frugality, that lets you into his Character. And his Expedient in sending his Children a begging before they can go, are Characteristical Instances that he belongs to this Class. I never saw the Gentleman; but I know by his Letter, he hangs his Cane on his Button; and by some Lines of it, he should wear red-heel'd Shoes; which are effential Parts of the Habit belonging to the Order of Smart Fellows.

My Familiar is returned with the following Letter from the French King:

Versailles, June 13. 1709.

Lewis the Fourteenth, to Ifaac Bickerstaff Esq., SIR.

I Have your Epifle, and must take the Liberty to say, That there has been a Time, when there were Generous Spirits in Great Britain, who would not have suffered my Name to be treated with the Familiarity you think sit to use. I thought Liberal Men would not be such Time-servers, as to fall upon a Man because his Friends are not in Power. But having some Concern for what you may transmit to Posterity concerning me, I am willing to keep Terms with you, and make a Request to you, which is, That you would give my Service to the Nineteenth Century, (if ever you or yours reach to them) and tell them, That I have settled all Matters between them and me by Monsieur Boileau. Ishould be glad to see you here.

It is very odd this Prince should offer to invite me into his Dominions, or believe I should accept the Invitation. No, no, I remember too well how he ferved an ingenious Gentleman, a Friend of mine, whom he locked up in the Bastile for no Reason in the World, but because he was a Wit, and feared he might mention him with Justice in some of his Writings. His Way is, That all Men of Sense are preferred, banished, or imprisoned. He has indeed a Sort of Justice in him, like that of the Gamesters; if a Stander-by fees one at Play cheat, he has a Right to come in for Shares, for knowing the Mysteries of the Game. This is a very wise and just Maxim; and if I have not left at Mr. Morphew's, directed to me, Bank Bills for 200 L. on or before this Day Sevennight, I shall tell how Tom Cash got his Estate. I expect Three.

íq;

rty

ere uld.

the

ral

2002

But

nit

ep

ich

12-

to all

au.

noo

he

ſe

m

13

d,

rt

3;

e le

11

St.

2

Three Hundred Pounds of Mr. Soilett, for concealing all the Money he has lent to himself, and his Landed Friend bound with him, at Thirty per Cent. at his Scrivener's. Absolute Princes make People pay what they please in Deference to their Power: I do not know why I should not do the same, out of Fear or Respect to my Knowledge. I always preferve Decorums and Civilities to the Fair Sex: Therefore if a certain Lady, who left her Coach at the New-Exchange Door in the Strand, and whipt down Durham-Yard into a Boat with a young Gentleman for Fox-Hall; I fay, if she will fend me Word, that I may give the Fan which she drop'd, and I found, to my Sister Jenny, there shall be no more faid of it. I expect Hush-Money to be regularly fent for every Folly or Vice any one commits in this whole Town; and hope, I may pretend to deserve it better than a Chamber-Maid, or Valet de Chambre: They only whifper it to the little Set of their Companions; but I can tell it to all Men living, or who are to live. Therefore I defire all my Readers to pay their Fines, or mend their Lives.

White's Chocolate-house, June 8.

My Familiar being come from France, with an Answer to my Letter to Lewis of that Kingdom, instead of going on in a Discourse of what he had seen in that Court, he put on the immediate Concern of a Guardian, and fell to enquiring into my Thoughts and Adventures since his Journey. As short as his Stay had been, I confess'd I had had many Occasions for his Assistance in my Conduct; but communicated to him my Thoughts of putting all my Force against the horrid and Senseless Custom of Duels. If it were possible, said he, to laugh at Things in themselves so deeply Tragical as the impertinent Profusion of Human Life, I think

I could divert you with a Figure I faw just after my Death, when the Philosopher threw me, as I told you some Days ago, into the Pail of Water. You are to know, That when Men leave the Body, there are Receptacles for them assoon as they depart, according to the Manner in which they lived and died. At the very Instant that I was killed, there came away with me a Spirit which had lost its Body in a Duel. We were both examined. Me, the whole Affembly looked at with Kindness and Pity, but at the same Time with an Air of Welcome, and Confolation: They pronounced me very happy, who had died in Innocence; and told me, a quite different Place was allotted to me, than that which was appointed for my Companion; there being a great Distance from the Mansions of Fools and Innocents: Tho'at the fame Time, faid one of the Ghosts, there is a great Affinity between an Idiot who has been fo for long Life, and a Child who departs before Maturity. But this Gentleman who has arrived with you is a Fool of his own making, is ignorant out of Choice, and will fare accordingly. The Assembly began to flock about him, and one faid to him, Sir, I observed you came into the Gate of Perfons murdered, and I defire to know, What brought you to your untimely End? He faid, He had been a Second. Socrates (who may be faid to have been murdered by the Commonwealth of Athens) stood by, and began to draw near him, in order, after his Manner, to lead him into a Sense of his Error by Concessions in his own Discourse. Sir, said that Divine and Amicable Spirit, What was the Quarrel? He anfwered, We shall know very fuddenly, when the Principal in the Business comes, for he was desperately wounded before I fell. Sir, said the Sage, Had you an Estate? Yes, Sir, the new Gueit fter me, ot Men rem mer vith uel. Afbut and py, , a nan on; ons me, nity ife, But is a of bly im, erhat iid. aid lth ear im his miannen vas

the

ew

Guest answered, I have left it in a very good Condition; I made my Will the Night before this Occasion. Did you read it before you sign'd it? Yes sure, Sir, said the new Comer. Socrates replies, Could a Man that would not give his Estate without reading the Instrument, dispose of his Life without asking a Question? That illustrious Shade turned from him, and a Crowd of impertinent Goblins, who had been Droles and Parasites in their Life-time, and were knock'd on the Head for their Sawciness, came about my Fellow-Traveller, and made themselves very merry with Questions about the Words Cart and Terce, and other Terms of Fencers. But his Thoughts began to settle into Reflection upon the Adventure which had robbed him of his late Being; and with a wretched Sigh, faid he, How terrible are Conviction and Guilt when they come too late for Penitence! Pacolet was going on in this Strain, but he recovered from it, and told me, It was too foon to give my Discourse on this Subject so serious a Turn; you have chiefly to do with that Part of Mankind which must be led into Reflection by Degrees, and you must treat this Custom with Humour and Raillery to get an Audience, before you come to pronounce Sentence upon it. There is Foundation enough for raising such Entertainments from the Practice on this Occasion. Don't you know, that often a Man is called out of Bed to follow implicitly a Coxcomb (with whom he would not keep Company on any other Occasion) to Ruin and Death? Then a good Lift of fuch as are qualified by the Laws of these uncourteous Men of Chivalry to enter into Combat (who are often Persons of Honour without common Honesty): These, I say, ranged and drawn up in their proper Order, would give an Aversion to doing any Thing in common with such as Men laugh at and contemn. But to go through this Work, you must not let your Thoughts vary, or make Excursions from your Theme: Consider at the same Time, that the Matter has been often treated by the ablest and greatest Writers; yet that must not disencourage you; for the properest Person to handle it, is one who has roved into mix'd Conversations, and must have Opportunities (which I shall give you) of seeing these Sort of Men in their Pleasures and Gratifications; among which, they pretend to reckon Fighting. was pleasantly enough said of a Bully in France, when Duels first began to be punished: The King has taken away Gaming, and Stage-playing, and now Fighting too; How does he expect Gentlemen shall divert themselves?

The TATLER. [N° 27.

From Thursday June 9. to Saturday June 11. 1709.

White's Chocolate-house, June 9.

P Asolet being gone a strolling among the Men of the Sword, in order to find out the secret Causes of the frequent Disputes we meet with, and furnish me with Materials for my Treatise on Duelling; I have Room left to go on in my Information to my Country Readers, whereby they may understand the bright People whose Memoirs I have taken upon me to write. But in my Discourse of the 28th of the last Month, I omitted to mention the most agreeable of all bad Characters; and that is, a Rake.

A Rake is a Man always to be pitied; and if he lives, is one Day certainly reclaimed; for 27.

The

olay-

ex-

the meet my to go ders, Peone to th of most at is,

ind if his Faults proceed not from Choice or Inclination, but from firong Passions and Appetites. which are in Youth too violent for the Curb of Reafon, good Sense, good Manners, and good Nature: All which he must have by Nature and Education, before he can be allow'd to be. or have been of this Order. He is a poor unweildy Wretch, that commits Faults out of the Redundance of his good Qualities. His Pity and Compassion makes him sometimes a Bubble to all his Fellows, let'em be never so much below him in Understanding. His Desires run away with him through the Strength and Force of a lively Imagination, which hurries him on to unlawful Pleasures, before Reason has Power to come in to his Rescue. Thus, with all the good Intentions in the World to Amendment, this Creature fins on against Heaven, himself, his Friends, and his Country, who all call for a better Use of his Talents. There is not a Being under the Sun fo miferable as this: He goes on in a Pursuit he himfelf disapproves, and has no Enjoyment but what is followed by Remorfe; no Relief from Remorfe, but the Repetition of his Crime. It's possible I may talk of this Person with too much Indulgence; but I must repeat it, that I think this, a Character which is the most the Object of Pity of any in the World. The Man in the Pangs of the Stone, Gout, or any acute Diftempers, is not in so deplorable a Condition in the Eye of right Sense, as he that errs and repents, and repents and errs on. The Fellow with broken Limbs justly deserves your Alms for his impotent Condition; but he that can't use his own Reason, is in a much worse State; for you fee him in miserable Circumstances, with his Remedy at the same Time in his own Possession, if he would or could use it. This is the Cause, that of all ill Characters, the Rake has the best Quarter in the World; for when he is himself, and unruffled with Intemperance, you fee his natural Faculties exert themselves, and attract an Eve of Favour towards his Infirmities. But if we look round us here, how many dull Rogues are there, that would fain be what this poor Man hates himself for? All the Noise towards Six in the Evening, is caused by his Mimicks and Imitators. How ought Men of Sense to be careful of their Actions, if it were meerly from the Indignation of feeing themfelves ill drawn by fuch little Pretenders? Not to fay, he that leads, is guilty of all the Actions of his Followers: And a Rake has Imitators whom you would never expect should prove so. Second-hand Vice fure of all is the most nauseous. There is hardly a Folly more abfurd, or which feems less to be accounted for, (tho' 'tis what we fee every Day) than that grave and honest Natures give into this Way, and at the fame Time have good Sense, if they thought fit to use it: But the Fatalily (under which most Men labour) of desiring to be what they are not, makes 'em go out of a Method, in which they might be received with Applause, and would certainly excel, into one, wherein they will all their Life have the Air of Strangers to what they aim at. For this Reason, I have not lamented the Metamorphofis of any one I know to much as of Nobilis, who was born with Sweetness of Temper, just Apprehension, and every Thing else that might make him a Man fit for his Order. But instead of the Pursuit of fober Studies, and Applications, in which he would certainly be capable of making a confiderable Figure in the noblest Assembly of Men in the World; I say, in spight of that good Nature, which is his proper Bent, he will fay ill-natured Things aloud, put fuch as he was, and still should be, out of Countenance, and drown all the natural Good in him, to receive an artificial ill Character, in which he will never fucceed: For Nobilis is no Rake. He may guzzle as much Wine as he pleases, talk Bawdy if he thinks fit; but he may as well drink Water-gruel, and go twice a Day to Church, for it will never do. I pronounce it again, Nobilis is no Rake. To be of that Order, he must be vicious against his Will, and not fo by Study or Application. All Pretty Fellows are also excluded to a Man, as well as all Inamaratoes, or Persons of the Epicene Gender. who gaze at one another in the Presence of La-This Class, of which I am giving you an Account, is pretended to also by Men of strong Abilities in Drinking; tho' they are such whom the Liquor, not the Conversation, keeps together. But Blockheads may roar, fight, and stab. and be never the nearer; their Labour is also loft; they want Sense: They are no Rakes.

As a Rake among Men is the Man who lives in the constant Abuse of his Reason, so a Coquet among Women is one who lives in continual Misapplication of her Beauty. The chief of all, whom I have the Honour to be acquainted with, is pretty Mrs. Tols: She is ever in Practice of fomething which disfigures her, and takes from her Charms; tho' all the does, tends to a contrary Effect. She has naturally a very agreeable Voice and Utterance, which she has chang'd for the prettiest Lisp imaginable. She fees what she has a Mind to see, at half a Mile Distance; but poring with her Eyes half shut at every one she passes by, she believes much more becoming. The Cupid on her Fan and she have their Eyes full on each other, all the Time in which they are not both in Motion. Whenever her Eye is turned from that dear Object,

K 2

You may have a Glance and your Bow, if she is in Humour, return'd as civilly as you make it; but that must not be in the Presence of a Man of greater Quality: For Mrs. Toss is so throughly well bred, that the chief Person present has all her Regards. And she, who giggles at Divine Service, and laughs at her very Mother, can compose her self at the Approach of a Man of a good Estate.

proach of a Man of a good Estate.
Will's Coffee-house, June 9.

A fine Lady shewed a Gentleman of this Company, for an eternal Answer to all his Addresses, a Paper of Verses, with which she is so captivated, that she profess'd, the Author should, be the happy Man in Spite of all other Pretenders. It is ordinary for Love to make Men Poetical, and it had that Effect on this enamour'd Man: But he was refolved to try his Vein upon some of her Confidents or Retinue, before he ventured upon so high a Theme as her self. To do otherwise than so, would be like making an 'Heroick Poem a Man's first Attempt. Among the Favourites to the Fair One, he found her Parrot not to be in the last Degree: He faw Poll had her Ear, when his Sighs were neglected. To write against him, had been a fruitless Labour; therefore he resolv'd to flatter him into his Interests, in the following manner:

To a Lady on her Parrot.

When Nymphs were Coy, and Love could not prevail,
The Gods disguis'd were seldom known to fail, Leda was chast, but yet a Feather'd Jove Surpris'd the Fair, and taught her how to love.
There's no Celestial but his Heav'n would quit, For any Form which might to thee admit.
See how the wanton Bird, at every Glance, Swells his glad Plumes, and feels an am'rous Trance.
The Queen of Beauty has forsook the Dove, Henceforth the Parrat be the Bird of Love.

It is indeed a very just Proposition, to give that Honour rather to the Parrat than the other Volatile. The Parrat represents us in the State of making Love: The Dove in the Possession of the Object beloved. But instead of turning the Dove off, I fancy it would be better if the Chaise of Venus had hereafter a Parrat added (as we see sometimes a Third Horse to a Coach) which might intimate, That to be a Parrot, is the only Way to succeed; and to be a Dove, to preserve your Conquests. If the Swain would go on successfully, he must imitate the Bird he writes upon. For he who would be loved by Women, must never be silent before the Favour, or open his Lips after it.

From my own Apartment, June 10.

I have so many Messages from young Gentlemen who expect Preferment and Distinction, that I am wholly at a Loss in what Manner to acquit my self. The Writer of the following Letter tells me in a Postscript, he cannot go out of Town till I have taken some Notice of him, and is very urgent to be some Body in Town before he leaves it, and returns to his Commons at the University. But take it from himself.

To Isaac Bickerstaff Esq; Monitor General of Great-Britain.

SIR, Shire-Lane, June 8.

I Have been above 6 Months from the University, of Age these 3 Months, and so long in Town. I was recommended to one Charles Bubbleboy near the Temple, who has supply'd me with all the Furniture he says a Gentleman ought to have. I desired a Certificate thereof from him, which he said would require some Time to consider of; and when I went yesterday Morning for it, he tells me, upon due Consideration, I still want some few odd K3 Things Things more, to the Value of Threescore or Fourscore Pounds, to make me compleat. I have bespoke them; and the Favour I beg of you is, to know, when I am equip'd, in what Part or Class of Men in this Town you will place me. Pray send me Word what I am, and you shall find me,

SIR,

Your most humble Servant, Jeffry Nicknack.

I am very willing to encourage young Beginners; but am extreamly in the Dark how to dispose of this Gentleman. I cannot see either his Person or Habit in this Letter; but I'll call at Charles's, and know the Shape of his Snuss-Box, by which I can settle his Character. Tho' indeed, to know his full Capacity, I ought to be inform'd, whether he takes Spanish or Mussy.

St. James's Coffee house, June 10.

Letters from the Low Countries of the 17th Instant say, That the Duke of Marlborough and the Prince of Savoy intended to leave Gheno on that Day, and join the Army, which lies between Pont d'Espiere and Courtray, their Head Quarters being at Helchin. The same Day the Palatine Foot was expected at Brussels. Lieutenant General Dompre, with a Body of Eight Thousand Men, is posted at Alost, in order to cover Ghent and Bruffels. The Marshal de Villars was still on the Plains of Lens; and it is faid, the Duke of Vendolme is appointed to command in Conjunction with that General. Advices from Paris fay, Monfieur Voisin is made Secretary of State, upon Monfieur Chamillard's Relignation of that Employment. The Want of Money in that Kingdom is fo great, that the Court has thought fit to command all the Plate of private Families to be brought into the Mint. They write from the Hague of the 18th, That the States of Holland continue their Session; and that they have approved the Resolution of the States General, to publish a second Edict to prohibit the Sale of Corn to the Enemy. Many eminent Persons in that Affembly have declared, that they are of Opinion, that all Commerce whatfoever with France should be wholly forbidden: Which Point is under present Deliberation; but it is fear'd it will meet with powerful Oppolition.

The TATLER. Nº 28.

From Saturday June 11. to Tuesday June 14. 1709.

White's Chocolate-house, June 13. Had suspended the Business of Duelling to a distant Time, but that I am called upon to declare my felf on a Point proposed in the following Letter.

SIR, June 9. at Night. T Defire the Favour of you to decide this Question, Whether calling a Gentleman a Smart Fellow is an Affront or not? A Youth entring a certain Coffee-house, with his Cane tied at his Button, wearing red-heeled Shoes, I thought of your Description, and could not forbear telling a Friend of mine next to me, There enters a Smart Fellow. The Gentleman hearing it, had immediately a Mind to pick a Quarrel with me, and defired Satisfaction: At which I was more puzzled than at the other, remembring what Mention your Familiar makes of those that had lost their Lives on Juch Occasions. The Thing is referr'd to your K 4 Judgment.

Judgment, and I expect you to be my Second, since you have been the Gause of our Quarrel. I am,

SIR,

Your Friend and humble Servant.

I absolutely pronounce, that there is no Occation of Offence given in this Expression; for a Smart Fellow is always an Appellation of Praife, and is a Man of double Capacity. The true Cast or Mould in which you may be fure to know him is, when his Livelihood or Education is in the Civil Lift, and you fee him express a Vivacity or Mettle above the Way he is in by a little Jerk in his Motion, short Trip in his Steps, well-fancied Lining of his Coat, or any other Indications which may be given in a vigorous Drefs. Now, What possible Infinuation can there be, that 'tis a Cause of Quarrel for a Man to fay, he allows a Gentleman really to be, what he, his Taylor, his Hosier, and his Milliner, have conspired to make him? I confess, if this Person who appeals to me had said, He was not a Smart Fellow, there had been Cause for Resentment; but if he stands to it that he is one, he leaves no Manner of Ground for a Misanderstanding. Indeed, it is a most lamentable Thing, that there should be a Difpute raised upon a Man's saying another is, what he plainly takes Pains to be thought. But this Point cannot be so well adjusted, as by enquiring what are the Sentiments of wife Nations and Communities of the Use of the Sword, and from thence conclude, Whether it is honourable to draw it so frequently or not? An Illustrious Commonwealth of Italy has preserved it felf for many Ages, without letting one of their Subjects handle this destructive Instrument, always leaving that Work to fuch of Mankind as understand the Use of a whole Skin fo little, as to make a Profession of exposing it to Cuts and Scars. But what need we run to fuch foreign Instances: Our own ancient and well-governed Cities are confpicuous Examples to all Mankind in their Regulation of Military Atchievements. The chief Citizens, like the noble Italians, hire Mercenaries to carry Arms in their stead; and you shall have a Fellow of a desperate Fortune, for the Gain of one Half Crown, go through all the Dangers of Tuttle-Fields, or the Artillery-Ground, clap his Right Jaw within Two Inches of the Touchhole of a Musquet, fire it off, and Huzza, with as little Concern as he tears a Pullet. Thus you fee, to what Scorn of Danger these Mercenaries arrive, out of a meer Love of fordid But methinks it should take off the strong Prepossession Men have in Favour of bold Actions, when they fee upon what low Motives Men aspire to 'em. Do but observe the common Practice in the Government of those Heroick Bodies, our Militia and Lieutenancies, the most Ancient Corps of Soldiers, perhaps, in the Universe. I question, Whether there is one Instance of an Animolity between any Two of these illustrious Sons of Mars since their Institution, which was decided by Combat? I remember indeed to have read the Chronicle, of an Accident which had like to have occasioned Bloodshed in the very Field before all the Gene. ral Officers, tho' most of them were Justices of the Peace: Captain Crabtree of Birching - Lane, Haberdasher had drawn a Bill upon Major-General Maggot, Cheesemonger in Thames-street. Crabtree draws this upon Mr. William Maggot and Company. A Country Lad receiv'd this Bill, and not understanding the Word Company, us'd in drawing Bills on Men in Partnership, carried it to Mr. Jeffry Stick of Crooked-Lane, (Lieutenant of the Major-General's Company) whom he had the Day before feen march by the Door in all the Pomp of his Commission. The Lieutenant accepts it, for the Honour of the Company, tince it had come to him. But Repayment beng ask'd from the Major-General, he absolutely refuses. Upon this, the Lieutenant thinks of nothing less than to bring this to a Rupture. and takes for his Second, Tobias Armstrong of the Counter, and fends him with a Challenge in a Scrip of Parchment, wherein was written, Stitch contra Maggot, and all the Fury vanish'd in a Moment. The Major-General gives Satisfaction to the Second, and all was well. Hence it is, that the bold Spirits of our City are kept in fuch Subjection to the Civil Power. Otherwife. Where would our Liberties foon be? If Wealth and Valour were fuffer'd to exert themfelves with their utmost Force: If such Officers as are employed in the terrible Bands abovementioned, were to draw Bills as well as Swords: These dangerous Captains, who could victual an Army as well as lead it, would be too powerful for the State. But the Point of Honour justly gives Way to that of Gain; and by long and wife Regulation, the richest is the avest Man. I have known a Captain rise to a in Two Days by the Fall of Stocks; and a Major, my good Friend, near the Monument, ascended to that Honour by the Fall of the Price of Spirits, and the Rifing of right Nantz. By this true Sense of Honour, that Body of Warriors are ever in good Order and Difcipline, with their Colours and Coats all whole: As in other Battalions (where their Principles of Action are less folid) you see the Men of Service look like Spectres, with long Sides, and lank Cheeks. In this Army, you may measure a Man's Services by his Wast, and the most prominent S

S

d

e

of

d

e

2

;

11-

of

ht

0-

1-

e:

es

or

nd

re

At nt

prominent Belly is certainly the Man who has been most upon Action. Besides all this, there is another excellent Remark to be made in the Discipline of these Troops. It being of ablolute Necessity that the People of England should fee what they have for their Money, and be. Eye-witnesses of the Advantages they gain by it, all Battles which are fought abroad are represented here. But since one Side must be beaten, and the other conquer, which might create Disputes, the eldest Company is always, to make the other run, and the younger retreats, according to the last News and best Intelligence. I have my felf feen Prince Eugene make Catinat fly from the Back-fide of Grays-Inn Lane to Hockley in the Hole, and not give over the Pursuit, till obliged to leave the Bear-Garden on the Right, to avoid being borne down by Fencers, Wild Bulls and Monsters, too terrible for the Encounter of any Heroes, but fuch whose Lives are their Livelihood.

We have here feen, that wife Nations do not admit of Fighting, even in the Defence of their Country, as a laudable Action; and they live within the Walls of our own City in great Honour and Reputation without it. It would be very necessary to understand, by what Force of the Climate, Food, Education, or Employment, one Man's Sense is brought to differ so essentially from that of another; that one is ridiculous and contemptible for forbearing a Thing which makes for his Sasety; and another applauded for consulting his Ruin and Destruction.

It will therefore be necessary for us (to show our Travelling) to examine this Subject fully, and tell you how it comes to pass, That a Man of Honour in Spain, tho' you offend him never so gallantly, stabs you basely; in England, tho' you offend never so basely, challenges fairly:

The former kills you out of Revenge; the latter out of good Breeding. But to probe the Heart of Man in this Particular to its utmost Thoughts and Recesses, I must wait for the Return of Pacolet, who is now attending a Gentleman lately in a Duel, and sometimes visits the Person, by whose Hand he received his Wounds.

St. James's Coffee-house, June 13.

Letters from Vienna of the 8th Instant say, there has been a Journal of the Marches and Actions of the King of Sweden, from the Beginning of January to the 11th of April, N. S. communicated by the Swedish Ministers to that Court. These Advices inform, That his Swedish Majefly entered the Territories of Muscouy in February last with the main Body of his Army, in order to oblige the Enemy to a general Engagement; but that the Muscovites declining a Battle, and an univerfal Thaw having rendred the Rivers unpassable, the King returned into U-There are mentioned several Rencounkrania. ters between confiderable Detachments of the Swedish and Russian Armies. Marshal Heister intended to take his Leave of the Court on the Day after the Date of these Letters, and put himself at the Head of the Army in Hungary. The Malecontents had attempted to fend in a Supply of Provisions into Newheusel; but their Delign was disappointed by the Germans.

Advices from Berlin of the 15th Instant, N. S. say, That his Danish Majesty having received an Invitation from the King of Prussia to an Interview, designed to come to Postsam within sew Days; and that King Augustus resolved to accompany him thither. To avoid all Difficulties in Ceremony, the Three Kings, and all the Company who shall have the Honour to sit with them at Table, are to draw Lots, and take Precedents accordingly.

They write from Hamburgh of the 18th Instant, N. S. That some particular Letters from Dantzick speak of a late Action between the Swedes and Muscovites near Janoslaw; but that Engagement being mentioned from no other Place, there is not much Credit given to this Intelligence.

We hear from Brussels, by Letters dated the 20th, That on the 14th in the Evening the Duke of Marlborough and Prince Eugene arrived at Courtray, with a Design to proceed the Day following to Liste, in the Neighbourhood of which City the ConfederateArmy was to rendesvouz the same Day. Advices from Paris inform us, That the Marshal de Bezons is appointed to command in Dauphiné; and that the Duke of Berwick is set out for Spain, with a Design to follow the Fortunes of the Duke of Anjou, in case the French King should comply with the late Demands of the Allies.

The Court of France has fent a Circular Letter to all the Governors of the Provinces, to recommend to their Consideration his Majesty's late Conduct in the Affair of Peace. It is thought fit in that Epistle, to condescend to a certain Appeal to the People, Whether it is confiftent with the Dignity of the Crown, or the French Name, to submit to the Preliminaries demanded by the Confederates? That Letter dwells upon the unreasonableness of the Allies, in requiring, that his Majesty should assist in dethroning his Grandson, and treats this Particular in Language more suitable to it, as it is a Topick of Oratory, than a real Circumstance, on which the Interests of Nations, and Reasons of State, which affect all Europe, are concern'd.

The Close of this Memorial feems to prepare the People to expect all Events, attributing the Confidence of the Enemy to the Goodness of their

Troops;

Troops; but acknowledging, that his fole Dependance is upon the Intervention of Providence.

The TATLER. [N° 29.

From Tuesd. June 14. to Thursd. June 16. 1709.

White's Chocolate-house, June 14. Aving a very folid Respect for Humane Na-I ture, however it is distorted from its natural Make, by Affectation, Humour, Custom, Misfortune, or Vice, I do apply my self to my Friends to help me in raising Arguments for preferving it in all its Individuals, as long as it is permitted. To one of my Letters on this Subject, I have received the following Answer:

SIR.

IN Answer to your Question, Why Men of Sense, Virtue, and Experience, are seen still to comply with that ridiculous Custom of Duelling? I must desire you to reflect, that Custom has dish'd up in Ruffs the wifest Heads of our Ancestors, and put the best of the present Age into huge Falbala Periwigs. Men of Sense would not impose such Incumbrances on themselves; but be glad they might show their Faces decently in Publick upon easier Terms. If then such Men appear reasonably Slaves to the Fashion, in what regards the Figure of their Persons, we ought not to wonder, that they are at least so in what seems to touch their Reputations. Besides, you can't be ignorant, that Dress and Chivalry have been always encouraged by the Ladies, as the Two principal Branches of Gallantry. Tis to avoid being Ineer'd at for his Singularity, and from a Desire to appear more agreeable to his Mistrels, that a wife, experienced, and polite Man, complies complies with the Drefs commonly received, and is prevailed upon to violate his Reason and Principles, in hazarding his Life and Estate by a Tilt, as well as suffering his Pleasures to be constrained and sowred by the constant Apprehension of a Quarrel. This is the more surprising, because Men of the most delicate Sense and Principles have naturally in other Cases a particular Repugnance in accommodating them elves to the Maxims of the World: But one may easily distinguish the Man that is affected with Beauctry, and the Reputation of a Tilt, from him who complies with both, meerly as they are impos'd upon him by Custom; for in the former you'll remark an Air of Vanity and Triumph; whereas when the latter appears in a long Duvillier full of Powder, or has decided a Quarrel by the Sword, you may perceive in his Face, that he appeals to Custom for an Excuse. I think it may not be improper to enquire into the Genealogy of this Chimerical Monster, call'd a Duel, which I take to be an illegitimate Species of the ancient Knight-Errantry. By the Laws of this Whim, your Heroick Person, or Man of Gallantry, was indispenfibly oblig'd to starve in Armour a certain Number of Years in the Chase of Monsters, encounter them at the Peril of his Life, and suffer great Hardships, in order to gain the Affection of the Fair Lady, and qualific himself for assuming the Belle-Air, that is, of a Pretty Fellow, or Man of Honour according to the Fashion: But since the Publishing of Don Quixot, and Extinction of the Race of Dragons, which Suetonius Jays happen'd in that of Wantley, the gallant and heroick Spirits of these latter Times have been under the Necessity of creating new Chimerical Monsters to entertain themselves with, by way of single Combas, as the only Proofs they are able to give their ewn Sex, and the Ladies, that they are in all Points

Points Men of nice Honour. But to do Justice to the ancient and real Monsters, I must observe, that they never molested those who were not of a Humour to Hunt for them in the Woods and Desarts: whereas on the contrary, our modern Monsters are so familiarly admitted and entertain'd in all the Courts and Cities of Europe, (except France) that one can scarce be in the most humaniz'd Society without risquing one's Life; the People of the best Sort, and the Fine Gentlemen of the Age, being so fond of 'em, that they seldom appear in any Publick Place without one. I have some further Considerations upon this Subject, which, as you encourage me, shall be communicated to you, by, Sir, a Cousin; but once remov'd from the best Family of the Staffs, namely, SIR,

Your humble Servant, Kinsman and Friend, Tim. Switch.

It is certain, Mr. Switch has hit upon the true Source of this Evil; and that it proceeds only from the Force of Custom that we contradict our selves in half the Particulars and Occurrences of Life. But fuch a Tyranny in Love. which the Fair impose upon us, is a little too severe, that we must demonstrate our Affection for 'em by no certain Proof but Hatred to one another, or come at them (only as one does to an Estate) by Survivorship. This Way of Application to gain a Lady's Heart, is taking her as we do Towns and Castles, by diffressing the Place, and letting none come near 'em without our Pass. Were such a Lover once to write the Truth of his Heart, and let her know his whole Thoughts, he would appear indeed to have a Passion for her; but it would hardly be call'd Love. The Billet Deux would run to this Purpose: Madam,

Madam,

I Have so tender a Regard for you and your Interests, that I'll knock any Man in the Head whom I observe to be of my Mind, and like you. Mr. Truman the other Day look'd at you in so languishing a Manner, that I am resolv'd to run him through to morrow Morning: This, I think, he deserves for his Guilt in admiring you; than which I cannot have a greater Reason for murdering him, except it be that you also approve him. Whoever says he dies for you, I will make his Words good, for I will kill him. I am,

Madam,

Your most Obedient, Most Humble Servant.

From my own Apartment, June 14. I am just come hither at Ten at Night, and have ever fince Six been in the most celebrated, tho' most nauscous, Company in Town: The two Leaders of the Society were a Critick and a Wit. These two Gentlemen are great Opponents upon all Occasions, not discerning that they are the nearest each other in Temper and Talents of any two Classes of Men in the World; for to profess Judgment, and to profess Wit, both arise from the same Failure, which is Want of Judgment. The Poverty of the Critick this Way proceeds from the Abuse of his Faculty; that of the Wit from the Neglect of it. It's a particular Observation I have always made, That of all Mortals, a Critick is the filliest; for by inuring himself to examine all Things, whether they are of Consequence or not, he never looks upon any Thing but with a Delign of passing Sentence upon it; by which Means, he is never a Companion,

210

but always a Cenfor. This makes him earnest upon Trifles; and dispute on the most indifferent Occasions with Vehemence. Iff he offers to speak or write, that Talent which should approve the Work of the other Faculties, prevents their Operation. He comes upon Action in Armour; but without Weapons: He stands in Safety; but can gain no Glory. The Wit on the other Hand has been hurried fo long away by Imagination only, that Judgment feems not to have ever been one of his natural Faculties. This Gentleman takes himself to be as much obliged to be merry, as the other to be grave. A thorough Critick is a Sort of Puritan in the polite World. As an Enthusiast in Religion stumbles at the ordinary Occurrences of Life, if he cannot quote Scripture Examples on the Occasion; so the Critick is never safe in his Speech or Writing, without he has among the celebrated Writers an Authority for the Truth of his Sentence. You will believe we had a very good Time with these Brethren, who were so far out of the Dress of their native Country, and so lost to its Dialect, that they were as much Strangers to themselves, as to their Relation to each other. They took up the whole Discourse; sometimes the Critick grew passionate, and when reprimanded by the Wit for any Trip or Hesitation in his Voice, he would answer, Mr. Dryden makes such a Character on such an Occasion break off in the fame Manner; fo that the Stop was according to Nature, and as a Man in a Passion should do. The Wit, who is as far gone in Letters as himself, seems to be at a Loss to answer such an Apology; and concludes only, that though his Anger is justly vented, it wants Fire in the Utterance. If Wit is to be measured by the Circumstances of Time and Place, there is no

mous

Man has generally fo little of that Talent, as he who is a Wit by Profession. What he says, initead of arising from the Occasion, has an Occasion invented to bring it in. Thus he is new for no other Reason, but that he talks like no Body else; but has taken up a Method of his own, without Commerce of Diologue with other People. The lively Jasper Dactyle is one of this Character. He feems to have made a Vow to be witty to his Life's End. When you meet him, What do you think, fays he, I have been entertaining my felf with? Then out comes a premeditated Turn; to which 'tis to no Purpose to answer; for he goes on in the fame Strain of Thought he defigned without your speaking. Therefore I have a general Answer to all he can say; as, Sure there never was any Creature had so much Fire! Spondee, who is a Critick, is feldom out of this fine Man's Company. They have no Manner of Affection for each other, but keep together, like Novell and Oldfox in the Plain-Dealer, because they show each other. I know several of Sense who can be diverted with this Couple; but I fee no Curiofity in the Thing, except it be, that Spondee is dull, and feems dull; but Da-Etyle is heavy with a brisk Face. It must be own'd also, that Dastyle has almost Vigour enough to be a Coxcomb; But Spondee, by the Lowness of his Constitution, is only a Blockhead.

St. James's Coffee-house, June 15.

We have no Particulars of Moment fince our last, except it be, that the Copy of the following Original Letter came by the Way of Ostend. It is said to have been found in the Closet of Monsieur Chamillard, the late Secretary of State of France, since his Disgrace. It was signed by two Brothers of the fa-famous Cavalier, who led the Cevennois, and had a Personal Interview with the King, as well-as a Capitulation to lay down his Arms, and leave the Dominions of France. There are many other Names to it; among whom, is the Chief of the Family of the Marquis Guiseard. It is not yet known, whether Monsieur Chamillard had any real Design to favour the Protestant Interest, or only thought to place himself at the Head of that People, to make himself considerable enough to oppose his Enemies at Court, and reinstate himself in Power there.

SIR. VE have read your Majesty's * Letter to the Governours of your Provinces, with Instructions what Sentiments to infinuate into the Minds of your People: But as you have always acted upon the Maxim, That we were made for you, and not you for us, we ' must take Leave to assure your Majesty, that we are exactly of the contrary Opinion, and " must desire you to send for your Grandson ' Home, and acquaint him, that you now know by Experience, Absolute Power is only a Ver-'tigo in the Brain of Princes, which for a Time may quicken their Motion, and double ' in their diseas'd Sight the Instances of Power ' above 'em; but must end in their Fall and Destruction. Your Memorial speaks a good 'Father of your Family, but a very ill one of ' your People. Your Majesty is reduc'd to hear Truth when you are oblig'd to speak it:

Soon after the Conclusion of the late Treaty of Peace, the French King dispers'd a Letter through his Dominions, wherein he shows the Reasons why he could not ratify the Preliminaries. Vid. the publick News-Papers of this Date.

d

15

s,

re

is

1-

11.

10

e

1-0

-

u

9

t

d

n

V

-

2

e

d

d

r

C

There is no governing any but Savages by any Methods but their own Confent, which you feem to acknowledge, in appealing to us for our Opinion of your Conduct in treating of Peace. Had your People been always of your Council, the King of France had never been reduc'd fo low, as to acknowledge his Arms were fall'n into Contempt. But fince it is thus, we must ask, How is any Man of France, but they of the House of Bourbon, the better that Philip is King of Spain? We have outgrown that Folly of placing our Happiness in your Majesty's being call'd, The Great: Therefore as you and we are all alike * Bankrupts, and undone, let us not deceive ourselves, but compound with our Adversaries, and not talk ' like their Equals. Your Majesty must forgive ' us that we cannot wish you Success, or lend you Help; for if you lose one Battle more, we may have an Hand in the Peace you make; and doubt not but your Majesty's Faith in Treaties will require the Ratification of the States of your Kingdoms. So we bid you heartily farewel, till we have the Honour to " meet you Assembled in Parliament. happy Expectation makes us willing to wait the Event of another Campagne, from whence we hope to be raifed from the Mifery of Slaves, to the Privileges of Subjects. are,

Your Majesty's Truly Faithful, and Loyal Subjects, &c.

* N.B. Mons. Bernard and the chief Bunkers of France became Bankrupts about this Time.

The TATLER. [N° 30.

From Thursd. June 16. to Saturd. June 18. 1709.

From my own Apartment, June 16. THE Vigilance, the Anxiety, the Tenderness, which I have for the good People of England, I am perfwaded will in Time be much commended; but I doubt whether they will ever be rewarded. However, I must go on chearfully in my Work of Reformation: That being my great Defign, I am studious to prevent my Labour's increasing upon me; therefore am particularly observant of the Temper and Inclinations of Childhood and Youth, that we may not give Vice and Folly Supplies from the growing Generation. It is hardly to be imagined how useful this Study is, and what great Evils or Benefits arise from putting us in our tender Years to what we are fit, or unfit: Therefore on Tuelday last (with a Design to sound their Inclinations) I took Three Lads who are under my Guardianship a rambling, in an Hackney-Coach, to show them the Town, as the Lions, the Tombs, Bedlam, and the other Places which are Entertainments to raw Minds, because they strike forcibly on the Fancy. The Boys are Brothers, one of Sixteen, the other of Fourteen, the other of Twelve. The first was his Father's Darling, the fecond his Mother's, and the third is mine, who am their Uncle. Mr. William is a Lad of true Genius; but being at the upper End of a great School, and having all the Lads below him, his Arrogance is insupportable. If I begin to show a little of my Latin, he immediately interrupts: Uncle, under Favour, that which you fay is not understood in that Manner.

.

h

11 n

it

n

1-

Ly

v-ls

er

on li-

19

h,

ne

re

ey

n,

1'5 rd

is per

ds If

16-

er.

ro-

Brother, fays my Boy Jack, You do not show your Manners much in contradicting my Uncle Isaac. You queer Cur, fays Mr. William, Do you think my Uncle takes any Notice of such a dull Rogue as you are? Mr. William goes on; He is the most stupid of all my Mother's Children: He knows nothing of his Book: When he should mind that, he is hiding or hoarding his Taws and Marbles, or laying up Farthings. His Way of thinking is, Four and twenty Farthings make Sixpence, and Two Sixpences a Shilling, Two Shillings and Sixpence Half a Crown, and Two Half-Crowns Five Shillings. So within these Two Months, the close Hunks has scraped up Twenty Shillings, and we'll make him spend it all before he comes Home. Jack immediately claps his Hands into both Pockets, and turns as pale as Ashes. There is nothing touches a Parent (and fuch I am to Jack) fo nearly, as a provident Temper. This Lad has in him the true Temper for a good Husband, a kind Father, and an honest Executor. All the great People you fee make confiderable Figures on the Change, in Court, and fometimes in Senates, are fuch as in Reality have no greater Faculty than what may be called Human Instinct, which is a natural Tendency to their own Preservation. and that of their Friends, without being capable of striking out of the Road for Adventures. There's Sir William Scrip was of this Sort of Capacity from his Childhood: He has bought the Country round him, and makes a Bargain better than Sir Harry Wildfire with all his Wit and Humour. Sir Harry never wants Money but he comes to Scrip, laughs at him half an Hour, and then gives Bond for t'other Thoufand. The close Men are incapable of placing Merit any where but in their Pence, and theretore gain it; while others, who have larger Capacities, pacities, are diverted from the Pursuit by Enjoyments, which can be supported only by that Cash which they despise; and therefore are in the End, Slaves to their Inferiors both in Fortune and Understanding. I once heard a Man of excellent Sense observe, That more Affairs in the World failed by being in the Hands of Men of too large Capacities for their Business, than by being in the Conduct of fuch as wanted Abililities to execute them. Jack therefore being of a plodding Make, shall be a Citizen; and I defign him to be the Refuge of the Family in their Distress, as well as their Jest in Prosperity. His Brother Will. shall go to Oxford with all Speed, where, if he does not arrive at being a Man of Sense, he will soon be inform'd wherein he is a Coxcomb. There is in that Place fuch a true Spirit of Raillery and Humour, that if they can't make you a wife Man, they will certainly let you know you are are a Fool, which is all my Coufin wants to cease to be so. Thus having taken these Two out of the Way, I have Leifure to look at my Third Lad. I observe in the young Rogue a natural Subtility of Mind, which discovers it felf rather in forbearing to declare his Thoughts on any Occasion, than in any visible Way of exerting himself in Discourfe. For which Reason I will place him where, if he commits no Faults, he may go further than those in other Stations, though they excel in Virtues. The Boy is well fashioned, and will easily fall into a graceful Manner; wherefore, I have a Delign to make him a Page to a great Lady of my Acquaintance; by which Means he will be well skill'd in the common Modes of Life, and make a greater Progress in the World by that Knowledge, than with the greatest Qualities without it. A good Mien in a Court will carry a Man greater Lengths than a good loy-Calh the and celthe n of a by biligot deheir His eed, n of true they ainly is all s hahave ve in Aind, ig to an ir. Difhim furthey oned, nner; Page vhich nmon ets in h the ien in a good Understanding in any other Place. We fee a World of Pains taken, and the best Years of Life spent, in collecting a Set of Thoughts in a College for the Conduct of Life; and after all, the Man so qualified shall hesitate in his Speech to a good Suit of Clothes, and want common Sense before an agreeable Woman. Hence it is, that Wisdom, Valour, Justice, and Learning, can't keep a Man in Countenance that is possessed with these Excellencies, if he wants that less Art of Life and Behaviour, call'd Good Breeding. A Man endowed with great Perfections without this, is like one who has his Pockets full of Gold, but always wants Change for his ordinary Occasions. Will. Courtly is a living Instance of this Truth, and has had the same Education which I am giving my Nephew. He never spoke a Thing but what was faid before. and yet can converse with the wittiest Men without being ridiculous. Among the Learned, he does not appear ignorant; nor with the Wife, indifcreet. Living in Conversation from his Infancy, makes him no where at a Loss; and a long Familiarity with the Persons of Men, is in a Manner of the fame Service to him, as if he knew their Arts. As Ceremony is the Invention of wife Men to keep Fools at a Distance, so good Breeding is an Expedient to make Fools and wife Men equals.

than

Will's Coffee-house, June 17.

The Suspension of the Playhouse has made me have nothing to send you from hence; but calling here this Evening, I found the Party I usually sit with, upon the Business of Writing, and examining what was the handsomest Style in which to address Women, and write Letters of Gallantry. Many were the Opinions which were immediately declared on this Subject: Some were for a certain Softness; some for I know not what Delicacy; others for fomething inexpressibly Tender: When it came to me, I faid there was no Rule in the World to be made for writing Letters, but that of being as near what you speak Face to Face as you can; which is fo great a Truth, that I am of Opinion, Writing has loft more Miftresses than any one Mi-Rake in the whole Legend of Love. For when you write to a Lady for whom you have a folid and honourable Love, the great Idea you have of her, join'd to a quick Sense of her Abfence, fills your Mind with a Sort of Tenderness, that gives your Language too much the Air of Complaint, which is seldom successful. For a Man may flatter himself as he pleases, but he will find, that the Women have more Understanding in their own Affairs than we have, and Women of Spirit are not to be won by Mourners. Therefore he that can keep handfomely within Rules, and support the Carriage of a Companion to his Mistress, is much more likely to prevail, than he who lets her fee, the whole Reliff of his Life depends upon her. If possible therefore divert your Mistress, rather than figh to her. The pleasant Man she will defire for her own Sake; but the languishing Lover has nothing to hope from but her Pity. To Thew the Difference I produced two Letters a Lady gave me, which had been writ to her by two Gentlemen who pretended to her, but were both kill'd the next Day after the Date at the Battle of Almanza. One of them was a mercurial gayhumour'd Man; the other a Man of a serious, but a great and gallant Spirit. Poor Jack Careles! This is his Letter: You see how it is folded: The Air of it is so negligent, one might have read half of it by peeping into it, without breaking it open. He had no Exactness.

de

ar ch ri-

Ai-

en fo-

nou

Ab-

er-

ful.

Un-

ave,

by

and-iage

nore

the If

1 de-

Lo-

To ers a

er by were

Battle

gayis, but

reles!

lded:

have break-

AM,

MADAM.

IT is a very pleafant Circumstance I am in that while I should be thinking of the good Company we are to meet within a Day or two, where we shall go to Loggerheads, my Thoughts are running upon a Fair Enemy in England. I was in Hopes I had left you there; but you follow the Camp, tho' I have endeavoured to make some of our Leaguer Ladies drive you out of the Field. All my ' Comfort is, you are more troublesome to my Colonel than my felf: I permit you to visit me only now and then; but he downright keeps you. I laugh at his Honour as far as his Gravity will allow me; But I know him to be a Man of too much Merit to succeed with a Woman. Therefore defend your Heart as well as you can, I shall come Home this Winter ' irrelistibly dress'd, and with quite a new Foreign Air. And fo I had like to fay, I reft, but alas! I remain,

Madam,

Your most Obedient,

Most Humble Servant,

John Careless.

Now for Colonel Confant's Epistle; you see it is folded and directed with the utmost Care.

MADAM,

Do my felf the Honour to write to you this Evening, because I believe to Morrow will be a Day of Battle, and something forebodes in my Breast that I shall fall in it. If it proves so, I hope you will hear, I have done nothing below a Man who had a Love of his Country, quickened by a Passion for a Woman of Honour. If there be any Thing noble in going to a certain Death; if there be any Merit, that I meet it with Pleasure, by promising my self a Place in your Esteem; if your Applause, when I am no more, is preferable to the most glorious Life without you: I say, Madam, If any of these Considerations can have Weight with you, you will give me a kind Place in your Memory, which I prefer to the Glory of Cesar. I hope, this will be read, as it is writ, with Tears.

The beloved Lady is a Woman of a sensible Mind; but she has confess'd to me, that after all her true and folid Value for Constant, she had much more Concern for the Lois of Careless. Those great and serious Spirits have something equal to the Adversities they meet with, and confequently lessen the Objects of Pity. Great Accidents feem not cut out so much for Men of familiar Characters, which makes them more eafily pitied, and foon after beloved. Add to this, that the Sort of Love which generally fucceeds, is a Stranger to Awe and Distance. I asked Romana, Whether of the Two she should have chosen had they survived? She said, She knew the ought to have taken Constant; but believed, she should have chosen Careless. St. James's Coffee-house, June 17.

Letters from Lisbon of the 9th Instant, N. S. say, That the Enemy's Army, having block'd up Olivenza, was posted on the Guadiana. The Portuguese are very apprehensive that the Garrison of that Place, tho it consists of five of the best Regiments of their Army, will be obliged to surrender, if not timely relieved, they not being supplied with Provisions for more than

Six

3

e

d

s.

at

of

O

c-I

ne

S.

'd he ar-

he

red

not nan

Six

Six Weeks. Hereupon their Generals held a Council of War on the 4th Instant, wherein it was concluded to advance towards Badajes. With this Design the Army decamped on the 5th from Jerumena, and marched to Cancaon. Tis hoped, that if the Enemy follow their Motions, they may have Opportunity to put a sufficient Quantity of Provision and Ammunition into Olivenza.

Mr. Bickerstaff gives Notice to all Persons that dress themselves as they please, without Regard to Decorum, (as with blue and red Stockings in Mourning; tuck'd Cravats, and Nightcap-Wigs, before People of the First Quality) That he has yet received no Fine for indulging them in that Liberty, and that he expects their Compliance with this Demand, or that they go Home immediately and shift themselves. This is farther to acquaint the Town, That the Report that the Hosiers, Toymen, and Milliners, have compounded with Mr. Bickerstaff for tolerating such Enormities, is utterly false and scandarlous.

The TATLER. [Nº 3r.

From Saturd. June 18. to Tuesd. June 21. 1709.

Grecian Coffee-house, June 18.

IN my Differtation against the Custom of single Combat, it has been objected, that there is not Learning, or much Reading, shown therein, which is the very Life and Soul of all Treatises; for which Reason, being always easy to receive Admonitions, and reform my Exrors, I thought fit to consult this learned L 3 Board,

222

Board on the Subject. Upon proposing some Doubts, and desiring their Assistance, a very hopeful young Gentleman, my Relation, who is to be called to the Bar within a Year and an half at farthest, told me, That he had ever fince I first mentioned Duelling turned his Head that Way; and that he was principally moved thereto, by Reason that he thought to follow the Circuits in the North of England and South of Scotland, and to refide mostly at his own Estate at Landbadernamz in Cardiganshire. The Northern Britains and Southern Scots are a warm People, and the Welsh a Nation of Gentlemen: fo that it behov'd him to understand well the Science of Quarrelling. The young Gentleman proceeded admirably well, and gave the Board an Account, that he had read Fitzherbert's Grand Abridgment, and had found, that Duelling is a very ancient Part of the Law: For when a Man is fued, be it for his Life or his Land, the Person that joins the Issue, whether Plaintiff or Defendant, may put the Tryal upon the Duel. Further he argued, under Favour of the Court, that when the Issue is join'd by the Duel in Treason or other Capital Crimes, the Parties accused and Accuser must fight in their own proper Persons: But if the Dispute be for Lands, you may hire a Champion at Hockley in the Hole, or any where elfe. This Part of the Law we had from the Saxons; and they had it, as also the Trial by Ordeal, from the Laplanders. It is indeed agreed, faid he, the Southern and Eastern Nations never knew any Thing of it; for though the ancient Romans would scold, and call Names filthily, yet there is not an Example of a Challenge that ever pass'd amongst them. His quoting the Eastern Nations, put another Gentleman in Mind of an Account he had from a Boatswain

I.

170

ry ho

an

er

lly

olnd

Nn

he

rm

73;

he

an rd t's

nat

w: ife

ue,

he

in-pi-

fer t if

m-

lie.

ns;

eal.

aid

ver

ent

ily,

hat

the

in ain

ot

of an East-India Man; which was, that a Chi nese had tricked and bubbled him, and tha when he came to demand Satisfaction the next Morning, and like a true Tar of Honour called him Son of a Whore, Lyar, Dog, and other rough Appellatives used by Persons conversant with Winds and Waves; the Chinese, with great Tranquility, desired him not to come abroad fasting, nor put himself in a Heat, for it would prejudice his Health. Thus the East knows nothing of this Gallantry. far at the Left of the Table a Person of a venerable Aspect, who afferted, That half the Impositions which are put upon these Ages, have been transmitted by Writers who have given too great Pomp and Magnificence to the Exploits of the ancient Bear-Garden, and made their Gladiators, by fabulous Tradition, greater than Gorman and others of Great Britain. informed the Company, that he had fearched Authorities for what he faid, and that a learned Antiquary, Humphrey Scarecrow Esq; of Hockley in the Hole, Recorder to the Bear-Garden, was then writing a Discourse on the Subject. It appears by the best Accounts, says this Gentleman, that the high Names which are used among us with to great Veneration, were no other than Stage-fighters, and Worthies of the ancient Bear-Garden. The renowned Hercules always carried a Qufirter-staff, and was from thence called Claviger. A learned Chronologift is about proving what Wood this Staff was made of, whether Oak, Ash, or Crab-Tree. The first Trial of Skill he ever performed, was with one Cacus, a Dear-Stealer; the next was with Typhonaus, a Giant of 40 Foot, 4 Inches. Indeed it was unhappily recorded, that meeting at last with a Sailor's Wife, she made his Staff of Prowess serve her own Use, and dwindle L 4 away to a Distaff: She clapt him on an old Tar-Jacket of her Husband's; fo that this great Hero droop'd like a scabbed Sheep. Him his Contemporary Thefeus succeeded in the Bear-Garden, which Honour he held for many Years: This grand Duellist went to Hell, and was the only one of that Sort that ever came back again. As for Achilles and Hector, (as the Ballads of those Times mention) they were pretty Smart Fellows; they fought at Sword and Buckler; but the former had much the better of it; his Mother, who was an Oyster-Woman, having got a Black-Smith of Lemnos to make her Son's Weapons. There's a Pair of trusty Trojans in a Song of Virgil's, that were famous for handling their Gauntlets, Dares, and Entellis; and indeed it does appear, they fought no Sham Prize. What Arms the Great Alexander used, is uncertain; however, the Historian mentions, when he attack'd Thalestris, it was only at fingle Rapier; but the Weapon foon failed; for it was always observed, that the Amazons had a Sort of Enchantment about them, which made the Blade of the Weapon, tho' of never fo good Metal, at every home Push, lose its Edge and grow feeble. The Roman Bear-Garden was abundantly more magnificent than any Thing Greece could boast of; it flourished most under those Delights of Mankind, Nero, and Domitian: At one Time it's recorded, 400 Senators enter'd the Lift, and thought it an Honour to be cudgelled and quarterstaffed. I obferve, the Lanifta were the People chiefly employed, which makes me imagine our Bear-Garden copied much after this, the Butchers being the greatest Men in it. Thus far the Glory and Honour of the Bear-Garden stood secure, till Fate, that irrefistible Ruler of sublunary Things, in that universal Ruin of Arts and politer

I.

ar-

at

his

ar-

rs:

the

in.

of art

er;

his

ing

on's

in

ind-

and

d, is ons,

in-

for had hich

ever

e its Gar-

any moit

and

o Se-

Ho-

em-

Bear-rs be-

Glory

ecure, unary

and

politer Learning, by those favage People the Goths and Vandals, destroyed and levelled it to the Ground. Thus fell the Grandeur and Bravery of the Roman State, till at last the Warlike Genius (but accompanied with more Courtesie) reviv'd in the Christian World under those puissant Champions, St. George, St. Dennis, and other dignified Heroes: One kill'd his Dragon, another his Lion, and were all afterwards canonized for it, having read Letters before them to illustrate their Martial Temper. The Spanish Nation, it must be own'd, were devoted to Gallantry and Chivalry above the rest of the World. What a great Figure does that great Name, Don Quixot, make in History? How shines this glorious Star in the Western World? O renown'd Hero! O Mirror of Knighthood!

Thy brandish'd Winyard all the World defies, And kills as sure as del Tobosa's Eyes.

I am forced to break off abruptly, being sent for in Haste, with my Rule, to measure the Degree of an Affront, before the two Gentlemen (who are now in their Breeches and Pumps ready to engage behind Mountague-House) have made a Pass.

From my own Apartment, June 18.

It is an unreasonable Objection I find against my Labours, that my Stock is not all my own, and therefore the kind Reception I have met with is not so deserved as it ought to be. But I hope, tho' it be never so true, that I am obliged to my Friends for laying their Cash in my Hands, since I give it them again when they please, and leave them at their Liberty to call it Home, it will not hurt me with my gentle Readers. Ask all the Merchants who act upon Consignments, Where is the Necessity (it they answer readily what their Correspondents draw) of their being wealthy themselves? Ask the greatest Bankers, If all the Men they deal with were to draw at once, what would be the Consequence? But indeed a Country Friend has writ me a Letter which gives me great Mortisication; wherein I find I am so far from expecting a Supply from thence, that some have not heard of me, and the rest do not understand me. His Epistle is as follows:

Dear Cousin,

'I thought when I left the Town to have raifed your Fame here, and helped you to support it by Intelligence from hence; but alas! they had never heard of the Tatler 'till I brought down a Set. I lent them from House to House; but they asked me what they meant. I began to enlighten them, by telling who and who were supposed to be intended by the Characters drawn. I faid for Instance, Chloe and Clariffa are two eminent 'Toasts. A Gentleman (who keeps his Greyhound and Gun, and one would think might ' know better) told me, he supposed they were Papishes, for their Names were not English ! Then, faid he, Why do you call live-People Toasts? I answer'd, That was a new Name found out by the Wits, to make a Lady have the same Effect as Burridge in the Glass when a Man is drinking. But fays I, Sir, I perceive this is to you all bamboozling; why you look as if you were Don-Diego'd to the Tune of a Thousand Pounds. All this good Language was loft upon him: He only stared, though he is as good a Scholar as any Layman in the Town, except the Barber. Thus, Coufin, you must be content with London for the Center of your Wealth and Fame; we have no Relish for you. Wit must describe its proper Cirk

al

ne

as fitot

ic.

ve

IP-

is!

II

use

CY

tel-

en-

In-

ent ey-

ght

ere ilb :

ople

ame

ave hen

eive

ook

of a nage

the

uim,

Cen-

e no

Cir-

Circumference, and not go beyond it, lest (like little Boys, when they straggle out of their own Parish) it may wander to Places where it is not known, and be lost. Since it is so, you must excuse me that I am forced at a Visit to sit silent, and only lay up what excellent Things pass at such Conversations.

'This Evening I was with a Couple of young Ladies; one of them has the Character of the prettiest Company, yet real-' ly I thought her but filly; the other, who talked a great deal less, I observed to have 'Understanding. The Lady who is reckoned ' fuch a Companion among her Acquaintance, ' has only, with a very brisk Air, a Knack of faying the commonest Things: The other, with a fly ferious one, fays home Things enough. The first (Mistress Giddy) is very quick; but the fecond (Mrs. Slim) fell into Giddy's own Style, and was as good Company as she. Giddy happens to drop her Glove; Slim reaches it to her: Madam (fays Giddy) I hope you'll have a better Office. Upon which Slim immediately repartees, and fits in her Lap, and cries, Are you not forry for my Heaviness? This fly Wench pleased me to fee how the hit her Height of Understanding so well. We fat down to Sup-Says Giddy, mighty prettily, per. Hands in a Dish and One in a Purse: Says Slim, Ay, Madam, the More the Merrier; but the Fewer the Better Chear. I quickly took the Hint, and was as witty and talkative as they. Says I,

When he will he shall have Nay;

And so helped my self. Giddy turns about, What have you found your Tongue? Yes, (fays I) 'tis Manners to speak when I am spoken to; but your greatest Talkers are little Doers, and the still Sow eats up all the Broth. Ha! Ha! says Giddy, One would think he had nothing in him, and do you hear how he talks when he pleases. I grew immediately roguish and pleasant to a Degree in the same Strain. Slim, who knew how good Company we had been, cries, You'll certainly print this bright Conversation.

It is so; and hereby you may see how small an Appearance the prettiest Things said in Company, make when in Print.

St. James's Coffee-house, June 20.

A Mail from Lisbon has brought Advices of June the 12th, from the King of Portugal's Army. encamped at Torre Allegada, which inform us, That the General of the Army called a Court-Martial on the 4th at the Camp of Gerumhena, where it was resolved to march with a Defign to attempt the Succour of Olivenza. Accordingly the Army moved on the 5th, and marched towards Badajos. Upon their Approach, the Marquis de Bay detached fo great a Party from the Blockade of Olivenza, that the Marquis des Minas, at the Head of a large Detachment, covered a great Convoy of Provisions towards Olivenza, which threw in their Stores, and marched back to the main Army, without Molestation from the Spaniards. They add, That each Army must necessarily march into Quarters within Twenty Days.

I.

ur,

am

lit-

the uld

ew

De-

ew

ies.

ver-

nall

om-

s of rmy.

us,

rumith a nza.

Apgreat that of a

y of

W. In

main

pani-

ne-

Who-

Whosoever can discover a Surgeon's Apprentice, who fell upon Mr. Bickerstass M. Jenger, or (as the Printers calls him) Devil, going to the Press, and tore out of his Hand Part of his Essay against Duels, in the Fragments of which were the Words, You lie, and Man of Honour, taken up at the Temple-Gate; and the Words, Perhaps,— May be not,— By your Leave, Sir,— and other Terms of Provocation, taken up at the Door of Young Man's Coffee-house, shall receive Satisfaction from Mr. Morphew, besides a Set of Arguments to be spoken to any Man in a Passion, which, if the said enraged Man listens to, will prevent Quarreling.

Mr. Bickerstaff does hereby give Notice, That he has taken the Two famous Universities of this Land under his immediate Care, and does hereby promise all Tutors and Pupils, That he will hear what can be said of each Side between them, and to correct them impartially, by placing them in Orders and Classes in the Learned World, according to their Merit.

The TATLER. [N° 32.

From Tuesd. June 21. to Thursd. June 23. 1709.

White's Chocolate-house, June 22.

A N Answer to the following Letter being absolutely necessary to be dispatched with all Expedition, I must trespass upon all that come with Horary Questions into my Antichamber, to give the Gentleman my Opinion.

To Isaac Bickerstaff Esq;

SIR, June 18. 1709.

Know not whether you ought to pity or laugh at me; for I am fallen desperately in Love with a profess'd Platonne, the most unaccountable Creature of her Sex. To hear her talk Seraphicks, and run over Norris and Moor, and Milton, and the whole Set of Intel-'lestual Triflers, torments me heartily; for to a Lover who understands Metaphors, all this pretty Prattle of Idea's gives very fine Views of Pleasure, which only the dear Declaimer prevents, by understanding them literally. Why should she wish to be a Cherubim, when 'itis Flesh and Blood that makes her adorable? 'If I speak to her, that's a high Breach of the ' Idea of Intuition: If I offer at her Hand or Lip, she shrinks from the Touch like a Sensitive Plant, and would contract her felf into meer Spirit. She calls her Chariot, Vehicle; her furbelow'd Scarf, Pinnions: Her blue Mant and Perticoat is her Azure Drefs; and her Footman goes by the Name of Oberon. Tis my Misfortune to be Six Foot and a half ' high, Two full Spans between the Shoulders, 'Thirteen Inches Diameter in the Calves; and before I was in Love, I had a noble Stomach, and usually went to Bed sober with Two Bottles. I am not quite Six and twenty, and my Nose is marked truly Aquiline. For these Reasons, I am in a very particular Manner her Avertion. What shall I do? Impudence it felf cannot reclaim her. If I write miserable, fhe reckons me among the Children of Perdi-'tion, and discards me her Region : If I assume the Gross and Substantial, she plays the real Ghost with me, and vanishes in a Moment. Ihad

e nion

W

ne

ter

Ma

is t

but tha

ma

but

gyr

the

the

all her

Life

or ly

oft

ar

nd

el-

to nis

NS

er y.

en ne or li-

to

e;

rd

n.

lf

8, hi,

tiy C

er

e,

e

al

t.

I had Hopes in the Hypocrify of her Sex; but Perfeverance makes it as bad as fixed Aversion. I desire your Opinion, Whether I may not lawfully play the Inquisition upon her, make use of a little Force, and put her to the Rack and the Torture, only to convince her, she has really fine Limbs, without spoiling or distorting them. I expect your Directions, e're I proceed to dwindle and fall away with Defipair; which at present I don't think advisable; because, if she should recant, she may then hate me perhaps in the other Extreme for my Tenuity. I am (with Impatience)

Your most humble Servant,

Charles Sturdy.

My Patient has put his Case with very much Warmth, and represented it in so lively a Manner, that I fee both his Torment and Tormenter with great Perspicuity. This Order of Platonick Ladies are to be dealt with in a peculiar Manner from all the rest of the Sex. Flattery is the general Way, and the Way in this Case: but it is not to be done grofly. Every Man that has Wit, and Humour, and Raillery, can make a good Flatterer for Woman in general; but a Platonne is not to be touched with Panegyrick: She will tell you, it is a Senfuality in the Soul to be delighted that Way. You are not therefore to commend, but filently confent to all she does, and fays. You are to consider in her the Scorn of you is not Humour, but Opinion. There were fome Years fince a Set of these Ladies who were of Quality, and gave out, That Virginity was to be their State of Life during this mortal Condition, and therefore resolved to join their Fortunes, and erect a Nun

h

d

fe

h tl

Ca

th

ar

CO

yo

th

ly

the dy

ed

Fr

Wi

end

the

Nunnery. The Place of Residence was pitched upon; and a pretty Situation, full of natural Falls and Rifings of Waters, with shady Coverts. and flowry Arbours, was approved by Seven of the Founders. There were as many of our Sex who took the Liberty to visit those Mansions of intended Severity; among others, a famous Rake of that Time, who had the grave Way to an Excellence. He came in first; but upon feeing a Servant coming towards him, with a Defign to tell him, this was no Place for him or his Companions, up goes my grave Impudence to the Maid: Young Woman, faid he, if any of the Ladies are in the Way on this Side of the House, pray carry us on the other Side towards the Gardens: We are, you must know, Gentlemen that are travelling England; after which we shall go into Foreign Parts, where fome of us have already been. Here he bows in the most humble Manner, and kissed the Girl, who knew not how to behave to fuch a Sort of Carriage. He goes on: Now you must know we have an Ambition to have it to fay, That we have a Protestant Nunnery in England: But pray Mrs. Betty -- Sir, she reply'd, my Name is Susan, at your Service. Then I heartily beg your Pardon- No Offence in the least (says she) for I have a Cousin-German whose Name is Betty. Indeed, said he, I protest to you that was more than I knew, I fpoke at Random: But fince it happens that I was near in the Right, give me leave to present this Gentleman to the Favour of a civil Salute. His Friend advances, and so on, till that they had all faluted her. By this Means, the poor Girl was in the middle of the Crowd of these Fellows, at a Loss what to do, without Courage to pass through 'em; and the Platonicks, at several Peep-holes, pale, trembling, and fretting.

ting. Rake perceived they were observ'd, and therefore took Care to keep Suky in Chat with Questions concerning their Way of Life; when appeared at last Madonella, a Lady who had writ a fine Book concerning the Recluse Life. and was the Projectrix of the Foundation. She approaches into the Hall; and Rake, knowing the Dignity of his own Mien and Aspect, goes Deputy from his Company. She begins, Sir, I am obliged to follow the Servant, who was fent out to know, What Affair could make Strangers press upon a Solitude which we, who are to inhabit this Place, have devoted to Heaven and our own Thoughts? Madam, replies Rake, (with an Air of great Distance, mixed with a certain Indifference, by which he could dissemble Dissimulation) your great Intention has made more Noise in the World than you design it should; and we Travellers, who have feen many foreign Institutions of this Kind. have a Curiolity to see, in its first Rudiments. this Seat of Primitive Piety; for such it must be called by future Ages, to the Eternal Honour of the Founders. I have read Madonella's excellent and feraphick Discourse on this Subject. Lady immediately answers, If what I have said could have contributed to raise any Thoughts in you that may make for the Advancement of intellectual and divine Conversation, I should think my felf extremely happy. He immediately fell back with the profoundest Veneration; then advancing, Are you then that admired Lady? If I may approach Lips which have uttered Things fo facred - He falutes her. His Friends followed his Example. The Devoted within stood in Amazement where this would end, to see Madonella receive their Address and their Company. But Rake goes onwould

ed ral

of Sex of

ous

h a nce

the fter iere

the h a

nust Say,

ind:

ear-nan I

w, I

fent

they poor

hele Cou-

icks, fretting.

a

PA

N

li

ir

ra

di

ar

th

CO

W

hi

la

lan

of

T

ftr

mi

Tel Le

the

would not transgress Rules; but if we may take the Liberty to fee the Place you have thought fit to chuse for ever, we would go into such Parts of the Gardens as is consistent with the Severities you have imposed on your selves. be short, Madonella permitted Rake to lead her into the Assembly of Nuns, followed by his Friends, and each took his Fair One by the Hand, after due Explanation, to walk round the Gardens. The Conversation turned up the Lillies, the Flowers, the Arbors, and the growing Vegetables; and Rake had the folemn Impudence, when the whole Company stood round him, to fay, That he fincerely wished Men might rife out of the Earth like Plants; and that our Minds were not of Necessity to be fullied with carnivorous Appetites for the Generation, as well as Support of our Species. This was spoke with so easie and fixed an Assurance, that Madonella answer'd, Sir, under the Notion of a pious Thought, you deceive your self in wishing an Institution foreign to that of Providence: These Desires were implanted in us for reverend Purposes, in preserving the Race of Men, and giving Opportunities for making our Chastity more Heroick. The Conference was continued in this Celestial Strain, and carried on fo well by the Managers on both Sides, that it created a Second and a Second Interview; and, without entring into further Particulars, there was hardly one of them but was a Mother or Father that Day Twelvemonth.

Any unnatural Part is long taking up, and as long laying aside; therefore Mr. Sturdy may assure himself, Platonica will sly for ever from a forward Behaviour; but if he approaches her according to this Model, she will fall in with the Necessities of mortal Life, and condescend

0

32.

take ight

luch

the

To

her

his

the

the

Lil-

ving

ipu-

und

Men

and ful-

era-

This

nce,

tion

f in ovi-

for

of our

Was

ried

that ars,

ther

and may

ma

her

with end

to

to look with Pity upon an unhappy Man, imprisoned in so much Body, and urged by such violent Desires.

From my own Apartment, June 22.

The Evils of this Town increase upon me to fo great a Degree, that I am half afraid I shall not leave the World much better than I found it. Several worthy Gentlemen and Criticks have applied to me, to give my Cenfure of an Enormity which has revived (after being long oppressed) and is called Punning. I have several Arguments ready to prove, that he cannot be a Man of Honour who is guilty of this Abuse of Human Society. But the Way to expose it, is like the Expedient of curing Drunkenness, showing a Man in that Condition: Therefore I must give my Reader Warning, to expect a Collection of these Offences; without which Preparation, I thought it too adventurous to introduce the very Mention of it in good Company; and hope, I shall be understood to do it, as a Divine mentions Oaths and Curfes, only for their Condemnation. I shall dedicate this Difcourse to a Gentleman my very good Friend, who is the Jamus of our Times, and whom by his Years and Wit, you would take to be of the last Age; but by his Dress and Morals, of this.

Last Night arrived Two Mails from Holland, which brings Letters from the Hague of the 28th Instant, N. S. with Advice, That the Enemy lay encamped behind a strong Retrenchment, with the Marsh of Remieres on their Right and Lest, extending it self as far as Bethune: La Basse is in their Front, Lens in their Rear, and their Camp is strengthened by another Line from Lens to Douay. The Duke of Marlborough caused an exact Observation

Fr

Nie

an lor

T

Li

may

it

Tr

Mo

Tu

for fcr

I

fel wh

fervation to be made of their Ground, and the Works by which they were covered, which appeared fo strong, that it was not thought proper to attack 'em in their present Posture, However, the Duke thought fit to make a Feint as if he defigned it; and accordingly marching from the Abbey at Looze, as did Prince Eugene from Lampret, advanced with all possible Diligence towards the Enemy. To favour the Appearance of an intended Affault, the Ways were made, and Orders distributed in such a Manner, that none in either Camp could have Thoughts of any Thing but charging the Enemy by break of Day the next Morning: But foon after the Fall of the Night of the 26th, the whole Army faced towards Tournay, which Place they invested early in the Morning of the 27th. The Mareschal Villars was so confident that we defigned to attack him, that he had drawn great Part of the Garrison of the Place, which is now invested, into the Field: For which Reason, it is presumed it must submit within a fmall Time; which the Enemy cannot prevent, but by coming out of their present Camp, and hazarding a general Engagement. These Advices add, That the Garrison of Moni had marched out under the Command of Mareschal d'Arco; which, with the Bavarian, Walloons, and the Troops of Cologns, have joined the grand Army of the Enemy.

The

32. the approture, Feint

arch-Mible the Ways ch a have Ene-

But 26th, which the dent had lace, For bmit nnot efent nent. Mons Ma-ians, join-

he

The TATLER. [N° 33.

By Mrs. Jenny Distaff, Half Sifter to Mr. Bickerstaff.

From Thursday June 23. to Saturday June 25.1709.

From my own Apartment, June 23.

Y Brother has made an Excursion into the Country, and the Work against Saturday lies upon me. I am very glad I have got Pen and Ink in my Hand; for I have for some Time longed for his Absence, to give a Right Idea of Things, which I thought he put in a very odd Light, and some of them to the Disadvantage of my own Sex. It is much to be lamented, that it is necessary to make Discourses, and publish Treatises, to keep the horrid Creatures, the Men, within the Rules of common Decency. Turning over the Papers of Memorials or Hints for the ensuing Discourses, I find a Letter subscribed by Mr. Truman.

SIR,

Am lately come to Town, and have read your Works with much Pleasure. You make Wit subservient to good Principles and good Manners. Yet, because I design to buy the Tatlers for my Daughters to read, I take the Freedom to desire you, for the suture, to say nothing about any Combat between Alexander and Thalestris.

This Offence gives me Occasion to express my self with the Resentment I ought, on People who take Liberties of Speech before that Sex of whom

a

F

a

f

C

R

to

of

L

th

th

ftr

he

for

(w ha

Bel

and

The

you

clos

blu

but

whom the honoured Names of Mother, Daughter, and Sister, are a Part: I had like to have named Wife in the Number; but the senseless World are so mistaken in their Sentiments of Pleasure, that the most amiable Term in Human Life is become the Derifion of Fools and Scorners. My Brother and I have at least Fifty Times quarrel'd upon this Topick. I ever argue, That the Frailties of Women are to be imputed to the false Ornaments which Men of Wit put upon our Folly and Coquetry. He lays all the Vices of Men upon Women's fecret Approbation of Libertine Characters in them. I did not care to give up a Point; but now he is out of the Way, I cannot but own I believe there is very much in what he afferted: For if you will believe your Eyes, and own, that the wickedest and the wittiest of 'em all marry one Day or other, It is impossible to believe, that if a Man thought he should be for ever incapable of being received by a Woman of Merit and Honour, he would perfift in an abandon'd Way, and deny himself the Possibility of enjoying the Happiness of well-govern'd Desires, orderly Satisfactions, and honourable Methods of Life? If our Sex were wife, a Lover should have a Cerrificate from the last Woman he served, how he was turned away, before he was received into the Service of another: But at present any Vagabond is welcome, provided he promifes to enter into our Livery. It is wonderful, that we will not take a Footman without Credentials from his last Master; and in the greatest Concern of Life, we make no Scruple of falling into a Treaty with the most notorious Offender in his Behaviour against others. But this Breach of Commerce between the Sexes, proceeds from an unaccountable Prevalence of Custom, by which a Woman is to the last Degree reproachgh-

ave eleis s of

Hu-

and

Fifever

o be n of

lays Ap-

1. 1

he is here you

vick-

Day

it a pable

Ho-

Way,

g the y Sa.

Life?

Cer-

w he

into es to

at we ntials Cong into Breach from n, by roachable able for being deceived, and a Man suffers no Loss of Credit for being a Deceiver. Since this Tyrant Humour has gained Place, Why are we represented in the Writings of Men in ill Figures for Artifice in our Carriage, when we have to do with a professed Impostor? When Oaths, Imprecations, Vows, and Adorations, are made use of as Words of Course, What Arts are not necessary to defend us from such as glory in the Breach of 'em? As for my Part, I am refolved to hear all, and believe none of em; and therefore folemnly declare, no Vow shall deceive me, but that of Marriage: For I am turned of Twenty, and being of a small Fortune, some Wit, and (if I can believe my Lovers and my Glass) Handsome, I have heard all that can be faid towards my Undoing, and shall therefore, for Warning-sake, give an Account of the Offers that have been made me, my Manner of rejecting 'em, and my Affiftances to keep my Resolution. In the Sixteenth Year of my Life, I fell into the Acquaintance of a Lady, extremely well known in this Town for the quick Advancement of her Husband, and the Honours and Distinctions which her Induftry has procured him, and all who belong to her. This excellent Body fate next to me for fome Months at Church, and took the Liberty (which she said her Years and the Zeal she had for my Welfare gave her Claim to) to affure me, that she observed some Parts of my Behaviour which would lead me into Errors. and give Encouragement to some to entertain Hopes I did not think of. What made you (faid The) look through your Fan at that Lord, when your Eyes should have been turned upward, or closed in Attention upon better Objects? I blushed, and pretended Fifty odd Excuses;but confounded my felf the more. She wanted nothing

d

a

u

m

W

th

co w ha ref

ga me: wh

Mi

thr

nef

cen der

fery

pret

nothing but to fee that Confusion, and goes on: Nay, Child, do not be troubled that I take Notice of it, my Value for you made me speak it; for tho' he is my Kinsman, I have a nearer Regard to Virtue than any other Consideration. She had hardly done speaking, when this noble Lord came up to us, and took her Hand to lead her to her Coach. My Head ran all that Day and Night on the exemplary Carriage of this Woman, who could be fo virtuously impertinent, as to admonish one she was hardly acquainted with. However it struck upon the Vanity of a Girl that it may possibly be, his Thoughts might have been as favourable of me, as mine were amorous of him, and as unlikely Things as that have happened, if he should make me his Wife. She never mentioned this more to me; but I still in all publick Places stole Looks at this Man, who easily observed my Passion for him. It is so hard a Thing to check the Return of agreeable Thoughts, that he became my Dream, my Vifion, my Food, my Wish, my Torment. That Minister of Darkness, the Lady Sempronia, perceived too well the Temper I was in, and would one Day after Evening Service needs take me to the Park. When we were there, my Lord passes by; I stushed into a Flame. Mrs. Di-staff (said she) You may very well remember the Concern I was in upon the first Notice I took of your Resard to that Lord, and forgive me, who had a tender Friendship for your Mother (now in her Grave) that I am vigilant of your Conduct. She went on with much Severity, and after great Solicitation, prevailed on me to go with her into the Country, and there spend the ensuing Summer out of the Way of a Man she saw I loved, and one whom S e

is

of

n-

ne

nck b-

a

Vi-

nat

er-

ind ake

my

Di-

ber

e I

for-our rigi-nuch

illed

and

hom

The

The perceived meditated my Ruin, by frequently deliring her to introduce him to me; which the absolutely refused, except he would give his Honour that he had no other Delign but to marry me. To her Country-House a Week or Two after we went: There was at the further End of her Garden a Kind of Wilderness, in the Middle of which ran a foft Rivulet by an Arbour of Jessamin. In this Place I usually passed my retired Hours, and read fome Romantick or Poetical Tale till the Close of the Evening. It was near that Time in the Heat of Summer, when gentle Winds, foft Murmurs of Water, and Notes of Nightingals had given my Mind an Indolence, which added to that Repose of Soul, which Twilight and the End of a warm Day faturally throws upon the Spirits. It was at fuch an Hour, and in fuch a State of Tranquility I fat, when, to my unexpressible Amazement, I saw my Lord walking towards me, whom I knew not till that Moment to have been in the Country. I could observe in his Approach the Perplexity which attends a Man big with Delign; and I had, while he was coming forward, Time to reflect that I was betrayed; the Sense of which gave me a Refentment furtable to fuch a Bafeness: But when he entered into the Bower where I was, my Heart flew towards him, and, I confess, a certain Joy came into my Mind, with an Hope that he might then make a Declaration of Honour and Passion. This threw my Eye upon him with fuch Tenderness, as gave him Power, with a broken Accent, to begin. Madam, You will wonder—— For it is certain, you must have ob-served—— though I fear you will milinterpret the Motives -- But by Heaven, and all that's Sacred! If you could --- Here he made M made a full Stand. And I recovered Power to fay, The Consternation I am in you will not, I hope, believe --- An helpless innocent Maid --- Besides that, the Place ---He saw me in as great Confusion as himself; which attributing to the fame Causes, he had the Audaciousness to throw himself at my Feet, and talk of the Stilness of the Evening; then ran into Deifications of my Person, Pure Flames, Constant Love, Eternal Raptures, and a Thousand other Phrases drawn from the Images we have of Heaven, which ill Men use for the Service of Hell, were run over with uncommon Vehemence. After which, he feized me in his Arms: His Design was too evident. In my utmost Distress, I fell upon my Knees ---My Lord, pity me, on my Knees — On my Knees in the Cause of Virtue, as you were lately in that of Wickedness. Can you think of destroying the Labour of a whole Life, the Purpose of a long Education, for the base Service of a sudden Appetite, to throw one that loves you, that doars on you, out of the Company and Road of all that is virtuous and Praiseworthy? Have I taken in all the Instructions of Piety, Religion, and Reason, for no other End, but to be the Sacrifice of Lust, and abandoned to Scorn? Assume your self, my Lord, and do not attempt to vitiate a Temple facred to Innocence, Honour, and Religion. If I have injured you, stab this Bosom, and let me die, but not be ruined by the Hand I love. The Ardency of my Passion made me incapable of uttering more; and I saw my Lover astonished and reformed by my Behaviour: When rushed in Semphronia. Ha! Faithless base Man, could you then steal out of Town, and lurk like a Robber about my House for such brutish Purposes. My Lord was by this Time

gai

I

a

E

er

m

a (

Fe

Da

droi the The and the paig cula Mag 11

0-ad

et,

ire

nd 1a-

ufe

ith

ent.

my ere ink

the Ser-

hat

om-

aife-

is of

Ind, ban-

ord, nple

. If

t me

love.

apa-

over

our:

e for this Time

Time recovered, and fell into a violent Laughter at the Turn which Semphronia deligned to give her Villany. He bowed to me with the utmost Respect : Mrs. Distaff, said he, be careful hereafter of your Company; and fo retired. The Fiend Semphronia congratulated my Deliverance with a Flood of Tears. Nobleman has fince very frequently made his Addresses to me with Honour, but I have as often refused them; as well knowing, that Familiarity and Marriage will make him, on fome ill-natured Occasion, call all I said in the Arbour a Theatrical Action. Besides that, I glory in contemning a Man, who had Thoughts to my Dishonour. And if this Mcthod were the Imitation of the whole Sex, Innocence would be the only Dress of Beauty: and all Affectation by any other Arts to please the Eyes of Men, would be banished to the Stews for ever. The Conquest of Passion gives Ten times more Happiness than we can reap from the Gratification of it; and she that has got over such a one as mine, will stand among Beaux and Pretty Fellows, with as much Safety as in a Summer's Day among Grass-hoppers and Butterflies.

P. S. I have Ten Millions of Things more as gainst Men, if I ever get the Pen again.

St. James's Coffee-house, June 24.

Our last Advices from the Hague, dated the 28th Instant, say, That on the 25th a Squadron of Dutch Men of War sailed out of the Texel to join Admiral Baker at Spithead. The 26th was observed as a Day of Fasting and Humiliation, to implore a Blessing on the Arms of the Allies this ensuing Campaign. Letters from Dresden are very particular in the Account of the Gallantry and Magnisicence in which that Court has appeared peared fince the Arrival of the King of Denmark. No Day has passed in which publick Shews have not been exhibited for his Entertainment and Diversion: The last of that Kind which is mentioned is a Caroufal, wherein many of the Youth of the first Quality, dressed in the most splendid Manner, ran for the Prize. His Danish Majesty condescended to the fame; but having observed that there was a Delign laid to throw it in his Way, passed by without attempting to gain The Court of Dresden was preparing to accompany his Danish Majesty to Potsam, where the Expectation of an Interview of three Kings had drawn together such Multitudes of People, that many Persons of Distinction will be obliged to lie in Tents as long as those Courts continue in that Place.

The TATLER. [Nº 34.

By Ifaac Bickerstaff Esq;

From Saturd. June 25. to Tuesd. June 28. 1709.

White's Chocolate-house, June 25.

tl

eit

Having taken upon me to cure all the Diftempers which proceed from Affections of the Mind, I have laboured, fince I first kept this publick Stage, to do all the Good I could possibly, and have perfected many Cures at my own Lodgings; carefully avoiding the common Method of Mountebanks, to do their most eminent nent Operations in Sight of the People; but must be so just to my Patients as to declare, they have testified under their Hands their Sense of my poor Abilities, and the Good I have done them, which I publish for the Benefit of the World, and not out of any Thoughts of private Advantage. I have cured fine Mrs. Spy of a great Imperfection in her Eyes, which made her evernally rolling them from one Coxcomb to another in publick Places, in so languishing a Manner, that it at once lessened her own Power, and her Beholders Vanity. Twenty Drops of my Ink, placed in certain Letters on which she attentively looked for half an Hour, have restored her to the true Use of her Sight; which is, to guide, and not mislead us. Ever fince fhe took this Liquor, which I call, Bickerstaff's Circumspection-Water, she looks right forward, and can bear being looked at for half a Day without returning one Glance. This Water has a peculiar Vertue in it, which makes it the only true Cosmetick or Beauty-Wash in the World: The Nature of it is fuch, that if you go to 2 Glass, with Design to admire your Face, it immediately changes it into downright Deformity. If you consult it only to look with a better Countenance upon your Friends, it immediately gives an Alacrity to the Visage, and new Grace to the whole Person. There is indeed a great deal owing to the Constitution of the Person to whom it is applied: It is in vain to give it when the Patient is in the Rage of the Distemper: a Bride in her first Month, a Lady soon after her Husband's being Knighted, or any Person of either Sex who has lately obtained any new good Fortune or Preferment, must be prepared some Time before they use it. It has an Effect upon others, as well as the Patient, when it is taken in due Form. Lady Petulant has by nck nfat

rety, an

his ain to m, of ul-

Dints hat

=

34.

09.

Dins of kept ould

mon eminent

the Use of it cured her Husband of Jealousy, and Lady Gad her whole Neighbourhood of Detraction. The Fame of these Things, added to my being an old Fellow, makes me extreamly acceptable to the Fair Sex. You would hardly believe me, when I rell you there is not a Man in Town fo much their Delight as my felf. They make no more of vifiting me, than going to Madam d'Epingle's. There were two of them, namely, Damia and Clidamira, (I affure you Women of Distinction) who came to see me this Morning in their Way to Prayers, and being in a very diverting Humour as (Innocence always makes People chearful) they would needs have me, according to the Distinction of pretty and very pretty Fellows, inform them if I thought either of them had a Title to the very Pretty among those of their own Sex; and if I did, which was the more deserving of the Two. To put them to the Tryal, Look ye, faid I, I must not rashly give my Judgment in Matters of this Importance; pray let me see you dance: I play upon the Kit. They immedately fell back to the lower End of the Room (You may be fure they curt'fy'd low enough to me ): And began. Never were Two in the World fo equally matched, and both Scholars to my Name-fake Isaac. Never was Man in fo dangerous a Condition as my felf, when they began to expand their Chaims. Oh! Ladies, Ladies, cried I, not half that Air, you'll fire the House. Both smiled; for by the by, there's no carrying a Metaphor too far, when a Lady's Charms are spoke of. Some Body, I think, has called a fine Woman dancing, a Brandished Torch of Beauty. These Rivals moved with fuch an agreeable Freedom, that you would believe their Gesture was the necessary Effect of the Musick, and not the Product of Skill and Practice. Now Clidamira came on with 34.

ify,

ded

m-rd-ot a.

elf.

ing

emi

Vo-Ior-

ery

kes

COI-

tty

em

risi

ore

ive

ce;

Cit.

of

WO.

ere

ind ver

Oh!

u'll

by,

n a

, I

anved

ou

ary

of

on

ith

with a Crowd of Graces, and démanded my Judgment with fo fweet an Air--- And she had no sooner carried it, but Damia made her utterly forgot by a gentle finking, and a Rigadoon Step. The Contest held a full half Hour; and I protest, I saw no manner of Difference in their Perfections, till they came up together, and expected my Sentence. Look ye Ladies, faid I, I see no Difference in the least in your Performance; but you Clidamira feem to be so well fatisfied that I shall determine for you, that I must give it to Damia, who stands with so much Diffidence and Fear, after showing an equal Merit to what the pretends to. Therefore, Clidamira, you are a pretty; but, Damia, you are a very pretty Lady. For, faid I, Beauty loses its Force, if not accompanied with Modefty. She that has an humble Opinion of her felf, will have every Body's Applause, because fhe does not expect it; while the vain Creature loses Approbation through too great a Sense of deferving its

From my own Apartment, June 27.

Being of a very spare and hective Constitution, I am forced to make trequent Journies of a Mile or two for fresh Air; and indeed by this last, which was no further than the Village of Chellea, I am farther convinced of the Necessity of travelling to know the World. For as it is usual with young Voyagers, assoon as they land upon a Shore, to begin their Accounts of the Nature of the People, their Soil, their Government, their Inclinations, and their Passions, so really I fancied I could give you an immediate Description of this Village, from the five Fields where the Robbers lie in wait, to the Coffee-house where the Literati sit in Council. A great Ancestor of ours by the Mother's Side, Mr. Justice Overdo, (whose History is M.4 written.

written by Ben Johnson) met with more Enormities by walking incog, than he was capable of correcting; and found great Mortifications in observing also Persons of Eminence, whom he before knew nothing of Thus it far'd with me. even in a Place to near the Town as this. When I came into the Coffee-house, I had not Time to falute the Company, before my Eye was diverted by Ten thousand Gimcracks round the Room and on the Cieling. When my first Astonishment was over, comes to me a Sage of a thin and meagre Countenance; which Aspect made me doubt, whether Reading or Fretting had made it fo Philosophick : But I very foon perceived him to be of that Sect which the Antients call Gingivista; in our Language, Tooth-Drawers. I immediately had a Respect for the Man; for these practical Philosophers go upon a very rational Hypothesis. not to cure, but take away the Part affected. My Love of Mankind made me very benevolent to Mr. Salter, for fuch is the Name of this eminent Barber and Antiquary. Men are usually, but unjustly, distinguished rather by their Fortunes, than their Talents, otherwise this Perfonage would make a great Figure in that Class of Men which I diftinguish under the Title of Odd Fellows. But it is the Misfortune of Perfons of great Genius, to have their Faculties diffipated by Attention to too many Things at once. Mr. Salter is an Instance of this: If he would wholly give himself up to the String, instead of playing twenty Beginnings to Tunes, he might before he dies play Roger de Caubly quite out. I heard him go through his whole Round, and indeed I think he does play the merry Christ-Church Bells pretty justly; but he confess'd to me, he did that rather to show he was Orthodox, than that he valued himself upon the Musick it felf. Or if he he did proceed in his Anatomy, Why might not he hope in Time to cut off Legs, as well as draw Teeth? The Particularity of this Man put me into a deep Thought, whence it should proceed, that of all the lower Order Barbers thould go further in hitting the Ridiculo us, than any other Set of Men. Watermen brawl, Coblers fing; But why must a Barber be for ever a Politician, a Mulician, an Anatomist, a Poet, and a Physician. The learned Vossis says, his Barber used to comb his Head in Iambicks. indeed in all Ages, one of this useful Profession, this Order of Cosmetick Philosophers, has been celebrated by the most eminent Hands. You see the Barber in Don Quixot is one of the principal Characters in the History, which gave me Satisfaction in the Doubt, why Don Saltero Writ his Name with a Spanish Termination: For he is descended in a right Line, not from John Tradescan, as he himself afferts, but from that memorable Companion of the Knight of Mancha. And I hereby certify all the worthy Citizens who travel to fee his Rarities, that his doublebarrelled Pistols, Targets, Coats of Mail, his Sclopeta, and Sword of Toledo, were left to his Ancestor by the said Don Quixot, and by the. faid Ancestor to all his Progeny down to Don. Saltero. Tho' I go thus far in Favour of Don Saltero's great Merit, I cannot allow a Liberty he takes of impoling several Names (without my Licence) on the Collections he has made, to the Abuse of the good People of England; one of which is particularly calculated to deceive Religious Persons, to the great Scandal of the Well-disposed, and may introduce Heterodox Opinions. He shows you a Straw-Hat, which I know to be made by Madge Peskad, within three Miles of Bedford; and tells you,

orof

he ne, nis.

Lyecks

me ce; ad-

ck: hat our

had hi-

efis, ted. evothis

nalneir

Perlass

e of Per-ties s at

he ing,

nes, ubly

the the

up-

it is Pontius Pilate's Wife's Chambermaid's Sifter's Hat. To my Knowledge of this very Hat, it may be added, that the Covering of Straw was never used among the Jews, fince it was demanded of them to make Bricks without it. Therefore this is really nothing, but under the specious Pretence of Learning and Antiquity, to impose upon the World. There are other Things which I cannot tolerate among his Rarities; as, the China Figure of a Lady in the Glass-Case; the Italian Engine for the Imprisonment of those who go Abroad with it: Both which I hereby order to be taken down, or else he may expect to have his Letters Patents for making Punch superseded, be debarred wearing his Muff next Winter, or ever coming to London without his Wife. It may perhaps be thought I have dwelt too long upon the Affairs of this Operator; but I defire the Reader to remember, that it is my Way to confider Men as they stand in Merit, and not according to their Fortune or Figure; and if he is in a Coffee-house at the Reading hereof, let him look round, and he will find there may be more Characters drawn in this Account than that of Don Saltero; for half the Politicians about him, he may observe, are, by their Place in Nature, of the Class of Tooth-Drawers.

The TATLER. [Nº 35.

From Tuesd. June 28. to Thursd. June 30. 1709.

it

1-eto gs

e; of

I ng his lon

ht

his

er,

or

the

will

in nalf

are,

th-

Grecian Coffee-house, June 28. THere is an Habit or Custom which I have put my Patience to the utmost Stretch to have suffered so long, because several of my intimate Friends are in the Guilt; and that is, the Humour of taking Snuff, and looking dirty a-bout the Mouth by Way of Ornament. My Method is to dive to the Bottom of a Sore before I pretend to apply a Remedy. For this Reason, I sat by an eminent Story-teller and Politician who takes half an Ounce in five Seconds, and has mortgaged a pretty Tenement near the Town, meerly to improve and dung his Brains with this prolifick Powder. I observed this Gentleman t'other Day in the midst of a Story diverted from it by looking at something at a Distance, and I softly hid his Box. But he returns to his Tale, and looking for his Box, he cries, And so Sir --- Then when he should have taken a Pinch; As I was saying, fays --- he Has no Body leen my Box? His Friend befeeches him to finish his Narration. Then he proceeds; And so Sir --- Where can my Box be? Then turning to me; Pray Sir, Did you fee my Box? Yes Sir, faid I, I took it to fee how long you could live without it. He refumes his Tale; and I took Notice, that his Dulness was much more regular and fluent than before. A Pinch fupplied the Place of, As I was faying, And so Sir; and he went on currently enough in that Style which.

ſ

which the Learned call the Infipid. This Observation eafily led me into a Philosophick Reason for taking Snuff, which is done only to supply with Sensations the Want of Reflection. I take to be an "Evenna, a nostrum; upon which I hope to receive the Thanks of this Board. For as it is natural to lift a Man's Hand to a Sore, when you fear any Thing coming at you; fo when a Person feels his Thoughts are run out, and has no more to fay, it is as natural to supply his weak Brain with Powder at the nearest Place of Access, viz. the Nostrils. This is so evident. that Nature suggests the Use according to the Indigence of the Persons who use this Medecine, without being prepoffeffed with the Force of Fashion or Custom. For Example; the Native Hibernians, who are reckoned not muchunlike the ancient Baotians, take this Specifick for Emptiness in the Head, in greater Abundance than any other Nation under the Sun. The learned Sotus, as sparing as he is in his Words, would be still more filent if it were not for this Powder. But however low and poor the taking Snuff argues a Man to be in his own Stock of Thought, or, Me ans to employ his Brains and his Fingers, yet there is a poorer Creature in the World than He, and this is a Borrower of Snuff; a Fellow, that keeps no Box of his own, but is alwaysasking others for a Pinch. Such poor Rogues put me always in Mind of a common Phrase among School-Boys when they are composing their Exercise, who run to an upper Scholar, and cry, Pray give me a little Senfe. But of all Things,... commend me to the Ladies who are got into this pretty Help to Discourse. I have been this three Years perswading Sagissa to leave it off; but the talks fo much, and is fo Learned, that the 13 above Contradiction. However, an Accidera Pother Day brought that about, which my.

a-

on ly

is ch

as

n.

a

as

is

of

nt,

e-

a --

ch.

ck

11-.

n.

is ot,

or ns in ff;

al-

ies

ang

nd

zs,.

115 ee

TIE

he

CI-

ch

ny .

my Eloquence never could accomplish: She had a very pretty Fellow in her Closet, who ran thither to avoid some Company that came to visit her. She made an Excuse to go into him for some Implement they were talking of. Her eager Gallant snatched a Kiss; but being unused to Snuss, some Grains from off her upper Lip made him sneeze aloud, which alarm'd the Visitants, and has made a Discovery; that profound Reading, very much Intelligence, and a general Knowledge of who and who's together, cannot fill up her vacant Hours so much, but that she is sometimes obliged to descend to Entertainments less intellectual.

White's Chocolate-house, June 29.

I know no Manner of News for this Place, but that Cynthio, having been long in Despair for the inexorable Clarissa, lately resolved to fall in Love the good old Way of Bargain and Sale, and has pitched upon a very agreeable young Woman. He will undoubtedly succeed; for he accosts her in a Strain of Familiarity, without breaking through the Deserence that is due to Woman whom a Man would chuse for his Life. I have hardly ever heard rough Truth spoken with a better Grace than in this his Letter.

MADAM,

Writ to you on Saturday by Mrs. Lucy, and give you this Trouble to urge the fame Request I made then, which was, that I may be admitted to wait upon you. I should be very far from desiring this, if it were a Transgression of the most severe Rules to allow it: I know you are very much above the little Arts which are frequent in your Sex, of giving unnecessary Torments to their Admirers; therefore hope, you'll do so much furstice.

flice to the generous Passion I have for you, as to let me have an Opportunity of acquainting you upon what Motives I pretend to your good Opinion. I shall not trouble you with my Sentiments, till I know how they will be received; and as I know no Reason why Difference of Sex should make our Language to each other differ from the ordinary Rules of right Reason, I shall affect Plainness and Sincerity in my Discourse to you, as much as other Lovers do Perplexity and Rapture. Instead of saying, I shall die for you, I profess I should be glad to lead my Life with you: You are as beautiful, as witty, as prudent, and as good humour'd, as any Woman breathing; but I must confess to you, I regard all these Excellencies as you will please to direct them, for my Happiness or Misery. me, Madam, the only lasting Motive to Love is the Hope of its becoming mutual. I beg of you to let Mrs. Lucy fend me Word when I may attend you. I promise you, I'll talk of nothing but indifferent Things; though at the fame Time I know not how I shall approach you in the tender Moment of first seeing you, after this Declaration, of,

MADAM.

Your most Obedient. and most Faithful Hamble Servant, &c.

Will's Coffee-house, June 29.

Having taken a Refolution when Plays are acted next Winter by an entire good Company, to publish Observations from Time to Time on the Performance of the Actors, I think it but just to give an Abstract of the Law of Action, for the Help of the less learned Part of the Audience, that they may .

may rationally enjoy fo refined and Instructive a Pleasure as a just Representation of human Life. The great Errors in Playing are admirably well exposed in Hamlet's Direction to the Actors who are to play in his supposed Tragedy; by which we shall form our future Judgments on their Behaviour, and for that Reason you have the Discourse as follows:

'Speak the Speech as I pronounce it to you, trip-' pingly on the Tongue; but if you mouth it, as many of our Players do, I had as lieu the Town-'Cryer had spoke my Lines: Nor do not saw the Air too much with your Hand thus; but 'use all gently: For in the very Torrent, Tempest, and, as I may say, the Whirlwind of Passion, you must acquire and beget a Temperance that may give it Smoothness. Oh! It offends me to the Soul, to fee a robustous Periwig-pated Fellow tear a Passion to Tatters, to very Rags, to split the Ears of the Ground-' lings, who (for the most Part) are capable of nothing but inexplicable dumb Shews and Noise. I could have such a Fellow whipt for o'erdoing Termagant: It out-Herod's Herod. · Be not too tame neither; but let your own Discretion be your Tutor: Sure the Action to the Word, the Word to the Action; with this fpecial Observance, that you o'erstop not the the Modesty of Nature; for any Thing so overdone, is from the Purpose of Playing, whose End, both at the first and now, was, and is, to hold as 'twere the Mirror up to Nature; to shew Virtue her own Feature; Scorn her own Image; and the very Age and Body of the Time its Form and Pressure. Now this. overdone, or come tardy off, tho' it make the Unskilful laugh, cannot but make the Ju-dicious grieve. The Censures of which one, must, in your Allowance, oversway a whole; Theatre

ove beg hen

ting

our vith

1 be

Dif-

e to

s of

Sin-

as

In-

fels

ou:

ent,

ath-

all

rect

Vith

k of the ach

vou.

&c.

are. any, the A to Help. hey nay s fl

th

n

th

la

P

of ex

Sc

ou

of

Theatre of others. Oh! there be Players, that I have feen play, and heard others praise, and that highly, (not to speak it prophanely). ' that neither having the Accent of Christian, Pagan, or Norman, have fo strutted and bellowed, that I have thought some of Nature's ' Journeymen had made Men, and not made them well, they imitated Humanity fo abomi-" nably. This should be reformed altogether; and let those that play your Clowns, speak no more than is fet down for them: For there be of them that will of themselves laugh, to set on fome Quantity of barren Spectators to laugh too; though in the mean Time, some necesfary Question of the Play be then to be confidered; that's villanous, and shews a most pitiful Ambition in the Fool that uses it.

From my own Apartment, June 29.

It would be a very great Obligation, and an Assistance to my Treatise upon Punning, if any one would please to inform in what Class, among the Learned who play with Words, to place the Author of the following Letter.

SIR,

Family of Staffs, from whence I suppose you would infinuate, that it is the most ancient and numerous House in all Europe. But I positively deny that it is either; and wonder much at your audacious Proceedings in this Matter, since its well known, that our most illustrious, most renowned, and most celebrated Reman Family of Ix, has enjoyed the Precedency to all others from the Reign of good old Saturn. I could say much to the Defamation and Disgrace of your Family; as, that your

ers.

ife,

ely.)

ian,

bel-

re's

ade

miner;

no

e be fet

ugh

cef-

con-

piti-

d an

any

, a-

, to give nous

you

cient poli-

uch

trer,

Itri-

Reecegood

mathat,

your

your Relations Distaff and Broomstaff were both inconliderate mean Persons, one spinning, the other sweeping the Streets, for their daily Bread. But I forbear to vent my Spleen on Objects fo much beneath my Indignation. I stall only give the World a Catalogue of my Ancestors, and leave them to determine which hath hitherto had, and which for the future ought to have, the Preference.

' First then comes the most famous and popu-' lar Lady Meretrix, Parent of the fertile Family of Bellatrix, Lotrix, Netrix, Nutrix, Obstetrix, Famulatrix, Coctrix, Ornatrix, Sarcinatrix, Fextrix, Balneatrix, Portatrix, Saltatrix, Divinatrix, Conjectrix, Comtrix, Debitrix, Creditrix, Donatrix, Ambulatrix, Mercatrix, Adle-Etrix, Affectatrix, Palpatrix, Praceptrix, Piftrix.

Iam Yours.

Eliz. Potatrix.

St. James's Coffee-bouse, June 29.

Letters from Bruffels of the 2d of July, N.S. fay, That the Duke of Marlborough and Prince Eugene having received Advice, That the Marshal Villars had drawn a considerable Body out of the Garrison of Tournay to reinforce his Army, marched towards that Place, and came before it early in the Morning of the 27th. As foon as they came into that Ground, the Prince of Nas-Jau was fent with a strong Detachment to take Post at St. Amand; and at the same Time my Lord Orkney received Orders to possess himself of Mortagne; both which were fuccessfully executed; whereby we are Masters of the Scheld and the Scarp. Eight Men were drawn out of each Troop of Dragoons and Company of Foot in the Garrison of Tournay, to make up the Reinforcement which was order'd to join Marshal Villars; but upon Advice that the Allies were marchmarching towards Tournay, they endeavoured to return into the Town; but were intercepted by the Earl of Orkney, by whom that whole Body was killed or taken. These Letters add, That 1200 Dragoons (each Horseman carrying a Foot-Soldier behind him) were detached from Mons to throw themselves into Tournay; but upon Appearance of a great Body of Horse of the Allies, retired towards Conde. We hear, That the Garrison does not consist of more than 3500 Men. Of the 60 Battalions design'd to be employ'd in this Siege, 7 are English, viz. Two of Guards, and the Regiments of Argyle, Temple, Evans and Meredith.

The TATLER. [Nº 36.

By Mrs. Jenny Distaff, Half Sister to Mr. Bickerstaft.

From Thursd. June 30. to Saturd. July 2. 1709.

From our own Apartment, June 30.

ANY Affairs calling my Brother into the Country, the Care of our Intelligence with the Town is left to me for some Time; therefore you must expect the Advices you meet with in this Paper to be such, as more immediately and naturally fall under the Consideration of our Sex: History therefore written by a Woman, you will easily imagine to consist of Love in all its Forms, both in the Abuse of, and Obedience to that Passion. As to the Faculty of writing it self, it will not, it is hoped, be demanded, that Stile and Ornament shall be so much consulted, as Truth and Simplicity; which latter Qualities we may more justly pretend to beyond yond the other Sex. While therefore the Administration of our Affairs is in my Hands, you shall from Time to Time have an exact Account of all false Lovers, and their shallow Pretences for breaking off; of all Termagant Wives who make Wedlock a Yoke; of Men who affect the Entertainments and Manners suitable only to our Sex, and Women who pretend to the Conduct of fuch Affairs as are only within the Province of Men. It is necessary further to advertise the Reader, that the usual Places of Refort being utterly out of my Province or Observation, I shall be obliged frequently to change the Dates of Places, as Occurrences come into my Way. The following Letter I lately received from Epjom.

Epsom, June 28.

IT is now almost Three Weeks since what you writ about happen'd in this Place: The ' Quarrel between my Friends did not run fo high as I find your Accounts have made it. The Truth of the Fact you shall have very ' faithfully. You are to understand, that the ' Persons concern'd in this Scene were, Lady Autumn, and Lady Springly: Autumn is a Per-' fon of good Breeding, Formality, and a fingular Way practifed in the last Age; and Lady Springly, a modern Impertinent of our Sex, ' who affects as improper a Familiarity, as the other does Distance. Lady Autumn knows to an Hair's breadth where her Place is in all Affemblies and Conversations; but Springly neither gives nor takes Place of any Body, but understands the Place to signify no more, than to have Room enough to be at Eale wherever she comes. Thus while Autumn takes the Whole of this Life to consist in unflanding Punctilio and Decorum, Springly takes every Thing to be becoming which con-'tributes of ple,

to

by dy

nat

ot-

lons

noo

the hat

500

6.

9.

the vith fore h in and our Woove beof ded,

tter be-

tributes to her Ease and Satisfaction. These Heroines have married two Brothers, both "Knights. Springly is the Spouse of the elder; who is a Baroner; and Autumn, being a rich Widow has taken the younger, and her Purse endowed him with an equal Fortune and Knight-' hood of the same Order. This Jumble of Titles, you need not doubt, has been an aching Torment to Autumn, who took Place of the other on no Pretence, but her Carelesness and Difregard of Distinction. This secret Occalion of Envy broiled long in the Breast of Autumn; but no Opportunity of Contention on that Subject happening, kept all Things quiet till the Accident, of which you demand an Account.

' It was given out among all the gay People of this Place, That on the 9th Instant several Damsels, swift of Foot, were to run for a Sute of Head-Clothes at the Old Wells. Lady Autumn on this Occasion invited Springly to go with her in her Coach to see the Race. When they came to the Place where the Governor of Epsom and all his Court of Citizens were affembled, as well as a Crowd of l'eople of all Orders, a brisk young Fellow addresses himself to the younger of the Ladies, viz. Springly, and offers her his Service to conduct her into the Mulick-Room. Springly accepts the Compliment, and is led triumphantly through a bowing Crowd, while Autumn is left among the Rabble, and has much ado to get back into her Coach; but she did it at last: And as it is usual to see by the Horfes my Lady's present Disposition, she orders 6 John to whip furiously Home to her Husband; where, when she enters, down she sits, began to unpin her Hood, and lament her fool-" Wh fond Heart to marry into a Family where fhe

36. hefe ooth der; Wienghte of hing the ness Ocft of ition ings nand ople veral for a Vells. ingly lace. : Gozens l'eoad-Larvice ringium-Aunuch did Horders and; befoolhere

the was fo little regarded, the that might -Here she stops; then rifes up and stamps, and fits down again. Her gentle Knight made his Approaches with a supple beseeching Gesture. My Dear, faid he, --- Tell me no Dears, replied Autumn --- in the Presence of the Governor and all the Merchants - What will the World fay of a Woman that has thrown her felf away at this Rate? Sir Thomas withdrew. and knew it would not be long a Secret to him; as well as that Experience told him, He that marries a Fortune, is of course guilty of all Faults against his Wife, let them be committed by whom they will. But Springly, an Hour or two after, returns from the Wells, and finds the whole Company together. she sat, and a profound Silence ensued. know a premeditated Quarrel usually begins and works up with the Words, Some People. The Silence was broken by Lady Autumn, who began to fay, There are Some People who fancy, that if Some People -- Springly immediately takes her up; There are Some People who fancy, if Other People -- Autumn repartees; People may give themselves Airs; but Other People, perhaps, who make less ado, may be, perhaps, as agreeable as People who fet themselves out more. All the other People at the Table fat mute, while these Two People, who were quarrelling, went on with the Use of the Word People, instancing the very Accidents between them, as if they kept only in distant Hints. Therefore, says Autumn, redning, There are some People will go Abroad in other People's Coaches, and leave those, with whom they went, to shift for themselves; and if, perhaps, those People have married the younger Brother; yet, perhaps, he may be beholden to those People for what he is. Springly imartly fmartly answers, People may bring so much ill Humour into a Family, as People may repent their receiving their Money; and goes. on, --- Every Body is not considerable enough to give her Uneasiness. Upon this, Autumn comes up to her, and desired her to kiss her, and never to fee her again; which her Sifter refusing, my Lady gave her a Box on the Ear--Springly returns; Ay ay, faid she, I knew well enough you meant me by your Some People, and gives her another on tother Side. To it they went with most Masculine Fury: Each Husband ran in. The Wives immediately fell upon their Husbands, and tore Periwigs and The Company interposed; when ' (according to the Slip-Knot of Matrimony, which makes them return to one another when any put in between) the Ladies and their Husbands fell upon all the rest of the Company; and having beat all their Friends and Relations out of the House, came to * themselves time enough to know, there was no bearing the Jest of the Place after these Adventures, and therefore marched off the next Day. It is faid, the Governor has fent several Joints of Mutton, and has proposed divers Dishes very exquisitely dressed, to bring them down again. From his Address and Knowledge in Roast and Boiled, all our Hopes of the Return of this good Company depend.

Dear Jenny,

Your Ready Friend

and Servant,

Martha Tatler.

White's

t

it

m

m

White's Chocolate-house, June 30.

This Day appear'd here a Figure of a Person. whose Services to the Fair Sex have reduced him to a Kind of Existence, for which there is no Name. If there be a Condition between Life and Death, without being absolutely dead or living, his State is that. His Afpect and Complexion in his robust Days gave him the illustrious Title of Africanus: But it is not only from the warm Climates in which he has ferved. nor from the Difasters which he has suffered. that he deferves the fame Appellation with that renowned Roman; but the Magnanimity with which he appears in his last Moments, is what gives him the undoubted Character of Hero. Cato stabbed himself, and Hannibal drank Poison; but our Africanus lives in the continual Pun-cture of aching Bones and poisoned Juices. The Old Heroes fled from Torments by Death, and this Modern lives in Death and Torments, with an Heart wholly bent upon a Supply for remaining in them. An ordinary Spirit would fink under his Oppressions; but he makes an Advantage of his very Sorrow, and raises an Income from his Diseases. Long has this Worthy been conversant in Bartering, and knows, that when Stocks are lowest, it is the Time to buy. Therefore, with much Prudence and Tranquility, he thinks, that now he has not a Bone found, but a Thousand nodous Parts for which the Anatomists have not Words, and more Diseases than the College ever heard of, it is the only Time to purchase an Annuity for Life. Sir Thomas told me, it was an Entertainment more furprising and pleasant than can be magined, to fee an Inhabitant of neither World without Hand to lift, or Leg to move, scarce Tongue to utter his Meaning, to keen upon well and they Husfell and when 36.

nuch

1 18-

b to mes

and

r re-

ar---

ony, ther and the ends

e to s no ven-Day.

oints ifhes own edge the I

atler.

bite's

tl

f biting the whole World, and making Bubbles at his Exit. Sir Thomas added, that he would have bought Twelve Shillings a Year of him, but that he feared there was some Trick in it, and believed him already dead: What! Says that Knight, Is Mr. Partridge, whom I met just now going on both his Legs firmer than I can, allowed to be quite dead; and shall Africanus, without one Limb that can do its Office, be pronounced alive? What heightened the Tragi-Comedy of this Market for Annuities was, that the Obfervation of it provoked Monoculus (who is the most elegant of all Men) to many excellent Reflections, which he spoke with the Vehemence and Language both of a Gamefter and an Orator. When I cast (said that delightful Speaker) my Eye upon thee, thou unaccountable Africanus, I cannot but call my felf as unaccountable as thou art; for certainly we were born to shew what Contradictions Nature is pleased to form in the fame Species. Here am I, able to eat, to drink, to fleep, and do all Acts of Nature. except begetting my Like; and yet by an unintelligible Force of Spleen and Fancy, I every Moment imagine I am dying. It is utter Madness in thee to provide for Supper; for I'll bet you Ten to One, you don't live till half an Hour after Four; and yet I am so distracted as to be in Fear every Moment, though I'll lay Ten to Three, I drink Three Pints of burnt Claret at your Funeral Three Nights hence. After all, I envy thee; thou that hast no Sense of Death, art happier than one that always fears it. The Knight had gone on, but that a Third Man ended the Scene by applauding the Knight's Eloquence and

36. Bubt he Year

fome lead: idge,

his be t one inced

dv-of Obho: is xcel-

the amethat thou

ll my cerntrathe

t, to ture, a un-

y, I It is pper; live

I am ment, Three

Three thou than the uence and had

and Philosophy, in a Laughter too violent for his own Constitution, as much as he mock'd that of Africanus and Monoculus.

St. James's Coffee-bouse, July 1. This Day arrived Three Mails from Helland, with Advices relating to the Posture of Affairs in the Low-Countries, which fay, That the Confederate Army extends from Luchin, on the Causeway between Tournay and Liste, to Epain near Mortagne on the Scheld. Marshal Villars remains in his Camp at Lens: but it is faid, he detached Ten thousand Men under the Command of the Chevalier de Luxemburg, with Orders to form a Camp at Crepin on the Haine, between Condé and St. Guillain, where he is to be joined by the Elector of Bavaria with a Body of Troops, and after their Conjunction, to attempt to march into Brabant. But they write from Bruffels, That the Duke of Marlborough having it equally in his Power to make Detachments to the same Parts, they are under no Apprehensions from these Reports for the Safety of their Country. They further add from Bruffels, that they have good Authority for believing, That the French Troops under the Conduct of Marshal de Bezons are retiring out of Spain.

The TATLER. [N° 37.

From Saturday July 2. to Tuesday July 5. 1709.

White's Chocolate-house, July 2.

T may be thought very unaccountable, that I, who can never be supposed to go to White's, Thould pretend to talk to you of Matters pro-per for, or in the Stile of, that Place. But tho' I do not go to these publick Haunts, I receive Visits from those who do; and for all they pretend fo much to the contrary, they are as talkative as our Sex, and as much at a Loss to entertain the present Company, without facrificing the last, as we our selves. This Resection has led me into the Confideration of the Ufe of Speech; and made me look over in my Memory all my Acquaintance of both Sexes, to know to which I may more justly impute the Sin of superfluous Discourse, with Regard to Conversation, and not entring into it as it refpects Religion. I foresee my Acquaintance will immediately, upon starting this Subject ask me, How I shall celebrate Mrs. Alse Copf. wood, the Yorkshire Huntress, who is come to Town lately, and moves as if she were on her Nag, and going to take a Five-Bar Gate; and is as loud as if the were following her Dogs I can easily answer that; for she is as soft a Damon, in Comparison of her Brother-in-Law Tom. Bellfrey, who is the most accomplish'd Man in this Kingdom for all Gentleman-like Activities and Accomplishments. It is allow'd, that he is a profess'd Enemy to the Italian Perfor

an

fu

ch

for

No

git

he

Fur

tion

my

Sind

be i

37. 709. hat I, bite's, prot tho' eceive y pretalkato enacrifieflectine Use y Mexes, to ite the ard to s it reintance ubject le Copl. ome to on her e; and Dogs foft a -in-Law n'd Man Activi-'d, that

Perfor

men

mers in Musick. But then for our own native Manner, according to the Customs and known Usages of our Island, he is to be preferr'd, for the Generality of the Pleasure he bestows. much above those Fellows, tho' they sing to full Theatres. For what is a Theatrical Voice to that of a Fox-hunter? I have been at a Musical Entertainment in an open Field, where it amaz'd me to hear to what Pitches the chief Masters would reach. There was a Meeting near our Seat in Staffordshire, and the most eminent of all the Counties of England were at it. How wonderful was the Harmony between Men and Dogs! Robin Cartail of Bucks was to answer to Jowler; Mr. Tinbreast of Cornwal was appointed to open with Sweetlips, and Beaux Slimber, 3 Londoner, undertook to keep up with Trips, a Whelp just fet in: Tom. Belifrey and Ringwood were coupled together, to fill the Cry on all Occasions, and be in at the Death of the Fox. Hare, or Stag; for which both the Dog and the Man were excellently fuited, and loved one enother, and were as much together as Banister and King. When Jowler first alarm'd the Field. Cartail repeated every Note; Sweetlips's Treble succeeded, and shook the Wood; Tinbreast eccho'd a Quarter of a Mile beyond it. We were soon after all at a Loss, till we rid up, and found Trips and Slimber at a Default in Half-Notes: But the Day and the Tune was recovered by Tom. Bellfrey and Ringwood, to the great Joy of us all, tho' they drowned every other Voice: For Bellfrey carries a Note Four Furlongs, Three Rood, and Six Paces, further than any other in England. But I fear the Mention of this will be thought a Digression from my Purpose about Speech: But l'answer, No. Since this is used where Speech rather should be employ'd, it may come into Consideration m in the same Chapter: For Mr. Bellfrey being at a Visit where I was, viz. his Cousin's (Lady Dainty's) in Soho, was ask'd, What Entertainments they had in the Country? Now Bellfrey is very ignorant, and much a Clown; but confident withal. In a Word, he struck up a Fox-Chase: Lady Dainty's Dog, Mr. Sippet, as she calls him, started and jump'd out of his Lady's Lap, and fell a barking. Bellfrey went on, and call'd all the neighbouring Parishes into the Square. Never was Woman in such Confusion as that delicate Lady. But there was no stopping her Kinsman. A Room full of Ladies fell into the most violent Laughter: My Lady look'd as if she was shrieking; Mr. Sippet in the Middle of the Room, breaking his Heart with barking, but all of us unheard. As foon as Bellfrey became filent, up gets my Lady, and takes him by the Arm to lead him off: Bellfrey was in his Boots. As she was hurrying him away, his Spurs takes hold of her Petticoat; his Whip throws down a Cabinet of China: He cries, What! Are your Crocks rotten? Are your Petticoats ragged? A Man can't walk in your House for Trincums. Every County of Great-Britain has One Hundred or more of this Sort of Fellows; who Roar instead of Speaking. Therefore if it be true, that we Women are also given to greater Fluency of Words than is necessary, sure one that disturbs but a Room or a Family is more to be tolerated, than one who draws together Parishes and Counties, and sometimes (with an Estate that might make him the Bleffing and Ornament of the World around him) has no other View and Ambition, but to be an Animal above Dogs and Horses, without the Relish of any one Enjoyment, which is peculiar to the Faculties of human Nature. I know it will here be faid, that talking of

meer

S

¥

11

d

2 0 te

h

m

W

Po

ing at (Lady rtain-

Relltrey

t con-

Fox-

is the ady's

, and

o the nfuli-

as no

adies

Lady

et in

Heart

foon

Lady,

off:

rying

Petti-

E Chitten?

walk

nty of f this king.

n are nan is om or who some-

m the round

out to thout

is pe-

ng of meer

But

meer Country Squires at this Rate, is, as it were, to Wifte against Valentine or Orson: To prove any Thing against the Race of Men. you must take 'em as they are adorn'd with Education, as they live in Courts, or have received Instructions in Colleges.

But I was fo full of my late Enterrainment by Mr. Bellfrey, that I must defer pursuing this Subject to another Day; and wave the proper Observations upon the different Offenders in this Kind, some by profound Eloquence, on finall Occasions, others by degrading Speech upon great Circumstances. Expect therefore to hear of the Whisperer without Business, the Laugher without Wit, the Complainer without receiving Injuries, and a very large Crowd. which I shall not forestall, who are common, (tho' not commonly observ'd) Impertinents. whose Tongues are too voluble for their Brains. and are the general Delpilers of us Women. tho' we have their Superiors, the Men of Sense, for our Servants.

St. James's Coffee-house, July 4.

There has arriv'd no Mail fince our last; fo that we have no Manner of Foreign News, except we were to give you, for fuch, the many Speculations which are on Foot concerning what was imported by the last Advices. There are, it scems, Sixty Battalions and Seventeen Squadrons appointed to serve in the Siege of Tournay; the Garrison of which Place consists but of Eleven Battalions and Four Squadrons. Letters of the 29th of the last Month from Berlin have brought Advice, That the Kings of Denmark, Prussia, and his Majesty Augustus, were within few Days to come to an Interview at These Letters mention, That Two Pot dam. Polish Princes of the Family of the Sapieka and N 3 Lubers Lubermirsky, lately arriv'd from Paris, confirm the Reports of the Misery in France for Want of Provisions, and give a particular Instance of it, which is, that on the Day Monsieur Rouille returned to Court, the Common People gather'd in Crowds about the Dauphin's Coach, crying, Peace and Bread, Bread and Peace.

Mrs. Distaff has taken upon her, while she writes this Paper, to turn her Thoughts wholly to the Service of her own Sex, and to propose Remedies against the greatest Vexations attending Female Life. She has for this End written a small Treatise concerning the Second Word, with an Appendix on the Use of a Reply, very useful to all such as are married to Persons either illbred or ill-natured. There is in this Trast a Digression for the Use of Virgins concerning the Words, I will.

A Gentlewoman who has a very delicate Ear, wants a Maid who can whisper, and help her in the Government of her Family. If the said Servant can Clear-Starch, Lisp, and Tread softly, she shall have suitable Encouragement in her Wages.

The TATLER. [N° 38.

From Tuesday July 5. to Thursday July 7. 1709.

From my own Apartment, July 6.

I Find among my Brother's Papers the following Letter verbatim, which I wonder how he could suppress so long as he has, since it was fent him for no other End, but to show the good Effect his Writings have already had upon the ill Customs of the Age.

SIR,

onfirm Want e of it, ille reather'd crying, ile she bolly to be Reending itten a l, with w useful ber illt a Di-

Words,

te Ear,

lp ber

be Said

of Soft in her

° 38.

ollownow he it was e good on the

SIR,

THE End of all publick Papers ought to be the Benefit and Instruction, as well as the Diversion of the Readers: To which I fee none so truly conducive as your late Performances; especially those tending to the rooting out from amongst us that Unchristian-like and Bloody Custom of Duelling; which, that you have already in some Measure perform'd, will appear to the Publick in the following no less True than Heroick Story.

' A Noble Gentleman of this City, who has the Honour of serving his Country as Major in the Train-Bands, being at that General Mart of Stock-Jobbers call'd fonathans, endea-' vouring to raise himself (as all Men of Honour ought) to the Degree of Colonel at least; it ' happened that he bought the Bear of another Officer, who, the not Commissioned in the Army, yet no less eminently serves the Pub-'lick than the other, in railing the Credit of ' the Kingdom, by raifing that of the Stocks. However, having fold the Bear, and Words arifing about the Delivery, the most Noble ' Major, no less scorning to be outwitted in the 'Coffee-house, than to run into the Field, according to Method, abused the other with the Titles of, Rogue, Villain, Bearskin-Man, and the like. Whereupon Satisfaction was demanded, and accepted: So, forth the Major march'd, commanding his Adversary to follow. To a most spacious Room in the Sheriff's House, near the Place of Quarrel, they come; where, having due Regard to what you have lately publish'd, they resolved not to shed one another's Blood in that parbarous Manner you prohibited; yet, not willing to put up Affronts without Satisfaction, they stripp'd, and in decent Manner fought full fairly with their wrathful Hands. The Combat lasted a Quarter of an Hour; in which Time Victory was often doubtful, and many a dry Blow was strenuously laid on by each Side, till the Major sinding his Adversary obstinate, unwilling to give him further Chastisfement, with most shrill Voice cry'd out, I am satisfied, enough. Whereupon the Combat ceas'd, and both were Friends immediately.

Thus the World may see, how necessary it is to encourage those Men who make it their Business to instruct the People in every Thing necessary for their Preservation. I am informed, a Body of worthy Citizens have a greed on an Address of Thanks to you for what you have writ on the foregoing Subject, whereby they acknowledge one of their highly esteem'd Officers preserved from Death.

Your humble Servant,

A. B.

I fear the Word Bear is hardly to be underfrood among the polite People; but I take the Meaning to be, That one who ensures a Real Value upon an Imaginary Thing, is said to sell a Bear, and is the same Thing as a Promise among Courtiers, or a Vow between Lovers. I have writ to my Brother to hasten to Town; and hope, that printing the Letters directed to him, which I knew not how to answer, will bring him speedily; and therefore I add also the following: Ction, aught The; in and n by liver-ther try'd the nmery it cheir hing ine afor Subheir eath.

B. derthe Real fell nife

ers.
vn;
I to

Mr.

will

alfo

July 5. 1709. Mr. Bickerftaff, You having hinted a generous Intention of taking under your Confideration the Whisperers without Bulines, and Laughers without Occasion; as you tender the Welfare of your Country, I entreat you not to forget or delay fo Publick-Spirited a Work. Now or never is the Time. Many other Calamities may cease with the War; but I dismally dread the Multiplication of these Mortals under the Ease and Luxuriousness of a settled Peace, half the Bleffing of which may be deftroyed by 'em. Their Mistake lies certainly here, in a wretched Belief, That their Mi-' mickry passes for Real Business, or True Wir. " Dear Sir, convince 'em, that it never was, is, or ever will be, either of them; nor ever did, does, or to all Futurity ever can, look bike either of them; but that it is the most cuised Disturbance in Nature, which is possi-' ble to be inflicted on Mankind, under the noble Definition of a Sociable Creature. In doing this, Sir, you will oblige more Humble Servants, than can find Room to subscribe their Names.

White's Chocolate-house, July 6.

In Pursuance of my last Date from hence, I am to proceed on the Accounts I promised of several Personages among the Men, whose conspicuous Fortunes, or Ambition in showing their Follies, have exalted them above their Fellows: The Levity of their Minds is visible in their every Word and Gesture, and there is not a Day passes but puts me in Mind of Mr. Wycherly's Character of a Coxcomb: He is ugly all over with the Affectation of the sine Gentleman. Now the the Women may put on Sostness in their N s

Looks, or affected Severity, or impertinent Gaiety, or pert Smartness, their Self-Love and Admiration cannot, under any of these Disguises, appear so invincible as that of the Men. may eafily take Notice, that in all their Actions there is a fecret Approbation, either in the Tone of their Voice, the Turn of their Body, or Cast of their Eye, which shows that they are extremely in their own Favour. Take one of your Men of Business, he shall keep you half an Hour with your Hat off, entertaining you with his Confideration of that Affair you spoke of to him last, till he has drawn a Crowd that observes you in this Grimace. Then when he is publick enough, he immediately runs into Secrets, and falls a whispering. You and he make Breaks with Adverbs; as, But however, thus far; and then you whisper again, and so on, till they who are about you are dispersed, and your bufy Man's Vanity is no longer gratified by the Notice taken of what Importance he is, and how inconsiderable you are; for your Pretender to Business is never in Secret, but in Publick. There is my dear Lord No-where, of all Men the most gracious and most obliging, the Terror of all Valets de Chambre, whom he oppresses with Good-Breeding, in enquiring for my good Lord, and for my good Lady's Health. This imitable Courtier will whisper a Privv-Counfellor's Lacquey with the utmost Goodness and Condescention, to know when they next fit; and is throughly taken up, and thinks he has a Part in a Secret, if he knows that there is a Secret. What it is he will whisper you, that Time will discover; then he shrugs, and calls you back again --- Sir, I need not fay to you, That these Things are not to be spoken of --and hark'ee, No Names, I would not be quoted. What adds to the left is, that his Emptiness 38. Gaied Adguifes, You Etions Tone · Cast re exne of 1 half you you Spoke d that en he to Send he pever, nd fo erfed, gratitance r your out in re, of iging, om he ng for ealth. Privy-Goodthey hinks there you, , and ay to of --uoted.

tinels

has

has its Moods and Seasons, and he will not condescend to let you into these his Discoveries, except he is in very good Humour, or has feen fome Body in Fashion talk to you. He will keep his Nothing to himself, and pass by and overlook as well as the best of 'em; not observing that he is infolent when he is gracious, and obliging when he is haughty. Show me a Woman so inconsiderable as this frequent Character. But my Mind (now I am in) turns to many no less observable : Thou dear Will. Shoestring! I profess my self in Love with thee: How shall I speak thee? How shall I address thee? How shall I draw thee? Thou dear Outfide! Will you be combing your Wig, Playing with your Box, or Picking your Teeth? Or chufest thou rather to be Speaking; to be Speaking for thy only Purpose in Speaking, to shew your Teeth? Rub'em no longer dear Shoe-string: Do not premeditate Murder: Do not for ever Whiten: Oh! That for my Quiet and his own they were rotten. But I will forget him, and give my Hand to the courteous Umbra; He is a fine Man indeed, but the foft Creature bows below my Apron-String before he takes it; but after the first Ceremonies, he is as familiar as my Physician, and his Insignificancy makes me half ready to complain to him of all I would to my Doctor. But he is fo courteous, that he carries half the Messages of Ladies Ails in Town to their Midwives and Nurses. He understands too the Art of Medicine as far as to the Cure of a Pimple or a Ralli. On Occasions of the like Importance, he is the most assiduous of all Men living, in consulting and fearthing Precedents from Family to Family; and then he speaks of his Obsequiousness and Diligence in the Style of real Services. If you incer at him, and thank him for his great Friend-

Friendship, he bows, and says, Madam, All the good Offices in my Power, while I have any Knowledge or Credit, shall be at your Service. The Consideration of so shallow a Being, and the intent Application with which he purfues Trifles, has made me carefully reflect upon that Sort of Men we usually call an Impertinent: And I am, upon mature Deliberation, so far from being offended with him, that I am really oblig'd to him; for tho' he will take you aside, and talk half an Hour to you upon Matters wholly infignificant with the most solemn Air, yet I confider, that these Things are of Weight in his Imagination, and he thinks he is communicating what is for my Service. If therefore it be a just Rule to judge of a Man by his Intention. according to the Equity of Good-breeding, he that is impertinently kind or wife, to do you Service, ought in Return to have a proportionable Place both in your Affection and Efteem: fo that the courteous Umbra deferves the Favour of all his Acquaintance; for tho' he never ferv'd em, he is ever willing to do it, and believes he does it. But as impotent Kindness is to be returned with all our Abilities to oblige, fo impotent Malice is to be treated with all our Force to depress it. For this Reason Fly-blow (who is received in all the Families in Town through the Degeneracy and Iniquity of their Manners) is to be treated like a Knave, tho' he is one of the weakest of Fools: He has by Rote, and at Second-hand; all that can be faid of any Man of Figure, Wit, and Virtue in Town. Name a Man of Worth, and this Creature tells you the worst Passage of his Life. Speak of a beautiful Woman, and this Puppy will whisper the next Man to him, tho' he has nothing to fay of her. He is a Fly that feeds on the fore Part, and would have nothing to live on, if

38. goodnow-The e inifles, rt of am, eing 'd to talk y in-COIIn his nicait be tion. you ortioeem; vour erv'd es he e reim-Force (who ough ners) ne of nd at any own. tells of a nisper ng to fore if

the

know him by the Frequency of pronouncing the Particle But; for which Reason I never hear him spoke of with common Charity, without using my But against him: For a Friend of mine saying the other Day, Mrs. Distass has Wit, good Humour, Virtue and Friendship, this Oar added, But she is not handsome. Coxcomb! The Gentleman was saying what I was, not what I was not.

St. James's Coffee-house, July 6.

The Approaches before Tournay, have been carried on with great Success; and our Advices from the Camp before that Place of the 11th Instant say, That they had already made a Lodgment on the Glacis. Two Hundred Boats were come up the Scheld with the heavy Artillery and Ammunition, which would be employed in difmounting the Enemy's Defences, and rais'd on the Batteries the 15th. A great Body of Miners are summoned to the Camp to countermine the Works of the Enemy. We are convinced of the Weakness of the Garrison, by a certain Account, That they call'd a Council of War, to confult whether it was not adviseable. to march into the Citadel, and leave the Town defenceless. We are assured, That when the Confederate Army was advancing towards the Camp of Marshal Villars, that General dispatch'd a Courier to his Matter with a Letter, giving an Account of their Approach, which concluded with the following Words: The Day begins to break, and your Majesty's Army is already in Order of Battle. Before Noon, I hope to have the Honour of congratulating your Majesty on the Success of a great Action; and you shall be very well satisfied with the Marshal Villars.

It is to be noted, That when any Part of this Paper appears dull, there is a Design in it.

The

The TATLER. [N° 39.

By Isaac Bickerstaff Esq;

From Thursd. July 7. to Saturd. July 9. 1709.

Grecian Coffee-house, July 7. S I am call'd forth by the immense Love I A bear to my Fellow Creatures, and the warm Inclination I feel within me, to stem, as far as I can, the prevailing Torrent of Vice and Ignorance; fo I cannot more properly purfue that noble Impulse, than by setting forth the Excellence of Virtue and Knowledge in their native and beautiful Colours. For this Reason I made my late Excursion to Oxford, where those Qualities appear in their highest Lustre, and are the only Pretences to Honour and Distinction: Superiority is there given in Proportion to Men's Advancement in Wisdom and Learning; and that just Rule of Life is so univerfally received among those happy People, that you shall see an Earl walk bear-headed to the Son of the meanest Artificer, in Respect to feven Years more Worth and Knowledge than the Nobleman is possess'd of. In other Places they bow to Men's Fortunes, but here to their Understandings. It is not to be express'd, how pleasing the Order, the Discipline, the Regularity of their Lives, is to a Philosopher, who has, by many Years Experience in the World, learn'd to contemn every Thing but what is rever'd in this Mansion of select and well-taught Spirits. The Magnificence of their Palaces, the Greatness of their Revenues, the Sweetness of their Groves and Retirements, seem equally 2dapted

709. ove I d the m, as Vice purh the their eason vhere aftre. Dioporand uniople. d to et to aces heir now ulawho rld, reght the of

oted

dapted for the Residence of Princes and Philofophers; and a Familiarity with Objects of Splendour, as well as Places of Recess, prepares the Inhabitants with an Equanimity for their future Fortunes, whether humble or illustrious. How was I pleas'd when I look'd round at St. Mary's, and could, in the Faces of the ingenious Youth, see Ministers of State, Chancellors, Bishops, and Judges. Here only is Human Life! Here only the Life of Man is a Rational Being! Here Men understand and are employed in Works worthy their noble Nature. This transitory Being passes away in an Employment not unworthy a future State, the Contemplation of the great Decrees of Providence. Each Man lives as if he were to answer the Questions made to Job, Where wast thou when I laid the Foundations of the Earth? Who Shut up the Sea with Doors, and Said, hitherto shalt thou come, and no further? Such Speculations make Life agreeable, make Death welcome. But alas! I was torn from this noble Society by the Business of this dirty mean World, and the Cares of Fortune: For I was oblig'd to be in Town against the 7th Day of the Term, and accordingly govern'd my felf by my Oxford Almanack, and came last Night; but find, to my great Astonishment, that this ignorant Town began the Term on the 24th of the last Month, in Opposition to all the Learning and Astronomy of the famous University of which I have been speaking; according to which, the Term certainly was to commence on the 1st Instant. You may be sure, a Man who has turn'd his Studies as I have, could not be mistaken in Point of Time; for knowing I was to come to Town in Term, I examin'd the passing Moments very narrowly, and called an eminent Astronomer to my Assistance. Upon very strict Observation we found, that the cold has been so severe this last Winter, (which is allow'd to have a benumming Quality) that it retarded the Earth in moving round from Christmas to this Season full seven Days and two Seconds. My Learned Friend affured me further, That the Earth had lately receiv'd a Shog from a Comet that cross'd its Vortex, which, if it had come Ten Degrees nearer us, had made us lose this whole Term. I was indeed once of Opinion, That the Gregorian Computation was the most regular, as being Eleven Days before the Julian; but am now fully convinc'd, that we ought to be Seven Days after the Chancellor and Judges, and Eighteen before the Popeof Rome; and that the Oxonian Computation is the best of the Three. These are the Reasons which I have gather'd from Philosophy and Nature; to which I can add other Circumstances in Vindication of the Account of this Learned Body who publish'd this Almanack. It is notorious to Philosophers, that Joy and Grief can haften and delay Time. Mr. Lock is of Opinion. That a Man in great Mifery may to far lofe his Measure, as to think a Minute an Hour; or in Joy, make an Hour a Minute. Let us examine the present Case by this Rule, and we shall find, that the Cause of this general Mistake in the British Nation, has been the great Success of the last Campagne, and the following Hopes. of Peace. Stocks ran so high at the Change, that the Citizens had gain'd three Days of the Courtiers: and we have indeed been so happy this Reign, that if 'the University did not re-Etify our Mistakes, we should think our selves but in the Second Year of Her present Majesty. It would be endless to enumerate the many Damages that have happened by this Ignorance of the Vulgar. All the Recognizances within the Diocefe e cold ich is hatit brifto Serther. from if it de us ce of was efore that incel-Popeion is afons d Naances irned f can nion. e his or in mine fhall. ie in ccess lopes. ange, f the appy t reelves efty. Dace of

ocese

Diocese of Oxford have been forfeited, for not appearing on the First Day of this Fictitious Term. The University has been Non-suited in their Action against the Booksellers for printing Clarendon in Quarto. But indeed what gives me the most quick Concern, is the Case of a poor Gentleman my Friend, who was t'other Day taken in Execution by a Set of ignorant Bailiffs. He should, it seems, have pleaded in the first Week of Term; but being a Master of Arts of Oxford, he would not recede from the Oxonian Computation. He show'd Mr. Broad the Almanack, and the very Day when the Term began; but the merciless ignorant Fellow, against all Sense and Learning, would hurry him away. He went indeed quietly enough; but he has taken exact Notes of the Time of Arrest, and sufficient Witnesses of his being carried into Gaol; and has, by Advice of the Recorder of Oxford, brought his Action; and we doubt not but we shall pay 'em off with Damages, and blemish the Reputation of Mr. Broad. We have one convincing Proof, which all that frequent the Courts of Justice are Witnesses of: The Dog that comes constantly to Westminster on the First Day of the Term, did not appear till the First Day according to the Onford Almanack; whose Instinct I take to be a better Guide than Men's erroneous Opinions, which are usually byass'd by Interest. I judge in this Case, as King Charles II. victual'd his Navy. with the Bread which one of his Dogs chose of several Pieces thrown before him, rather than trust to the Asseverations of the Victuallers. Mr. Comper, and other learned Council, have already urg'd the Authority of this Almanack in Behalf of their Clients. We shall therefore go on with all Speed in our Cause; and doubt not, but Chancery will give at the End what WC.

we lost in the Beginning, by protracting the Term for us till Wednesday come Se'nnight; And the University Orator shall for ever pray, &c.

From my own Apartment, July 7.

The Subject of Duels has, I find, been started with so good Success, that it has been the frequent Subject of Conversation among polite Men; and a Dialogue of that Kind has been transmitted to me verbatim, as follows. The Persons concern'd in it are Men of Honour, and Experience in the Manners of Men, and have fallen upon the truest Foundation, as well as fearch'd the Bottom, of this Evil.

Mr. Sage. If it were in my Power, every Man that drew his Sword, unless in the Service, or purely to defend his Life, Person, or Goods, from Violence, (I mean abstracted from all Puncto's or Whims of Honour) should ride the Wooden Horse in the Tilt-Tard for such First Offence, for the Second stand in the Pillory, and for the Third be Prisoner in Bedlam for Life.

Colonel Plume. I remember, that a Rencounter or Duel was so far from being in Fashion among the Officers that serv'd in the Parliament Army, that on the contrary, it was as disreputable, and as great an Impediment to Advancement in the Service, as being bashful in Time of Action.

Sir Mark. Yet I have been inform'd by some old Cavaliers, of famous Reputation for brave and gallant Men, that they were much more in Mode among their Party, than they have been during this last War.

Col. Plume. That is true too Sir.

ng the night; ever

Started he frepolite s been . The ir, and d have well as y Man ice, or Goods, om all ide the h First Pillory, m tor ncounnion aiament ifrepuvance-Time

v fome brave ore in e been

Mr.

Mr. Sage. By what you fay, Gentlemen, one should think that our present Military Officers are compounded of an equal Proportion of both those Tempers; fince Duels are neither quite discountenanc'd, nor much in vogue.

Sir Mark. That Difference of Temper, in Regard to Duels, which appears to have been between the Court and Parliament-Men of the Sword, was not (I conceive) for Want of Courage in the latter, nor of a liberal Education, because there were some of the best Families in England engag'd in that Party; but Gallantry and Mode, which glitter agreeably to the Imagination, were encouraged by the Court, as promoting its Splendour; and it was as natural that the contrary Party (who were to recommend themselves to the Publick for Men of ferious and folid Parts) should deviate from every Thing Chimerical.

Mr. Sage. I have never read of a Duel among the Romans; and yet their Nobility used more Liberty with their Tongues than one may do now without being challeng'd.

Sir Mark. Perhaps the Romans were of Opinion, that ill Language, and brutal Manners, reflected only on those who were guilty of 'em; and that a Man's Reputation was not at all clear'd by cutting the Person's Throat who had reflected upon it: But the Custom of those Times had fixed the Scandal in the Action; whereas now it lies in the Reproach.

Mr. Sage. And yet the only Sort of Duel that one can conceive to have been fought upon Motives truly honourable and allowable, was that between the Horatii and Curiatii.

Sir Mark. Colonel Plume, Pray what was the Method of Single Combat in your Time among the Cavaliers? I suppose, that as the Use of Clothes continues, tho' the Fashion of them has has been mutable; so Duels, tho' still in Use, have had in all Times their particular Modes of Performance.

Col. Plume. We had no constant Rule, but generally conducted our Dispute and Tilt according to the last that had happen'd between Persons of Reputation among the very Top Fellows for Bravery and Gallantry.

Sir Mark. If the Fashion of Quarrelling and Tilting was so often chang'd in your Time, Colonel Plume, a Man might fight, yet lose his Credit for want of understanding the Fathion.

Col. Plume. Why, Sir Mark, in the Beginning of July, a Man would have been censur'd for want of Courage, or been thought indigent of the true Notions of Honour, if he had put up Words; which in the End of September following, one could not resent without passing for a brutal and quarrelsome Fellow.

Sir Mark. But Colonel, Were Duels or Ren-counters most in Fashion in those Days?

Col. Plume. Your Men of nice Honour, Sir, were for avoiding all Cenfure of Advantage which they suppos'd might be taken in a Rencounter; therefore they us'd Seconds, who were to see that all was upon the Square, and make a faithful Report of the whole Combat; but in a little Time it became a Fashion for the Seconds to fight, and I'll tell you how it happened.

Mr. Sage. Pray do, Colonel Plume, and the Method of a Duel at that Time, and give us fome Notion of the Puncto's upon which your nice Men quarrel'd in those Days.

Col. Plume. I was going to tell you, Mr. Sage, That one Cornet Modish had desired his Friend; Captain Smart's, Opinion in some Affair, but did not follow it; upon which Captain Smart sent Major Use, les of but ac-39.

and ime, lofe Fa-

Fel-

eginfur'd igent put folg for

Renlour, vanin a
who
and ibat;
the hap-

the us

end; did fent lajor Major Adroit (a very Topping Fellow of those Times) to the Person that had slighted his Advice. The Major never enquired into the Quarrel, because it was not the manner then among the very Topping Fellows; but got two Swords of an equal Length, and then waited upon Cornet Modish, desiring him to choose his Sword, and meet his Friend Captain Smart. Cornet Modish came with his Friend to the Place of Combat; there the Principals put on their Pumps, and strip'd to their Shirts, to show they had nothing but what Men of Honour carry about 'em, and then engag'd.

Sir Mark. And did the Seconds stand by

Sir?

Col. Plume. It was a received Custom till that Time; but the Swords of those Days being pretty long, and the Principals acting on both Sides upon the Defensive, and the Morning being frosty, Major Adroit defired that the other Second, who was also a very Topping Fellow, would try a Thrust or two only to keep 'em warm, till the Principals had decided the Matter, which was agreed to by Modish's Second, who presently whipt Adroit through the Body, disarm'd him, and then parted the Principals, who had receiv'd no Harm at all.

Mr. Sage. But was not Adroit laugh'd at. Col. Plume. On the Contrary, the very Topping Fellows were ever after of Opinion, That no Man who deserved that Character, could serve as a Second, without Fighting; and the Smarts and Modishes finding their Account in it, the Humour took without Opposition.

Mr. Sage. Pray Colonel, How long did that Fashion continue?

Col. Plume. Not long neither, Mr. Sage; for as foon as it became a Fashion, the very Topping Fellows thought their Honour reflected upon, if they did not proffer themselves as Seconds when any of their Friends had a Quarrel; fo that sometimes there were a Dozen of a Side.

GR.

Nº 29.

Sir Mark. Blefs me! If that Custom had continued, we should have been at a Loss now for our very Pretty Fellows; for they feem to be the proper Men to officer, animate, and keep up an Army: But, pray Sir, How did that fo-ciable Manner of Tilting grow out of Mode?

Col. Plume. Why, Sir, I'll tell you; It was a Law among the Combatants, That the Party which happen'd to have the first Man disarm'd or kill'd, should yield as vanquish'd; which some People thought might encourage the Modishes and Smarts in quarreling, to the Destruction of only the very Topping Fellows; and as foon as this Reflection was started, the very Topping Fellows thought it an incumbrance upon their Honour to fight at all themfelves. Since that Time, the Modishes and the Smarts, throughout all Europe, have extoll'd the French King's Edict.

Sir Mark. Our verry Pretty Fellows, whom I take to be the Successors of the very Topping Fellows, think a Quarrel so little Fashionable, that they will not be expos'd to it by another Man's Vanity, or Want of Sense.

Mr. Sage. But, Colonel, I have observ'd in your Account of Duels, that there was a great Exactness in avoiding all Advantage that might possibly be between the Combatants.

Col. Plume. That's true, Sir; for the Weapons were always equal.

Mr. Sage. Yes, Sir; but suppose an active, adroit, strong Man, had insulted an aukward, or a feeble, or an unpractis'd Swords-man.

Col. Plume. Then, Sir, they fought with Pistols.

6

d

W

to p

0-

as

tV

d

ch

0-

e-

;

ne

n-

n-

ne

he

m ıg

le,

er

in

at ht

2-

re,

th

Ir.

Mr. Sage. But, Sir, there might be a certain Advantage that Way; for a good Marks-man will be fure to hit his Man at 20 Yards Distance; and a Man whose Hand shakes (which is common to Men that debauch in Pleasures, or have not us'd Pistols out of their Holsters) won't venture to fire, unless he touches the Person he shoots at. Now, Sir, I am of Opinion, that one can get no Honour in killing a Man (if one has it all Rug) as the Gamesters say, when they have a Trick to make the Game secure, tho' they seem to play upon the Square.

Sir Mark. In Truth, Mr. Sage, I think such a Fact must be Murder in a Man's own private Conscience, whatever it may appear to the World.

Col. Plume. I have known fome Men fo nice, that they would not fight but upon a Cloak without Piftols.

Mr. Sage. I believe a Custom, well established, would outdo the Grand Monarch's Edict.

Sir Mark. And Bullies would then leave off their long Swords; but I don't find that a very Pretry Fellow can stay to change his Sword, when he is insulted by a Bully with a long Diego, tho' his own at the same time be no longer than a Pen-knise; which will certainly be the Case, if such little Swords are in Mode. Pray Colonel, how was it between the Hectors of your Time and they very Topping Fellows?

Col. Plume. Sir, Long Swords happened to be generally worn in those Times.

Mr. Sage. In answer to what you were saying, Sir Mark, give me Leave to inform you, that your Knights-Errant, (who were the very Pretty Fellows of those Ancient Times) thought they could not honourably yield, tho' they had fought their own trusty Weapons to the Stumps;

Ĭ

0 T n

P

b

K

Bi

fe

m

for

th:

ots fel

kn

Po

ma ting

ger, rive call Tin ver Act

but would venture as boldly with the Page's Leaden Sword, as if it had been of enchanted Metal. Whence I conceive, there must be a Spice of Romantick Gallantry in the Composition of that very Pretty Fellow.

Sir Mark. I am of Opinion, Mr. Sage, that Fashion governs a very Pretty Fellow; Nature, or common Sense, your ordinary Persons, and sometimes Men of fine Parts.

Mr. Sage. But what is the Reason, that Men of the most excellent Sense and Morals (in other Points) affociate their Understandings with the very Pretty Fellows in that Chimæra of a Duel?

Sir Mark. There's no disputing against so great a Majority.

Mr. Sage. But there is one Scruple, (Col. Plume) and I have done: Don't you believe, there may be some Advantage even upon a Cloak with Piftols? Which a Man of nice Honour would scruple to take.

Col. Plume. Faith, I can't tell, Sir; but fince one may reasonably suppose, that (in such a Case) there can be but one so far in the Wrong as to occasion Matters to come to that Extremity, I think the Chance of being kill'd should fall but on one; whereas by their close and defperate Manner of Fighting, it may very probably-happen to both.

Sir Mark. Why Gentlemen, if they are Men of fuch nice Honour, (and must fight) there will be no fear of foul Play, if they threw up Cross or Pile who should be shot.

The TATLER. [Nº 40.

From Saturday July 9. to Tuesday July 12. 1709.

Will's Coffee-house, July 11.

Etters from the City of London give an Ac-Place is in at present, by Reason of a late Enquiry made at Guildhall, Whether a Noble Perfon has Parts enough to deserve the Enjoyment of the great Estate of which he is possess'd? The City is apprehensive, that this Precedent may go further than was at first imagin'd. The Person against whom this Inquisition is set up by his Relations, is a Peer of a neighbouring Kingdom, and has in his Youth made some few Bulls, by which it is infinuated, that he has forfeited his Goods and Chattels. This is the more aftonishing, in that there are many Perfons in the faid City who are still more guilty than his Lordship, and who, tho' they are Ideots, do not only possess, but have also themfelves acquired great Estates, contrary to the known Laws of this Realm, which vests their Possessions in the Crown. There is a Gentleman of this Coffee-house at this Time exhibiting a Bill in Chancery against his Father's younger Brother, who by some strange Magick has arrived at the Value of half a Plumb, as the Citizens call an Hundred Thousand Pounds; and in all the Time of growing up to that Wealth, was never known in any of his ordinary Words or Actions to discover any Proof of Reason. Upon this that ture, and

39. age's need be a poli-

Men of a

(Col. lieve,

e Ho-

It fo

fince uch a rong remi-

hould d defproba-

e Men e will Cross

The

L

d

b S E

n

n

al

in

G

ric

br

of Th

ftri

Me

inte

cau

uri

Ver

the

may

he rig

md

Purp

nora

this Foundation my Friend has fet forth, that he is illegally Matter of his Coffers, and has writ two Epigrams to fignify his own Preteniions and Sufficiency for spending that Estate. He has inferted in his Plea fome Things which I fear will give Offence; for he pretends to argue, that tho' a Man has a little of the Knave mix'd with the Fool, he is nevertheless liable to the Lofs of Goods; and makes the Abuse of Reason as just an Avoidance of an Estate as the total Absence of it. This is what can never pass; but witty Men are so full of themselves, that there is no perswading 'em; and my Friend will not be convinced, but that upon quoting Solomon, who always used the Word Fool as a Term of the same Signification with Unjust, and makes all Deviation from Goodness and Virtue to come under the Notion of Folly, I say, he doubts not, but by the Force of this Authority, let his Ideot Uncle appear never fo great a Knave, he shall prove him a Fool as the same Time. This Affair led the Company here into an Examination of these Points; and none coming here but Wits, what was afferted by a young Lawyer, that a Lunatick is in the Care of the Chancery, but a Fool in that of the Crown, was received with general Indignation. Why that? fays old Renault. Why that? Why must a Fool be a Courtier more than a Madman? This is the Iniquity of this dull Age: I remember the Time when it went on the mad Side; all your Top Wits were Scowrers, Rakes, Roarers, and Demolishers of Windows. I remember a mad Lord who was drunk five Years together, and was the Envy of that Age, and is faintly imitated by the dull Pretenders to Vice and Madness in this. Had he liv'd to this Day, there had not been a Fool in Fashion in the whole Kingdom. When Re-10.

har

has

niiate. nich arnave able le of s the ever lves, my upon Vord with foodon of ce of r ne-Fool Comoints; as alick is hat et Indig-Why more of this went s were ers of o was Envy he dull . Had en Renaul:

nault had done speaking, a very worthy Man assumed the Discourse: This is (faid he) Mr. Bickerstaff, a proper Argument for you to treat in your Article from this Place; and if you would fend your Pacolet into all our Brains, you would find, that a little Fibre or Valve. scarce discernable, makes the Distinction botween a Politician and an Ideot. We should therefore throw a Veil upon those unhappy Instances of human Nature, who seem to breath without the Direction of Reason and Understanding, as we should avert our Eyes with Abhorrence from such as live in perpetual Abuse and Contradiction to these noble Faculties. Shall this unfortunate Man be divested of his Estate, because he is tractable and indolent. runs in no Man's Debt, invades no Man's Bed, nor spends the Estate he owes his Children and his Character; when one who shows no Sense above him, but in fuch Practices, shall be esteem'd in his Senses, and possibly may pretend to the Guardianship of him who is no ways his Inferior, but in being less wicked? we see old Age brings us indifferently into the fame Impotence of Soul, wherein Nature has plac'd this Lord. There is something very fantastical in the Difribution of Civil Power and Capacity among Men. The Law certainly gives these Persons into the Ward and Care of the Crown, because that is best able to protect 'em from Inuries, and the Impositions of Craft and Knavery; that the Life of an Ideot may not ruin the Intail of a noble House, and his Weakness may not frustrate the Industry or Capacity of the Founder of his Family. But when one of bright Parts, as we fay, with his Eyes open, and all Men's Eyes upon him, destroys those a Fool Purposes, there is no Remedy. Folly and Igforance are punish'd! Folly and Guilt are tole-0 2 fe m h al fic

he

of

rated! Mr. Lock has fomewhere made a Diftinction between a Madman and a Fool: A Fool is he that from right Principles makes a wrong Conclusion; but a Madman is one who draws a just Inference from false Principles. the Fool who cut off the Fellow's Head that lay afleep, and hid it, and then waited to fee what he would fay when he awak'd and miss'd his Head-piece, was in the Right in the first Thought. that a Man would be furpriz'd to find fuch an Alteration in Things fince he fell afleep; but he was a little mistaken to imagine he could awake at all after his Head was off. A Madman fancies himself a Prince; but upon his Mistake, he acts fuitably to that Character; and tho' he is out in supposing he has Principalities, while he drinks Gruel, and lies in Straw, yet you shall fee him keep the Port of a diffress'd Monarch in all his Words and Actions. These Two Perfons are equally taken into Custody: But what must be done to half this good Company, who every Hour of their Life are knowingly and wittingly both Fools and Madmen, and yet have Capacities both of forming Principles, and drawing Conclusions, with the full Use of Reafon?

This Evening some Ladies came to visit my Sister Jenny; and the Discourse, after very many frivolous and publick Matters, turn'd upon the main Point among the Women, the Passion of Love. Sappho, who always leads on this Occasion, began to show her Reading, and told us, That Sir John Suckling and Milton had, upon a parallel Occasion, faid the tenderest Things she had ever read. The Circumstance, said she, is such as gives us a Notion of that Protecting Part which is the Duty of Men in their honourable Designs upon, or Possession of,

tin-

lis ong

hus

lay

hat

his tht,

an he

ake

fan-

he

e is

e he

hall irch Per-hat who

and yet

and lea-

my very up-

Paf-

s on

and had,

ereit

ince,

that n in n of,

nen.

Women. In Suckling's Tragedy of Brennoralt, he makes the Lover steal into his Mistress's Bed-Chamber, and draw the Curtains; then, when his Heart is full of her Charms, as she lies sleeping, instead of being carried away by the Violence of his Desires into Thoughts of a warmer Nature: Sleep, which is the Image of Death, gives this generous Lover Reslections of a different Kind, which regard rather her Sasety than his own Passion. For, beholding her as she lies sleeping, he utters these Words:

' So Misers look upon their Gold,

Which, while they joy to see, they fear to lose:

The Pleasure of the Sight scarce equalling The Jealousy of being disposses'd by others.

Her Face is like the Milky Way i'th' Sky,

A Meeting of gentle Lights without Name!

Heav'ns! Shall this fresh Ornament of the World, These precious Love-Lines, pass with other common Things Amongst the Wasts of Time? What Pity 'twere!

When Milton makes Adam leaning on his Armbeholding Eve, and lying in the Contemplation of her Beauty, he describes the utmost Tenderness and Guardian Affection in one Word:

> Adam with Looks of Cordial Love Hung over her enamour'd.

This is that Sort of Passion which truly deferves the Name of Love, and has something more generous than Friendship it self; for it has a constant Care of the Object beloved, abstracted from its own Interests in the Possession of it. Sappho was proceeding on the Subject, when my Sister produc'd a Letter sent to her in the Time of my Absence, in Celebration of the Marriage State, which is the Condition O 3 wherein wherein only this Sort of Passion reigns in full Authority. The Epistle is as follows:

Dear Madam,

Liberty of writing to you my Thoughts of that State, which our whole Sex either is or defires to be in: You'll eafily guess I mean Matrimony, which I hear so much decry'd, that it was with no small Labour I maintained my Ground against Two Opponents; but, as your Brother observ'd of Socrates, I drew them into my Conclusion from their own Concessions; thus:

In Marriage are Two happy Things allow'd, A Wife in Wedding Sheets, and in a Shrowd. How can a Marriage State then be accurs'd, Since the last Day's as happy as the First?

If you think they were too easily confuted, you may conclude them not of the First Sense, by their talking against Marriage.

Yours,

Marriana.

I observed Sappho began to redden at this Epistle; and turning to a Lady, who was playing with a Dog she was so fond of, as to carry him abroad with her; Nay, says she, I cannot blame the Men if they have mean Ideas of our Souls and Affections, and wonder so many are brought to take us for Companions for Lite, when they see our Endearments so triflingly placed: For, to my Knowledge, Mr. Truman would give half his Estate for half the Affection you have shown to that Shock: Nor do I believe you would be ashamed to confess, that I saw you cry, when he had the Cholick last Week with the ghts is or Ma-that my 40.

full

into ons;

ted,

ana.

laynot our are ife,

gly nan tion eve

aw eek ith with lapping fowr Milk. What more could you do for your Lover himself? What more! reply'd the Lady, There is not a Man in England for whom I could lament half so much. Then she stifled the Animal with Kisses, and call'd him, Beau, Lite, Dear, Monsieur, Pretty Fellow, and what not, in the Hurry of her Impertinence. Sappho rose up; as she always does at any Thing she observes done, which discovers in her own Sex a Levity of Mind, which renders em inconsiderable in the Opinion of ours.

St. James's Coffee-house, July 11.

Letters from the Hague of the 16th Instant. N. S. fay, That the Siege of Tournay went on with all imaginable Success; and that there has been no manner of Stop given to the Attempts of the Confederates fince they undertook it, except that by an Accident of Firing a Piece of Ordnance, it burst, and kill'd 15 or 16 Men. The French Army is still in the Camp of Lens, and goes on in improving their Intrenchments. When the last Advices came away, it was believed the Town of Tournay would be in the Hands of the Confederates by the End of this Month. Advices from Bruffels inform us, That they have an Account of a great Action between the Malecontents in the Vivarez, and the French King's Forces under the Command of the Duke of Roquelaure, in which Engagement there were Eighteen hundred Men kill'd on the Spot. They add, That all Sorts of People who are under any Oppression or Discontent do daily joyn the Vivarous; and that their present Body of Men in Arms consisted of Six Thousand. This sudden Insurrection has put the Court of France under great Difficulties; and the King has given Orders, That the main Body of his Troops in Spain shall withdraw into his own Dominions, where they are to be quartered in fuch Countries as have of late discovered an Inclination to take up Arms: The Calamities of that Kingdom being fuch, that the People are not by any Means to be kept in Obedience, except by the Terror of Military Execution. What makes the Distresses still greater, is, That the Court begins to be doubtful of their Troops, some Regiments in the Action in the Cevennes having faced about against their Officers; and after the Battle was over, join'd the Malecontents. Upon receiving Advice of this Battle, the Duke of Berwick detach'd Twelve Battalions into those Parts, and began to add new Works to his Intrenchments near Brianzon, in order to defend his Camp, after being weakened by fending so great a Reinforcement into the Cevennes. Letters from Spain fay, That the Dutchess of Anjou was lately delivered of a Second Son. They write from Madrid of the 25th of June, That the Blockade of Olivenza was continued; but acknowledge, that the late Provisions which were thrown into the Place, make 'em doubt whether they shall be Masters of it this Campagne; tho' it is at present so closely block'd up, that it appears impracticable to fend in any more Stores or Succours. They are preparing with all Expedition to repair the Fortifications of Alicant, for the Security of the Kingdom of Valencia.

The TATLER. [Nº 41.

- Celebrare Domestica Facta.

From Tuesday July 12. to Thursday July 14. 1709.

White's Chocolate-house, July 12. Here is no one Thing more to be lamented in our Nation, than their general Affectation of every Thing that is Foreign; nay, we carry it so far, that we are more anxious for our own Countrymen when they have cross'd the Seas, than when we see 'em in the same dangerous Condition before our Eyes at Home: Else how is it possible, that on the 29th of the last Month, there should have been a Battle fought in our very Streets of London, and no Body at this End of the Town have heard of it. I protest, I, who make it my Business to enquire after Adventures, should never have known this, had not the following Account been sent me inclos'd in a Letter. feems, is the Way of giving out of Orders in the Artillery-Company; and they prepare for a Day of Action with fo little Concern, as only to call it, An Exercise of Arms.

odron bang yn den log 1. Spelt oede en ly it de de ee e 1. Op de langeske keel is de geste

An

The

are of ms:

uch,

Mieffes

be s in uta-

Was

ving

de-

and ents

mp,

at a rom

ate-

roin

tade

dge,

in-

hey

it is ears

or

for

An Exercise at Arms of the Artillery Company, to be perform'd on Wednesday June 29. 1709. under the Command of Sir Joseph Woolse, Knight and Alderman, General; Charles Hopson, Esquire, present Sheriff, Lieutenant-General; Captain Richard Synge, Major; Major John Shorey, Captain of Granadiers; Capt. William Grayhurst, Capt. John Buttler, Capt. Robert Carellis, Captains.

THE Body march from the Artillery-Ground through Moregate, Coleman-street, Lothbury, Broad-street, Finch-Lane, Cornhil, Cheapside, 'St. Martin's, St. Anne's-Lane, Hault the Pikes under the Wall in Noble-street, Draw up the Firelocks Facing the Goldsmiths Hall, make Ready and Face to the Left, and Fire, and fo ditto Three Times. Beat to Arms, and March round the Hall, as up Lad-Lane, Gutter-Lane, Honey-Lane, and fo Wheel to the Right, and make your Salute to my Lord, and so down St. Anne's-Lane, up Aldersgate-street, Barbican, and draw up in Red-Cross-street, the Right at St. Paul's-Alley in the Rear. March off Lieute-'nant General' with Half the Body up Beech-Lane: He fends a Sub-Division up King's-Head-"Court, and takes Post in it, and marches Two Divisions round into Red-Lyon-Market, to defend that Pass, and succour the Division in "King's-Head-Court, but keeps in White-Crossstreet, facing Beech-Lane, the rest of the Body ready drawn up. Then the General marches up Beech-Lane, is attack'd, but forces 'the Division in the Court into the Market, and enters with Three Divisions while he presses the 'Lieutenant-General's Main Body; and at the 'same Time, the Three Divisions force those of the Revolters out of the Market, and so all the "Lieutenant-General's Body retreats into Chis-"wel-street, and lodges Two Divisions in Grub-Street; 672-cht

on,

14.

hn

lli-

205

ind bu-

ide,

kes

the

ake

fo

rch

me,

and wn

an,

at ute-

ech-

ead

wo

in in ras-

Bo-

nar-

rces

and

the

the

e of

the chij-

rub-

reet;

'street; and as the General marches on, they fall on his Flank, but foon made to give Way; but having a Retreating Place in Red-Lyon Court, 'but could not hold it, being put to Flight thro' 'Paul's-Alley, and purfued by the General's Gra-'nadiers, while he marches up and attacks their 'main Body, but are opposed again by a Party of Men as lay in Black-Raven-Court; but they 'are forced also to Retire soon in the utmost 'Confusion; and at the same Time those Brave 'Divisions in Paul's-Alley ply their Rear with 'Granadiers, that with Precipitation they take to 'the Rout along Bunhill-Row: So the General 'marches into the Artillery-Ground, and being 'drawn up, finds the Revolting Party to have 'found Entrance, and makes a Show as if for a Battle, and both Armies foon Engage in Form, and Fire by Platoons.

Much might be faid for the Improvement of this System; which, for its Style and Invention, may instruct Generals and their Historians, both in fighting a Battle, and describing it These elegant Expressions, when 'tis over. Ditto --- And so --- But soon --- But having ---But could-not -- But are -- But they - Finds the Party to have found, &c .- do certainly give great Life and Spirit to the Relation. Indeed I am extremely concerned for the Lieutenant-General, who, by his Overthrow and Defeat, is made a deplorable Instance of the Fortune of War, and Viciflitudes of human Affairs. He, alas! has lost in Beech-Lane and Chiswel-street, all the Glory he lately gain'd in and about Holborn and St. Giles's. The Art of Subdividing first, and Dividing afterwards, is new and furpriting; and according to this Method, the Troops are dispos'd in Kings-Head-Court and Red-Lion-Market: Nor is the Conduct of thele Leaders less conspicuous in their Choice of the Ground Ground or Field of Battle. Happy was it, that the greatest Part of the Atchievements of this Day was to be performed near Grub-street, that there might not be wanting a sufficient Number of faithful Historians, who being Eye-Witnesses of these Wonders, should impartially transmit them to Posterity: But then it can never be enough regretted, that we are left in the Dark as to the Name and Title of that extraordinary Hero who commanded the Divilions in Paul's-Alley; especially because those Divisions are justly styl'd Brave, and accordingly were to push the Enemy along Bunhill-Row, and thereby occasion a general Battle. But Pallas appeared in the Form of a Shower of Rain, and prevented the Slaughter and Defolation which were threatned by these extraordinary Preparations.

Hi Motus Animorum atq; hac Certamina tanta. Pulveris exigui Jactu compressa quiescunt.

Will's Coffee-bouse, July 13.

Some Part of the Company keep up the old Way of Conversation in this Place, which usually turned upon the Examination of Nature, and an Enquiry into the Manners of Men. There is one in the Room so very judicious, that he manages Impertinents with the utmost Dexterity. It was diverting this Evening to hear a Discourse between him and one of these Gentlemen. He told me before that Person join'd us, that he was a Questioner, who, according to his Description, is one who asks Questions, not with a Design to receive Information, but an Affectation to show his Uneasiness for Want of it. He went on in afferting, that there are Cowards of that modest Ambition, as/to aim no further than to demonstrate shat they are in Doubt. But by this Time Will. Why

Why-not was fat down by us. So Gentlemen. hat (fays he) In how many Days, think you, shall his we be Masters of Tournay? Is the Account of hat the Action of the Vivarois to be depended upmon? Could you have imagin'd England had fo Vitmuch Money in it, as you fee it has produc'd? ally Pray Sirs, What do you think? Will the Duke neof Savoy make an Irruption into France? But in (fays he) Time will clear all these Mysteries... ex-His Answer to himself gave me the Altitude of 7111his Head, and to all his Questions I thus an-Difwered very fatisfactorily --- Sir, have you gly heard that this Slaughterford never own'd the and Fact for which he died? Have the News-Pallas pers mentioned that Matter? But, pray, Can and you tell me what Method will be taken to proich vide for these Palatines? But this, as you fay, ara-Time will clear. Ay, ay, fays he, and whifpers me, They will never let us into thefe Things eta. before-hand. I whispered him again, We shall know it as foon as there is a Proclamation --He tells me in t'other Ear, You are in the right old of it. Then he whispered my Friend to know ıfuwhat my Name was; then made an obliging Bow, and went to examine another Table. This are, en. led my Friend and me to weigh this wandering us. Manner in many other Incidents, and he took out of his Pockets feveral little Notes or Tickoft ets to follicit for Votes to Employments: As, to 'Mr. John Taplash having served all Offices, fon acsks forali-

ng,

Iti-

ate Vill.

by:

and being reduced to great Poverty, defires your Vote for Singing-Clerk of this Parish. · Another has had Ten Children, all whom his 'Wife has suckled her self; therefore humbly defires to be a Schoolmaster. There is nothing fo frequent as this Way of Application for Offices. It is not that you are fit for the Place, but because the Place would be convenient for you, that you claim a Merit to it. But com-

1

b

mend me to the great Kirleus, who has lately fet up for Midwitery, and to help Child-birth, for no other Reason, but that he is himself the Unborn Doctor. The Way is to hit upon something that puts the Vulgar upon the Stare, or that touches their Compassion, which is often the weakest Part about us. I know a good Lady, who has taken her Daughters from their old Dancing-Master, to place them with another, for no other Reason, but because the new Man has broke his Leg, which is so ill set, that he can never dance more.

From my own Apartment, July 13.

As it is a frequent Mortification to me to receive Letters, wherein People tell me, without a Name, they know I meant them in fuch and fuch a Passage; so that very Accusation is an Argument, That there are fuch Beings in Human Life, as fall under our Description and our Discourse is not altogether fantasti-But in this Case I cal and groundless. am treated as I faw a Boy was t'other Day, who gave out pocky Bills: Every plain Fellow took it that pass'd by, and went on his Way without further Notice: At last came one with his Nose a little abridg'd; who knocks the Lad down, with a, Why you Son of a W--e, do you think I am p --- d. But Shakespear has made the best Apology for this Way of Talking against the Publick Errors: He makes Jaques, in the Play call'd, As you like it, express himself thus:

Why, Who cries out on Pride, That can therein tax any private Party?
What Woman in the City do I name?
When that I say the City Woman bears The Cost of Princes on unworthy Shoulders.
Who can come in and say that I mean her,
When such a one as she, such is her Neighbour?
Or,

I.

ely

th,

the

ne-

or

en

ood

eir

10-

at

re-

ut

nd

an

in

on ti-

I

y,

W ay

th

ad

ou

ne

ft

ne

Or, What is he of basest Function, That says his Bravery is not on my Cost?
Thinking that I mean him, but therein suits His Folly to the Mettle of my Speech.
There then! How then? Then let me see wherein My Tongue hath wrong'd him: If it do him right, Then he hath wronged himself: If he be free, Why then my Taxing like a wild Goose slies, Unclaimed of any Man.

St. James's Coffee-house, July 13. We have received, by Letters of the 18th Instant from the Camp before Tournay, an Account, That we were in a fair Prospect of being Masters of the Town within seven Days after that Date. Our Batteries had utterly overthrown those of the Enemy. On the 16th Instant, N.S. General Schuylemburg had made a Lodgment on the Counterscarp of the Tenaille: which Post was so weakly defended, that we loft but Six Men in gaining it. So that there feems Reason to hope, that the Citadel will also be in the Hands of the Confederates about the 6th of August, O. S. These Advices inform us further, That Marshal Villars had ordered large Detachments to make Motions towards Douay and Conde. The swift Progress of this Siege has fo much alarmed the other Frontier Towns of France, that they were throwing down some Houses in the Suburbs of Valenciennes, which they think may stand commodiously for the E. nemy in case that Place should be invested. The lector of Cologne is making all imaginable Hafte to remove from thence to Rheims.

केंद्र इंग्लेट के बार्क के विशेष में के इंग्लेट के

Herise where a confertributed above on the whole of the hill carling of the

The TATLER. [N° 42.

-Celebrare Domestica Facta.

From Thursday July 14. to Saturday July 16. 1709.

From my own Apartment, July 15. Ooking over some old Papers, I found a little Treatise, written by my Great-Grandfather, concerning Bribery, and thought his Manner of treating that Subject not unworthy my Remark. He there has a Digression concerning a Possibility, that in some Circumstances a Man may receive an Injury, and yet be conscious to himself that he deserves it. There are abundance of fine Things faid on the Subject; but the whole wrap'd up in fo much Jingle and Pun, (which was the Wit of those Times) that it is scarce intelligible; but I thought the Defign was well enough in the following Sketch of the old Gentleman's Poetry : For in this Case, where Two are Rivals for the same Thing, and propose to obtain it by Presents, he that attempts the Judge's Honesty, by making him Offers of Reward, ought not to complain when he loses his Cause for a better Bidder. But the good old Doggrel runs thus:

A Poor Man once a Judge befought, To judge aright his Cause, And with a Pot of Oilsalutes This Judger of the Laws.

My Friend, quoth he, thy Cause is good:
He glad away did trudge; Anon his wealthy Foe did come before this partial Judge.

u

of

T

P

(1

th

la

th

U

709.

lit-

and-

his rthy

con-

nces

on-

are ct;

and

hat

De-

tch

ife,

ind at-Of-

he od

Wo-

An Hog well fed this Churl presents, And craves a Strain of Law; The Hog receiv'd, the Poor Man's Right Was judg'd not worth a Straw.

Therewith he cry'd, O! Partial Judge, Thy Doom has me undone; When Oil I gave, my Cause was good, But now to Ruin run.

Poor Man, quoth he, I thee forgot, And see thy Cause of Foil; An Hog came since into my House, And broke thy Pot of Oil.

Will's Coffee-house, July 15. The Discourse happen'd this Evening to fall upon Characters drawn in Plays, and a Gentleman remark'd, That there was no Method in the World of knowing the Taste of an Age, or Period of Time so good, as by the Observations of the Persons represented in their Comedies. There were feveral Instances produced, as Ben. John on's bringing in a Fellow smoaking as a Piece of Foppery; but, faid the Gentleman, (who entertain'd us on this Subject) this Matter is no where fo observable as in the Difference of the Characters of Women on the Stage in the last Age, and in this. It is not to be supposed that it was a Poverty of Genius in Shakespear, that his Women made fo small a Figure in his Dialogues; but it certainly is, that he drew Women as they then were in Life; for that Sex had not in those Days that Freedom in Converfation; and their Characters were only, that they were Mothers, Sifters, Daughters, and Wives. There were not then among the Ladies, shining Wits, Politicians, Virtuofæ, Free-Thinkers, and Disputants; nay, there was then hardly such a Creature ev'n as a Coquet: But Vanity had quite another Turn, and the most conspicuous

h

15

V

tl

W

0 ft

is

0 11

ar

D

C

at ta

ab

Woman at that Time of Day was only the best Housewife. Were it possible to bring into Life an Assembly of Matrons of that Age, and incroduce the learned Lady Woodby into their Company, they would not believe the fame Nation could produce a Creature fo unlike any Thing they ever faw in it. But these Ancients would be as much aftonished to see in the same Age so illu-Brious a Pattern to all who love Things Praiseworthy, as the divine Apatia. Methinks, I now see her walking in her Garden like our first Parent, with unaffected Charms, before Beauty had Spectators, and bearing celestial conscious Virtue in her Aspect. Her Countenance is the lively Picture of her Mind, which is the Seat of Honour, Truth, Compassion, Knowledge, and Innocence.

There dwells the Scorn of Vice and Pity too.

In the Midst of the most ample Fortune, and Veneration of all that behold and know her, without the least Affectation, she consults Retirement, the Contemplation of her own Being, and that supreme Power which bestowed it. Without the Learning of Schools, or Knowledge of a long Course of Arguments, she goes on in a steady Course of uninterrupted Piety and Virtue, and adds to the Severity and Privacy of the last Age all the Freedom and Ease of this. The Language and Mien of a Court she is possessed of in the highest Degree; but the Simplicity and humble Thoughts of a Cottage, are her more welcome Entertainments. Alpatia is a Female Philosopher, who does not only live up to the Relignation of the most retired Lives of the ancient Sages, but also to the Schemes and Plans which they thought beautiful, tho' inimi-This Lady is the most exact Occonomist, without appearing busie; the most strictly virtuous, best

Life

TO-

pabluc

hey

e, as

Iluuic-

uty

ous

the

t of

and

and

ner,

Re-

ing,

it.

dge

n in

Vir-

the

The

city

her

5 2

up

s of

and

mi-

ift,

vir-

ous,

, I first

twous, without tasting the Praise of it; and thuns Applause with as much Industry, as others do Reproach. This Character is fo particular, that it will very easily be fixed on her only, by all that know her: But I dare fay, she will be the last that finds it out. But, alas! If we have One or Two fuch Ladies, How many Dozens are there like the restless Poluglossa, who is acquainted with all the World but her felf; who has the Appearance of all, and Possession of no one Virtue: She has indeed in her Practice the Absence of Vice; but her Discourse is the continual Hiftory of it; and it is apparent, when the speaks of the criminal Gratifications of others, that her Innocence is only a Restraint, with a certain Mixture of Envy. She is so perfectly opposite to the Character of Aspatia, that as Vice is terrible to her only as it is the Object of Reproach, so Virtue is agreeable only as it is attended with Applaule.

St. James's Coffee-house, July 15.

It is now Twelve a Clock at Noon, and no Mail come in; therefore I am not without Hopes, that the Town will allow me the Liberty which my Brother News-Writers take, in giving them what may be for their Information in another Kind, and indulge me in doing an Act of Friendship, by publishing the following Account of Goods and Moveables.

1

I

1 tl

n

11

C

fe

ci

ing up House-keeping, and has many curious Pieces of Furniture to dispose of, which may be seen between the Hours of Six and Ten in the Evening.

The INVENTORY.

Spirits of Right Nants Brandy, for Lambent Flames and Apparitions.

Three Bottles and a half of Lightning.

One Shower of Snow in the whitest French

Two Showers of a browner Sort.

A Sea, confifting of a Dozen large Waves; the Tenth bigger than ordinary, and a little dammaged.

A Dozen and a half of Clouds, trimm'd with black, and well conditioned.

A Rainbow a little faded.

A Set of Clouds after the French Mode, streaked with Lightning, and furbelow'd.

A New-Moon, something decay'd.

A Pint of the finest Spanish Wash, being all that is left of Two Hogsheads sent over last Winter.

A Coach very finely gilt, and little used, with a Pair of Dragons, to be fold cheap.

A Setting-Sun, a Pennyworth.
An Imperial Mantle, made for Cyrus the Great, and worn by Julius Casar, Bajazet, King Harry the Eighth, and Signior Valentini.

A Basket-Hilt Sword, very convenient to carry Milk in.

Roxana's Night-Gown. Othello's Handkerchief.

The Imperial Robes of Xerxes, never worn but once.

A Wild-Boar, killed by Mrs. Tofts and Diocle-

A

rious y be the bent

ench

ves; ittle

vith

akall

last rith

eat. rry

orn

ar-

cle-A A Serpent to sting Cleopatra.

A Multard-Bowl to make Thunder with.

Another of a bigger Sort, by Mr. D -- is's Directions, little used.

Six Elbow-Chairs, very expert in Country-Dances, with Six Flower-Pots for their Part-

The Whiskers of a Turkish Bassa.

The Complexion of a Murderer in a Band-box: confifting of a large Piece of burnt Cork, and a Cole-black Peruke.

A Suit of Clothes for a Ghost, viz. a bloody Shirt, a Doublet curiously pink'd, and a Coat with Three great Eyelet-Holes upon the Breaft.

A Bale of Red Spanish Wool.

Modern Plots, commonly known by the Name of Trap-Doors, Ladders of Ropes, Vifard-Maques, and Tables with broad Carpets over them.

Three Oak Cudgels, with one of Crab-Tree; all bought for the Use of Mr. Pinkethman.

Materials for Dancing; as Maiques, Caltanets, and a Ladder of Ten Rounds.

Aurengezebe's Scymeter, made by Will. Brown in Piccadilly.

A Plume of Feathers, never used but by Oedipus and the Earl of Effex.

There are also Swords, Halberts, Sheep-Hooks, Cardinals Hats, Turbants, Drums, Gally-Pots, a Gibbet, a Cradle, a Rack, a Cart-Wheel, an Altar, a Helmet, a Back-Piece, a Brest-Plate, a Bell, a Tub, and a Jointed-Baby.

These are the hard Shifts we Intelligencers are forced to; therefore our Readers ought to excuse us, if a Westerly Wind blowing for a Fortnight together, generally fills every Paper with an Order of Battle; when we show our Martial Skill in each Line, and, according to the

V

30 fe

T

ti

n

I

to

W

kı

th g:

ft gr yo

fa

th

fa

la

N pl.

ke Bi

cer

MA

Space we have to fill, we range our Men in Squadrons and Battalions, or draw out Company by Company, and Troop by Troop; ever observing, that no Muster is to be made, but when the Wind is in a cross Point, which often happens at the End of a Campaign, when half the Men are deserted or killed. The Courant is sometimes Ten deep, his Ranks close: The Post-Boy is generally in Files, for greater Exactness; and the Post-Man comes down upon you rather after the Turkish Way, Sword in Hand, Pell-mell, without Form or Discipline; but sure to bring Men enough into the Field; and where-ever they are raised, never to lose a Battle for Want of Numbers.

The TATLER. [N° 43.

-Bene Nummatum decorat Swadela Venusque. Hor.

From Saturd. July 16. to Tuefd. July 19. 1709

White's Chocolate-house, July 18.

I Write from hence at present to complain, That Wit and Merit are so little encouraged by People of Rank and Quality, that the Wits of the Age are obliged to run within Temple-Bar for Patronage. There is a deplorable Instance of this in the Case of Mr. D--y, who has dedicated his inimitable Comedy, call'd, The Modern Prophets, to a worthy Knight, to whom, it seems, he had before committed his Plan, which was, To Ridicule the Ridiculers of our established Dostrine. I have elsewhere celebrated the Contrivance of this excellent Drama; but was not,

in

pa-ob-

but

ten

nalf

ant

The

act-

you

nd,

but

and ue.

or.

9.

in,

d its len-

125

be

m, ch

d

nt, rill I read the Dedication, wholly let into the Religious Design of it. I am afraid it has suffered Discontinuance at this gay End of the Town, for no other Reason but the Piety of the Purpose. There is however in this Epistle the true Life of Panegyrical Performance; and I do not doubt but, if the Patron would part with it. I can help him to others with good Pretensions to it; viz. of Uncommon Understanding, who would give him as much as he gave for it. I know perfectly well a Noble Person to whom these Words (which are the Body of the Panegyrick) would fit to a Hair.

Tour Easiness of Humour, or rather your harmonious Disposition, is so admirably mixed with your Composure, that the rugged Cares and Disturbance that Publick Affairs brings with it, which does so vexatiously affect the Heads of other great Men of Business, &c. does scarce ever ruffle your unclouded Brow so much as with a Frown. And what above all is Praise-worthy, you are so far from thinking your self better than others, that a flourishing and opuleut Fortune, which by a certain natural Corruption in its Quality, seldom fails to infect other Possession with Pride, seems in this Case as if only providentially disposed to enlarge your Humility.

But I find, Sir, I am now got into a very large Field, where the I could with great Ease raise a Number of Plants in Relation to your Merit of the plauditory Nature; yet for Fear of an Author's general Vice, and that the plain Justice I have done you should, by my Proceeding and others mistaken Judgment, be imagined Flattery, a Thing the Bluntness of my Nature does not care to be concern'd with, and which I also know you abominate.

De

the

Kn

bit

der

10

M:

is wh

Prz

to h

Hal

Dos

It is wonderful to fee how many Judges of these fine Things spring up every Day by the Price of Stocks, and other elegant Methods of abridging the Way to Learning and Criticism. But I do hereby forbid all Dedications to any Perfons within the City of London, except Sir Franeu, Sir Stephen, and the Bank, will take Epigrams and Epistles as Value received for their Notes; and the East-India Companies accept of Heroick Poems for their Seal'd Bonds. Upon which Bottom, our Publishers have full Power to treat with the City in Behalf of us Authors, to enable Traders to become Patrons and Fellows of the Royal Society, as well as receive certain Degrees of Skill in the Latin and Greek Tongues, according to the Quantity of the Commodities which they take off our Hands. Grecian Coffee-house, July 18.

The Learned have so long laboured under the Imputation of Dryness and Dullness in their Accounts of their Phænomena, that an ingenious Gentlemen of our Society has resolved to write a System of Philosophy in a more lively Method, both as to the Matter and Language, than has been hitherto attempted. He read to us the Plan upon which he intends to proceed. I thought his Account, by Way of Fable of the Worlds about us, had so much Vivacity in it, that I could not forbear transcribing his Hypothesis, to give the Reader a Taste of my Friend's Treatise, which is now in the Press.

'The Inferior Deities having designed on a Day to play a Game at Football, knead together a numberless Collection of dancing Atoms into the Form of Seven rowling Globes: And that Nature might be kept from a dull Inactivity, each separate Particle is endued with a Principle of Motion, or a Power of Attraction, s of

of

the

ifm.

Per-

ran-Epi-

heir

pt of pon

wer

Fel-

eive

reek

the

the heir

reni-

to vely

age, eed.

the n it,

ypo-end's

oge-

oms

And

Inwith

tion,

S.

tion, whereby all the several Parcels of Matter draw each other proportionably to their 'Magnitudes and Distances, into such a re-' markable Variety of different Forms, as to produce all the wonderful Appearances we ' now observe in Empire, Philosophy, and Re-'ligion. To proceed; At the Beginning of the Game, each of the Globes being itruck for-' ward with a vast Violence, ran out of Sight, 'and wander'd in a straight Line through the 'infinite Spaces. The nimple Deities pursue, breathless almost, and spent in the eager Chace; each of them catched hold of one, 'and stamped it with his Name; as, Saturn, 'Jupiter, Mars, and so of the rest. To prevent this Inconvenience for the future, the Seven are condemned to a Precipitation. which in our Inferior Style we call Gravity. Thus the Tangential and Centripetal Forces, by their Counter-struggle, make the Celestial ' Bodies describe an exact Ellipsis.

There will be added to this an Appendix, in Defence of the First Day of the Term according to the Oxford Almanack, by a learned Knight of this Realm, with an Apology for the Said Knight's Manner of Dress; proving, That his Habit, according to this Hypothesis, is the true Modern and Fashionable; and that Buckles are not to be worn, by this System, 'till the 10th of March, in the Year 1714. which, according to the Computation of some of our greatest Divines, is to be the First Year of the Millennium; in which blessed Age, all Habits will be reduced to a Primitive Simplicity; and whoever shall be found to have persevered in a Constancy of Dress, in Spight of all the Allurements of prophane and heather Habits, shall be rewarded with a never-sading Doublet of a Thousand Tears. All Points in the

n

to

P fu

M

m

25

the

mi

fed

in

me

to a

and

the

that der.

Two

That

Ami

Ezaz.

In De

Tofa

Intpia

And

Somb

With

System which are doubted, shall be attested by the Knight's Extemporary Oath, for the Satisfaction of his Readers.

Will's Coffee-house, July 18.

We were upon the Heroick Strain this Evening, and the Question was, What is the True Sublime? Many very good Discourses happen'd thereupon; after which a Gentleman at the Table, who is, it feems, writing on that Subject, assumed the Argument; and tho' he ran thro' many Instances of Sublimity from the ancient Writers, faid, He had hardly known an Occasion wherein the true Greatness of Soul, which animates a General in Action, is so well represented, with Regard to the Person of whom it was spoken, and the Time in which it was writ, as in a few Lines in a modern Poem: There is (continued he) nothing fo forc'd and constrain'd, as what we frequently meet with in Tragedies; to make a Man under the Weight of a great Sorrow, or full of Meditation upon what he is foon to execute, cast about for a Simile to what he himself is, or the Thing which he is going to act: But there is nothing more proper and natural than for a Poet, whose Business is to describe, and who is Spectator of one in that Circumstance when his Mind is working upon a great Image, and that the Idea's hurry upon his Imagination; I fay, there is nothing fo natural, as for a Poet to relieve and clear himself from the Burthen of Thought at that Time, by uttering his Conception in Simile and Metaphor. The highest Act of the Mind of Man, is to possess it self with Tranquility in imminent Danger, and to have its Thoughts for free, as to act at that Time without Perplexity. The ancient Poets have compared this fedate Courage to a Rock that remains immoveable amidit

the

ion

ren-

TUC

n'd

the

ub-

ran

an-

an'

oul, well

a of ch it

em:

and with eight

upon a Si-

hich

more

Buil-

one

king

uitt

hing

clear

that

e and

ad of ty in ies io

exity.

cdate

ble a midit

midst the Rage of Winds and Waves; but that is too stupid and inanimate a Similitude, and could do no Credit to the Hero. At other Times they are all of 'em wonderfully obliged to a Lybian Lion, which may give indeed very agreeable Terrors to a Description; but is no Compliment to the Person to whom it is applied: Eagles, Tygers, and Wolves, are made Use of on the same Occasion, and very often with much Beauty; but this is still an Honour done to the Brute, rather than the Hero. Mars, Pallas, Bacchus, and Hercules, have each of 'em furnish'd very good Similes in their Time, and made, doubtless, a greater Impression on the Mind of a Heathen, than they have on that of a modern Reader. But the Sublime Image that I am talking of, and which I really think as great as ever enter'd into the Thought of Man, is in the Poem call'd, The Campaign; where the Simile of a ministring Angel sets forth the most iedate and the most active Courage, engaged in an Uproar of Nature, a Confusion of Elements, and a Scene of Divine Vengeance. Add to all, That these Lines compliment the General and his Queen at the same Time, and have all the natural Horrors, heighten'd by the Image that was still fresh in the Mind of every Reader.

Twas then Great Marlbro's mighty Soul was That, in the Shock of charging Holts unmov'd, Amidst Confusion, Horror, and Despair, Examin'd all the dreadful Scenes of War; In peaceful Thought the Field of Death survey'd, To fainting Squadrons sent the timely Aid, Inspir'd reputs'd Battalions to engage, And taught the doubtful Battle where to rage. So when an Angel by Divine Command, With rising Tempesis shakes a guilty Land,

an

at fre

ne

an

me

tha

int

Æ

faic

lau

Em

Such as of late o'er pale Britannia past, Calm and serene he drives the furious Blast; And, pleas'd th' Almighty's Orders to perform, Rides in the Whirl-wind, and directs the Storm.

The whole Poem is so exquisitely Noble and Poetick, that I think it an Honour to our Nation and Language. The Gentleman concluded his Critick on this Work, by saying, that he esteemed it wholly new, and a wonderful Attempt to keep up the ordinary Idea's of a March of an Army, just as they happen'd in so warm and great a Style, and yet be at once Familiar and Heroick. Such a Performance is a Chronicle as well as a Poem, and will preserve the Memory of our Heroe, when all the Edifices and Statues erected to his Honour are blended with common Dust.

St. James's Coffee-house, July 18.

Letters from the Hague of the 23d Instant, N. S. fay, That the Allies were so forward in the Siege of Tournay, that they were preparing for a general Assault, which, it was supposed, would be made within a few Days. Deferters from the Town gave an Account, That the Garrison was carrying their Ammunition and Provisions into the Citadel, which occasion'd a Tumult among the Inhabitants of the Town. The French Army had laid Bridges over the Scarp, and made a Motion as if they intended to pals that River; but tho' they are joined by the Reinforcement expected from Germany, it was not believed they should make any Attempt towards relieving Tournay. Letters from Brabant fay, There has been a Discovery made of a Defign to deliver up Antwerp to the Enemy. The States of Holland have agreed to a general Naturalization of all Protestants who shall fly into theu

and

Naded

e-At-

rch

arm liar

oni-Me-

and vith

ant,

ring sed,

ters

the

and

d 2

wn.

the nded

d by

y, it

mpt

De-

The

Na-

into

beir

their Dominions; to which Purpose, a Proclamation was to be issued within few Days.

They write from France, That the great Mifery and Want under which that Nation has so long labour'd, has ended in a Pestilence, which began to appear in Burgundy and Dauphine. They add, That in the Town of Mazon, Three Hundred Persons had died in the Space of Ten Days. Letters from Liste of the 24th Instant advise, That great Numbers of Deserters came daily into that City, the most Part of whom are Dragoons. We are advised from France, That the Loire having overslow'd its Banks, hath laid the Country under Water for 300 Miles together.

The TATLER. [Nº 44.

— Nullis Amor est medicabilis Herbis.

From Tuesd. July 19. to Thursd. July 21. 1709.

White's Chocolate-house, July 19.

THIS Day, passing through Covent-Garden, I was stopp'd in the Piazza by Pacolet, to observe what he call'd the Triumph of Love and Youth. I turned to the Object he pointed at; and there I saw a gay gilt Chariot drawn by fresh prancing Horses; the Coachman with a new Cockade, and the Lacques with Insolence and Plenty in their Countenances. I ask'd immediately, What young Heir or Lover own'd that glittering Equipage? But my Companion interrupted: Do not you see there the mourning Esculapius? The Mourning! said I. Yes Isaac, said Pacolet, He is in deep Mourning, and is the lauguishing hopeless Lover of the divine Hebe, the Emblem of Youth and Beauty. The excellent and

n

n

D

M tic

Jb.

g

learned Bage you behold in that Furniture, is the strongest Instance imaginable, that Love is the most powerful of all Things. You are not so ignerant as to be a Stranger to the Character of Æsculapins, as the Patron and most successful of all who profess the Art of Medicine. But as most of his Operations are owing to a natural Sagacity or Impulse, he has very little troubled him. felf with the Doctrine of Drugs; but has always given Nature more Room to help her felf, than any of her learned Affiftants; and confequently has done greater Wonders than is in the Power of Art to perform: For which Reason, he is half deify'd by the People; and has ever been justly courted by all the World, as if he were a Seventh Son. It happen'd, that the charming Hebe was reduced, by a long and violent Fever, to the most extreme Danger of Death; and when all Skill fail'd, they fent for Æsculapius. The renowned Artist was touch'd with the deepest Compassion to fee the faded Charms and faint Bloom of Hebe: and had a generous Concern in beholding a Struggle, not between Life, but rather between Youth, and Death. All his Skill and his Passion tended to the Recovery of Hebe, beautiful ev'n in Sickness: But, alas! the unhappy Physician knew nor, that in all his Care he was only sharpening Darts for his own Destruction. In a Word, his Fortune was the same with that of the Statuary, who fell in Love with the Image of his own making; and the unfortunate Æ culapius is become the Patient of her whom he lately recovered. Long before this Difaster, Æsculapius was far gone in the unnecessary and supersuous Amusements of old Age, in increasing unweildy Stores, and providing, in the midst of an Incapacity of Enjoyment of what he had, for a Supply of more Wants than he had Calls for in Youth it felf. But these low Considerations are now no more,

s the

o ig-

er of ulof

most gaci-

himways than

ently

ower

half

uftly

enth

s re-

molt

Skill

vned

flion

lebe;

veen

llion

nin

new ning

his

ary,

ma-

ome

red.

s far

ule-

ores,

y ot

h it

v no

ore,

more, and Love has taken Place of Avarice, or rather is become an Avarice of another Kind, which still urges him to pursue what he does not want. But behold the Matamorpholis; the anxious mean Cares of an Usurer are turn'd into the Languishments and Complaints of a Lover-Behold, fays the aged Æsculapius, I submit, I own, great Love, thy Empire: Pity, Hebe, the Fop you have made: What have I to do with Gilding but on Pills? Yet, O Fair! For thee I fit amidst a Crowd of painted Deities on my Chariot, button'd in Gold, clasp'd in Gold, without having any Value for that beloved Metal. but as it adorns the Person, and laces the Hat of thy dying Lover. I ask not to live, O Hebe! Give me but gentle Death: Euthanasia, Euthanafia, that is all I implore. When Æsculapius had finished his Complaint, Pacolet went on in deep Morals on the Incertainty of Riches, with this remarkable Exclamation; O Wealth! How impotent art thou? And how little dost thou supply us with real Happiness, when the Usurer himfelf can forget thee for the Love of what is as foreign to his Felicity as thou art?

Will's Coffee-house, July 19.

The Company here, who have all a delicate Taste of Theatrical Representations, had made a Gathering to purchase the Moveables of the neighbouring Play-house, for the Encouragement of one which is setting up in the Hay-Market. But the Proceedings at the Auction (by which Method the Goods have been sold this Evening) have been so unfair, that this generous Delign has been frustrated; for the Imperial Mantle made for Cyrus was missing, as also the Chariot and Two Dragons: But upon Examination it was found, that a Gentleman of Hamp-shire had clandestinely bought them both, and is gone down to his Country Seat; and that on Saturday last he passed through Staines attir'd in that Robe, and drawn by the faid Dragons, aftifted by Two only of his own Horses. This Theatrical Traveller has also left Orders with Mr. Hall to fend the faded Rainbow to the Scowrers, and when it comes home, to dispatch it after him. At the same Time C-R-Esq; is invited to bring down himself his Setting Sun, and be Box-keeper to a Theatre erected by this Gentleman near Southampton. Thus there has been nothing but Artifice in the Management of this Affair; for which Reason I beg Pardon of the Town, that I inferted the Inventory in my Paper, and folemnly protest, I knew nothing of this artful Defign of vending these Rarities: But I meant only the Good of the World in that and all other Things which I divulge. And now I am upon this Subject, I must do my self Justice in Relation to an Article in a former Paper, wherein I made Mention of a Person who keeps a Puppet-Show in the Town of Bath; I wastender of naming Names, and only just hinted, that he makes larger Promises, when he invites People to his Dramatick Representations, than he is able to perform: But I am credibly informed, that he makes a prophane lewd Jester, which he calls Punch, speak to the Dishonour of Isaac Bickerstaff with great Familiarity; and before all my learned Friends in that Place, takes upon him to difpute my Title to the Appellation of Esquire. think I need not fay much to convince all the World, that this Mr. Powell (for that is his Name) is a pragmatical and vain Person to pretend to argue with me on any Subject. Mecum sertasse feretur; that is to say, It will be an Honour to him to have it faid he contended with me; but I would have him to know, that I can look beyond his Wires, and know very well the d in 21-Chis with the atch ting d by here agebeg vennew hele the dit, I Artition the mes, Protick rm: es a unch. with rned dife. I the s his prelecum Howith I can

llthe

whole Trick of his Art, and that it is only by these Wires that the Eye of the Spectator is cheated, and hinder'd from seeing that there is a Thread on one of Punch's Chops, which draws it up, and lets it fall at the Discretion of the faid Powell, who stands behind and plays him, and makes him speak sawcily of his Betters. He! To pretend to make Prologues against me! But a Man never behaves himself with Decency in his own Case; therefore I shall command my felf, and never trouble me further with this little Fellow, who is himself but a tall Pupper, and has not Brains enough to make even Wood speak as it ought to do: And I, that have heard the Groaning Board, can despise all that his Puppets shall be able to speak as long as they live. But, Ex quovis Ligno non fit Mercurius. He has pretended to write to me also from the Bath, and fays, He thought to have deferred giving me an Answer till he came to his Books ; but that my Writings might do well with the Waters: Which are pert Expressions that become a School-boy, better than one that is to teach others: And when I have faid a civil Thing to him, he cries, Oh! I thank you for that -- I am your humble Servant for that. Ah! Mr. Powell, these smart Civilities will never run down Men of Learning: I know well enough your Delign is to have all Men Automata, like your Puppets; but the World is grown too wife, and can look through these thin Devices. I know you delign to make a Reply to this; but be fure you stick close to my Words; for if you bring me into Discourses concerning the Government of your Puppets, I must tell you, I neither am, nor have been, nor will be, at Leisure to answer you. It is really a burning Shame this Man should be tolerated in abuling the World with fuch Representations of Things: But his Parts PS

tl

0

WG

ca

in fir

25

m

decay, and he is not much more alive than Partridge.

From my own Apartment, July 14. I must beg Pardon of my Readers that for this Time I have, I fear, huddled up my Discourse, having been very busie in helping an old Friend of mine out of Town. He has a very good Estate, is a Man of Wit; but he had been three Years absent from Town, and can't bear a Jest; for which Reason I have, with some Pains, convinc'd him, that he can no more live here than if he were a downright Bankrupt. He was so fond of dear London, that he began to fret only inwardly; but being unable to laugh and be laugh'd at, I took a Place in the Northern Coach for him and his Family; and hope he is got to Night fafe from all Sneerers in his own Parlour.

St. James's Coffee-house, July 20.

This Morning we received by Express, the agreeable News of the Surrender of the Town of Tournay on the 28th Instant, N. S. The Place was affaulted at the Attacks of General Schuylemburg, and that of General Lottum, at the same Time. The Action at both those Parts of the Town was very obstinate, and the Allies loft a confiderable Number at the Beginning of the Dispute; but the Fight was continued with to great Bravery, that the Enemy observing that we were Masters of all the Posts which were necessary for a general Attack, beat the Chamade, and Hostages were received from the Town, and others fent from the Beliegers, in order to come to a formal Capitulation for the Surrender of the Place. We have also this Day received Advice, That Sir John Leak, who lies off of Dunkirk, had intercepted several Ships lasen with Corn from the Baltick; and that the this irfe, iend ! E-

hree lest; con-

than

s fo

d be hern he is

OWD

he a-

own

The

neral

m, at

Parts

Allies

ng of

With

g that were

Cha-

rs, in or the s Day

o lies

ips la-

t the Dutch

Dutch Privateers had fallen in with others, and carried them into Holland. The French Letters advise, That the young Son to the Duke of Anjou lived but Eight Days.

The TATLER. [Nº 45.

Credo Pudicitiam Saturno Rege moratam

From Thursd. July 21. to Saturd. July 23. 1709.

White's Chocolate-house, July 22.

THE other Day I took a Walk a Mile or two out of Town, and strolling wherever Chance led me, I was infentibly carried into a By-Road, along which was a very agreeable Quickfet, of an extraordinary Height, which furrounded a very delicious Seat and Garden. From one Angle of the Hedge, I heard a Voice cry, Sir, Sir--- Thisraifed my Curiofity, and I heard the same Voice fay, but in a gentle Tone, Come forward, come forward. I did so, and one through the Hedge called me by my Name, and bad me go on to the Left, and I should be admitted to visit an old Acquaintance in Distress. The Laws of Knight Errantry made me obey the Summons without Hesitation; and I was let in at the Back-Gate of a lovely House by a Maid Servant, who carried me from Room to Room, 'till I came into a Gallery; at the End of which, I faw a fine Lady dreffed in the most sumptuous Habit, as if the were going to a Ball, but with the most abject and disconsolate Sorrow in her Face 1825 that I ever beheld. As I came near, she burst into Tears, and cry'd, Sir, Do not you know the unhappy Teraminta? I foon recollected her whole Person: But (said I) Madam, The Simplicity of Dress, in which I have ever seen you at your good Father's House, and the Cheartulness of Countenance with which you always appeared, are fo unlike the Fashion and Temper you are now in, that I did not eafily recover the Memory of you. Your Habit was then decent and modest, your Looks serene and beautiful: Whence then this unaccountable Change? Nothing can fpeak so deep a Sorrow as your prefent Aspect; yet your Dress is made for Jollity and Revelling. It is (faid she) an unspeakable Pleasure to meet with one I know, and to bewail my felf to any that is not an utter Stranger to Humanity. When your Friend my Father died, he left me to a wide World, with no Defence against the Insults of Fortune, but rather, a Thousand Snares to intrap me in the Dangers to which Youth and Innocence are exposed, in an Age wherein Honour and Virtue are become mere Words, and used only as they serve to betray those who understand them in their Native Sense, and obey them as the Guides and Motives of their Being. The wickedest of all Men living, the abandoned Decius, who has no Know-ledge of any good Art or Purpose of Human Life, but as it tends to the Satisfaction of his Appetites, had Opportunities of frequently feeing and entertaining me at a House where mixed Company boarded, and where he placed himfelf for the base Intention which he has since brought to pais. Decites law enough in me to raife his brutal Delires, and my Circumstances gave him Hopes of accomplishing them. But all the glittering Expectations he could lay before me, joined by my private Terrors of Po45. nurit now her Simyou rtunways nper r the cent itul: Nopreollity cable o beinger ather Dether, agers d, in come o beative Mo-Men nowuman of his eeing nixed himfince me to ances

But y be-

t Poverty

verty it felf, could not for some Months prevail upon me; yet, however I hated his Intention, I still had a fecret Satisfaction in his Courtship, and always exposed my felf to his Solicitations. See here the Bane of our Sex! Let the Flattery be never fo apparent, the Flatterer never so ill thought of, his Praises are still agreeable, and we contribute to our own Deceit. was therefore ever fond of all Opportunities and Pretences of being in his Company. In a Word, I was at last ruined by him, and brought to this Place, where I have been ever fince immur'd; and from the fatal Day after my Fall from Innocence, my Worshipper became my Master and my Tyrant. Thus you fee me habited in the most gorgeous Manner, not in Honour of me as a Woman he loves, but as this Attire charms his own Eye, and urges him to repeat the Gratification he takes in me, as the Servant of his brutish Lusts and Appetites. I know not where to fly for Redress; but am here pining away Life in the Solitude and Severity of a Nun, but the Conscience and Guilt of an Harlot. I live in this lewd Practice with a Religious Awe of my Minister of Darkness, upbraided with the Support I receive from him, for the ineltimable Pollession of Youth, of Innocence, of Honour, and of Conscience. I see, Sir, my Discourse grows painful to you; all I beg of you is, to paint in fo strong Colours, as to let Decius see I am discovered to be in his Possession, that I may be turn'd out of this deteltable Scene of regular Iniquity, and either think no more, or fin no more. If your Writings have the good Ettect of gaining my Enlargement, I promise you I will attone for this unhappy Step, by preferring an innocent laborious Poverty, to all the guity Affluence the World can offer me.

Will's Coffee-house, July 21.

To show that I do not bear an Irreconcilable Hatred to my mortal Enemy, Mr. Powell at Bath, I do his Function the Honour to publish to the World, that Plays represented by Puppets are permitted in our Universities, and that Sort of Drama is not wholly thought unworthy the Critick of learned Heads: But as I have been conversant rather with the greater Ode, as I think the Criticks call it, I must be so humble as to make a Request to Mr. Powell, and desire him to apply his Thoughts to answering the Difficulties with which my Kinsman, the Author of the following Letter, seems to be embarrassed.

To my Honoured Kinsman Isaac Bickerstaff Esq; Dear Cousin,

I I A D the Family of the Beadlestaffs, whereof I, tho' unworthy, am one, known of your being lately at Oxon, we had in our own Name, and in the Univerlities, (as it is our 'Office) made you a Compliment: But your ' short Stay here robbed us of an Opportunity of paying our due Respects, and you of receiving an ingenious Entertainment, with which we at prefent divert our felves and Strangers. A Puppet-Show at this Time Sup-' plies the Want of an ACT. And fince the ' Nymphs of this City are difappointed of a lufcious Musick-Speech, and the Country Ladies of hearing their Sons or Brothers speak Verfes; yet the vocal Machines, like them, by the Help of a Prompter, fay Things as much to the Benefit of the Audience, and almost as properly their own. The Licence of a Terra-Filius is refined to the well-bred Saryr of Punchenello. Now, Coulin Bickerstaff, tho' Punch cilable Bath, to the ets are ort of conthink as to be him Diffiuthor mbarherevn of own our your

E[q;

rewith and fupthe luf-

dies Verby uch

nch has has neither a French Nightcap, nor Long.
Pockets, yet you must own him to be a Pretty Fellow, a very Pretty Fellow: Nay, since he seldom leaves the Company, without calling, Son of a Whore, demanding Satisfaction, and Duelling, he must be owned a Smart Fellow too. Yet, by some Indecencies towards the Ladies, he seems to be of a Third Character, distinct from any you have yet touch'd the Ladies, he seems to be of a Third Character, distinct from any you have yet touch'd upon. A young Gentleman who sat next me, (for I had the Curiosity of seeing this Entertainment) in a tusted Gown, red Stockings, and long Wig (which I pronounce to be tantamount to red Heels and a dangling Cane) was enraged when Punchenello disturbed a soft Love-Scene with his Ribaldry. You would oblige us mightily by laying down fome Rules for adjusting the extravagant Behaviour of this Almanzor of the Play, and by writing a Treatise on this fort of Dramatick

Poetry, so much favoured, and so little understood, by the learned World.

' From its being conveyed in a Cart after the 'Thespian Manner, all the Parts being recited by one Person, as the Custom was before Eschilus, and the Behaviour of Punch as if he ' had won the Goal, you may possibly deduce 'its Antiquity, and settle the Chronology, as well as some of our Modern Criticks. In its natural Transitions, from Mournful to Merry; as, from the Hanging of a Lover, to Dancing upon the Rope; from the Stalking of a 'Ghost, to a Lady's presenting you with a Jig; 'you may discover such a Decorum, as is nor to be found elsewhere than in our Tragi-Comedies. But I forget my felf; 'tis not for me to dictate: I thought fit, dear Coufin, to give ' you these Hints, to shew you, that the Beadlestaffs don't walk before Men of Letters to no te

A

R

CI

h

F

fo bo

or tu

is

Purpose; and that the we do but hold up the Train of Arts and Sciences, yet like other Pages, we are now and then let into our

Ladies Secrets. I am

Your most

From Mother Gourdon's, at Hedington, near Oxon, June 18.

Affectionate

Kinsman,

Benjamin Beadlestaff.

From my own Apartment, July 22.

I am got hither fafe, but never spent Time with so little Satisfaction as this Evening; for you must know, I was five Hours with three Merry, and two Honest Fellows. mer fang Catches; and the latter even died with laughing at the Noise they made. Well, (fays Tom Belfrey) You Scholars, Mr. Bickerstaff, are the worst Company in the World. Ay, (fays his Opposite) You are dull to Night; prithee be merry. With that I huzza'd, and took a Jump cross the Table, then came clever upon my Legs, and fell a laughing. Let Mr. Bickerstaff alone (fays one of the Honest Fellews), when he's in a good Humour, he's as good Company as any Man in England. He had no fooner spoke, but I snatched his Hat off his Head, and clap'd his upon my own, and burit out a laughing again; upon which we all fell a laughing for half an Hour. One of the Honest Fellows got behind me in the Interim, and hit me a found Slap on the Back; upon which he got the Laugh out of my Hands, and it was such a Twang on my Shoulders, that I confess he was much merrier than I. I was half angry; but resolved to keep up the good Humour of 45. d up

ke oo our

ftaff.

Fime
fordied
Well,

Time ; for three died Well, rstaff, Ay, pritook upon ickerwhen pany oner Head, out 3 ugh-Felt me e got fuch is he ur of

the

the Company; and after hollowing as loud as I could possibly, I drank off a Bumper of Claret, that made me stare again. Nay, says one of the Honest Fellows) Mr. Isaac is in the Right, there is no Conversation in this; What signifies Jumping, or hitting one another on the Back? Let's drink about. We did so from Seven a Clock till Eleven; and now I am come hither, and, after the Manner of the wife Pythagoras, begin to reflect upon the Passages of the Day. I remember nothing, but that I am bruised to Death; and as it is my Way to write down all the good Things I have heard in the last Conversation to furnish my Paper, I can from this only tell you my Sufferings and my Bangs. nam'd Pythagoras just now, and I protest to you, as he believ'd Men after Death enter'd into other Species, I am now and then tempted to think other Animals enter into Men, and could name feveral on two Legs, that never discover any Sentiment above what is common with the Species of a lower Kind; as we see in these bodily Wits whom I was with to Night, whose Parts confift in Strength and Activity; but their boisterous Mirth gives me great Impatience for the Return of such Happiness as I enjoyed in a Conversation last Week. Among others in that Company, we had Florio, who never interrupted any Man living when he was speaking, or ever ceased to speak; but others lamented that he had done. His Discourse ever arises from a Fulness of the Matter before him, and not from Oftentation or Triumph of his Understanding; for tho' he seldom delivers what he need fear being repeated, he speaks without having that End in View; and his Forbearance of Calumny or Bitterness, is owing rather to his good Nature than his Discretion; for which Reason, he is esteem'd a Gentleman perfectly qualified for

Convertation, in whom a general good Will to Mankind takes off the Necellity of Caution and Circumspection. We had at the same Time that Evening the best Sort of Companion that can be, a good-natured old Man. This Person meets in the Company of young Men, Veneration for his Benevolence, and is not only valued for the good Qualities of which he is Malter, but reaps an Acceptance from the Pardon he gives to other Men's Faults: And the ingenuous Sort of Men with whom he converses, have so just a Regard for him, that he rather is an Example, than a Check to their Behaviour. For this Reason, as Senecio never pretends to be a Man of Pleasure before Youth, so young Men never fet up for Wisdom before Senecio; so that you never meet, where he is, those Monsters of Conversation, who are grave or gay above their Years. He never converses but with Followers of Nature and good Sense, where all that is uttered is only the Effect of a communicable Temper, and not of Emulation to excel their Companions; all Defire of Superiority being a Contradiction to that Spirit which makes a just Conversation, the very Essence of which is mutual good Will. Hence it is, that I take it for a Rule, that the natural, and not the acquired Man, is the Companion. Learning, Wit, Gallantry, and good Breeding, are all but subordinate Qualities in Society, and are of no Value, but as they are subservient to Benevolence, and tend to a certain Manner of being or appearing equal to the rest of the Company; for Conversation is composed of an Assembly of Men, as they are Men, and not as they are distinguished by Fortune: Therefore he that brings his Quality with him into Conversation, should always pay the Reckoning; for he came to receive Homage, and not to meet his Friends. - But the

Will to the on and the on that experion that experion enera-valued ar, but defined the control of the control o e gives s Sort just a ample,

or this a Man never at you ers of e their owers hat is their ing a a just s muit for juired Gal-linate, but tend equal farion they

ed by nality s pay Ho-But

the

the Din about my Ears from the Clamour of the People I was with this Evening, has carried me beyond my intended Purpose, which was to explain upon the Order of Merry Fellows; but I think I may pronounce of them, as I heard good Senecio, with a Spice of Wit of the last Age, say, viz. That a Merry Fellow is the Saddelf Fellow in the World.

The TATLER. [Nº 46.

Non bene conveniunt, nec in una Sede morantur, Majestas & Amor.

From Saturd. July 23. to Tuesd. July 26. 1709.

White's Chocolate-house, July 25. E fee every Day Volumes written against that Tyrant of Human Life called Love, and yet there is no Help found against his Cruelties, or Barrier against the Inroads he is pleased to make into the Mind of Man. After this Preface, you will expect I am going to give particular Instances of what I have afferted. That Expectation cannot be raifed too high for the Novelty of the History, and Manner of Life, of the Emperor Aurengezebe, who has relided for some Years in the Cities of London and Westminster, with the Air and Mien indeed of his Imperial Quality, but the Equipage and Appointment only of a private Gentleman. This Potentate, for a long Series of Time, appeared from the Hour of Twelve till that of Two at a Coffee-house near the Change, and had a Seat (though without a Canopy) facred to himfelf,

l

1

V

1 11

t

1

I

t

h

t

( fo

V

ti

is

b

0

P

W A

ti

Q

of

Si

T

L

B

to re

be

to

C

fit

pa

where he gave diurnal Audiences concerning Commerce, Politicks, Tare and Tret, Usury and Abatement, with all Things necessary for helping the Diffressed, who were willing to give one Limb for the better Maintenance of the rest; or such joyous Youths, whose Philofophy is confined to the prefent Hour, and were desirous to call in the Revenue of next half Year to double the Enjoyment of this. Long did this growing Monarch employ himself after this Manner: And as Alliances are necessary to all great Kingdoms, he took particularly the Interests of Lewis the Fourteenth into his Care and Protection. When all Mankind were attacking that unhappy Monarch, and those who had neither Valour or Wit to oppose against him, would be still showing their impotent Malice by laying Wagers in Opposition to his Interests, Aurengezebe ever took the Part of his Contemporary, and laid immense Trèasures on his Side in Defence of his important Magazine of Toulon. Aurengezebe also had all this while a constant Intelligence with India, and his Letters were answer'd in Jewels, which he foon made Brillant, and caused to be affixed to his Imperial Castor, which he always wears cock'd in Front, to show his Defiance; with an Heap of Imperial Snuff in the middle of his ample The Zealots, Vifage, to shew his Sagacity. for this little Spot called Great Britain, fell univerfally into this Emperor's Policies, and paid Homage to his superior Genius, in forfeiting their Coffers to his Treasury: But Wealth and Wisdom are Possessions too solemn not to give Weariness to active Minds, without the Relief (in vacant Hours) of Wit and Love, which are the proper Amusements of the Powerful and the Wife: This Emperor therefore, with great Regularity, every Day at Five in the Afternoon, 46.

rning

Hury

y for ig to ice of hilo-

were half

Long

after

ry to y the

Care

e at-

who rainit

t Ma-

is In-

of his

es on azine

hile a

Letfoon

to his ock'd

Heap

ample alots,

l uni-

paid

eiting

h and give

Relief

h are

and great

noon,

leaves

leaves his Money-Changers, his Publicans, and little Hoarders of Wealth, to their low Purfuits, and ascends his Chariot to drive to Will's: where the Talt is refined, and a Relish given to Men's Possessions, by a polite Skill in gratifying their Passions and Appetites. There it is that the Emperor has learned to live and to love, and not, like a Miser, to gaze only on his Ingots or his Treasures; but with a nobler Satisfaction, to live the Admiration of others, for his Splendour and Happiness in being Master of them. But a Prince is no more to be his own Caterer in his Love, than in his Food; therefore Aurengezebe has ever in waiting Two Purveyors for his Dishes, and his Wenches for his retired Hours, by whom the Scene of his Diversion is prepared in the following Manner:

There is near Covent-Garden a Street known by the Name of Drury, which, before the Days of Christianity, was purchased by the Queen of Paphos, and is the only Part of Great Britain where the Tenure of Vassalage is still in being. All that long Course of Building is under particular Districts or Ladyships, after the Manner of Lordships in other Parts, over which Matrons of known Abilities prelide, and have, for the Support of their Age and Infirmities, certain Taxes paid out of the Rewards for the amorous Labours of the Young. This Seraglio of Great Britain is disposed into convenient Allies and Apartments, and every House, from the Cellar to the Garret, inhabited by Nymphs of different Orders, that Persons of every Rank may be accommodated with an immediate Confort, to allay their Flames, and partake of their Cares. Here it is, that when Aurengezebe thinks the to give a loofe to Dalliance, the Purveyors prepare the Entertainment; and what makes it more auguit

f

f

h

T

es A

W ty

CX W

(1

th

S

Si

tu

pa

of wl

Sif

pe

IS

A

and tor

per mo

mo

Cri

august is, that every Person concerned in the Interlude has his fet Part, and the Prince fends before-hand Word what he defigns to fay, and directs also the very Answer which shall be made to him.

It has been before hinted, that this Emperor has a continual Commerce with India; and it is to be noted, that the largest Stone that rich Earth has produced, is in our Aurengenebe's Posfession.

334

But all Things are now disposed for his Reception. At his Entrance into the Seraglio, a Servant delivers him his Bever of State and Love, on which is fix'd this inestimable Jewel as his Diadem. When he is feated, the Purveyors, Pandarus and Nuncio, marching on each Side of the Matron of the House, introduce her into his Presence. In the midst of the Room, they bow all together to the Diadem.

When the Matron -

Whoever thou art, (as thy awful Aspect speaks thee a Man of Power) be propitious to this Mansion of Love, and let not the Severity of thy Wisdom disdain, that by the Representation of naked Innocence, or pastoral Figures, we revive in thee the Memory at least of that Power of Venus, to which all the Wife and the Brave are some Part of their Lives devoted. Aurengezebe consents by a Nod, and they go out backward.

After this, an unhappy Nymph, who is to be supposed just escaped from the Hands of a Ravilher, with her Treffes disheveld, runs into the Room with a Dagger in her Hand, and talls before the Emperor.

Pity, Oh! pity! Whoever thou art, an unhapby Virgin, whom one of thy Train has robbed of her Innocence; her Innocence, which was all her Por.

46.

the the ends

and nade

eror

nd it

rich

Pof-

Re-

10, 2

and ewel

Pur-

On

atro-

t of

Dia-

eaks

Man-

Wil-

aked

thee

s, to

Part

s by

o be

Ra-

into

and bab-

ed of

Por.

Portion - Or rather, let me die like the memorable Lucretia - Upon which she stabs her self. The Body is immediately examin'd after the Manner of our Coroners. Lucretia recovers by a Cup of right Nants; and the Matron, who is her next Relation, stops all Process at Law.

This unhappy Affair is no sooner over, but a naked Mad-woman breaks into the Room, calls for her Duke, her Lord, her Emperor. As foon as the spies Aurengezebe, the Object of all her Fury and Love, the calls for Petticoats, is ready to link with Shame, and is drefled in all This un-Hast in new Attire at his Charge. expected Accident of the Mad-woman, makes Arrengezebe curious to know, whether others who are in their Senses can guess at his Quality. For which Reason the whole Convent is examin'd one by one. The Matron marches in with a tawdry Country Girl --- Pray Winifred, (fays she) Who do you think that fine Man with those Jewels and Pearls is? --- I believe (fays Winifred) it is our Landlord -- It must be the 'Squire himself - The Emperor laughs at her Simplicity --- Go Fool, fays the Matron: Then turning to the Emperor-Your Greatne's will pardon her Ignorance! After her, several others of different Characters are instructed to mistake who he is in the fame Manner: Then the whole Sifterhood are called together, and the Emperor rifes, and cocking his Hat, declares, He is the Great Mogul, and they his Concubines. A general Murmur goes through the Assembly, and Aurengezebe certifying, that he keeps them for State rather than Use, tells them, they are permitted to receive all Men into their Apartments; then proceeds through the Crowd, among whom he throws Medals shaped like Half-Crowns, and returns to his Chariot.

This

B

H

76

This being all that passed the last Day in which Aurengezebe visited the Women's Apartments, I consulted Pacolet concerning the Foundation of fuch strange Amusements in old Age: To which he answer'd; You may remember, when I gave you an Account of my good Fortune in being drowned on the 30th Day of my Human Life, I told you of the Difasters I should otherwise have met with before I arrived at the End of my Stamen, which was Sixty Years. I may now add an Observation to you, That all who exceed that Period, except the latter Part of it is spent in the Exercise of Virtue and Contemplation of Futurity, must neceffarily fall into an indecent old Age, because, with Regard to all the Enjoyments of the Years of Vigour and Manhood, Childhood returns upon them: And as Infants ride on Sticks, build Houses in Dirt, and make Ships in Gutters, by a faint Idea of Things they are to act hereafter; so old Men play the Lovers, Potentates, and Emperors, from the decaying Image of the more perfect Performance's of their stronger Years: Therefore be sure to insert Ælgnapius and Aurengezebe in your next Bill of Mortality of the Metaphorically Defunct.

Will's Coffee-house, July 24.

As foon as I came hither this Evening, no less than Ten People produced the following Poem, which they all reported was sent to each of them by the Penny-Post from an unknown Hand. All the Battle-Writers in the Room were in Debate, who could be the Author of a Peace so martially written; and every Body applauded the Address and Skill of the Author, in calling it a Post cript: It being the Nature of a Post

46. ay in part-Age: nber. good ay of ters I rived Sixty you, t the Virft necaule, Years eturns ticks,

Gut-

Poten-Image

their next

y De-

ng, no lowing

o each

knowa

Room

or of 2

dy ap-

ture of

2 Polt

a Postcript to contain something very Material which was forgotten, or not clearly expressed in the Letter it self. Thus, the Verses being occalloned by a March without Beat of Drum. and that Circumstance being no ways taken notice of in any of the Stanza's, the Author calls it a Postscript; not that it is a Postscript, but figuratively, because it wants a Postscript. Common Writers, when what they mean is not expressed in the Book it self, supply it by a Preface; but a Postscript seems to me the more just Way of Apology; because otherwise a Man makes an Excuse before the Offence is committed. All the Heroick Poets were guessed at for its Author; but though we could not find out his Name, yet one repeated a Couplet in Hudribras which spoke his Qualifications:

I'th' midst of all this Warlike Rabble, Crowdero march'd, expert and able.

The Poem is admirably fuited to the Occasion: For to write without discovering your Meaning, bears a just Resemblance to Marching without Beat of Drum.

On the March to Tournay without Beat of Drum.

The Bruffels POSTSCRIPT.

Could I with plainest Words express That great Man's wonderful Address, His Penetration, and his towning Thought;
It would the gazing World surprize,
To see one Man at all Times wise,
To view the Wonders he with Ease has wrought.

0

Refining Schemes approach his Mind, Like Breezes of a Southern Wind, To temperate a fultry glorious Day; Whose Fannings, with an useful Pride, Its mighty Heat doth softly guide, And having cleared the Air, glide silently away.

Thus his Immensity of Thought, Is deeply formed, and gently wrought,
His Temper always softening Life's Disease; That Fortune, when she does intend To rudely frown, she turns his Friend, Admires his Judgment, and applauds his Ease.

His great Address in this Design, Does now, and will for ever shine,
And wants a Waller but to do him Right:
The whole Amusement was so strong,
Like Fate he doom'd them to be wrong,
And Tournay's took by a peculiar Slight.

Thus, Madam, all Mankind behold Your wast Ascendant, not by Gold, But by your Wisdom, and your pious Life; Your Aim no more than to destroy That which does Europe's Ease amoy, And supersede a Reign of Shame and Strife.

St. James's Coffee-house, July 24.

My Brethren of the Quill, the ingenious Society of News-Writers, having with great Spirit and Elegance already informed the World, that the Town of Tournay capitulated on the 28th Instant, there is nothing left for me to say, but to congratulate the good Company here, that we have Reason to hope for an Opportunity of thanking Mr. Withers next Winter in this Place, for the Service he has done his Country. No Man deserves better of his Friends than

re

D

W

than that Gentleman, whose distinguishing Character it is, that he gives his Orders with the Familiarity, and enjoys his Fortune with the Generofity, of a Fellow-Soldier. His Grace the Duke of Argyle had also an eminent Part in the Reduction of this important Place. That illustrious Youth discovers the peculiar Turn of Spirit and Greatness of Soul, which only make Men of high Birth and Quality useful to their Country; and confiders Nobility as an imaginary Distinction, unless accompanied with the Practice of those generous Virtues by which it ought to be obtained. But that our Military Glory is arrived at its present Height, and that Men of all Ranks so passionately affect their Share in it, is certainly owing to the Merit and Conduct of our glorious General; for as the great Secret in Chymistry, tho' not in Nature, has occasioned many useful Discoveries; and the fantastick Notion of being wholly disinterested in Friendship, has made Men do a Thoufand generous Actions above themselves; so, tho' the present Grandeur and Fame of the Duke of Marlborough is a Station of Glory to which no one hopes to arrive, yet all carry their Actions to an higher Pitch, by having that great Example laid before them.

on the co fay, here, portuter in Counriends than Q 2

The

The TATLER. [Nº 47.

Quicquid agunt Homines nostre Farrago Libelli.

From Tuesd. July 26. to Thursd. July 28. 1709.

White's Chocolate-house, July 27. Y Friend Sir Thomas has communicated to me his Letters from Epsom of the 25th Instant, which give, in general, a very good Account of the Posture of Affairs at present in that Place; but that the Tranquility and Correspondence of the Company begins to be interrupted by the Arrival of Sir Taffety Trippet, a Fortune-hunter, whose Follies are too gross to give Diversion; and whose Vanity is too stupid to let him be fensible that he is a publick Offence. But if People will indulge a splenatick Humour, it is impossible to be at ease, when such Creatures as are the Scandal of our Species, fet up for Gallantry and Adventures. It will be much more easy therefore to laugh him into Reason, than convert him from his Foppery by any ferious Contempt. Gentleman that made it a Maxim to open his Doors, and ever run into the Way of Bullies, to avoid their Infolence. The Rule will hold as well with Coxcombs: They are never mortified, but when they fee you receive, and dispife them; otherwise they rest assured, that it is your Ignorance makes them out of your good Graces; or, that 'tis only want of Admittance prevents their being amiable where they are shun'd and avoided. But Sir Taffety is a For of fo fanguine a Complexion, that I fear it will be very hard for the fair One he at prefent pursues to get rid of the Chace, without being so tired, as for her own Ease to fall into the Mouth of the Mungrel she runs from. But the History of Sir Taffety is as pleasant as his Character. It happened, that when he first set up for a Fortune-hunter, he chose Tunbridge for the Scene of Action; where were at that Time two Sifters upon the same Design. The Knight believed of Course the Elder must be the better Prize; and confequently makes all his Sail that Way. People that want Sense, do always in an egregious Manner want Modesty, which made our Heroe triumph in making his Amour as publick as was possible. The adored Lady was no less vain of his publick Addresses. An Attorney with one Cause is not half so restless as a Woman with one Lover. Where-ever they met, they talked to each other aloud, chose each other Partner at Balls, faluted at the most conspicuous Parts of the Service at Church, and practifed in Honour of each other all the remarkable Particularities which are usual for Perfons who admire one another, and are contemptible to the rest of the World. Two Lovers feem'd as much made for each other as Adam and Eve, and all pronounced it a Match of Nature's own making; but the Night before the Nuptials, (fo univerfally approved) the younger Sister, envious of the good Fortune even of her Sister, who had been present at most of their Interviews, and had an equal Tast for the Charms of a Fop, (as there are a Set of Women made for that Order of Men); the younger, I fay, unable to fee fo rich a Prize pass by her, discovered to Sir Taffety, that a Coquet Air, much Tongue, and Three Suits, was all the Portion of his Mistress. His Love vanished that Moment, himself and Equipage

Q 3

47

709.

ted to 25th good lent in 1 Corbe inrippet, groß soo fluublick [plenaof our ntures, laugh om his new a pen his lies, to hold as mortiand d, that

Admitre they s a Fep

it will be

that

the next Morning. It is uncertain where the Lover has been ever engag'd; but certain it is, he has not appeared in his Character as a Follower of Love and Fortune till he arrived at Epsom, where there is at present a young Lady of Youth, Beauty, and Fortune, who has alarm'd all the Vain and the Impertinent to infest that Quarter. At the Head of this Assembly, Sir Taffety shines in the brightest Manner, with all the Accomplishments which usually enfnare the Heart of Woman; with this particular Merit, (which often is of great Service) that he is laughed at for her Sake. The Friends of the fair One are in much Pain for the Sufferings the goes through from the Perseverance of this Hero; but they may be much more fo from the Danger of his fucceeding, toward which they give him an helping Hand, if they disswade her with Bitterness; for there is a fantastical Generosity in the Sex, to approve Creatures of the least Merit imaginable, when they fee the Imperfections of their Admirers are become the Marks of Derision for their Sakes; and there is nothing fo frequent, as that he who was contemptible to a Woman in her own Judgment, has won her by being too vioently opposed by others.

In the several Capacities I bear, of Astrologer, Civilian, and Physician, I have with great Application studied the publick Emolument: To this End serve all my Lucubrations, Speculations, and whatever other Labours I undertake, whether nocturnal or diurnal. On this Motive am I induced to publish a never-failing Medicine for the Spleen: My Experience in this Distemper came from a very remarkable Cure on my ever worthy Friend Tom Spindle, who, through excessive Gaiety, had exhausted e the ertain acter ie arent a tune, inent s Al-Manuluthis Ser-The r the fevenuch ding, land, there prove when nrers their that n her great pecunderthis this illing ce in kable indle, ufted that

VIO-

that natural Stock of Wit and Spirits he had long been bleffed with: He was funk and flattened to the lowest Degree imaginable, iitting whole Hours over the Book of Martyrs, and Pilgrims Progress; his other Contemplations never riling higher than the Colour of his Urine, or Regularity of his Pulse. In this Condition I found him, accompanied by the learned Dr. Drachm, and a good old Nurse. Drachm had prescribed Magazines of Herbs, and Mines of Steel. I foon discover'd the Malady, and descanted on the Nature of it, till I convinced both the Patient and his Nurse, that the Spleen is not to be cured by Medicine, but by Poetry. Apollo, the Author of Phylick, shone with diffutive Rays the best of Poets as well as of Phylicians; and it is in this double Capacity that I have made my Way, and have found, fweet, easy, flowring Numbers, are oft superior to our noblest Medicines. When the Spirits are low, and Nature funk, the Mule, with sprightly and harmonious Notes, gives an unexpected Turn with a Grain of Poetry, which I prepare without the Use of Mercury. I have done Wonders in this Kind; for the Spleen is like the Tarantula, the Effects of whose malignant Poison are to be prevented by no other Remedy but the Charms of Musick: For you are to understand, that as some noxious Animals carry Antidotes for their own Poisons; so there is fomething equally unaccountable in Poetry: For though it is sometimes a Disease, it is to be cured only by it felf. Now I knowing Tom Spindle's Constitution, and that he is not only a pretty Gentleman, but also a pretty Poet, found the true Cause of his Distemper was a violent Grief that moved his Affections too firongly: For during the late Treaty of Peace, he had Writ a most excellent Poem on that Subject; and when he wanted but two Lines in the last Stanza for finishing the whole Piece, there comes News that the French Tyrant would not fign. Spindle in few Days took his Bed, and had lain there still, had not I been sent for. I immediately told him, there was great Probability the French would now fue to us for Peace. I faw immediately a new Life in his Eyes; and knew, That nothing could help him forward for well, as hearing Verles which he would believe worse than his own; I read him therefore the Brussels Postscript. After which I recited some Heroick Lines of my own, which operated fo strongly on the Tympanum of his Ear, that I doubt not but I have kept out all other Sounds for a Fortnight; and have Reason to hope, we shall see him abroad the Day before his Poem. This you fee, is a particular Secret I have found out, viz. That you are not to chuse your Physician for his Knowledge in your Distemper, but for having it himself. Therefore I am at Hand for all Maladies arising from Poetical Vapours, beyond which I never pretend. For being called the other Day to one in Love, I took indeed their Three Guinea's, and gave them my Advice; which was, to fend for Æsculapius. Æsculapius, as soon as he saw the Patient, cries out, 'Tis Love! 'Tis Love! Oh! the unequal Pulse! These are the Symptoms a Lover feels; fuch Sighs, fuch Pangs, arrend the uneafy Mind; nor can our Art, or all our boasted Skill, avail - Yet O Fair! for thee --- Thus the Sage ran on, and owned the Passion which he pitied, as well as that he felt a greater Pain than ever he cured: After which he concluded, All I can advise, is Marriage: Charms and Beauty will give new Life and Vigour, and turn the Course of Nature to its better Prospect. This is the new Way; and thus Æsculapius has left his beloved Powders, and writes a Recipe for a Wife at Sixty. In short, my Friend followed the Prescription, and married Youth and Beauty in its perfect Bloom.

Supine in Silvia's snowy Arms he lies, And all the busy Care of Life desies: Each happy Hour is filled with fresh Delight, While Peace the Day, and Pleasure crowns the [Night.

From my own Apartment, July 27. Tragical Paffion was the Subject of the Difcourse where I last visited this Evening; and a Gentleman who knows that I am at prelent writing a very deep Tragedy, directed his Difcourse in a particular Manner to me. It is the common Fault (faid he) of you, Gentlemen, who write in the Buskin Style, that you give us rather the Sentiments of fuch who behold Tragical Events, than of fuch who bear a Part in em themselves. I would advise all who pretend this Way, to read Shakespear with Care, and they will foon be deterred from putting forth what is usually called Tragedy. Way of common Writers in this Kind, is rather the Description, than the Expression of Sorrow. There is no Medium in these Attempts; and you must go to the very Bottom of the Heart, or it is all mere Language; and the Writer of fuch Lines is no more a Poet, than a Man is a Phyheian for knowing the Names of Diftempers, withour the Causes of them. Men of Sense are professed Enemies to all such empty Labours: For he who pretends to be forrowful, and is not, is a Wretch yet more contemptible than he who pretends to be merry, and is not. Such a Tragedian is only maudlin drunk. The Gen-47.

not and obaace.

d fo benere-

I rehich his t all

ason fore cret

your nererom

one ea's,

fend faw ove!

mp-, arr all

r all for the

felt hich

age: and o its

and

Gentleman went on with much Warmth; but all he could fay had little Effect upon me: But when I came hither, I so far observed his Counsel, that I looked into Shakespear. The Tragedy I dipped into was, Harry the Fourth. In the Scene where Morton is preparing to tell Northumberland of his Son's Death; the old Man does not give him Time to speak, but says,

The Whiteness of thy Cheeks Is after than thy Tongue to tell thy Errand; Even such a Man, so faint, so spiritless, So dull, so dead in Look, so Woe --- Be gone.
Drew Priam's Curtain at the Dead of Night, And would have told him Half his Troy was [burnt:

But Priam found the Fire, e're he his Tongue, And I my Percy's Death e're thou report'st it.

The Image in this Place is wonderfully noble and great; yet this Man in all this is but rifing towards his great Affliction, and is still enough himself, as you see, to make a Simile: But when he is certain of his Son's Death, he is lost to all Patience, and gives up all the Regards of this Life; and since the last of Evils is fallen upon him, he calls for it upon all the World.

Now let not Nature's Hand Keep the wild Flood confined; let Order die, And let the World no longer be a Stage, To feed Contention in a ling'ring Act; But let one Spirit of the first-born Cain Reign in all Bosoms, that each Heart being set On bloody Courses, the wide Scene may end, And Darkness be the Burier of the Dead. but
But
his
The
wrth.
g to
the but

was ernt:

oble
it riill enile:
, he ReEvils

ead.

Reading but this one Scene has convinced me, that he who describes the Concern of great Men, must have a Soul as noble, and as susceptible of high Thoughts, as they whom he reprefents: I shall therefore lay by my Drama for fome Time, and turn my Thoughts to Cares and Griefs, somewhat below that of Heroes, but no less moving. A Misfortune proper for me to take Notice of, has too lately happened: The disconsolate Maria has three Days kept her Chamber for the Loss of the beauteous Fidelia, her Lap-dog. Lesbia her felf did not shed more Tears for her Sparrow. makes her the more concern'd, is, that we know not whether Fidelia was killed or stolen; but she was feen in the Parlour-Window when the Train-bands went by, and never fince. Whoever gives Notice of her, dead or alive, shall be rewarded with a Kiss of her Lady.

The TATLER. [Nº 48.

__Virtutem Verba putant, ut Lucum Ligna. __ Hor.

From Thursday July 28. to Saturday July 30. 1709.

THIS Day I obliged Pacolet to entertain me with Matters which regarded Persons of his own Character and Occupation. We chose to take our Walk on Tower-Hill; and as we were coming from thence in order to stroll as far as Garraway's, I observed two Men, who had but just landed, coming from the Waterside. I thought there was something uncom-nmo

mon in their Mien and Aspect; but though they feemed by their Visage to be related, yet was there a Warmth in their Manner, as if they differed very much in their Sentiments of the Subject on which they were talking. One of them feem'd to have a natural Confidence, mixed with an ingenuous Freedom in his Geflure, his Dress very plain, but very graceful and becoming: The other, in the midst of an over-bearing Carriage, betrayed (by frequently looking round him) a Suspicion that he was not enough regarded by those he met, or that he feared they would make some Attack upon him. This Person was much taller than his Companion, and added to that Height the Advantage of a Feather in his Hat, and Heels to his Shoes to monttroully high, that he had three or four times fallen down, had he not been supported by his Friend. They made a full Stop as they came within a few Yards of the Place where we stood. The plain Gentleman bowed to Pacolet; the other looked on him with fome Displeasure: Upon which I 25ked him, Who they both were? When he thus informed me of their Persons and Circumfrances.

You may remember, Mr. Isaac, that I have aften told you, there are Beings of a superior Rank to Mankind, who frequently visit the Habitations of Men, in order to call them from some wrong Pursuits in which they are actually engaged, or divert them from Methods which will lead them into Errors for the future. He that will carefully reflect upon the Occurences of his Life, will find he has been sometimes extricated out of Difficulties, and received Favours where he could never have expected such Benefits; as well as met with cross Events from some unseen Hand, which have disappointed

ugh

yet hey

the nce,

Ge-

etul

an ntly

was

that pon

his Ads to

had de a s of itle-

On

he um-

nave

crior

Ha-

rom

ally

hich

He

nces

mes

Fa-

uch

ents

fapnted

pointed his best laid Designs. Such Accidents arrive from the Interventions of Aerial Beings, as they are benevolent or hurtful to the Nature of Man, and attend his Steps in the Tracts of Ambition, of Buliness, and of Pleasure. Before I ever appeared to you in the Manner I do now, I have frequently followed you in your Evening Walks, and have often, by throwing some Accident in your Way, as the passing by of a Funeral, or the Appearance of some other folemn Object, given your Imagination a new Turn, and changed a Night you had destined to Mirth and Jollity, into an Exercise of Study and Contemplation. I was the old Soldier who met you last Summer in Chellea-Fields, and pretended that I had broken my Wooden Leg. and could not get Home; but I fnap'd it short off on purpose, that you might fall into the Reflections you did on that Subject, and take me into your Hack. If you remember, you made your felf very merry on that Fracture, and asked me, Whether I thought I should next Winter feel Cold in the Toes of that Leg? As is usually observed, that those who lose Limbs, are sensible of Pains in the extreme Parts, even after those Limbs are cut off. However, my keeping you then in the Story of the Battle of the Boin, prevented an Assignation, which would have led you into more Difafters

To be short; Those two Persons you see yonder, are fuch as I am; they are not real Men, but are mere Shades and Figures: One is named Alethes; the other, Verisimilis. Their Office is to be the Guardians and Representatives of Conscience and Honour. They are now going to visit the feveral Parts of the Town. to fee how their Interests in the World decay or flourish, and to purge themselves from the

than I then related.

many false Imputations they daily meet with in the Commerce and Conversation of Men. You observed Verisimilis frowned when he first saw me. What he is provoked at, is, that I told him one Day, though he strutted and dressed with so much Ostentation, if he kept himself within his own Bounds, he was but a Lacquey, and wore only that Gentleman's Livery whom he is now with. This frets him to the Heart; for you must know, he has pretended a long Time to set up for himself, and gets among a Crowd of the more unthinking Part of Mankind, who take him for a Person of the First Quality; though his Introduction into the World was wholly owing to his present Companion.

This Encounter was very agreeable to me. and I was resolved to dog them, and defired Pacolet to accompany me. I foon perceived what he told me in the Gesture of the Persons: For when they look'd at each other in Difcourse, the well-dress'd Man suddenly cast down his Eyes, and discovered that the other had a painful Superiority over him. fome further Discourse, they took Leave. The plain Gentleman went down towards Thamesfreet, in order to be present, at least, at the Oaths taken at the Custom-house; and the other made directly for the Heart of the City. It is incredible how great a Change there immediately appeared in the Man of Honour when he got rid of his uneasy Companion: He adjusted the Cock of his Hat a-new, settled his Sword-Knot, and had an Appearance that attracted a sudden Inclination for him and his Interests in all who beheld him. For my Part (faid I to Pacolet) I cannot but think you are mistaken in calling this Person, of the Lower Quality; for he looks much more like a Gentleman with Men. firit hat I and kept but a s Lihim preand king Peroduhis me, ired ved ms: Difcast her fter The zesthe ner is ne-en dhis atis

irt re er 11-

an

tleman than the other. Don't you observe all Eyes are upon him as he advances: How each Sex gazes at his Stature, Aspect, Address, and Motion. Pacolet only smiled, and shaked his Head; as leaving me to be convinced by my own further Observation. We kept on our Way after him till we came to Exchange-Alley, where the plain Gentleman again came up to the other; and they stood together after the Manner of eminent Merchants, as if ready to receive Application; but I could observe no The One was Man talk to either of them. laughed at as a Fop; and I heard many Whifpers against the other, as a whimsical Sort of Fellow, and a great Enemy to Trade. They croffed Cornhill together, and came into the full Change, where fome bowed, and gave themselves Airs in being known to so fine a Man as Verisimilis, who, they faid, had great Interest in all Princes Courts; and the other was taken Notice of by feveral as one they had feen somewhere long before. One more particularly faid, He had formerly been a Man of Confideration in the World; but was fo unlucky, that they who dealt with him, by some strange Infatuation or other, had a Way of cutting off their own Bills, and were prodigioully flow in improving their Stock. But as much as I was curious to observe the Reception these Gentlemen met with upon Change, I could not help being interrupted by one that came up towards us, to whom every Body made their Compliments. He was of the common Height, and in his Dress there seemed to be great Care to appear no Way particular, except in a certain exact and feat Manner of Behaviour and Circumspection. He was wonderfully careful that his Shoes and Cloathes should be without the least Speck upon them; and feem'd to think, that on fuch an Accident depended his very Life and Fortune. There was hardly a Man on Change who had not a Note upon him; and each feem'd very well fatisfied that their Money lay in his Hands, without demanding Payment. I asked Pacolet, What great Merchant that was, who was fo univerfally addressed to, yet made too familiar an Appearance to command that extraordinary Deference? Pacolet answer'd, This Person is the Dæmon or Genius of Credit; his Name is Umbra. If you observe, he follows Alethes and Verisimilis at a Distance; and indeed has no Foundation for the Figure he makes in the World, but that he is thought to keep their Cash; though at the same Time, none who trust him, would trust the others for a Groat. As the Company rolled about, the three Specters were jumpled into one Place: When they were fo, and all thought there was an Alliance between them, they immediately drew upon them the Buliness of the whole Change. But their Affairs foon encreased to such an unwieldy Bulk, that Alethes took his Leave, and faid, He would not engage further than he had an immediate Fund to answer. Verisimilis pretended, that though he had Revenues large enough to go on his own Bottom, yet it was below one of his Family to condescend to trade in his own Name; therefore he also retired. I was extremely troubled to fee the glorious Mart of London left with no other Guardian, but him of Credit. But Pacolet told me, That Traders had nothing to do with the Honour or Conscience of their Correspondents, provided they supported a general Behaviour in the World, which could not hurt their Credit or their Purses: For (faid he) you may in this one Tract of Building of London and Westminster see the imaginary Motives Actune. o had very ands. colet, as fo niliar inary on is me is sand as mo the their who roat. Spethey ance ipon But eldy faid, d an tenugh low his was t of n of ders ence -10C iich For

ing

ary

Motives on which the greatest Affairs move, as well as in rambling over the Face of the Earth. For tho' Alethes is the real Governor, as well as Legislator of Mankind, he has very little Bufiness but to make up Quarrels, and is only a general Referree, to whom every Man pretends to appeal, but is fatisfied with his Determinations no further than they promote his own Interest. Hence it is, that the Soldier and the Courtier model their Actions according to Verisimilis's Manner, and the Merchant according to that of Umbra. Among these Men, Honour and Credit are not valuable Possessions in themfelves, or pursued out of a Principle of Justice; but meerly as they are serviceable to Ambition and to Commerce. But the World will never be in any Manner of Order or Tranquility, till Men are firmly convinced, that Conscience, Honour, and Credit, are all in one Interest; and that without the Concurrence of the former, the latter are but Impolitions upon our felves and others. The Force thefe delufive Words have, is not seen in the Transactions of the busy World only, but also have their Tyranny over the Fair Sex. Were you to ask the unhappy Lais, What Pangs of Reflection, preferring the Confideration of her Honour to her Conscience, has given her? She could tell you, That it has forced her to drink up half a Gallon this Winter of Tom Dassapas's Potions; That she still pines away for fear of being a Mother; and knows not, but the Moment The is fuch, she shall be a Murderess: But if Conicience had as strong a Force upon the Mind, as Honour, the first Step to her unhappy Condition had never been made; she had still been innocent, as she's beautiful. Were Men so enlighten'd and studious of their own Good, as to act by the Dictates of their Reason and Reflection, and not the Opinion of others, Conficience would be the steady Ruler of humane Life; and the Words, Truth, Law, Reason, Equity, and Religion, would be but Synonymous Terms, for that only Guide which makes us pass our Days in our own Favour and Approbation.

The TATLER. [N° 49.

Quicquid agunt Homines nostri Farrago Libelli.

From Saturday July 30. to Tuesd. August 2. 1709.

White's Chocolate-house, August 1. THE Imposition of honest Names and Words upon improper Subjects, has made fo regular a Confusion amongst us, that we are apt to fit down with our Errors, well enough fatisned with the Methods we are fallen into, without attempting to deliver our felves from the Tyranny under which we are reduc'd by fuch Innovations. Of all the laudable Motives of human Life, none has suffered so much in this Kind, as Love; under which rever'd Name, a brutal Defire call'd Lust is frequently concealed and admitted; tho' they differ as much as a Matron from a Proftitute, or a Companion from a Buffoon. Philander the other Day was bewailing this Misfortune with much Indignation, and upbraided me for having fome Time fince quoted those excellent Lines of the Satyrist:

To an exast Perfection they have brought The Action Love, the Passion is forgot.

Satyr,

mane on, Eymous tes us ppro-49 belli.

1709.

Words fo rere apt fatiswithn the of hun this me, a cealed as a rom a ewailn, and

How

quo-

How could you (faid he) leave fuch a Hint fo coldly? How could Apasia and Sempronia enter into your Imagination at the same Time, and you never declare to us the different Reception you gave 'em? The Figures which the ancient Mythologists and Poets put upon Love and Lust in their Writings, are very instructive. Love is a beauteous Blind Child, adorn'd with a Quiver and a Bow, which he plays with, and shoots around him, without Design or Direction; to intimate to us, that the Person beloved has no Intention to give us the Anxieties we meet with; but that the Beauties of a worthy Object are like the Charms of a lovely Infant: They cannot but attract your Concern and Fondness, tho' the Child so regarded, is as insensible of the Value you put upon it, as it is that it deserves your Benevolence. On the other Side, the Sages figured Lust in the Form of a Satyr; of Shape, part Human, part Bestial; to fignify, that the Followers of it prostitute the Reason of a Man to pursue the Appetites of a Bealt. This Satyr is made to haunt the Paths and Coverts of the Wood-Nymphs and Shepherdesses, to lurk on the Banks of Rivulets, and watch the purling Streams, (as the Reforts of retired Virgins) to show, that lawless Desire tends chiefly to prey upon Innocence, and has fomething fo unnatural in it, that it hates its own Make, and shuns the Object it lov'd, as foon as it has made it like it felf. Love therefore is a Child that complains and bewails its Inability to help it felf, and weeps for Assistance, without an immediate Reflection or Knowledge of the Food it wants: Lust, a watchful Thief which feizes its Prey, and lays Snares for its own Relief; and its principal Object being Innocence, it never robs, but it murders at the fame Time. From this Idea of a Cupid and a

Satyr, we may fettle our Notion of these different Defires, and accordingly rank their Followers. Aspasia must therefore be allow'd to be the first of the beauteous Order of Love, whose unaffected Freedom, and confcious Innocence, give her the Attendance of the Graces in all her Actions. That awful Distance which we bear towards her in all our Thoughts of her, and that chearful Familiarity with which we approach her, are certain Instances of her being the truest Object of Love of any of her Sex. In this accomplish'd Lady, Love is the constant Effect, because it is never the Design. tho' her Mien carries much more Invitation than Command, to behold her is an immediate Check to loofe Behaviour; and to love her, is a liberal Education: For, it being the Nature of all Love to create an Imitation of the beloved Person in the Lover, a Regard for Aspasia naturally produces Decency of Manners, and good Conduct of Life in her Admirers. If therefore the giggling Leucippe could but see her Train of Fops affembled, and Aspasia move by em, the would be mortified at the Veneration with which she is beheld, ev'n by Leucippe's own unthinking Equipage, whose Passions have long taken Leave of their Understandings. But as Charity is esteemed a Conjunction of the good Qualities necessary to a virtuous Man, so Love is the happy Composition of all the Accomplishments that make a Fine Gentleman. The Motive of a Man's Life is feen in all his Actions; and fuch as have the Beauteous Boy for their Inspirer, have a Simplicity of Behaviour, and a certain Evenness of Denre, which burns like the Lamp of Life in their Bosoms; while they who are instigated by the Satyr, are ever tortured by Jealousies of the Object of their Wishes; often defire what they fcorn, and as often condiffellowto be whose whose ence, ll her bear and apbeing

Sex.

istant Yet,

ation ediate er, is ature spasia and If e her we by have But good Love

plish-Moions; their

like they r tor-Wishoften

con-

consciously and knowingly embrace where they are mutually indifferent.

Florio, the generous Husband, and Limberham, the kind Keeper, are noted Examples of the different Effects which these Desires produce in the Mind. Amanda, who is the Wife of Flono, lives in the continual Enjoyment of new Instances of her Husband's Friendship, and sees it the End of all his Ambition to make her Life one Series of Pleasure and Satisfaction; and Amanda's Relish of the Goods of Life, is all that makes 'em pleasing to Floria: They behave themselves to each other when present with a certain apparent Benevolence, which transports above Rapture; and they think of each other in Absence with a Confidence unknown to the highest Friendship: Their Satisfactions are doubled, their Sorrows lessened by Participation. On the other Hand, Corinna, who is the Mistress of Limberham, lives in constant Torment: Her Equipage is, an old Woman, who was what Corinna is now; an antiquated Footman, who was Pimp to Limberham's Father: and a Chamber-Maid, who is Limberham's Wench by Fits, out of a Principle of Politicks to make her jealous and watchful of Corima. Under this Guard, and in this Conversation, Corinna live in State: The Furniture of her Habitation, and her own gorgeous Drefs, make her the Envy of all the strolling Ladies in the Town; but Corinna knows the her felf is but Part of Limberham's Houshold-stuff, and is as capable of being dispos'd of elfewhere, as any other Moveable. But while her Keeper is perswaded by his Spies, that no Enemy has been within his Doors fince his last Visit, no Persian Prince was ever so magnificently bountiful: A kind Look or falling Tear is worth a Piece of Brockade, a Sigh is a Jewel, and a Smile is a Cupboard board of Plate. All this is shar'd between Corinna and her Guard in his Absence. With this great Oeconomy and Industry does the unhappy Limberham purchase the constant Tortures of Jealoufy, the Favour of spending his Estate, and the Opportunity of enriching one by whom he knows he is hated and despised. These are the ordinary and common Evils which attend Keepers, and Corinna is a Wench but of common Size of Wickedness. Were you to know what passes under the Roof where the fair Messalina reigns with her humble Adorer! Messalina is the profess'd Mistress of Mankind; she has left the Bed of her Husband and her beauteous Offspring, to give a Loose to Want of Shame and Fulness of Desire. Wretched Nocturnus, her feeble Keeper! How the poor Creature fribles in his Gate, and skuttles from Place to l'lace to dispatch his necessary Affairs in painful Day-light, that he may return to the constant Twilight preserv'd in that Scene of Wantonness, Messalina's Bed-chamber. How does he, while he is absent from thence, consider in his Imagination the Breadth of his Porter's Shoulders, the spruce Nightcap of his Valet, the ready Attendance of his Butler! Any of all whom he knows she admits, and profesfes to approve of. This, alas! is the Gallantry; this the Freedom of our Fine Gentlemen: For this they preserve their Liberty, and keep clear of that Bugbear, Marriage. But he does not understand either Vice or Virtue, who will not allow, that Life without the Rules of Morality is a wayward uneasy Being, with Snatches only of Pleasure; but under the Regulation of Virtue, a reasonable and uniform Habit of Enjoyment. I have feen in a Play of old Haywood's, a Speech at the end of an Act, which touch'd this Point with much Spirit. He makes a married Man

Man in the Play, upon some endearing Occasion, look at his Spouse with an Air of Fondness, and fall into the following Reflection on his Condition:

Oh Marriage! Happiest, easiest, Jafest State; Let Debauchees and Drunkards fourn thy Rights, Who, in their nauseous Draughts and Lusts, profane Both thee and Heav'n by whom thou wer't ordain'd. How can the Savage call it Loss of Freedom, Thus to converse with, thus to gaze at A faithful, beautious Friend? Blush not, my fair One, that thy Love applauds thee, Nor be it painful to my wedded Wife, That my full Heart o'reflows in Praise of thee. Thou art by Law, by Interest, Passion, mine: Passion and Reason join in Love of thee. Thus, through a World of Calumny and Fraud, We pals both unreproach'd, both undecciv'd; While in each other's Interest and Happiness,

We without Art all Faculties employ,

And all our Senses without Guilt enjoy.

St. James's Coffee-house, August 1. Letters from the Hague of the 6th Instant, N. S. fay, That there daily arrive at our Camp Deserters in considerable Numbers; and that several of the Enemy concealed themselves in the Town of Tournay when the Garrison marched into the Citadel; after which, they presented themselves to the Duke of Marlborough; some of whom were Commissioned Officers. Earl of Albemarle is appointed Governour of the Town. Soon after the Surrender, there arose a Dispute about a considerable Work, which was afferted by the Allies to be Part of the Town, and by the French to belong

49. 1 Cothis

hapures tate, hom are tend t of u to the

orer! ind; her

Vant ched poor roin

Tairs the e of How onii-

Por-Va-Any ofeftry;

For lear not not lity only Virjoy-

s, a this ried

Vlan

to the Citadel. It is faid, Monsieur de Surville was fo ingenuous as to declare, he thought it to be comprehended within the Limits of the Town; but Monsieur de Mesgrigny, Governour of the Citadel, was of a contrary Opinion. It is reported, That this Affair occa-fioned great Difficulties, which ended in a Capitulation for the Citadel it felf; the principal Article of which is, That it shall be furrendered on the 5th of September next, in case they are not in the mean time relieved. This Circumstance gives Foundation to believe, that the Enemy have acted in this Manner, rather from some Hopes they conceive of a Treaty of Peace before that Time, than any Expectation from their Army, which has retired towards their former Works between Lens and La Baffee. These Advices add, That his Excellency the Czarish Ambassador has communicated to the States General, and the Foreign Ministers residing at the Hague, a Copy of a Letter from his Master's Camp, which gives an Account of the entire Defeat of the Swedish Army. They further fay, That Count Piper is taken Prisoner, and that it is doubted whether the King of Sweden himself was not kill'd in the Action. We hear from Savoy, That Count Thanh having amus'd the Enemy by a March as far as the Tarantaife, had fuddenly repassed Mount Cennis, and moved towards Brianzon. This unexpected Dif. position is apprehended by the Enemy as a Piece of the Duke of Savoy's Dexterity; and the French adding this Circumstance, to that of the Confederate Squadron's lying before Toulon, convince themselves, that his Royal Highness has his Thoughts upon the Execution of some great Delign in those Parts.

The TATLER. [Nº 50.

de Surnought nits of Gooccain a

e print, in lieved.

o be-

Man-

e of a n any

as re-

tween

That

d the

a Cowhich

of the Count

doubt-

m Sad the

d mo-

as a and

o that before

Royal xecu-

The

From Tuesd. August 2. to Thursd. August 4. 1709.

White's Chocolate house, August 2.
The History of Orlando the Fair. Chap. I.

Hatever malicious Men may fay of our Lucubrations, we have no Design but to produce unknown Merit, or place in a proper Light the Actions of our Contemporaries who labour to distinguish themselves, whether it be by Vice or Virtue. For we shall never give Accounts to the World of any Thing, but what the Lives and Endeavours of the Persons (of whom we 'treat) make the Basis of their Fame and Repuration. For this Reason it is to be hoped, that our Appearance is reputed a publick Benefit; and tho' certain Persons may turn what we mean for Panegyrick into Scandal, let it be answered once for all, That if our Praises are really defign'd as Raillery, fuch malevolent Persons owe their Safety from it only to their being too inconfiderable for History. It is not every Man who deals in Ratsbane, or is unfeafonably amorous, that can adorn Story like Asculapius; nor every Stock-Jobber of the India Company can assume the Port, and personate the Figure of Aurengezebe. My noble Ancester Mr. Shakespear, who was of the Race of the Staffs, 'was not more fond of the memorable Sir John Falstaff, than I am of those Worthies; but the Latins have an admirable Admonition express'd in two Words, to wit, Nequid nims, which forbids my indulging my fell on those delightful Subjects

7

Subjects, and calls me to do Justice to others, who make no less Figures in our Generation: Of fuch, the first and most renown'd is, that eminent Hero and Lover, Orlando the Handsome, whose Disappointments in Love, in Gallantry, and in War, have banished him from publick View, and made him voluntarily enter into a Confinement, to which the ungrateful Age would otherwise have forc'd him. Ten Lustra and more are wholly pass'd fince Orlando first appeared in the Metropolis of this Island: His Descent noble, his Wit humorous, his Person charming. But to none of these Recommendatory Advantages was his Title fo undoubted as that of his Beauty. His Complexion was fair; but his Countenance manly; his Stature of the sallest, his Shape the most exact; and tho in all his Limbs he had a Proportion as delicate as we see in the Works of the most skilful Statuaries, his Body had a Strength and Firmness little inferior to the Marble of which fuch Images are form'd. This made Orlando the univerfal Flame of all the Fair Sex: Innocent Virgins figh'd for him, as Adonis; experienc'd Widows, as Hercu-Thus did this Figure walk alone the Pattern and Ornament of our Species, but of course the Envy of all who had the fame Passions, without his superior Merit and Pretences to the Favour of that enchanting Creature, Woman. However, the generous Orlando believ'd himself form'd for the World, and not to be engross'd by any particular Affection. He figh'd not for Delia, for Chloris, for Chloe, for Betty, nor my Lady, nor for the ready Chamber-maid, nor di-Hant Baronels: Woman was his Miffrels, and the whole Sex his Seraglio. His Form was always irreliftible: And if we consider, that not One of Five hundred can bear the least Favour from a Lady without being exalted above himfelf ; 0.

S,

1:

e-

e, k

3 ge

R

ft

is

n

a-

as 1

ne

in

as 11-le

re

10

or

u-

tſc

S,

ne

n.

If

d

r

y

i-

1-ot

Ir

1-

felf : if also we must allow, that a Smile from a Side-Box has made Jack Spruce half mad, we can't think it wonderful that Orlando's repeated Conquests touch'd his Brain; So it certainly did, and Orlando became an Enthuliast in Love: and in all his Address, contracted something out of the ordinary Course of Breeding and Ci-However, (powerful as he was) he would still add to the Advantages of his Person that of a Protession which the Ladies favour, and immediately commenc'd Soldier. Thusequipp'd for Love and Honour, our Hero feeks Frant Climes and Adventures, and leaves the delpairing Nymphs of Great Britain to the Courtship of Beaus and Witlings till his Re-His Exploits in Foreign Nations and Courts, have not been regularly enough communicated unto us, to report 'em with that Veracity which we profess in our Narrations : But after many Feats of Arms, (which those who were Witnesses to 'em have suppress'd out of Envy, but which we have had faithfully related from his own Mouth in our publick Streets) Orlando returns home full, but not loaded with Years. Reaus born in his Abience made it their Business to decry his Furniture, his Dress, his Manner; but all fuch Rivalry he suppress'd (as the Philosopher did the Sceptick, who argued there was no fuch Thing as Motion) by only moving. The Beauteous Villaria, who only was form'd for his Paramour, became the Object of his Affection. His furt Speech to her was as follows:

Madam, It is not only that Nature has made us Two the most accomplished of each Sex, and pointed to us to obey her Distates in becoming One; but that there is also an Ambition in following the mighty Persons you have favoured. Where Kings and Heroes, as great as Alexander, or such as could personate Alexander, have bowed, permit your General to lay his Lawrels:

According to Milton;

The Fair with conscious Majesty approv'd His pleaded Reason.

And Fortune had now supplied Orlando with Necessaries for his high Tait of Gallantry and Pleasure: His Equipage and Oeconomy had something in 'em more sumptuous and gallant than could be receiv'd in our degenerate Age; therefore his Figure (tho' highly graceful) appeared so exotick, that it assembled all the British under the Age of Sixteen, who saw his Grandeur to follow his Chariot with Shouts and Acclamations, which he regarded with the Contempt which great Minds affect in the midst of Applauses. I remember I had the Honour to see him one Day stop, and call the Youths about him, to whom he spake as follows:

Good Bastard -- Go to School, and don't lose your Time in following my Wheels: I am loth to hurt you, because I know not but you are all my own Offspring: Hark'ee, you Sirrah with the white Hair, I am fure you are mine: There's Half a Crown. Tell your Mother, This, with the half Crown I gave her when I got you, comes to Five Shillings.

Thou hait cost me all that, and yet thou art good for nothing. Why, you young Dogs, did you never see a Man before? Never such a one as you, Noble General, replied a Truant from Westminster. Sirrah, I believe thee:

There is a Crown for thee. Drive on Coach-

This Vehicle, the facred to Love, was not adorn'd with Doves: Such an Hieroglyphiek denoted noted too languishing a Passion. Orlands therefore gave the Eagle, as being of a Constitution which inclined him rather to seize his Prey with Talons, than pine for it with Murmurs.

I have received the following Letter from Mr. Powel of the Bath, who, I think, runs from the Point between us, which I leave the whole World to judge.

To Isaac Bickerstaff Esq:

SIR, Having a great deal of more advantagious Buliness at present on my Hands, I thought to have deferr'd answering your Tatter of the 21st Instant, till the Company was gone, and Season over; but having resolved not to regard any Impertinences of your Paper, except what relate particularly to me, I am the more eafily induc'd to answer you (as I shall find Time to do it): First, partly lest you should think your self neglected, which I have Reason to believe you would take heinously ill. Secondly, partly because it will increase my Fame, and consequently my Audience, when all the Quality shall see with how much Wit and Raillery I show you -"I don't care a Farthing for you. partly because being without Books, if I don't how much Learning, it will not be imputed to my having none.

'I have travell'd Italy, France, and Spain, and fully comprehend whatever any German. Artist in the World can do; yet cannot I imagine, why you should endeavour to disturb the Repose and Plenty which (tho' unworthy) I enjoy at this Place. It cannot be, that you take Offence at my Prologues and Epilogues, which you are pleas'd to miscall foolish and R 2 abufive. No, no, until you give a better, I " thall not forbear thinking, that the true Reafor of your picking a Quarrel with me was, because it is more agreeable to your Principles, as well as more to the Honour of your affured Victory, to attack a Governour. . Mr. Ifaac, Mr. Ifaac, I can fee into a Mill-stone as far as another (as the Saying is ). You are for fowing the Seeds of Sedition and Disobedience among my Puppets, and your ' Zeal for the (good old) Cause would make you perswade Punch to pull the String from his Chops, and not move his Jaw when I have a mind he should harangue. Now I appeal to all Men, if this is not contrary to that uncontroulable, unaccountable Dominion, which by the Laws of Nature I exercise ' over 'em; for all Sorts of Wood and Wire were made for the Use and Benefit of Man: ' I have therefore an unquestionable Right to frame, fashion, and put them together, as I please; and having made them what they are, my Puppets are my Property, and therefore my Slaves: Nor is there in Nature any ' Thing more just, than the Homage which is ' paid by a less to a more excellent Being: So that by the Right therefore of a fuperior Genius, I am their supreme Moderator, altho' you would infinuate (agreeably to your levelling Principles) that I am my felf but a great Puppet, and can therefore have but a co-ordinate Jurisdiction with them. I sup-· pose I have now sufficiently made it appear, that I have a paternal Right to keep a Puppet-Show, and this Right I will maintain in my Prologues on all Occasions.

And therefore, if you write a Defence of your felf against this my Self-Defence, I admonish you to keep within Bounds; for

ing and arry nonewery

a-

5,

of

r.

e u

S.

n

I

O

ife

re

1:

OI

e-

y

is

e-

r, ır

2 p-

r,

n

JI.

every Day will not be so propitious to you as the 29th of April; and perhaps my Resentment may get the better of my Generosity, and I may no longer scorn to tight one who is not my Equal with unequal Weapons: There are such Things as Scandalums Magnatums; therefore take Heed hereafter how you write such Things as I cannot easily answer, for that will put me in a Passion.

'I order you to handle only these Two Propositions, to which our Dispute may be reduced: The First, Whether I have not an Absolute Power, whenever I please, to light a Pipe with one of Punch's Legs, or warm my Fingers with his whole Carcas? The Second, Whether the Devil would not be in Punch, should he by Word or Deed oppose my Sovereign Will and Pleasure? And then, perhaps, I may (if I can find Leisure for it) give vou the Trouble of a fecond Letter.

' But if you intend to tell me of the Original of Pupper-Shows, and the feveral Changes, and Revolutions that have happened in them, fince Thespis, and I don't care who, that's Noli me tangere; I have folemnly engaged to fay nothing of what I can't approve. Or, ' if you talk of certain Contracts with the ' Mayor and Burgesses, or Fees to the Con-' stables, for the Privilege of acting, I will 'not write one fingle Word about any fuch ' Matters; but shall leave you to be mumbled by the learned and very ingenious Author of a late Book, who knows very well what's to be faid and done in fuch Cases. He is nowfluffling the Cards, and dealing to Timothy; but if he wins the Game, I will fend him to ' play at Backgammon with you; and then ' he will fatisfy you, that Deuce-Ace makes · Five.

R 4

And

Na 50.

And fo, submitting my self to be try'd by my Country, and allowing any Jury of 12 good Men, and true, to be that Country; not excepting any (unless Mr. Isaac Bicker-staff) to be of the Pannel, for you are neither good nor true; I bid you heartily farewel; and am,

SI.R.

Bath, July 28.

Your Loving Friend,

Powell.

The End of the First Volume.

ERRATA.

Age 61. Line 9. for Heir, read Air. p. 66. l. 10. after with, add by. p. 71. l. 25. read longer ago. p. 82. l. 29. read Deer-stealers. p. 90. 1. 17. for Tracts, read Tracks. p. 93. 1. 29. for indirect, read indifcreet. p. 97. 1. 2, 3. for Peericrannium, read Pericranium. p. 109. l. 3. for axalt, read exalt. 1.4. dele the two Parenthesis. 1.29. read that on the. p. 115. 1.12. dele the first zin rresolved. p. 131. l. 18. read Redoubted. p. 132. l. 14. read Soldiery. p. 136. l. 3. dele an, read being English Men. p. 143. 1.29. for and, read but. p. 144. l. 34. after that, read in their Opinion. p. 145. l. 34. after of, add the. p. 158. 1.11. for Penelope, read Amanda. p. 159. 1.11. for that, read than. p. 176. 1.22. for Prenciples, read Principles. p. 204. l. ult. for Precedents, read Precedence. p.225. l. 10. for read, read red. p. 234. l. 10. for up, read upon. p. 235. l. 10. after has, add been. p. 238. l. 19. for It is, read Is it. p. 255. 1. 37. for unstanding, read understanding. p. 264. l. 14. for Elegant, read Eloquent. p. 300. 2. 36. for Cowards, read Crowds. p. 310. last 1. but three, for committed, read communicated. p. 312. 1. 3. for price, read rife. p. 342. 1.2. after ever, add fince.

INDEX

by 12

y; er-

re-

ell.

66. ead ers. 29. Pefor fis.

ed. an, nd, eir 58. 11. es, its, ed. ter it.

ast ed.

A

OFTHE

Dull as well as Ingenious Passages

INTHE

TATLERS.

VOL. I.

A.

A CTS the Country Wife: (Mrs. B	ignell.) 446 11
Advice asked, not for Information, but ou Fullness of Heart on its Perplexity.	t of the Fullness of Heart on its Perplexity.	181
Advise not to be given by every Body.	Ibid.
Æsculapius and Hebe.	317
Æsculapius's Recepe for Love.	315
Africanus's Maguanimity and Manner	of purchasing Annuities.	263
Alchymist.	102
Alicant taken.	.155
Amanda, Wife of Florio.	357
Milton and Dryden, on the same Subject.	38
Afpatia's Character.	306
Avaro's Character.	182
	renge

Aurengezebe Trades with the English. Page 331

.B.
Bankers Should take Poems for Bills.	312
Batchelor's Scheme to govern a Wife.	70
Bottle near Badajos.	123
Beadlestaff's Testimony of the Reformation	at Oxford, and of a Pupper-Show.	326
Betterton's Character.	5
Mr. Bickerstaff's Cures.	245
Mr. Bickerstaff's Disposat of his Three N
The state of the engineer of	214
A Base Report that he has compounded Toymen and Milliners.	221
Mr. Bickerstaff makes his Will.	47
Billet-deux concerning a Rival.	209
Brussels Postscript (a Poem) considered.	337
Bufy-Body: (A Play.)	136
1 . C. V
Camilla's Exit.	143
Cancrum, his Merit.	172
Cant of modern Men of Wit.	86
Careles's Character.	104
Challenge, the Stile of it.	180
Charms of Musick cure the Spleen.	343
Ghildren, how nursed.	107
Carcum pection-Water, it's Effects.	245 Clarissa and Chloe, celebrated Beauties.
Clidamira, a Woman of Distinction.	246
Comment on Stone-Walls.	126
Comparison between Cæsar and Alexander. Conscience described under the Character of A	lether Congressee Rejerioen Rancer the Chaineser of A Contention between two Ladies to the Title of	Very Pretty.	246
Conversation-Reparteet.	227
equet,	195

DDDDD

Corinna's

Corinna's Life with Limberham. Page Country's Ignorance of Bickerstaff's Chara	358 Eters.
Cnedit described under the Character of Un 353
Critick.	210
Cynthio's Hiftory.	3
Cynthio's History continued.	2.9
Cynthio distating on the Passion of Love.	156
Cynthio's Letter to his Mistress.	253 Cynthio (once in despair for Clariffa) is not Solved upon the good old Way of Loving	Ibid.
Bargain and Sale.	360
Czar's Victory.	300
D
Damia, a Woman of Distinction.	246
Decius, a lewd Person.	324
Description of the Morning in Town: (A Po	em.
	64
Dialogue on Duelling.	2.82
Difference between a Madman and a Fool.	292
Digression upon the London Cries.	25
Directions on writing Letters.	217
Discourse concerning Bribery.	304
Differtation on Duelling.	221
Distaff (Jenny), her Discourse on Love, the	Command and Power of Women.	70
Diltatt (Jenny), her Reflections on her Brow	heres
Writings.	237
- Her Account of her own Conduct in a	n 16-mour, &c.	239
Distinction between an Idiot and Politician.	291
Diversions for the K. of D. at Dresden.	243 Divito's Sale of Goods Celestial and Terrestrial Dryden, on Empire.	92
Duelling, and it's Terms explained,	178

203-6555. 4001 7976

1110 111 2 2 11
Duellert, how treated after Death.	Page 190
- How used by different Nations.	203
Duelling, the Source of it.	206
Dumb Fortune-Teller.	103
D'Urfey's Panegyrick.	311
	AN SHIPE
Ε.
Earl of Effex; a Play: It's Character	. 101
Easie Writers.	63
Emblem of the Parrat and Dove.	197
Epigram on Marriage.	294
Epsom-Wells; a Play: Its Character
The Order of Elawires, &c.	133
Every Temper to be animated or foftned	l by the In-Every Temper to be animated or softned fluence of Beauty. Exercise of Arms in the Metropolis of	71
Exercise of Arms in the Metropolis of	Great Britain, with Considerations thereupon.	298 turi, was conjugation on the conjugation F.
Felicia, its Happiness.	27
Florimel and Picket, their Way of Con	ertship. 51
Florio's Character.	329
Fly-blow's Character.	276
Foot-Race by Damsels at Epsom-Wells
The Fox (a Play) applauded.	149
France, its Mifery.	129
Frank Carelefs.	104
Free Thinkers.	86
French King's Subjects Answer to his L	etter. 212
Frontlet, her Character.	174
Tiothict, has opinional	-17
G.
Camellan	102
Gamester: Misery and alternate State.	97
Title an Admi of Month blay arrive Care	nottere &c
What Men of Wealth play against Gan	110
C ' C' T
Gatty, her Character.	174 Ge-0.6

3 6 93

Genealogy of the Bickerstaffs.	age 81
Cienis, their good Offices to Men.	349
Gentleman, what.	147
Good Breeding, what.	1, 217
Good-natured old Man.	. 330
Guilt applies the Satyr.	302 н.
	to lash
Honest Fellows described.	328
Hush-Money demanded.	189
I.	780703
	VO NOT
Jack Spruce.	. 363
Impressions made on us by Pictures.	57
Instance of the noble British Genius, in Va Infurrection in Poictou.	ane 136
Insurrection in Marseilles:	99
Invention never to have ones Name mer	43
Brochiton neoci to proc ones 11mme men	112
Inventory of Goods in Drury Lane of C R—ch $E/q$ ;	308
Johnson (Ben), his Manner of Writing.	149
Journal of Homer's Iliad.	40
Justice of Lewis le Grand, much like unto	Game-fters.	188
к.
	V. 4
Knaves prov'd Fools.	290
L.
Lady (being young) strangely inchanted by	a Rake of 60 Years.	161
Lady's Complaint of her Husband.	140
MAL.	Lady

The INDEX.
Lady consults Mr. Bickerstaff about being dir Lady, how recovered out of Fits.	ge 140
Lady's Lover wounded in a Duel.	178 Ladies trifling Endearments give us mean of their Souls.	294
Letter for Mr. Bickerstaff's Return.	273
Letter of Challenge.	180 Lewis XIV.'s Letter to Isaac Bickerstaff, an flections thereon.	188
Limberham, the Keeper.	357
London Cuckolds; a Play: Its Character.	56
London in Consternation, an Idiot being	tried.
	289
Love and Lust distinguish'd.	355
Love, its Decay.	29
Love-Letter, by Cynthio.	253
Lucubrations, their Design.	361 М.
Madam Maintenon's Letter to M. Torcy, or	n the Peace.	138
Madonella's Nunnery for Virgins.	231
Maria loses her Lap-Dog.	347
Marriage a Bugbear to our fine Gentlemen.	358
I demuiama de Comilad

Madam Maintenen's Letter to M. Torcy,	on the Peace.	138
Madonella's Nunnery for Virgins.	231
Maria lofes her Lat-Dog.	347
Marriage a Bugbear to our fine Gentlemen Marriage described.	. 358
Marriage the Safest, happiest State this affords.	World 359
May-Fair broke, and several Moveables	put to Medecin for a Scota: (A Poem.)	. 9
Meeting of Hunters described.	267
Men in Love, Poetical.	196
Men of Sense are Women's humble Servants.	269
Merry Fellows described.	331
Meffalina's Character.	358

Mili-

A ... A. M. ...

000000

Military Atthievements of London. P Milton and Suckling, on a parallel Occasion the Duty of Man in their Designs upon in an Instance of true Love.	on, from Moucables of the Playhouse intended to be puby a Gathering at Wills, but frustrated	erchased fair Dealings.	319
The state of the s
Naked Fruth, a dangerous Pamphlet. Natural for Women to talk of themselves. Naturalization Ad, how advantagious.	12 t 73
Nice's Character. Noy's Expedient to reform his Son by a Leg	104 acy. 67
O. W. C. A. H. A. A.	7 30 3
Ogling gains Women. Old Batchellor, its Character. Opera's condemned. Orlando's History. Orlando's Speech to beauteous Villara. Orlando's Speech to the Youth that follow Chariot. Oxford Discipline applauded. —Their Almanack considered.	156 63 24 361 363 ved his 364 278 279
P
Pacolet shecks Mr. Bickerstaff in not g with his Design. Pacolet's Admonition to B. on his Writings Pacolet's Discourse with Mr. Bickerstaff coln's-Inn Walks. Pacolet's first Interview with Bickerstaff. — His Relation of his Wards.	. 100

Paco

Pacolet's Life of a Month. Page	107, 600.
Pacolet's Observation on Gamesters an Dimensial its Materia	110
Panegyrick, its Nature.	120
Paris Gazette.	Av. 15 4 14
Partridge's Death demonstrated.	66
Pailorella's Character. Paulo's Character.	66
Philander the most skilful in addressin	182 male Sex.
Pinkethman's Progress with his Company	to Greenwich.	25
Places pretended to not out of Merit, bu they are convenient.	301
Plan of Philosophy, with an Appendix.	312
Platonne described.	230
Players instructed in the Laws of Action	m. out of Shakespear.	255
Plays (Modern) described.	149
Plays, proper Incitements to good Behavio	wr. 16
Poem on Bribery.	304
Poluglossa's Character.	307
Powell's Letter, in Answer to the Pupp	et-Show at Bath.	365
Powell, with his Puppets at Bath, affronts A	Mr. Bickerttaft.	320
Preliminaries of a Peace.	145
Presty Fellow, who.	147
Pretty Fellow, with the word [very], is	a true
Womans Man in the First Degree.	171 Proceedings at Rome about the Recogni
K. Charles.	432
Progress of the Siege of Tournay.	295 Prophets (Modern), their Character, wi flections.	79,80
unning treated of.	235
Sunning, an Instance of it.	- 257

5555

Or. eats. 110 120 14 66 182 Fe-95 een-25 ause 301 3.12 230 et of 255

149

304

307 2010

365 ck-

20 ty

16

Q.
Questioners.	30 gly 59 71
R.
Raillery against Persons taking upon them I Names of the Females.	be 86
Rake, his Character.	92
Ranter civilized at the Sight of the Lady Ber Modish.	71
Reconsideration on Instructions to Vanderban (A Poem.)	k :

Reflections on the French King's Letter to his Subjects after the Treaty.

Recruiting Officer, his Character.

Religion, a Project for its Advancement recommended.

Remarks on Vivgil and Homer's Choice of their Epithets.

S.

Sachariffa's Character. 20
Saltero's Qualifications, Name and Reliques. 248 Saltero's Quantifications, Ivanie una Rengues. 240 Sappho's Character.
Sarabrand's Puppet-Show at her Shop in the Ex change.
Sarabrand's Rake-hell Punch disposed of. Ibid Satisfaction, a Term in Duelling, explained. 179 Sempronia's Character. 240 Senecio's Character.
Sentiment of the Allies on the Rupture of the Treaty. 176
Shake

	And the second second
Shakespear's Apology for Satyr.	Page 302
Of Shakefpear.	56
Sign-Posts false spelled, how pernicious.	128
Smart Fellow, his Pretensions, Exploits	and Character.	185, &c.
- Whether an Affront to be called so.	199
Snuff-taking, &c.	251
Sophronius's just Carriage.	148
Sorrow expressed, by Shakespear.	346
Spindle (Tom) cured of the Spleen.	342
Staff of Life's Poem on the Fr. K.	177
Sublime, instanced in a Simily of the	Campaign.
	315
Swearer, how reform'd.	96
Т
Tast of an Age, known by the Characte	rs of their Plays.	30)
Teraminta, her miserable State.	324
Theatres recommended.	57
Timon's Character.	65
Of a Toast.	173
Toasts, and why they are so called.	226
Tom. Drybones.	172
Tournay invested. Treaty of Peace broken off.	258
Treaty of Peace broken off.	168
Trippet, (Sir Taffety) his Amours at	l'unbridge.
	340, 341
Trip to the Jubilee.	137
Tumults at Paris.	75, 76
γ,
Verses on a Parrat.	1.96
Verus's Character.	100
Villaria, beauteous.	363
	W. Welfh,

W.
Welsh, all Gentlemen, and given much	to Duel-
Pling. O Co. St. As a street was	Page 222
Whilperers without Bufiness.	273
Wife is become the Derision of Fools.	238
Winter-Piece from Copenhagen.	90
Witchcraft described and explain'd.	151
Wit, his Character.	210
Women more subtile than Men in their ow	n Affairs.
	218 2 tsg/td*

dge.
341 137
, 76

clfh,

FINIS

A Catalogue of BOOKS, Sold by John Morphew mear Stationers-Hall.

Ch

Pri: Mo

gua

ren Re

spe

VI.

rel

dit

Eff

alfo

Shi

tor

Pai

Te

wh

the

ufe

or

Un

oth

fer

6

W

rit

CI

Tr pil ad

ta.

THE Art of Painting, and the Lives of the Painters: Containing, a compleat Treatife of Painting, Defigning, and the Use of Prints: With Reflections on the Works of the most celebrated Painters, and of the several Schools of Europe, as well Ancient as Modern. Being the newest and most perfect Work of the Kind extant. Done from the French of Monsieur de Piles. To which is added, An Essay towards an English School, with the Lives and Characters of above 100 Painters.

The Circe of Signior Giovanni Battista Gelli, of the Academy of Florence. Consisting of Ten Dialogues between Men transform'd into Beasts: Giving a lively Representation of the various Passions, and many Infelicities of Humane Life. Done out of Italian, by Mr. Thomas Brown. The Second Edition.

Lives, English and Foreign, viz. William Lord Burleigh. Sir Walter Raleigh. George Duke of Buckingham. Marquis of Montros. Oliver Cromwell. Admiral Coligni. Don John of Austria, Son of Charles the Fifth. William the First, Prince of Orange. Alexander Farnese, Prince of Parma. Albert, Count Wallenstein. Including the History of England, and other Nations of Europe, from the Year 1550, to the Year 1690. By several Hands. Vol. II.

A Catalogue of BOOKS.

The Present State of the Universe; or an Account of, I. The Rife, Births, Names, Matches. Children and near Allies of all the present Chief Princes of the World. II. Their Coars of Arms. Motto's, Devices, Liveries, Religions and Languages. III. The Names of their chief Towns. with some Computation of the Houses and Inhabitants: Their Chief Seats of Pleasure, and other remarkable Things in their Dominions. IV. Their Revenues, Power, and Strength. V. Their respective Styles and Titles, or Appellations. VI. And an Account of the Commonwealths, relating to the same Heads. To this Fourth Edition continued and enlarged, with feveral Effigies wanting in the former Impression; as also the various Bearings of their several Ships at Sea; are added their feveral Territories, which are distant from them in other Parts of the World.

A Military Dictionary: Explaining all difficult Terms in Martial Discipline, Fortification, and Gunnery. The Third Edition, improved. To which is likewise added, a Sea Dictionary of all the Terms of Navigation. Both of them very useful (to all Persons that read the Publick News, or serve in the Army, Navy or Militia) for the Understanding the Accounts of Sieges, Battles, and other Warlike and Marine Expeditions, which daily occur in the Time of Action. By Officers who served several Years at Sea and Land. Price 1s. 6 d.

An Essay for a new Translation of the Bible. Wherein is shewn from Reason, and the Authority of the best Commentators, Interpreters and Criticks, That there is a Necessity for a New Translation. The Second Part. By H. R. a Minister of the Church of England. To which is added, a Table of the Texts of Scripture contain'd in both Parts.

S,

f the eatife rints:
ft ceols of g the d exPiles.
glish

Gelli, F Ten easts: crious Life. own.

bove

lliam corge trofs. John lliam mese, stein. other

The

A Catalogue of BOOKS.

The Crafty Courtier: Or the Fable of Reinard the Fox: Newly done into English Verse, from the ancient Latin Iambics of Hartm. Schopperus, and by him Dedicated to Maximilian, then Emperor of Germany.

A Second Volume of the Writings of the Author of the True-born Englishman. Some whereof never before printed. Corrected and Enlarged by the Author. In Two Volumes. Sold by the Booksellers. Price 6 s.

A Supplement to the New Version of Pfalms, by Dr. Brady, and Mr. Tate; containing the Pfalms in particular Measures; the useful Hymns, Creed, Lord's Prayer, Ten Commandments, for the Holy Sagrament, &c. with Gloria Patri's, and Tunes (Treble and Bass) proper to each of them, and all the rest of the Pfalms. The Sixth Edition, Corrected; and much enlarged: With the Addition of Plain Instructions for all those who are defirous to learn or improve themselves in Pfalmody; near 30 new Tunes, composed by feveral of the best Masters; and a Table of Pfalms fuited to the Feaffs and Fasts of the Church, &c. With Tables of all the Pfalms of the New, Old, and Dr. Patrick's Versions, directing what Tunes are fitted for each Pfalm. The Whole being a Compleat Pfalmody. Useful for Teachers and Learners of either Version. Sold by James Holland, at the Bible and Ball at the West-End of St. Paul's.

Latinitatis Probatæ & Exercitæ Liber Memorialis, Naturali Ordine ita Dispositus, ut sine ulla Memoriæ Desatigatione, Notitia Vocabulorum non solum capi sacillime, sed seliciter etiam repeti ac conservari possit. In Usum Scholarum consectus, a Christoph. Cellario, Hal. Acad. P.P. Nunc in nostratium Usum, e Germanica in Linguam Anglicanam versus, A. M. B. Impensis B. Tooke, subter Medii Templi Portam; & M. Atkins, ad Insigne Globi Aurei in Coemeterio D. Pauli. Pret. 1 s. 6 d.

Rei-Verse, chop-then

uthor arged y the alms, g the ymns, ts, for s, and them, a Edi-th the who wes in by fe-falms a, &c., Old, Tunes eing a rs and s Hol-ind of femo-ne ulla lorum m re-larum l. P.P. Linpensis M. At-. Pau-